[TRIBUNE Photo.]
W. M. Leiserson.

Climaxing five weeks of federal mediation between representatives of 86 railroads throughout the country and officials of the five railway operating brotherhoods, the railroads last night offered a flat increase of 44 cents a day to all of the brotherhoods' 250,000 members. Though the brotherhoods are demanding a 20 per cent wage increase, three of the unions—the trainmen, firemen, and switchmen—are reported willing to accept the compromise offer.

Two other unions, however, are still considering the proposal and have given no indication of their reaction. These are the engineers and conductors who draw a higher rate of pay than the other three. A showdown is expected within forty-eight hours.

Pay Roll Increase of 27 Millions.

If accepted, the compromise would add about $27,500,000 a year to the railroads' pay rolls as against $116,000,000 which would be tacked on if the roads should agree to the brotherhoods' demand for a straight 20 per cent increase. The offer of 44 cents more a day compares with the raise of 40 cents a day granted last August to the 750,000 members of the fifteen nonoperating railroad brotherhoods.

Meetings went on throughout most of yesterday and will be resumed this morning, probably in the Stevens hotel headquarters of Dr. William M. Leiserson, member of the United States mediation board, who has been conducting the negotiations here since Aug. 29.

Prestige for Three Unions.

Should the reported compromise offer be accepted by all five brotherhoods, the prestige of the trainmen, firemen, and switchmen would be enhanced because they will receive far greater proportional increases than the more highly paid conductors and engineers. A raise of 44 cents a day is a 10 per cent increase to a man earning $4.40 a day, but it is only a 5 per cent increase to a man earning $8.80.

Dr. Leiseron came to Chicago after the 250,000 operating railway workers authorized a strike because the companies on Aug. 25 abruptly terminated negotiations with the brotherhoods by refusing to grant the 20 per cent increase or any part of it. Representatives of the carriers said they were in no financial position to add 116 million dollars annually to the pay rolls.

Strike Plans Held Up.

The national mediation board immediately offered to send a mediator and this offer was accepted, the brotherhoods announcing that they would delay plans for a strike.

Should the mediation fail the mediator will endeavor to persuade the parties to enter into an arbitration agreement. Should he fail in this the dispute would be put up to President Roosevelt who, under the terms of the federal railway labor act, would appoint a fact finding commission which would make a finding within 30 days. A second 30 day period must elapse before an actual walkout.

H. A. Enochs is chairman of the carriers' committee which has been attending the mediation conferences. The principal spokesmen for the brotherhoods are A. F. Whitney, trainmen; David B. Robertson, firemen; T. C. Cashen, switchmen; J. A. Phillips, conductors, and Alvanley Johnson, engineers.

13,500 WORDS IN TALK MARK ONE AS 'SUPERIOR'

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Add 1,800 more words to your vocabulary and you can graduate from the ordinary to the superior. So says Prof. John M. Steadman Jr. of the English department of Emory university.

Now the vocabulary of the average person is 11,700 words. A superior vocabulary is only 13,500.

"There is such a small difference that anybody can rise from the average to the superior with a little effort," Prof. Steadman says.

EIGHT JUSTICES ACT TOMORROW ON OUSTER PLEA

Speech Fans Fight on Alabaman.

The Black Case

COMMENT.—Editorials in America's newspapers declare Justice Black's affiliation with Ku Klux Klan disqualifies him for place on Supreme court of United States. Some call for his resignation. Page 9.

ROOSEVELT. — President Roosevelt again dodges any comment on Justice Hugo Black's explanation of his klan affiliation, the President's excuse being that he was unable, in view of his pressing schedule, to listen in on his first Supreme court appointee's radio address Friday night. Page 8.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The controversy over Hugo L. Black's fitness for a place on the Supreme court continued to rage today unabated by his disavowal of religious or racial prejudice in last night's radio broadcast.

The opposition to the Alabaman was intensified by his admission that he joined the Ku Klux Klan 15 years ago when that organization was engaged in an orgy of whipping, tarring and feathering, torturing, and murdering men, women and children. That he remained a member during four years while the klan perpetrated its campaign of intimidation and terrorism is proof of his unfitness for a position demanding a calm impartiality, his critics assert.

Hail Speech as Pledge.

On the other hand, Black's friends hailed the speech as a straightforward pledge to uphold the constitution and the bill of rights which guarantees liberty of religious belief. They pointed to Black's assertion that he has "no sympathy with any organization or group which, anywhere or at any time, arrogates to itself the un-American power to interfere in the slightest degree with complete religious freedom."

All attention now is focused on the dramatic scene Monday when the newly appointed justice takes his seat on the bench for the first time.

Reservations for seats in the marble walled courtroom are at a premium. Washington is breathless with expectancy of what may happen when the eight other justices, some of whom certainly hold a deep aversion in their hearts for their new colleague, march in a dignified procession to the bench at the opening of the fall term.

Tries to Bar Black.

It is possible that the first motion to come before the court will be that of Attorney Albert Levitt to restrain Justice Black from taking his seat. Levitt, a former assistant United States attorney general who also has served as a federal district judge in the Virgin Islands, presented his petition several weeks ago.

The court first must decide whether to hear the Levitt plea. It is based upon technical points and does not involve Justice Black's klan affiliation. It asserts that Black is not entitled to the appointment because he voted for the Sumners act which legalized voluntary retirement with full pay for Supreme court judges past 70 years of age who had served ten years continuously.

Points to Law.

The act increased the "emoluments" of the office according to Levitt and, under the law, no member of congress may be appointed to an office the emoluments of which were increased during his term in congress.

Under the ordinary course of events the court will rule on the motion the following Monday. If Chief Justice Hughes has had an opportunity to consider the motion previously with his colleagues he may immediately rule upon it, however.

It has been reliably reported that Levitt was aided in the preparation of his brief by Senators William E. Borah [R., Idaho] and Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], both noted as constitutional lawyers.

THE CHANGING WORLD

Today the most horrifying nightmare of humanity comes screaming out of the heavens, dealing indiscriminate death and destruction to helpless civilians.

GULF STORM FLOODS NEW ORLEANS STREETS CAUSING MUCH DAMAGE

New Orleans, La., Oct. 2.—(AP)—New Orleans residents today waded in a flood from rain caused by two tropical disturbances that merged in the Gulf of Mexico.

Every section of the city was affected. Water stood from a few inches to four feet deep in some streets.

Precipitation of more than 13½ inches was measured by weather bureau observers within 22 hours ending at 1 p. m. when the downpour slackened.

Thousands of persons were marooned in homes or offices. Damage ran into thousands of dollars.

The weather bureau estimated the gulf disturbance was central 150 to 175 miles south southwest of New Orleans at 1 p. m. and that its rate of movement was 12 miles an hour to the northwest.

PLENTY OF KRAUT IF YOU GATHER SUPPLY OF RIBS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Agricultural economists assured a plentiful supply today of one half of the common supper-table dish, "kraut and ribs."

They sized up the kraut cabbage situation as satisfactory and predicted there will be plenty of sauerkraut on hand this season. What with the high price of meat, they weren't able to say so much for spareribs.

The figures that brought cheer were in packers' current estimates of a 166,500 ton production of kraut cabbage this year. This topped the 1936 estimated production of 114,800 tons by 45 per cent and was a little above the five year average.

His $5 Auto Runs Him Into $110 Added Expenses

Boston, Mass., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The first cost of his auto was only $5, but $110 was added to that for Dane C. Westcott of Malden. Westcott did not wait to get a license before seeing if it would run. Its pickup was fine, all things considered.

"Gee, five bucks; I'm the luckiest guy alive," he yelled.

"Yeah," said a policeman, "show me your papers for driving a thing like that."

The judge fined Westcott $100 for driving an uninsured car and $10 for driving an unregistered car.

Acts Natural; Wins 8 Mates but No Divorce

[TRIBUNE Photo.]
Mrs. Lillian Warburton.

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Police inspectors surrounded petite, blue eyed Mrs. Lillian [this space to be filled in later] Warburton tonight, and more in admiration than in official bumptiousness, asked.

"How do you do it?"

To which Mrs. Lillian [ ] Warburton replied:

"I just act natural and they come to me."

Police and Mrs. Warburton were speaking of eight husbands, all hers and none divorced, and it was quite a job when the police stenographer had to write down her full name as Mrs. Lillian Monder Stanley Gamble Brown Enos Hoskins Cama Mudgett Warburton. [There now, the parentheses are filled.]

Fugitive from Prison.

Mrs. Warburton was brought here tonight from Mamaroneck, where she was arrested. She is 26 years old, not uncomely. It was not, however, as a polyandrist that she was arrested, but as an alleged check forger. Then it was learned that she was a fugitive from the women's prison at Framingham, Mass., where she was sentenced to five years for polygamy. She escaped two months ago.

After tabulating the young woman's marital past, police agreed it should end with her marriage to one Mudgett, and so they called her Mrs. Mudgett. Then, out of a clear sky, or more accurately out of Brooklyn, appeared one William Joseph Warburton, 29, a stationary engineer. He identified himself as the woman's husband No. 8, and thereupon police began calling her Mrs. Warburton.

Life Begins at 13.

At midnight they still were calling her Mrs. Warburton, but tomorrow's another day.

Mrs. Warburton's splurge into marriage began when she was 13 years old. She became the wife of Benjamin Stanley of Springfield, Mass. She left him the next day. Not long afterward James Gamble, also of Springfield, became her husband. Four children were born of this marriage.

Some years later Mrs. Warburton and Claude Brown of New York were married. Thereafter, in rather rapid succession, she was married to Joseph Enos of Roslyn, N. Y.; William H. Hoskins of Thompsonville, Conn.; Joseph Cama of Brooklyn, Fred Mudgett, supposedly of New York, and finally—it is believed—to Warburton.

And that is the brief story of Mrs. Lillian Monder Stanley Gamble Brown Enos Hoskins Cama Mudgett Warburton, who, for reasons perfectly understandable, prefers to be known by her maiden name—Miss Lillian Monder.

LOOP AIR CONDITIONING COMPELS CHICAGO TO EXPAND WATER SYSTEM

Air conditioning is compelling the city to expand its water supply facilities. The first of a series of improvements on this expansion program will be started tomorrow in downtown State street. New water mains will replace the old ones, which were laid in 1854.

Loran D. Gayton, city engineer, said that air conditioning equipment requires more water than the present accommodations can normally give. The need, he added, is at present greatest in State street where many stores and hotels either have already installed or are planning to install air conditioning plants.

The new mains will increase the water supply 50 per cent, the pipes to vary from 12 to 16 inches. The old mains, buried ten feet below the car tracks, will be left empty in their 80 year old bed when the new mains are put into service.

Duchess of Gloucester Expecting Baby; Knitting

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The British royal family is anticipating the addition of a little stranger to its ranks. The pretty and petite duchess of Gloucester is knitting tiny garments, and—like as not—the duke, too, since all male Windsors are adept knitters. The duke, who is the third son of Queen Mary and the late King George V., and his Scottish duchess are delighted over the prospective heir.

JAPANESE SCALE WALLS, TAKE NORTH CHINA CITY

800 Chinese Killed in Two Hour Battle for Taichow.

Unexploded Japanese aerial bomb, stuck upright in the ground, that was dropped in Nankow pass, northwest of Peiping.

PEIPING, China, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The richest coal and iron deposits in China were almost within the grasp of Japan tonight.

Japanese troops moved southward through Shansi province toward the mining area after capturing the city of Taichow.

The wealthy Shansi mines have been guarded for the last thirty years by the famous war lord, Yen Hsi-shan, but he is now enfeebled with age and diabetes and the invaders expect him to offer no resistance to the seizure of the province and its treasure.

Taichow's capture was accomplished by what Japanese militarists described as one of the bravest maneuvers of the north China warfare.

Soldiers Scale Walls.

Possessing no artillery heavy enough to shatter the city's walls or great gates, which still were intact after several air raids, the Japanese were compelled to storm the walls with squads of picked men, the militarists said.

In the face of a hail of machine gun and rifle bullets, the Japanese fighters clambered to the top of the walls. From that position they engaged in a two hour battle with the Chinese defenders, who were entrenched in the streets and on rooftops.

Chinese Leave 800 Dead.

Finally mopping up the area around the main gate with showers of handgrenades, a daredevil group dropped to the streets and swung open the gate for the army waiting outside.

Chinese resistance in the city was quelled as the entire Japanese force stormed into the streets. The Chinese forces withdrew, leaving more than 800 dead, Japanese estimated.

On the eastern front the Japanese captured Sangyuan, on the Tientsin-Pukow railroad. They said that the fall of Sangyuan signified the end of Chinese resistance in Shantung province and the disintegration of the entire Chinese fortified line stretching westward to Shihchiachuang, on the Peiping-Hankow railroad, another Japanese objective.

Move on Tehchow.

From Sangyuan the Japanese reported their troops were moving south to Tehchow, an important rail center, which has been bombed several times.

Foreign observers said the mechanized columns of Japan had broken the back of Chinese resistance north of the Yellow river. They said the Chinese soldiers were retiring toward the Yellow river in confusion and predicted they would be unable to offer any concerted opposition to the Japanese advance.

Apparently the 300 mile long battlefront of the Japanese, extending from Shantung province across the center of Hopei province to Shansi province, will be advanced steadily until all of north China is in the hands of Japan, these observers said.

Shanghai Drive Stopped.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 3 [Sunday].—(AP)—Japan's offensive by land, sea, and air buckled for the sixth consecutive day today against the stone wall defense of the Chinese troops entrenched in Chapei, on the outskirts of the international settlement of Shanghai.

After hours of fierce attacks and counter attacks, in which every weapon of modern warfare Japan could muster was employed, Chinese said their lines still were intact.

Huge showers of debris and smoke dotted the battlefield as Japanese planes dropped demolition bombs. The fleet of Japanese warships in the Whangpoo river methodically crisscrossed the area with a moving pattern of shells.

DIARY REVEALS A VIVID STORY OF WAR HORROR

TOKIO, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Stained with blood and mud, the diary of a wounded Japanese soldier, lost and cut off by enemies for 19 days, has come to light in a military hospital here.

It was taken from the uniform of Private Tokaji Toshihara. He was wounded in the fighting between Japanese and Chinese troops at Lotien, near Shanghai. He fell and the tide of battle swirled around and past him. During the night three other Japanese, one slightly wounded, joined him.

In the morning they learned the grim truth. They were not, as they supposed, inside their own lines. The two uninjured men pulled the wounded into the thick foliage of a swamp. There, hiding among the rushes, they waited for rescue.

Drink Muddy Water.

The diary begins on the fifth day:

"FIFTH DAY—Drinking muddy water. We ate a half portion of dry biscuits, dividing them equally.

"SIXTH DAY—Flasks empty and we have no more water to drink. We can hear the enemy around us. We are still hiding in this swamp and nobody dares go for water because of the danger. Oh! I wish somebody would come to get us. It is already seven o'clock—another awful night coming. There comes a shell again. We don't know if the enemy knows where we are, but there are no rifle shots. Midnight—again shells, but no sight of our own troops. Emperor, Banzai!

"SEVENTH DAY—I want water, water, water! I am so thirsty."

The diary then describes, in great detail, how the wounded man crept away for water—and his momentary disappointment when he found the creek choked with bloated bodies. Nevertheless, he wrote, he filled his flask. The diary continued:

Feels Only Heat and Pain.

"Returned half hour later. All I can feel is heat and pain. Now we have water enough for the night, but we cannot sleep because of the shells. We can hear talking in the Chinese trenches tonight.

"A week already. Not so much pain from the wound this morning. We saw one of our own airplanes, and I whispered 'Emperor, Banzai!' We are now eating an ear of rice. I examined my pistol and still have 300 rounds. Hope some one will come tomorrow to get us out of this hell.'

Two days pass. The diary repeats Toshihara's craving for food and water. The wounded man and his companions see Chinese soldiers nearby and prepare for a last fight. The Chinese clear the creek of bodies and then disappear. Toshihara wrote: "I think of my wound to forget my thirst. Then I think of water to forget the pain of my wound."

On the tenth day he wrote, "Fuji-down on the Chinese positions. The Chinese devised profiged traps from torn up railroad tracks. These stalled the tanks while Chinese machine gunners mowed down the advancing enemy soldiers behind.

Japanese patrols, seeking to establish outposts in war blackened houses dominating the Chinese defense lines, were repulsed with what Chinese called heavy losses.

Foreigners in the international settlement crowded rooftops to watch fierce fighting in the streets below. They were so close to the action it was as though they were watching a play staged for their benefit in an outdoor theater.

Italians and Chinese Clash.

In the midst of the battle another international incident occurred on the international settlement's waterfront. There Chinese and Italian soldiers, the latter waiting to embark on their ships, exchanged epithets and then blows before police from the French concession broke up the mêlée.

Chinese estimated Japanese casualties at 16,000 killed and 12,000 wounded. A Japanese military spokesman said the "big push" was yet to come. His words apparently were borne out by a chain of transports landing troop reinforcements and munitions at several points on the Yangtze and Whangpoo rivers.

Canton, in South China, reported that Japanese planes had bombed the Whampoa and Bocca Tigris forts. Other air raiders killed four sailors on the Chinese gunboat Hai Chow and damaged another gunboat, the Kinyu, so badly it had to be beached. In the beaching operation a Japanese plane strafed the ship, killing two sailors and seriously wounding its commander.

'CREEPING DEATH' IN JAPAN LAID TO GERM SPREADER

TOKIO, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Japanese secret service men and criminologists began an investigation today of the theory that the mysterious "creeping death" plague in Fukuoka prefecture was the work of a human germ spreader.

The plague has killed more than 300 persons since Monday and caused the serious illness of 6,739. A majority of the dead were children.

Authorities sent 300 doctors, nurses, and bacteriologists to the city of Omuta, where the disease first appeared. Nearly all primary schools in the prefecture have been closed.

The theory now advanced by officials is that some person or persons were infecting the water supply with germs of an unknown type. Though not definitly classified, the plague was thought to be a form of dysentery.

JAPAN SLICES OFF MORE OF CHINA

The Japanese war machine continued its southward drive through North China yesterday. Captions in the map indicate the principal scenes of action. Heavy black line running west from the coast through Shantung, Hopei, and Shansi porvinces indicates the 300 mile front along which the Japanese are moving.

Tortured by thirst, a semi-delirious strain runs through his entry for the 11th day—"No water . . . pain in my leg . . . where are our troops? . . . Where is Fujiwara? . . . Firing again in the evening . . . so dark cannot see even the flashes . . . my throat burns . . . I wish I had a bottle of beer or cider . . ."

Obtains Food from Bodies.

The next day, the diary says, the other uninjured soldier, identified as "Miyasaki," obtains food from nearby bodies.

They get two tins of meat and some raw rice. They hear the sounds of a major battle in the distance. "How glad we are. Emperor, Banzai!"

Two days pass and the sound of fighting comes nearer. Hopelessly confused in direction, they are unable to tell which side is retreating. The diary no longer mentions Toshihara's wound, his hunger, his sense of danger.

But in every page there is the lingering horror of thirst. "Not a drop of water for two days," and again, "I fell asleep and dreamt about a beer hall. The sounds of fighting woke me, and we talked about my dream to forget our thirst."

The battle rolls nearer, and then on the 17th day:

"We woke early in the morning and worshiped the rising sun. Suddenly, in the woods behind us, we saw our troops. We cried for joy. But we cannot let them know where we are because the Chinese are between us."

Rescued on 19th Day.

On the 19th day, after a fierce struggle, the Chinese retreat beyond the creek. Some of the Chinese soldiers pass within a few feet of the spot where the three men are hiding. For an hour or more they are in a soggy "no man's land," between the two forces, bullets singing over their heads, snipping pieces off the foliage that covers them.

"We thought we would all be dead by this time, but the God protected us. In the evening a rescue party came. I will never forget this day."

TOKIO PAPER SAYS PEOPLE OF HOPEI FAVOR 'FREEDOM'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 2.—The creation of an independent state in Hopei province, North China, was reported to be favored by Chinese and Japanese leaders at Paotingfu, in that province, the Tokio newspaper Nichi Nichi said today. A dispatch to this paper from Paotingfu said:

"It is the common hope of 30,000,000 inhabitants of Hopei province to break away from Nanking and establish a peaceful country in coöperation with Japan."

MILLION GERMAN FARM FOLK HOLD FESTIVAL TODAY

Hitler to Talk at Giant Harvest Fete.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—A million German farmers, farm hands, and relatives will converge tomorrow on Bueckeburg, 180 miles west of Berlin, for the annual harvest festival. From all parts of the nation they were pouring into the area tonight on hundreds of special trains. Many others were traveling over highways. Those arriving before 5 o'clock tomorrow morning were to be provided with temporary resting quarters.

Guests of honor will include representatives of the diplomatic corps in Berlin, among whom will be Prentiss B. Gilbert, United States charge d'affaires, and Sir George Ogilvie Forbes, British charge d'affaires.

Early arrivals will while away the hours watching aerial displays and listing to musical programs. A choir of 20,000 voices will sing folk songs and choruses.

A Harvest Crown for Hitler.

A salute of 21 guns will signal the arrival at midday of Reichsfuehrer Hitler, who will be presented with a "harvest crown."

Immediately following there will be a great military display in which 10,000 troops will participate. Some of the troops will show their skill in bridge building and there will be a mock battle with cavalry, infantry, artillery, and tanks participating. Antiaircraft guns will battle air raiders.

Walter Darre, national farmers' leader, will give an address, outlining what is expected of farmers in the year to come.

Then Hitler will address the vast audience. His speech will be relayed to all Germany.

Farm Groups to Be Received.

Rockets which will release bombs and flags will bring the demonstration to a close. The flags will settle to the earth by parachute.

In the evening Hitler will receive agricultural delegations in the famed Kaiserpfals hall at Goslar, while great bonfires blaze from the surrounding hilltops.

Hitler had a rousing reception today on his first public appearance since the departure last Wednesday of Premier Mussolini of Italy after a five day visit. Hitler visited Duesseldorf and spent five hours inspecting the "creative nation" exhibition. The exhibition has attracted more than 6,000,000 visitors.

CHINESE OFFER "PRIZE" OF $14.50 FOR JAP GENERAL

TOKIO, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The current Chinese quotation on a live Japanese general is $14.50, Japanese military authorities report.

They said their information came from a Chinese government "price list" found on a prisoner taken in the Shanghai fighting. It itemized the prize to be paid for the capture of everything from a Japanese rifle to a Japanese warship. The quotations in United States currency:

For capturing a private, $5.80; an officer, $8.70; a general, $14.50; a spy, $14.50; a rifle or pistol, $1.45; a tank, $145; an airplane, $290; a heavy machine gun, $23.20; a destroyer, $2,900, and a major warship, $14,500.

Japanese authorities quoted the Chinese prisoner as saying, "It's nice work if you can get it."

MARK MORTON SERIOUSLY HURT IN GRADE CRASH

Train Hits Car of Elderly Gravel Co. Executive.

Mark Morton, president of the Morton Sand and Gravel company and a vice president and director of the Morton Salt company, was injured seriously yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which he was riding alone was struck by an eastbound Chicago, Aurora and Elgin train at Wayne, several miles southeast of Elgin.

Mark Morton.

Mr. Morton was thrown from his car, which was demolished. His right shoulder was dislocated and he incurred numerous cuts and abrasions. At the Geneva community hospital it was said last night his condition was favorable. Mr. Morton is 78 years old and it was feared shock might tend to retard his recovery.

Station Obscures View.

From members of his household it was learned Mr. Morton had driven to a gravel pit, operated by his company, north of Wayne. On his way back to his home, which is on route 64 near West Chicago, he turned east in Wayne road. His view of the train, a special, bound from Elgin to Chicago, was obscured by the railroad station.

"I saw his car slow down as he reached the crossing," said Mrs. Fred Gray of Wayne, who was only a short distance away. "I thought he was going to stop. Later he told me he didn't see or hear the train."

Mrs. Gray placed the injured man in her car and took him to Geneva, where his injuries were tended by Dr. Frederick Haskins and Dr. A. L. Blaufuss. Employés of the railroad asserted that warning signals at the crossing were working.

Another accident in Du Page county caused serious injuries to three youths. The old automobile in which they rode was struck by an eastbound Chicago, Aurora and Elgin train traveling at high speed on Batavia street, Warrenville.

The youths are John Mack and Charles James of Warrenville, and William Almdale, 520 Knollwood drive, Wheaton. They are between 15 and 17 years old. They were taken to the St. Charles hospital, Aurora.

Wilmette Couple Killed.

Clarence E. Rennekar and his wife, Sophia, both 70 years old, of 935 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette, were killed yesterday when their automobile plunged over an embankment fourteen miles south of Macon, Ga. Mr. Rennekar operated a drug store in Wilmette for thirty years, retiring two years ago. They were on their way to Mount Dora, Fla., where they planned to make their home.

Max E. Miller, 40 years old, of Richmond, Ind., was killed last night in a collision between his car and another at Sauk trail and Torrence avenue, near Chicago Heights. Joseph Mills, 48, of Joliet, driver of the other car, was not hurt, but his wife, Olive, was cut about the head.

A hit and run automobile struck and killed Edmund Edmark, 50 years old, 10901 Michigan avenue, at Ridge road and Halsted street in Homewood last night.

An unidentified man, about 50 years old, was injured fatally last night when he walked in front of an automobile at 8500 Archer avenue, Justice Park. Harold Harms of Willow Springs, driver of the car, took the victim to the Little Company of Mary hospital, Evergreen Park, where he died.

Mrs. Mary Morrel, 75 years old, 1751 Monroe street, was critically injured last night when she was struck at Monroe street and Ogden avenue, by an automobile driven by Sheldon W. Govier, clerk of the Appellate court, former alderman of the 9th ward, who lives at 11001 Vernon avenue. Govier said the woman stepped into the path of his car from behind another car going in the opposite direction. He was not held. Mrs. Morrel was taken to the County hospital.

40 Jolted on Street Car.

Three passengers were cut by flying glass and 40 were jolted last evening when a southbound Clark street car and a truck collided at Taylor street. The truck, owned by the Arthur Dixon Transfer company and driven by Harry Rapp, 45 years old, 1131 East 55th street, was pulling out of an express depot.

Given first aid by a police accident prevention squad at the scene were Edward Griner, 28 years old, 3333 Fillmore street; Dominic Cali, 15 years old, 3127 South Wells street, and Emanuel di Caro, 17 years old, 604 West 25th place.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 797 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 609 were killed in Chicago, where 17,069 were injured in the same period.

MRS. ELVIRA HOWARD.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan in Circuit court yesterday granted $5 a week temporary support to Mrs. Elvira Howard, 25 years old, 5630 South Trumbull avenue, on her separate maintenance suit against Harold Howard, a salesman. Under questioning of her attorney, Norman Becker, Mrs. Howard said she was deserted on May 1, 1937, and that Howard has paid nothing toward the support of their son, Timothy, 5 years old.

Fisherman Falls in River Near MichiganAv.; Drowns

SOARING MEAT PRICES CLOSE 5,000 STORES

Packers' Institute Lays Blame on Drouth.

With meat prices admittedly high, and charges being made in New York—where 5,000 kosher shops went on strike against high prices—that the high costs are due to packer domination of the markets, the Institute of American Meat Packers here told its side of the situation last night.

"Cheap meat," the institute pointed out, "cannot be made from high priced live stock." The institute added that the original cause of high prices was two-fold, the drouths of 1934 and 1935 and the feed shortage.

The agitation against current meat prices apparently centered in New York, and came to a climax yesterday when the 5,000 kosher retail shops, members of the Federation of Kosher Butchers, refused to open at sundown, when the Jewish Sabbath ended. They told their customers they believed high meat prices unwaranted, and blamed the packers.

In addition, Louis Wagner Jr., a director of the New York State Association of Retail Meat Dealers, declared that members of the meat packers' institute, who he said control 90 per cent of the government inspected meats sold in the United States, have a more powerful monopoly than existed in the days of Theodore Roosevelt.

400 Stores Are Opened.

The kosher strike was not one sided, however, for some 400 members of a rival organization known as the New Deal Kosher Butchers' association, opened their stores in defiance of picket lines. This rival group asserted the strikers were approaching the problem improperly. Several fist fights flared during the strike and two dozen men were arrested. One man was sent to a hospital with injuries.

New York City officials took notice of the protest strike and one, William F. Morgan, market commissioner, announced the city would inquire into the high meat prices. Mayor La Guardia had heard previously from Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace on the matter. Wallace told him the prices were due to cattle shortage, due in turn to drouths and feed shortage.

Institute Takes Same View.

This view was taken by the meat packers' institute through a statement issued by William W. Woods, head of the institute.

"A feed shortage, occasioned by drouth, led to decreased supplies of live stock and higher prices for animals," said Mr. Woods. "Cheap meat cannot be made from high priced live stock. The bulk of cattle and beef is not so high as the prime grades and some meats, such as smoked ham, pork chops, and lamb are a little higher than they were a year ago.

Demand Controls Price.

"Our membership includes some 300 packing companies, all in keen competition among themselves and with other meat packers. Government figures show that the profits of meat packing are only a fraction of a cent on each pound of meat sold. The consumer demand for the available supply, which is short this year, is the factor establishing meat prices. Meat packers control prices no more than a thermometer controls temperature."

Meanwhile lower prices or promises of lower prices were noted in Chicago. Top pork loins dropped $2 from $25 a hundred pounds during the week. Veal and cut lamb also dropped.

FACES OPERATION FROM INJURIES IN CAMPUS RIOTING

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Patrolman J. Barney Gainsley, 27, who was kicked in the groin during last night's University of Michigan student riot, must submit to an operation for a hernia caused by the blow, attendants at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital said today.

Gainsley was the most seriously hurt of three persons injured in the clash between several thousand students, excited by Coach Harry Kipke's prediction of a Michigan victory over Michigan State on the gridiron today, and 20 police who twice resorted to tear gas attacks before routing the rioters.

Police placed charges of malicious destruction of property against two undergraduates, Robert Golden, 19, and Martin Messimer, 19, both of Ecorse, Mich., and Arthur Jaeger, 16, a high school student. They are being held in the county jail in default of $1,500 bond.

Judge Gives Wife Beating Reliefer a Verbal Lashing

Judge Thomas A. Green in South Chicago court yesterday fined Frank Barnes, 35 years old, 3037 Cheltenham place, $200 for striking his wife, Mary, and their four children. "I'm going to give you the maximum fine, so you'll have to work it out in the Bridewell," Judge Green told Barnes, who has been on relief for more than three years. "You'll see what work is there. You fellows on relief think every day is Christmas. When you get out of jail I want you to get a job and stop sponging on the public."

37 STATES SEEK DUAL HIGHWAYS TO CUT HAZARDS

5 Other Safety Measures Pushed at Conference.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, ending a three day annual conference here this afternoon, agreed upon an accident reduction program, but failed to agree upon any program to free highway commerce from tax and regulatory barriers at state boundaries. Attending the meeting were officials of thirty-seven states.

"We recommend that in all highway construction programs," reads an adopted committee report, "priority be given to the improvements necesssary to eliminate death traps as they are shown to exist by accident statistics."

"We favor the construction of divided or dual highways," Commissioner Charles A. Harnett of New York, chairman of the committee, said. He added that "divided or dual highways" means elevated highways in congested areas, while in rural areas it means pairs of one way pavements with grade separations at important intersections, such as Skokie road through Lake county, Ill.

Five Point Program Offered.

Other safety recommendations included:

1. Standard drivers' license laws in all states.
2. Compulsory teaching of trafic safety in elementary and high schools and instructions in automobile driving in high schools.
3. Standardize trafic signal lights, signs, and markings.
4. Increase the personnel of highway patrols.
5. Establish state trafic courts.

The fight for freedom of the open highway, freedom from restrictive red tape, and taxes on trucking was led by Commissioner Harnett.

"The 48 states ought to be able to get along with each other like one big happy family and not like embittered in-laws," he said. "A truck legally licensed in one state ought to be able to cross into another without being molested and harassed for permits, certificates, and additional license plates.

Favors One License Only.

"New York believes that a single pair of license plates and a payment of the gasoline tax should permit highway commerce to flow among the states free of entanglements from state bureaus or commissions."

"I don't see how reciprocity can work with a situation like we have between Illinois and Wisconsin," said Don M. Farris of the Wisconsin department of state. "Wisconsin charges a higher truck tax than does Illinois. If we recognized Illinois plans for interstate hauling all of the companies engaged in this hauling would take residence in Illinois to avoid buying Wisconsin plates."

A committee was appointed to compromise divergent views.

As the last business before adjournment, Commissioner Ray Ingels of California was elected president and Detroit was chosen as next year's convention city.

Clashes with Father

Bernadine Clark, who is engaged in litigation in Albuquerque, N. M., with her father, vice president of a New York bank, over possession of an airplane.

Albuquerque, N. M., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Bernadine Clark, 20 years old, of New York City, today was impatiently awaiting the outcome of court action instituted yesterday against her father, Bert Clark, vice president of the Manufacturers' Trust company of New York, for possession of a plane.

The legal move was the second since two men identified by police as Clark and Carl Anderson, former Palm Springs, Cal., flying instructor, were arrested for fighting on a hotel veranda last Saturday night.

Attorneys for Mr. Clark applied for a writ to gain possession of the five passenger plane hangared at an airport here. Miss Clark's statement that the craft was her property followed.

Bonds of $20 each were forfeited in the police case and neither of the men concerned has been available since, but in Hollywood, Director Henry King, who had given Anderson a plane ride here from Minneapolis, explained the trouble.

He said he and Anderson were forced down here by bad weather. Miss Clark was visiting a sister at Lamy, north of here, and the girl's father—fearing an elopement—attacked Anderson with a cane, King added.

King quoted Anderson as saying he and Miss Clark had no intention of marrying. Anderson taught Miss Clark to fly.

SHOPS IN LONDON BARRICADED FOR FASCIST PARADE

LONDON, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Many shopkeepers in southeast London barricaded their doors and windows tonight and 2,500 bobbies and 60 mounted police were assigned to patrol duty in preparation for a Fascist march through the area tomorrow.

The parade, observing the fifth anniversary of Fascism in England, will end with an address in Bermondsey, working class suburb, by Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of Britain's Fascists. Police banned a demonstration in London's east end, center of the city's large Jewish population.

Storekeepers on the present route were alarmed, fearing clashes between communists and supporters of the Fascist union, but Dr. Arthur Salter, Labor member of parliament, said: "This is a democratic country, and if the Fascist party likes to have a properly organized march, the Labor party will not interfere."

BRITAIN SPEEDS 4 ARAB LEADERS TO ISLAND EXILE

Troops Push Drive to End Holy Land Terrorism.

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Great Britain sped four Arab leaders to exile on a remote Indian Ocean island tonight as cleanup squads pushed the campaign against terrorism in the Holy Land.

Authorities announced that heavily armed squads had seized two "well known agitators" in an effort to quash organized Arab shop closings in Jerusalem and elsewhere.

This action came on the heels of the deportation to the Seychelles Islands of four leaders, including Dr. Hussein Khalidi of the now outlawed Arab higher committee, by warship.

They were taken from Haifa aboard the cruiser Sussex, which, it was understood, secretly transferred the quartet at sea to another vessel for the voyage to the island of banishment.

Held Morally Responsible.

The leaders were charged with being morally responsible for four months of terror in the Holy Land.

The "well known agitators" who were arrested were accused of inciting shop closings—a maneuver which recalled the six months general strike against Jewish immigration fostered last year by the Arab higher committee. Their names were not announced.

Jacob Hussein, leader of the Arab Youth organization, also was arrested.

The drive against the Arab heads was precipitated by last Sunday's assassination at Nazareth of the British commissioner of Galilee and his bodyguard.

The Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Amin El Husseini, descendant of the Prophet Mohammed, another object of the British drive, remained in the recesses of the Mosque of Omar. A guard of 200 Arabs, sworn to defend him to the death, was on guard at the entrance to the Mufty's private apartments.

British Strip Mufti of Power.

British authorities deposed him from two offices and cut off his power over religious courts, control of religious funds, and appointment of religious judges—but he remained the Mufti, a position carrying great spiritual prestige among the Moslems.

A troop cordon around the mosque area was withdrawn and officials insisted the Mufti could move freely, but the mosque remained under close police surveillance.

Shop closings so far were confined to the old city, where youths surged through the narrow streets, pouring kerosene over sugar sacks and strewing nails in the streets.

Feeling ran high in Jaffa following the arrest of three Moslem soldiers and a general strike there was threatened for tomorrow.

U. S. MARINES IN SHANGHAI BUILD NEW GUN NESTS

SHANGHAI, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A machine gun unit attached to the sixth United States marines today completed a row of new fortifications to strengthen barricades along the Soochow creek sector in the international settlement of Shanghai.

Dissatisfied with the redoubts they found when they arrived two weeks ago from the United States, the unit tore them all down and built a new line of machine gun nests.

The new positions are similar to those used by the sixth marines in France during the world war. They give the American machine gunners a complete sweep of the whole Soochow creek area, one of the most perilous of Chinese-Japanese fighting.

HONOR GANDHI'S 68TH BIRTHDAY BY WAR ON DRINK

BOMBAY, India, Oct. 2.—(AP)—India marked the 68th birthday of Mohandas K. Gandhi, champion of passive resistance to British rule, today. There were nation-wide massmeetings in his honor and a prohibition campaign was launched in Madras. Prayers that he be enabled to head "a final desperate campaign for India's freedom" were offered.

Gandhi, weak following an illness, took no active part in the celebrations, but received greetings from all over the world.

The prohibition drive in Madras is in keeping with Gandhi's recommendation of a total boycott of liquor and a three year program to establish dry laws. Madras officials smashed liquor bottles in the streets in opening the campaign and tea shops were set up to compete with toddy shops.

BROTHER OF AIR ROMEO'S BRIDE SLAIN IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 2.—(AP)—José Ramon Rivero, 27, brother-in-law of Juan Ignacio Pombo, Spanish Atlantic flyer-Romeo, was shot to death in his office here last night. Police arrested Manuel Sainz, a salesman, after two witnesses identified him as the man who broke into the office and fired four shots at Rivero after a quarrel over business differences. Young Pombo made a romantic flight from Spain to Mexico in 1935 to woo Maria Elena Rivero, sister of the slain Rivero, and married her last year in Madrid.

LEAGUE REJECTS PLAN TO SQUEEZE IL DUCE ON SPAIN

Little Nations 'Gang Up'; Rebuff France, Britain.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Oct. 2.—Premier Mussolini of Italy won a technical victory over France and England through his satellites in the league of nations assembly today, but he failed in his main purpose of bluffing them into weakening their demand for withdrawal of the Italian expeditionary force from Spain.

Refusing under pressure from the pro-Fascist nations to change a line of the resolution on Spain voted by the league's political affairs committee Thursday, Walter E. Elliott for England and Joseph Paul-Boncour for France smiled sardonically as the league's two puniest members, Albania and Portugal, robbed them of their platonic mandate from the league to negotiate with Mussolini by voting against the resolution.

Unanimous Vote Required.

Thirty-two nations—including all the important league states except South Africa and the absent Italy—voted for the resolution, and fourteen of secondary importance abstained. Most of the South American nations were among those abstaining.

Under the league unanimity rule, however, the negative votes of Portugal and Albania were sufficient to wipe the resolution out of juridical existence as surely as if the whole assembly had voted against it.

Actually the vote changes nothing. France and England will go ahead with their plan to negotiate with Mussolini, threatening to open the French frontier to the Spanish loyalists if he does not consent to recall his forces from Spain. The mandate to England and France never had anything but moral significance. This significance remains, as far as the majority of powerful states in the league is concerned, and even is strengthened by the fact that thirty-two of them refused to budge under strong pressure from the minority.

Friends of Fascism Listed.

The Fascist forces were mobilized as never before. Under imperative pressure from Rome, not only Austria, Hungary, the Irish Free State, Bulgaria, Albania, and Portugal repeated in stronger form the objections they already had voiced in the political affairs committee, but the South American states were forced to show their hands more clearly than they would have liked. The South American nations which abstained were Argentina, Chile, Bolivia, Cuba, Panama, Peru, Uruguay, and Venezuela.

South Africa, which had pleaded that it had no instructions in the committee, was forced into criticizing the resolution, but even this imperial defection did not seem to bother the British, and finally, even Switzerland was taunted by an unseen Italian hand into proclaiming herself an abstainer.

Having lined up this array, the Fascist bloc tried to tempt England into saving its face by compromising on the text of the resolution. The compromise would have provided that the league would recognize that there were foreign armed forces on both sides in Spain and that in event negotiations to secure their withdrawal failed only certain states might reconsider the policy of nonintervention. France and England refused.

Says She'll Wed Heir

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Loreen MacDonald, Canadian telephone operator who announced yesterday that she is engaged to be married to Daniel D. Dodge, one of heirs to motor car fortune.

TORONTO, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A copyrighted dispatch to the Toronto Daily Star today quoted Loreen MacDonald, telephone operator at Gore Bay on Manitoulin Island, as saying she was engaged to marry Daniel D. Dodge, heir to part of the Dodge motor car millions. Loreen, daughter of a lake captain, is 18 years of age, and Dodge, who has a summer home on Manitoulin Island, off the north shore of Georgian bay, is 20. Dodge lives at Rochester, Mich.

ITALY GETS INVITATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—A joint Anglo-French invitation to a three power conference on the withdrawal of foreign troops from Spain was delivered to the Italian government by the British and French representatives in Rome today.

Official circles said they were confident Italy would accept. They based their optimism on the fact that Britain has offered to grant belligerent rights to the Spanish rebels as soon as the withdrawal of foreign troops is well under way—an offer previously made and rejected—and on the hint that Britain also may recognize Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

The note delivered today also intimated, without openly saying it, that France probably will open its Pyrenees frontier and pour men, guns, and ammunition into loyalist Spain if Italy does not listen to reason.

Italy's demand that the matter be discussed by the international nonintervention committee is not acceptable to the British and French. The Italians say the matter cannot be settled without Russian participation.

Russia Demands Aid to Spain.

Soviet Russia in a sudden note to the nonintervention committee today demanded that arms be permitted to be shipped to the Spanish government and abolition of the entire Spanish nonintervention scheme.

The Russian note rejected a plan submitted by technical advisers of the committee recently to rebuild the nonintervention system. Russia's reply said the old nonintervention patrol ceased to be effective when France and Britain withdrew their warships, following similar action by Germany and Italy.

CITY OF SHRINES FALLS TO REBELS IN GIJON PUSH

Covadonga Occupied After Days of Fighting.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Spanish insurgents swept through historic Covadonga tonight along the Biscayan coast to new battlefields on the way toward Gijon, last loyalist held port in the north.

The fall of Covadonga, sanctuary of the ashes of Pelayo, first king and 8th century founder of the Asturian kingdom, came after many days of stubborn fighting. Heavy artillery and bombing planes accounted for the capture of Covadonga, rebels said.

Official occupation was celebrated briefly today, after troops entered the village late yesterday, before the insurgents took up their arms again for the drive west.

Expect to "Pocket" Loyalists.

Fighting was heaviest around the 16th century abbey and church of La Virgen de las Batallas, but the tomb and dust of Pelayo, hero of Spain's Moorish wars, remained undisturbed. Also unmolested was the shrine in which is the tomb of King Alfonso I., who died in 757.

Insurgent lines were reformed to the west of the Sella river, which winds through Ribadesella, Covadonga and Cangas de Onis. [Cangas de Onis is in government hands.]

One rebel column marched south along the slopes of the Covadonga mountains. Another was close to Cangas de Onis.

The rebels predicted they would pocket retreating government troops between there and the Europa mountains to the southwest, over which a third column has been advancing with heavy fighting.

Two Towns Captured.

The southern column, insurgents said, had overcome strong government resistance and seized Sierra Malporquero and the towns of Pigoz and Confinal, and was marching north out of Leon and into Asturias. The government, however, said its lines were holding.

The offensive had circled to within about thirty miles of Gijon.

Travelers arriving at Gibraltar from Seville said that the insurgent high command had closed the frontier between Portugal and Huelva province. They said unrest has existed for some time in insurgent-held Badajoz province, north of Huelva.

Barcelona Counts Fifty Dead.

MADRID, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A careful count today showed fifty persons killed and several hundred wounded in the heavy insurgent air bombardment of Barcelona yesterday. Thirty-five buildings were burned, damaged or destroyed, including a school building, where a number of casualties occurred.

Insurgent planes flew over Barcelona again today as the Catalan parliament was scheduled to open, but no bombs were dropped.

Slain by Husband

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Catherine Hawthorne, 21, shot to death in Detroit by her jealous young husband, who also killed her sweetheart.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—William Hawthorne, former University of Michigan track athlete and until yesterday a probationary policeman, will be arraigned Monday charged with murder for the killing of his secret wife, Catherine Fox Hawthorne, and John M. Barrett, a banker's son with whom she was in love.

Hawthorne, 23 years old, walked into a police station yesterday afternoon, announced he had shot his wife, 21, to whom he had been wed for 18 months, and Barrett. He turned over two revolvers, declaring he had prepared for the murders as thoroughly as he prepared for a track meet when at college.

Hawthorne and his wife lived apart from the time of their marriage. She was known as Miss Fox. Recently Hawthorne threatened Barrett's life if he did not stop seeing her.

REPORT MEXICO TO DISARM 10,000 FARM TROOPS

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Dispatches from San Luis Potosi to the newspaper Novedades reported tonight that the disarming of 10,000 Agrarians, including the private army of Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, has been ordered.

Gov. Mateo Hernandez of the state was quoted as denying his order would affect only supporters of Cedillo. The decision is intended to forestall trouble during the expropriation and distribution of enough haciendas to satisfy the demands of 484 Agrarian communities.

Gen. Cedillo was secretary of agriculture under President Lazaro Cardenas until last August, when he resigned after Cardenas ignored his advice to move more slowly in Agrarian expropriations. Cedillo had been the dominating influence of his state for twenty years.

DEPUTIES BACK SPAIN'S PREMIER; AIDED BY LABOR

Parliament Unanimously Votes Confidence.

BY HENRY BUCKLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VALENCIA, Spain, Oct. 2.—Spain's cortes [parliament], which opened yesterday in a Gothic palace built in the fifteenth century as a silk exchange, demonstrated a strong pro-government tendency today by giving Premier Juan Negrin's régime a unanimous vote of confidence. The vote followed a plea by "La Passionaria," noted communist woman deputy.

Simultaneous with opening of the cortes, the majority movement within Spain's labor federation, the General Union of Workers, in a drastic move ousted from power the fallen angel of Spanish politics, Francisco Largo Caballero, one time plasterer and until last May premier who believed he would lead the Spanish republic to victory.

The controling figure in the General Union of Workers with its 2,000,000 organized labor unionists, Largo Caballero has tried to use his strong position in the union to fight the government of Premier Negrin since his own popularity commenced to decline.

New Commission Set Up.

He expelled 29 of the 43 Socialist trade unions in Spain as one after another voted to support Negrin.

Today these 29 unions, through their delegates, obtained a majority in the national committee and voted a new executive commission replacing Largo Caballero and his friends. The grim labor leader took his fall from power in ill humor. Sitting in the union headquarters in Valencia behind locked doors, he refused to allow the new commission to enter the offices and take over control.

Largo Caballero's master blunder several weeks ago in the midst of the bitter fight of Asturian miners against the invading insurgent forces was to expel the miners' federation of the Asturias region on the technical grounds that it was behind in its dues to the parent body, but on the real grounds that it had declared its support for Negrin.

Millionaire Causes Sensation.

Labor union delegates yesterday named Ramon Gonzalez Pena president of the Asturian miners and leader of the 1934 uprising in the Asturias region, to preside over the new executive commission, replacing Largo Caballero and his supporters.

The most sensational parliamentary speech in the opening session was made by Manuel Portela Valladares, millionaire and husband of Viscountess Brys, a member of the Spanish aristocracy.

Portela was prime minister during the elections of 1936 when the left triumphed. He insinuated in his speech that Niceto Alcala Zamora, then president of the republic, asked him to proclaim martial law when the leftist triumph became known. Portela said he refused. He handed over his office to Manuel Azana as premier.

Socialists and communists applauded the speech of the distinguished looking, white haired veteran.

Portela was not alone as the representative of the propertied sections of society. Miguel Maura, a henchman of Zamora in the struggle to overthrow the monarchy in 1931, also came to Valencia to attend parliament.

Negrin, whose speech to the parliament was broadcast, had much to say about political refugees who have thronged the diplomatic missions in Madrid since the Spanish civil war began in July, 1936.

Agreements Broken, He Charges.

He described them as a "veritable army behind our lines," and said they numbered 20,000. Diplomatic privileges and protection have been extended from the buildings of the embassies and legations to cover entire blocks of flats in order to accommodate the refugees, he said.

At first some were allowed to leave Spain, he said, with the foreign nations which had given them refuge entering into agreements that political refugees should not go through rebel territory. The agreements were not kept, he said, and some of those allowed to leave the country now hold responsible positions with the Spanish insurgents.

N. Y. BUDGET 26 MILLIONS HIGHER THAN LAST YEAR

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia late today submitted to the board of estimate an executive budget of $589,222,376.15—more than $26,000,000 above last year and less than $800,000 short of the top limit that the city can spend.

In a statement the mayor said the increase is "more than accounted for by items imposed by local legislation and increases required by local and state laws, over which I have neither power nor control."

The budget now goes to the board of estimate and the board of aldermen for consideration.

POLICE SMASH DOOR AND SEIZE 2 GUN PAROLEE

Brother Also Held; Admit Series of Robberies.

Taken by surprise as he lay in bed with two loaded revolvers nearby, Frank Lemoyne, 30 years old, a paroled convict, was arrested yesterday by two Town Hall policemen who broke down the door of his room at 3609 Sheffield avenue.

Lemoyne was seized on information given police by his brother, James, 28 years old, also a parolee, who was arrested Friday while attempting to rob a gasoline filling station.

Confess Series of Robberies.

Police said the brothers have confessed a series of burglaries and robberies in the eleven days since they came to Chicago from St. Louis. James Lemoyne was seized in the service station at 8701 South Laflin street where he pretended he was greasing an automobile when police entered. A revolver was found in his pocket.

James said his brother was acting as lookout during the robbery attempt Friday, and fled when the police came. Yesterday Sergt. Peter Harlib and Policeman Frank Hopkins went to the Sheffield avenue rooming house, smashed the door and seized Frank before he could offer resistance.

One Paroled Twice.

Police records show that Frank Lemoyne was sent to Pontiac reformatory on April 3, 1925, to serve 3 to 20 years on a charge of armed robbery in Chicago. He was paroled Dec. 12, 1928. On June 3, 1929, he was again sent to Pontiac on six charges of armed robbery. He was transferred to Joliet penitentiary on Jan. 4, 1932, and was paroled last April 3.

James Lemoyne was sent to Joliet on a robbery charge in April, 1929, and was paroled May 15, 1936. The brothers said they had both been paroled to a coal merchant of St. Louis.

Quints to Appear but Once a Day; More Sleep Ordered

CALLANDER, Ont., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe announced today that starting Oct. 10 the Dionne quintuplets will be on display only once a day, for half an hour each morning. The physician said afternoon showings will be discontinued to give the quintuplets more sleep.

WOMAN POINTS OUT PAROLEE IN RAPE ATTEMPT

Frank Prusak, 28 years old, a paroled convict, was identified at the Sheffield avenue police station yesterday by Mrs. Mary Schiffman as the sex moron who attempted to attack her last Feb. 17 in her flat at 2618 Lake View avenue.

Mrs. Schiffman said she let Prusak in the flat when he posed as a decorator's agent. When he tried to rape her she screamed and her cries brought Miss Nora O'Donnell, her maid. Prusak fled and was arrested in Philadelphia several days ago after Policemen Justin McCarthy and Edwin Johnson traced him through a pencil he dropped in Mrs. Schiffman's apartment. Police records show he was paroled in June of 1936 from Pontiac after serving ten years on a robbery charge.

ASKS POLICE AID TO END BLOCKING STATE HIGHWAY

Uniontown, Pa., Oct. 2.—[U. P.]—The Fayette county sherif telegraphed for state police assistance today when fifty husky truck drivers blockaded Pennsylvania highway 40, halting all commercial vehicles driven by nonunion men.

One driver was slightly injured and several trucks were damaged when some big vans attempted to run the blockade.

The blockaders, said by Sherif's deputies to be organizers for the American Federation of Labor Truckmen's union, forced nonunion drivers to turn back or join the union. Those who produced membership cards were allowed to proceed.

STEWARD HELD FOR ASSAULT ON SHIP'S CAPTAIN

Held Over 3 Days; Probe Drunkenness Abroad.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Investigating charges of intoxication aboard the outbound freighter Ward, which Tuesday night jeopardized harbor shipping when crew members assaulted the captain, the United States department of justice and the bureau of marine inspection and navigation have caused the arrest here of Armand Paolantonio, 22 years old, a steward.

Paolantonio is charged with inciting the fight aboard the ship which resulted in serious head injuries to Capt. Thomas F. Evans. Capt. Evans is in a critical condition at the San Pedro hospital tonight.

Held for Three Days.

After being detained for three days, the Ward left Friday for New York under command of Chief Officer A. R. Raymond.

Outbound Tuesday night the freighter came perilously close to colliding with the steamer Avalon, inbound from Santa Catalina Island, and slightly damaged a dock. The whole unlicensed personnel was described as being intoxicated and insisting upon operating the ship at a high speed within the harbor.

Shore Leave Denied.

Paolantonio was the only member of the ship's crew of thirty-eight held here by investigating authorities. The rest sailed with the vessel yesterday.

The Ward put into the harbor for refueling Tuesday morning after a twenty-five day Pacific crossing from Hongkong. The report is that crew members became angry when denied shore leave because of the short stop, some members going ashore anyway and obtaining liquor.

TWO CHAMPAGNE FLASKS CHRISTEN U.S.S. NASHVILLE

Camden, N. J., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Two bottles of champagne instead of the customary one, crashed against the prow of the 10,000 ton cruiser Nashville today. The $13,000,000 war ship then slid down the ways at the New York Shipbuilding company's plant on the Delaware river The two sponsors were Ann and Mildred Stahlman, 16 and 15 years old, daughters of James G. Stahlman, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

CHICAGOANS ROBBED OF CASH, CLOTHING ON TOUR OF NEW MEXICO

Estancia, N. M., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Two highwaymen who robbed Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lundberg of Chicago yesterday were sought throughout New Mexico today.

The Lundbergs were held prisoners nearly four hours, Sherif J. Frank Stevens said, and finally turned loose in mesquite thickets more than a mile from their automobile, which was left with deflated tires on a lonely road two miles off the highway west of Palma.

The highwaymen took $73 in cash, clothing, and jewelry from their victims and transferred the Illinois license plates to their own car, which originally bore an Oklahoma license number. Lundberg and his wife were forced to wire home for additional cash and purchase new license plates. They left Estancia about noon today, abandoning plans for a vacation trip to the Grand canyon.

The case recalled that of four other Illinois tourists who disappeared in the spring of 1935 while touring in approximately the same part of the state. They were Mr. and Mrs. George Lorius of East St. Louis, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer of Du Quoin, Ill.

21 SEIZED IN LOOP RAIDS.

Twenty-one men were arrested yesterday by gambling squads in seven alleged handbooks in the downtown district. They will be arraigned tomorrow in South State Street court.

Friends Hail 'Explanatory' Talk by Justice.

court opening to thrill the spectators. The special police assigned to the court have been ordered to take unusual precautions against any disturbance.

Would Proclaim "Black Day."

The order came after Joseph H. Lieb, founder of the first Roosevelt-for-President club in 1930, announced today that he was planning distribution outside the court of black-bordered bills proclaiming Oct. 4 as "Black day," to be "mourned each year as the blackest day in the history of American justice."

Lieb said he was coöperating with the Chicago committee of the "Independent Young Americans" in a national campaign deploring the appointment of Black. He said he had 5,000 copies of the "Black day" proclamation to distribute.

While many senators and congressmen rushed into print with their comments on Black's radio talk, the eight men presumed to be most closely interested—the justices who will sit with Black hereafter—remained silent. Six of them undoubtedly listened to the broadcast. Their secretaries readily admitted they were at home during the time that Black was on the air. But the justices "begged to be excused" from any comment.

Official Washington awaited the great interest the reaction of President Roosevelt. The President said at a press conference several weeks ago that he would say nothing until after Justice Black had returned from Europe and had a chance to read the evidence. Now that Black not only has returned but has defended himself to the nation, Mr. Roosevelt must speak, in the opinion of observers.

President Speaks Tomorrow.

The fact that the President changed his plans to fit in a speech in St. Paul, Minn., on Oct. 4, the day of the court opening, caused some officials to believe that he would use that occasion to talk about the Black dispute. The change was made after the President learned that Black was going on the radio.

Lawyers were chuckling today over the fact that the new justice, in his first official statement as a member of the court, was guilty of a misuse of legal terminology. Black, most of whose legal experience was gained as a police court prosecutor, spoke of designating a Jewish friend as "executor of my will." The lawyers declared that any law school freshman would know that a man making a will designates an executor of his estate, not his will, that there is no such thing as an executor of a will.

Critics Agree with Glass.

Dissatisfaction with Black's radio defense was particularly in evidence in the senate office building. Most of Black's critics agreed with Senator Carter Glass [D., Va.] that the Alabaman "said nothing that changed my conception of what should be the type of person appointed to the Supreme court."

In the first place, these senators remarked, Black did not explain why he joined the klan.

WHERE NEW JUSTICE WILL SIT

[Acme Photo.]

Black, as the junior member of the court, will be seated farthest to Chief Justice Hughes' left unless the motion attacking the new appointment causes temporary or permanent loss of place.

JUSTICE BLACK ON U. S. PAY ROLL SINCE AUGUST 19

Practice Not Unusual, Says Law Journal.

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The salary which Hugo Black is drawing at the rate of $20,000 a year as an associate justice of the Supreme court began on Aug. 19, even though he has not yet taken his place at the left end in the nine-man line of the judiciary.

The New York Law Journal pointed out in an article yesterday that an appointee is not qualified to sit on the bench until he has taken the oath of office and as soon as he does take the oath he becomes entitled to "the emoluments of the office."

The Law Journal said that appointees to the federal bench usually take two oaths. One is a "form of oath of general application prescribed by statute." The affiant swears to support and defend the constitution and to "bear true faith and allegiance" to it.

Other Oaths Not Affected.

The general form of oath does not affect "the oaths prescribed by existing statutes in relation to the performance of duties in special or particular subordinate offices and employments."

"Whether a judicial office is a special or particular subordinate office involves a question of construction," the Law Journal said, "but as the judicial code perscribes a special oath for judicial offices, appointees to the federal bench usually have taken both oaths.

"The special oath for federal judicial officers declares that justice shall be administered without respect to persons, doing equal right to the poor and to the rich; that the duties of the office will be discharged faithfully and impartially, according to the best of the abilities and understanding of the affiant, 'agreeably to the constitution and to the laws of the United States.'"

Action Not Unusual.

The Law Journal said "It is not believed to be unusual for a Supreme court justice to qualify as such before entering actively upon the performance of his duties." It cited as examples the appointment of Justice McReynolds on Aug. 29, 1914. He took the oath of office on Sept. 3 and assumed his seat on the beach on Oct. 12.

Justice Black probably will repeat the oaths when he is seated.

ROOSEVELT PUTS OFF COMMENT ON BLACK KLAN TALK

May Break Silence Here in Bridge Dedication.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Presidential Special, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Holding himself aloof from the echoes of Justice Hugo L. Black's confession of membership in the Ku Klux Klan, President Roosevelt today inspected Grand Coulee dam as he turned homeward from his trip to the west coast.

Attempts to secure presidential reaction to the radio speech in which the former senator attempted to bury the klan issue, once and for all, met with the assertion that the President had not heard the speech and had not had time to read it in following the day's exacting schedule.

While Black spoke last night Mr. Roosevelt was receiving a military salute at Fort Lewis, near Tacoma, Wash. By the time the President's first appointee to the Supreme court had completed his talk, Mr. Roosevelt was almost in Tacoma at the end of a 235 mile motor inspection of the Olympic Peninsula, which he had attempted unsuccessfully to speed up to bring him to the radio in his private car. There was no radio in his automobile.

Son Able to Hear Speech.

There was a radio, however, in the automobile in which his son and White House Secretary James Roosevelt rode. James followed his father into the private car Roald Amundsen when the party reached Tacoma railroad station and remained closeted with him for some time, presumably reporting on the radio address.

It generally was believed that Mr. Roosevelt knew what Black was going to say before the justice went on the air. Mr. Roosevelt was in seclusion at the Seattle home of his son-in-law, John Boettiger, the entire day Black announced his intention to speak. The general impression in the presidential party was that Black did not take the step without informing Mr. Roosevelt of both his intention and his text.

The question aboard the special as it started eastward was: "What will Mr. Roosevelt say?" The question grew in intensity when it was learned that Mr. Roosevelt probably will not return to Washington, but to his family home at Hyde Park, N. Y., and thus be enabled to put off for several more days his decision to stand by or renounce his appointee to the high court.

May Break Silence Here.

It was believed, however, that the President would express himself one way or the other before his special train reaches the east. Speculation favored comment on the Black address either at St. Paul, Minn., the night after Black takes his seat, Oct. 4, or at Chicago the next day as Mr. Roosevelt dedicates the Outer Drive bridge.

This morning as the President ate breakfast his special halted at Ephrata, Wash., where an automobile waited to carry him 60 miles to Grand Coulee, one of the most costly of the administration's northwest power and land reclamation projects. He left his train at 9 a. m. Pacific time, and arrived at the dam at 11 o'clock.

Renews Power Use Plea.

In an impromptu address before inspecting the dam, on which he launched construction work in 1934 on his return from a visit to Hawaii, he reiterated his advocacy of wider use of power as set forth in the dedication of Bonneville dam in Oregon, earlier in the week. Grand Coulee cost $40,000,000 to date and plans call for a total expenditure of $186,000,000 for completion of all units.

From his car overlooking the dam, Mr. Roosevelt said he was happy over the progress made since his visit of three years ago. He said every one who had a part in the building of the dam was entitled to a badge of honor.

The millions spent went not to the immediate area, but more than half of the sums spent to date have gone to factories east of the Mississippi, he said, after declaring his head was filled with figures during the morning's drive.

After the address he returned to Ephrata by motor and reboarded his train. Tonight the train paused in Spokane where Mr. Roosevelt made a brief rear platform address.

The special is bound for Fort Peck dam, where Mr. Roosevelt makes another power project inspection tomorrow afternoon. From Fort Peck he will travel to St. Paul.

VIEWS OF PRESS ON KLAN TALK BY JUSTICE BLACK

Calls for His Resignation Fill Editorials.

Calls for his resignation and appeals that his record on the Supreme court be allowed to speak for itself are contained in editorials in American newspapers on the speech of Associate Justice Hugo L. Black. Some of them are:

ALBANY [N. Y.] KNICKERBOCKER NEWS [Ind. Rep.]—Justice Black's insistence that he resigned from klan membership before entering the senate helps his cause not at all; it sprinkles another shower of soot upon the already discolored ermine of his new robes.

BALTIMORE [MD.] EVENING SUN [Ind.]—Since Hugo L. Black was a southern politician of the cheaper sort, it was almost inevitable that he should have joined the Ku Klux Klan in its halcyon days. . . . A little later it went into eclipse. . . . Hugo Black differs from the others only in the unimportant detail that he didn't see fit either to admit membership or to denounce the objectives of the klan until public pressure forced him to do so. Despite his public admission, the fact remains that he did try to slip into the Supreme court without letting the unpleasant acts in his record be known.

BOSTON [MASS.] HERALD [Ind.]—If we assume that Mr. Black spoke the truth when he fervently protested his own broad-mindedness—and it is impossible to believe otherwise of a member of the Supreme court—we are forced to the bitter conclusion that for four years he hoodwinked his fellow Alabamans and exploited their provincialisms and passions to his personal advantage.

BUFFALO [N. Y.] EVENING NEWS [Rep.]—Justice Black blandly refused to say just why he had joined the Ku Klux Klan. . . . If he continues on the bench every attorney representing a member of a group which the Ku Klux Klan terrorized can protest his sitting in judgment.

CHARLOTTE [N. C.] NEWS [Dem.]—The burning question for Senator Black to answer in his statement was: Did he recall, while his colleagues in the senate were defending him from the charge of klan membership, that he had been made a life member of that outfit? Apparently he did recall it.

CLEVELAND [O.] NEWS [Rep.]—Hugo Lafayette Black, Mr. Roosevelt's first gift to American justice, at last admitted what he could no longer deny. He confessed what had already been proved up to the hilt. His presence on the supreme bench of the United States must be a never-ending insult to American ideals of government and American ideals of manhood. He is a disgrace to the court and a disgrace to the President whose reckless action put him there.

COLUMBIA [S. C.] RECORD [Ind. Dem.]—That he now regrets, wishes to forget, and has been trying to live down [klan membership] should be accepted, and his record on the Supreme court left to speak for itself. It may indeed happen that as a burnt child who dreads fire he may turn out to be a champion of the bill of rights.

HARTFORD [CONN.] COURANT [Rep.]—Mr. Justice Black's broadcast does not improve his position in the slightest. He had no other recourse but to acknowledge that he joined the K. K. K. The published documentary evidence made this unavoidable. Caught with the goods, Mr. Black had to fall back on his career in the senate as offering proof that there is nothing in his makeup savoring of intolerance or bigotry. . . . But he joined the klan and he does not explain what prompted him to do so.

KANSAS CITY [MO.] STAR [Ind.]—The plain fact is that the justice was trying to explain away something that in the nature of the case could not be explained away. Accumulating evidence since his appointment confirms the impression made at the time that his elevation to the Supreme court was a tragic offense against the American people.

NEW YORK SUN, N. Y. [Ind.]—The preamble to Black's confession was a mess of factitiousness and inconsistency. . . . Fanning the flames of prejudice was deplored by a man who notoriously fanned them in his own campaign for office. . . . He has finally pleaded guilty to a charge which, while not disqualifying him technically, should morally disqualify any man from such a place.

THE RICHMOND [VA.] NEWS-LEADER [Ind. Dem.]—A full, frank statement, ringing true in every word, and ending with an offer to resign in order that the President and the party might be relieved of odium would have given Mr. Justice Black a reputation we fear he never can get now.

ROCHESTER [N. Y.] DEMOCRAT AND CHRONICLE [Ind. Rep.]—He is guilty of the charge as made. He was, by his own admission, a member of the Ku Klux Klan. As a member, he either must have subscribed to the principles of intolerance, bigotry, and racial hatred, for which the klan stands, or he must have joined merely to get elected to office.

SCRIPPS-HOWARD NEWSPAPERS [Ind.]—Hugo Black's address to the nation was the work of a brilliant prosecutor suddenly turned to the defense. It was an eloquent plea for tolerance. It was clever. But like too many of the recent happenings in the region of the Supreme court, "Too damned clever." . . . So, while we should like to rest our comment with praise to the orator's tribute to tolerance, we must, in the interest of realism, say that we can't overlook that thorn which was all but buried in the rose bed of his rhetoric, "I did join the klan."

ST. LOUIS [Mo.] POST-DISPATCH [Ind.]—Black stands, by his own testimony, convicted of unfitness to be a member of the Supreme court. The taint of the klan oath that he took—though he forswears it now—still is on him. It stigmatizes him, the senate that confirmed him, and the President who appointed him.

ST. PETERSBURG [FLA.] EVENING INDEPENDENT [Ind. Dem.]—Last night's statement does not establish Mr. Black's fitness for the Supreme court, which has been challenged on other grounds than klan membership. But it does seem to dispose of the charge that he is liable to display racial or religious intolerance.

TRENTON [N. J.] TIMES [Ind.]—All things considered, Associate Justice Hugo L. Black did about as well as could be expected in his reply. . . . Despite all possible excuses and explanations the klan label, past or present, is not a desirable adjunct of the judicial system.

PHILADELPHIA [PA.] EVENING BULLETIN [IND., REP.]—Nothing in the statement relieves the justice of the charge of equivocation in the assurances given his colleagues in the senate in his behalf when the rumors of his klan connection were first bruited. His own admissions make it clear beyond dispute that the nomination never should have been made.

Bates Creel and his bride, the former Miss Barbara Jane Wear.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—G. Bates Creel and his bride, formerly Miss Barbara Jane Wear, both of San Francisco, were honeymooning today after their marriage here yesterday. The bridegroom is a son of George Creel, writer, and Mrs. Creel, who as Blanche Bates was a stage star of 25 years ago. The former Miss Bates denied that the couple had eloped, explaining that they went to Reno alone to be married because of the illness of the bride's mother. Young Creel, who is connected with the Golden Gate International exposition, to be held in San Francisco in 1939, gave his age as 22 and his bride, who is an artist, said she is 19.

SHERIF REFUSES TO SERVE A SUBPENA ON PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Thomas J. Gibbons, Ramsey county sherif, today refused to attempt to serve a subpena on President Roosevelt when the President is in St. Paul Monday night.

Gibbons returned to attorneys a subpena requiring President Roosevelt to testify in a $375 suit brought by Clifford W. Gardner, St. Paul attorney, against Linue J. Hammond, assistant United States district attorney.

Gibbons said the President's constitutional rights make serving of the subpena impossible. The purpose of subpening the President has not been explained.

JUDGE RENEWS CHARGE BROWER ONCE A KLUXER

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Repeating with increased vigor his klan membership charges against Walter S. Brower, special assistant to Attorney General Cummings and close friend of Associate Justice Hugo L. Black of the Supreme court, Alfred J. Talley, former General Sessions judge, issued a statement today asserting that Brower was present when Justice Black was made a life member of the order.

Brower not only was a member but was a high officer of Robert E. Lee klan, No. 3, of Birmingham, Judge Talley declared. Referring to Brower's statement denying he is a member of the klan, Judge Talley called on Cummings' aid to "squarely" deny, if his charge is wrong, that he was the "Walter S. Brower" reported to have been present with Justice Black at a klan meeting on Sept. 2, 1926.

Judge Talley said he would gladly make a public retraction if Brower proves he never was a member.

NEW YORK'S NOT SO BIG

By CALEB

I OPENED a letter from the east. It was from a young fellow of twenty, a Michigan friend of mine, who, after working in Chicago for a short while, was transferred by his firm to New York. He said in part:

"Here's the little guy in the big city . . . .

"I have been here about five weeks now and like it a lot. New York isn't as big as it's made out to be. The buildings aren't even as tall as I thought I'd find them."

I dictated an answer rather casually and perfunctorily—and then suddenly realized that what I was answering was a great leaf out of life—which is nothing less than history.

All history is biography. And biography is no more than what this young fellow is living. It is the lives, and the results of the lives, of people who did more than sit around and keep the home fires burning.

In short, a letter from a young fellow in his first months in a great city, all on his own, is a social document, particularly when he says the buildings aren't even as tall as he thought they would be.

I revised my answer and said in it: "Since you have a sense of humor, it is not unwise for me to tell you that the world literally rests on your shoulders—that is, all the share of it you can carry. In another few years more or less, all the people who carry the responsibility today will be gone, and your generation must carry on. You see how important it is that you do your part well. Some men and women will not have the strength or resourcefulness to carry their full share. Others of you must make up for it. It is better to have the world in your debt than to be in debt to the world."

I used to know a vice-president of one of the greatest banks in New York. I asked him once what difference there was in his work there with so vast a bank as compared with his old Fort Worth connection. He said, "It's simply a matter of adding a few ciphers."

So it is with most big things of life. I am glad my young friend finds the buildings are not as tall as he thought they would be. Problems never look quite so big when you get close to them and take them apart. After all, New York or any other great thing is simply Lilliput scaled up.

CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE

RED PRESS HAILS MOVE TO BRIDLE U. S. HIGH COURT

Tells Communist Strategy in Class War.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 2.—The conflict in America centering around the Supreme court is one of the most important developments in recent American history, according to the soviet Russian press.

Soviet correspondents in New York and Washington, D. C., are sending lengthy messages to their papers on the details of the fight involving efforts to emasculate the court. From the communist viewpoint the Supreme court controversy is another important step in developing class differences in the United States.

Instead of being ended with the defeat of President Roosevelt's court packing scheme, the campaign to bridle the court has only begun, according to one correspondent, who said: "The question of the Supreme court retaining its present authority is of supreme importance to the Committee for Industrial Organization [C. I. O.] and the American communist party, which is leading the fight to discredit this institution."

Calls Court "Greatest Barrier."

The United States Supreme court, the soviet press asserts, constitutes the greatest barrier opposing the future development of the C. I. O., hindering its plan to undermine the American Federation of Labor and obtain control of the labor movement.

Amplifying the reports to the soviet press from the United States, Earl Browder, head of the communist party in America, has written an article in the fortnightly magazine Bolshevik.

"In the fight to bridle the Supreme court, the American communist party is walking shoulder to shoulder with the labor movement and organized forces in the American decocracy," Browder wrote.

Backing C. I. O., He Asserts.

"For the first time since the civil war a powerful workers' movement is seriously challenging the American autocracy. The fight is developing rapidly, for behind the active C. I. O., the communist party and the left movements are coöperating in organizing the workers. Defenders of the court have succeeded in winning the first round, but their victory is not final."

Browder repeated his former declarations published in the Kommunisticeski International that the communist party is coöperating with the C. I. O., hoping to succeed in forming a new political party.

Seek to Split Democrats.

The C. I. O. and the Reds, he reported, hope to steal a large chunk of the Democratic party from under President Roosevelt's nose and in order to succeed with this plan they have been supporting the President and his policies heartily, while at the same time spreading propaganda that his policies are not radical enough and working to split the Democratic party.

A few years ago communist international agents abroad sought immediate revolution and scorned at affiliation with other groups and parties.

Today, Browder said, they disguise themselves as pacifists and progressives and are aligning themselves with all the movements disatisfied with present conditions and urging them to unite to form a popular front party as a means of obtaining control of the government.

Notes Powerful Reaction.

The danger, Browder said, is that powerful reaction is developing in America. He said the growing popularity of the vigilante movement is causing the communists most concern.

He said class war will be introduced in the next municipal and congressional elections. The fight on the court, he said, will be presented as a question of choosing between progress and reaction, or democracy and Fascism.

President Roosevelt's appointment of former Senator Hugo L. Black as a member of the Supreme court and the discovery that he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan failed to attract much attention in the soviet press, which suggests that President Roosevelt knew Black's affiliations and selected such a candidate in order further to discredit the court.

AUTO CRASH VICTIM DIES.

LEADERS ASSAIL LABOR POLICY OF ADMINISTRATION

A. F. of L. Officers Rap Miss Perkins and Board.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Thrusts at the Roosevelt administration's labor policy marked preliminaries to the American Federation of Labor convention, starting here Monday.

Making their attacks openly after months of back-stairs criticism, most of the federation leaders centered their fire on Labor Secretary Frances Perkins and the National Labor Relations board. Both were accused of partiality to John L. Lewis' rebel committee for industrial organization in administering federal labor laws.

The administration's wage and hour bill, pigeon holed at the last session of congress, was discussed at length without a single voice being raised in its favor.

John P. Frey, president of the metal trades department, told the department's convention that powerful influences were at work to place legislative restrictions on trade unions and hinted that he felt some of the administration's labor advisers would favor such legislation.

The federation's executive council opened the fire on Miss Perkins by dropping her from the list of dignitaries invited to address the convention.

BLACK ON COURT A 'SORRY THING,' SAYS JOHNSON

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Senator Hiram W. Johnson [R., Cal.] issued a statement today declaring it was "a sorry thing" that Justice Hugo L. Black should go upon the Supreme court of the United States.

"Despite his rhetoric and his touching allusions to his Negro, Jewish and Catholic friends, one damning fact stands out in bold relief," Senator Johnson said.

"He voluntarily became a member of the klan, was initiated into it, and subscribed to its tenets.

"He thus foreswore the constitution of the United States, and all his protestations and pretty words cannot disguise the ugly fact that he then would have denied the right of religious freedom to his American brethren.

"For years and until his senatorship he continued his membership in the klan.

"We can thank God for small favors and gladly admit all that he says he now is.

"But with his record it is a sorry thing that he should go upon the Supreme court of the United States."

PLEA TO MAYOR FILLS BOARDING HOUSE, BUT STARTS NEW TROUBLE

Mrs. Anna Miller.

Mrs. Anna S. Miller, 70 years old, recently wrote to Mayor Kelly, asking him to help her find boarders for her rooming house at 646 Fullerton parkway, her only means of support. Her letter got results.

The mayor turned it over to relief authorities, and soon a number of invalids, supported by relief and old age pensions, became her boarders. All seemed well until she received notice from the city building department that she was violating an ordinance by operating a convalescent home.

"They say I am not obeying a zoning ordinance, and that the fine is $200 a day," Mrs. Miller said. "If I give up this work I must go on relief. I'm going to write to the mayor again."

HUNT PUBLISHER, 17 YEAR OLD GIRL IN EIGHT STATES

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Nassau county police late tonight broadcast two separate eight state alarms reporting Walter C. Mayer, 40 year old Bellmore, N. Y., publisher, and a 17 year old girl, Alice Riley, missing since Friday. The report said the girl was an employé of Mayer and was last seen shortly after noon Friday. Mayer was described by police as publisher of the Bellmore Home News. The alarm said he had an offer to go to China as an arms expert. The two alarms were sent out within a few minutes of each other, but police declined to indicate that there might be some connection between the two disappearances.

SNUBS FOR FOES FEATURE JAUNT OF ROOSEVELT

Court Packing Opponents Are Targets.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—As an exhibition of the Roosevelt technique of personal government the President's tour of the northwest is the subject of no end of discussion among the politically minded. Whether it is significant of even more portentous things to come is one of the questions around which the debate revolves.

To a greater degree than any predecessor Mr. Roosevelt has developed the power of the chief executive. To a greater degree than ever before, save in time of war, is the word of the American President law today. To a greater degree than ever before is the executive enabled to reward his friends and punish his enemies.

Past Master of Art.

With the political sagacity for which he is famed and the artfulness in which he specially prides himself, Mr. Roosevelt zestfully enjoys the personal government he exercises. It was a long time before even he himself had comprehended the full extent of his personal power to make or break the fortunes of men by the merest word or gesture. Now he is a past master of the art and he practices it with losing regard for its niceties.

The Roosevelt exploits in personal government and reaching out for more power as in the attempt to pack the Supreme court, have inspired many forebodings not only among those who opposed him in two elections, but among liberal Democrats who refused to follow him in the attack on the court. They recoiled from what they regarded as a prelude to dictatorship.

On the other hand, there is every reason to believe that personal government as exercised by Mr. Roosevelt meets with the full approval of a very large proportion of those 27 millions who compassed his overwhelming reëlection a year ago. If this is dictatorship or the approach to dictatorship, give us more of it, say they.

Termed Object Lesson.

Mr. Roosevelt's tour of the northwest was conceived as a little object lesson in the Roosevelt technique of personal government . The visit to the President's kin in Seattle was merely a convenient pretext lending a special flavor of subtlety to the real purpose, which was to stage a demonstration of political frightfulness for the benefit of those who dare to cross Mr. Roosevelt's will.

First inkling of the presidential purpose leaked out the day congress adjourned last August. It became known in connection with the radio speech in which Senator Joseph F. Guffey [D., Pa.], acting at the instance of the White House, endeavored to read Senators Burton K. Wheeler [Mont.], Joseph C. O'Mahoney [Wyo.], and Edward A. Burke [Neb.] out of the Democratic party for their leadership of the successful opposition to the President's scheme to pack the Supreme court.

Visits His Displeasure.

The project as it was then outlined and as it was reported in THE TRIBUNE the same day was, down to the minutest detail, precisely what Mr. Roosevelt is doing on this tour. The word carried from the White House to the capitol was that Mr. Roosevelt would seize an early opportunity to journey through the west, visiting his displeasure upon the Democratic senators who fought him on the court bill.

It was stated that he would make it a point to pass through Nebraska, Montana, and Wyoming and publicly snub Senators Burke, Wheeler, and O'Mahoney by omitting them from the list of officials invited to join the presidential train. This Mr. Roosevelt did, but Senator O'Mahoney boarded the train uninvited.

The theory of the Presidential snub is the same as that of banishment to Lipari in Italy, detention in the stockades in Germany, and commitment to a blank wall in Russia. It removes political opposition to the chief executive—or is supposed to.

Notice to Constituents.

The constituents of the person who has lost favor with Mr. Roosevelt are put upon notice that their senator can no longer invoke the influence necessary to obtain favors for their state from the White House and that they would be wise to replace him at Washington with some one approved by the President. And Mr. Roosevelt has made it abundantly clear that the way to win his approval is to vote for his policies.

For a long time after congress adjourned, the President evinced no haste to put his plan into execution. Not till the revelation of Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black's membership in the Ku Klux Klan, did the projected journey to the northwest become urgent. Mr. Roosevelt found it so urgent that he could not await the return of Justice Black, that he would be compelled to be at the other end of the continent when his appointee should return and take his place in the court.

Does Thorough Job.

Once started, the President carried out the plan to the letter. He did a thorough job of snubbing. He invited Gov. Roy L. Cochran and Senator George W. Norris [Ind., Neb.] but not Senator Burke, to ride with him through Nebraska, Gov. Leslie A. Miller, and Senator H. H. Schwartz [D., Wyo.], but not Senator O'Mahoney, to be his guests in Wyoming, Gov. Roy E. Ayers and Senator James E. Murray [D., Mont.], but not Senator Wheeler, to grace the occasion in Montana.

Extortion Target

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—James Sabatella, 30 years old, is being held in $1,000 bail following his arrest on charges by Renee Dexter, a comely photographer's model.

Miss Dexter charged that Sabatella, a former sweetheart, had attempted to extort $100 from her. She told the presiding magistrate that the prisoner had phoned her "don't try to get funny and tell any one because I've got a gun and I'll use it on you."

The model notified detectives. They were planted in her apartment when Sabatella walked in accompanied by a friend who was an innocent bystander. She said that Sabatella whispered to her not to say anything about the money then. The detectives then came out of hiding and arrested Sabatella who is married and a father. He admitted he asked the girl for $100 but denied the threats.

Lincoln Park Zoo Attracts 2,250,000 Summer Visitors

Hugh Young, director of the Lincoln Park zoo, reported yesterday that 2,250,000 visitors, a third of them children, have been at the zoo during the summer. Improvements costing approximately $550,000 have been constructed, including sidewalks, a central heating system, an eagle house, additional bear pits, new ostrich and deer barns, and a new indoor winter pool for sea lions. Seventeen deer, an elk, three guanacos, and a rhesus monkey were born at the zoo this year.

Stolen Hyde Park Bicycles Taken to Central Station

Claimants of more than two dozen stolen bicycles recovered recently by Hyde Park police should seek them at the custodian's office at the Central police station, where they have been stored, it was announced yesterday. Mayor Kelly Friday made an appeal that bicycle manufacturers put serial numbers on all bicycles so that a voluntary registration system could be established to help identification of stolen machines by their rightful owners.

REROUTE TRAFIC FOR DEDICATION OF LINK BRIDGES

270 Policemen to Direct Stream of Motorists.

Arrangements were completed yesterday for the handling of the heavy trafic at the opening Tuesday morning of Chicago's new Outer drive link bridges. The ceremonies will include an address by President Roosevelt and a parade in which more than 100,000 persons will participate.

More than 2,000 policemen, or nearly one-third of the force, will be detailed to the day's events and 270 will be assigned to rerouting trafic. Capt. David Flynn will be in charge of those directing trafic.

Close Grant Park Entrances.

As part of the trafic program, Grant park will be closed to east bound trafic from Michigan avenue from 9 a. m. until about 2 p. m. and north bound trafic on Leif Eriksen drive will be shut off to through trafic at 23d street and 31st street at 9 a. m.

North bound trafic at these two points will be routed west to Indiana avenue, via South Park way, north in Indiana avenue to 16th street, west in 16th to Wabash avenue, north in Wabash to South Water street, and east in South Water street to Michigan avenue, where the detour ends.

North bound trafic in Michigan avenue will be rerouted west in 16th street to Wabash avenue at 9 a. m. and north in Wabash avenue to South Water street and east in South Water back to Michigan avenue.

Parking Spaces Provided.

South bound trafic in Michigan avenue will be rerouted west in Wacker drive to State street at 9 a. m., south in State to 18th street, and east in 18th to Michigan, where the detour ends.

Public parking space will be provided on the new north bound roadway of Field boulevard from Randolph street south and on the new south bound limited drive of Lake Shore drive from Ohio street north.

Capt. John Prendergast, chief of uniformed police, said the recruiting for the day should be easy for motorists to follow. In any event, there will be enough policemen to direct trafic into the proper channels.

Dedication Day Proclaimed.

Tuesday, by proclamation of Mayor Kelly yestreday, will be known as Dedication day. It will bring to a climax the Charter Jubilee celebration commemorating the hundredth year of Chicago's incorporation as a city. Mayor Kelly will introduce the President, who is expected to speak for thirty minutes. Later the President will be the luncheon guest of Cardinal Mundelein. The President will be the first to cross the new bridges. As part of the day's celebration, flyers from the 108th aerial observation squadron, Illinois National Guard, will drop flowers, the Black Horse troop will parade, and the fireboat Fred A. Busse will give an aerial water display.

Opening of the bridges will link the city's high speed north and south side outer drives. The effect will be more noticeable on the north side, Lake Shore drive will have three 45 foot motor lanes, two for limited trafic and one for two-way local trafic. It will be possible for motorists to travel from the far south side to the north side with a minimum of delay. Moreover, Michigan avenue and Sheridan road will be relieved of strangling trafic burdens.

Steal Policeman's Pistol While He's on Vacation

Martin Fahey, 6509 Maryland avenue, a trafic policeman, told Woodlawn police yesterday that when he and his family returned Friday from a vacation they found their home looted. Among the objects stolen was his service revolver, and a gold watch and ring.

YOUNG ATTORNEY RUNS AGAINST VETERAN IN JUDGESHIP ELECTION

Republicans will pit experience against youth in a special election to be held Dec. 7 to fill the vacancy created by the death of Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Marengo. The Republican candidate is William L. Pierce, who has practiced law at Belvidere for 40 years, and the Democratic candidate George R. Lyon of Waukegan, who is 34 years old. The judicial district, the 17th, is composed of Lake, McHenry, Boone, and Winnebago counties.

CLEAR WAY FOR ROSS KIDNAPERS TO PHONE HOME

For the first time in a week the kidnapers of Charles S. Ross, wealthy business man, had a good opportunity last night to get into direct contact with his home at 2912 Commonwealth avenue.

Police were not around. Nor were government men, who yesterday formally assumed charge of the investigation. Moreover, reports hinted that wire tapping on the Ross phone had been temporarily lifted. This sudden apparent shying away from the home, it was said, was prompted by a mysterious telephone call Friday night from a man who identified himself as "Bob of New York," and who said the kidnapers would not try to communicate with the Ross home until the wire tapping ceases.

Mrs. Ross remained alone in her apartment last night. She said she had heard nothing from her husband or his abductors. She seemed, however, rather calm, as if she expected news shortly. Mr. Ross, 72 years old, was kidnaped near the Westward Ho Golf club a week ago last night while returning from a dinner in Sycamore with his former secretary, Miss Florence Freihage.

Gentlemen:

Eleven years ago you furnished the Palmer House with 3,000 mattresses which were, as far as we knew, the best we could buy.

During this period of time, they have given continuously satisfactory service, and our guests have uniformly commended the sleeping comfort of our beds.

They have been so thoroughly satisfactory from both a wear and a comfort standpoint that we unhesitatingly recommend them to anyone who is contemplating the purchase of a mattress.

Very truly yours,

BEAUTY SEIZED IN EUROPE'S NEW SPY THRILLER

Police of 2 Nations Link Trio with 'Traitor's' Death

PARIS, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Police of two nations tonight disclosed the arrest of a blonde Swiss girl and two men in a maze of international espionage and counterespionage that adopted gangster methods to dispose of its victims.

Uncovery of the mysterious spy ring, French and Swiss police said, solved the "one way ride" of a secret agent for an unnamed European power. Authorities told how the blonde girl trailed a fellow spy across half Europe and then lured him to his death.

Despite a false passport, Swiss police identified the victim whose bullet-riddled body was found Sept. 4 near Chamblandes, Vaud Canton, as Polish born Ignace Reiss, 38 years old, known as a secret agent.

Believe He "Talked Too Much."

His death was "the well planned execution" of an agent who talked too much, said Swiss police working in coöperation with the French surete nationale.

They arrested Renate Steiner, 29 year old Swiss girl, in Lausanne, and in Paris held Pierre Louis Cucomet, 35, a Frenchman, and Dmitri Smirenski, 40, a Russian. Police said two other Russians were sought in connection with the spy mystery.

French authorities said they had established the following story of espionage:

Reiss, banished from Poland in 1921 for sabotage and later ousted from Austria, shuttled between Germany and Russia until 1935, when he came to Paris.

Fell Out with His Gang.

In the summer of that year he fell out of favor with the espionage group for which he worked and criticized his former employers in an article in the Dutch press. Swiss authorities said Mlle. Steiner confessed she was a member of a secret organization that planned to kill Reiss. She trailed him through Czecoslovakia, Poland, and Russia, and caught up with him in Berne, Switzerland.

There a mutual acquaintance introduced them. She dined with Reiss the night of Sept. 4 in Lausanne, where they were joined by two other men. Police said the trio took Reiss for a ride after dinner.

URGES INDIANA FUND TO FIGHT SYPHILIS SPREAD

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—If half the $500,000 now used annually to care for Indiana's syphilis-insane could be obtained to fight the disease, the number of cases would be reduced 50 per cent within ten years, Dr. Verne K. Harvey, state health board director, said today.

He was addressing the forty-sixth annual Indiana conference on social work here.

"That would mean," he said, "a reduction of about 15,000 cases, according to U. S. public health figures, and the economic savings to the state would be enormous."

Dr. Harvey urged a campaign for more local and state funds for the fight. Dr. Max Bahr, Indiana Central hospital superintendent, advocated passage of laws that would compel private physicians to report to the state health board all cases of syphilis.

Woman Sentenced, Fined.

Petersburg, Ind., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Florence Jackson of Velpen today was sentenced to state woman's prison for six months and fined $50 in the Pike Circuit court for breaking a syphilis guarantee.

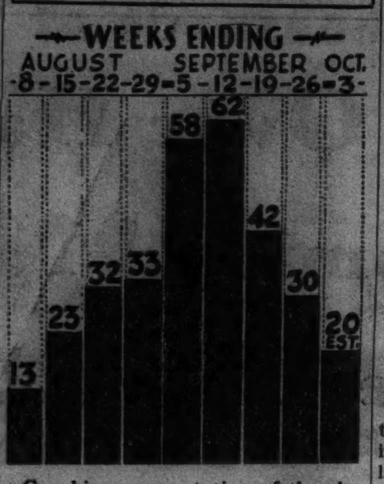
Thomas Bowler's Coat Stolen; Suspect Seized

John Wilson of Los Angeles, who said he is a physician licensed to practice in Spain, was arrested last night as he walked into a pawn shop at 604 South State street carrying a topcoat stolen earlier in a movie theater from Thomas Bowler, chief clerk of the Criminal court. Wilson told police he bought the coat for $1 from a casual in State street. Bowler signed a larceny complaint against Wilson, who will be arraigned in Police court tomorrow. He is 34 years old.

Honorary Journalism Frat Votes to Admit Women

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity, went "co-ed" today. Delegates to the organization's convention voted unanimously to admit women to membership restricted to men for twenty-eight years.

Paralysis Wanes



Graphic representation of the rise and decline of new cases reported, by weeks, in Chicago during emergency period.

Only four new cases of infantile paralysis and two suspected cases were reported yesterday in the Chicago area, and Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, announced that unless there is a sharp upward trend in the number of victims today there will be no change in the plan to let the public and parochial school kindergartens open tomorrow.

"Our figures indicate that the epidemic is waning," said Dr. Bundeson. "In five days the total number of new cases was 16. In the comparable period last week there were 24. We feel that the board now can safely recommend the school attendance of the youngest pupils."

Weekly tabulations, issued each Monday since the paralysis danger was first regarded as acute, showed the number of cases as follows: Aug. 8, 13; Aug. 15, 23; Aug. 22, 32; Aug. 29, 33; Sept. 5, 58; Sept. 12, 62; Sept. 19, 42, and Sept. 26, 30. Indications are that that the tabulation will show between 20 and 25 cases for the full week ending today.

EX-LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR SENT TO PENITENTIARY

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Federal Judge A. Lee Wyman today sentenced Robert Peterson of Centerville, former lieutenant governor of South Dakota, to the Leavenworth penitentiary for three years on a plea of guilty of having falsified national bank reports. Peterson was lieutenant governor in 1935 and 1936 when also president of the First National Bank of Centerville.

Schoolgirl, 11, Shoots Herself; Likely to Die

Noblesville, Ind., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Betty Kitterman, 11 years old, pupil in the seventh grade of a public school here, attempted suicide today. She shot herself through a lung with a .38 caliber revolver. She is not expected to recover.

CARBON DIOXIDE AIDS AVIATORS, DOCTORS LEARN

Reduces 'Height' of Flight by 5,000 Feet.

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Discovery that an aviator can "lower his ceiling" by 5,000 feet by breathing a little carbon dioxide was reported to the international meeting of the Aero Medical association here today.

That discovery means the flyer's body and mind react, under carbon dioxide, at a very high altitude, just as if he were flying nearly a mile lower.

The tests were made in the Harvard fatigue laboratory. They were reported by Dr. R. A. McFarland. In a sealed air chamber the oxygen conditions of flight at 17,000 feet were simulated.

Memory Test Applied.

In this rarefied air the memory of the men tested dropped to about 60 per cent of their normal at sea level. Their attention went down to 60 per cent. The oxygen in their blood dropped to 70 per cent.

But if three per cent of carbon dioxide was introduced into the air, memory, attention and oxygen in the blood all went up. They rose to the levels which have been found in tests of men flying at 12,000 feet.

They went to 90 per cent for memory and attention. This figure, Dr. McFarland explained, is for practical purposes, very little different from 100 per cent mental efficiency. The blood oxygen rose to 88 per cent.

Causes Deeper Breathing.

The carbon dioxide caused these effects by inducing deeper breathing. The lungs extracted more oxygen from the thin air. This is the first time that beneficial effects of carbon dioxide for high flying have been found in scientific experiments.

It was said the number of red blood cells increased in all the men tested during long flights. In most of them the excess red cells disappeared within an hour or two after landing. Dr McFarland examined China Clipper crews last summer at 8,000 to 11,000 feet. Frequent short rests during the Clipper flight, he said, were an important reason for the high mental and physical effciency. Long ground rests were not as good.

BOLD THIEF ROBS BLIND WOMAN IN POLICE BUILDING

Carries Out 25 Cartons of Cigarets.

"Boldest thief in Chicago" was the title given the one who went into the lobby of the police building at 1121 South State street yesterday and stole 25 cartons of cigarets. The owner, Mrs. Irma Collins, who is blind, was standing nearby, and dozens of policemen were a short distance away.

Mrs. Collins' cigar stand is at the south side of the lobby. Also on that side is the office of Capt. David Flynn, in charge of the police trafic detail. Across the hall is the door to the headquarters of the central district police, and through it, minute by minute, policemen saunter.

Shortly after noon a colored man wearing a green hat, a dark uniform suit with gold braid on the seams of his trousers, entered and politely addressed Rose Mary Collins, daughter of the cigar stand owner. Would she be kind enough, he asked, to give him 45 pennies for that much silver coin?

Rose Mary volunteered, believing the man was a worker in the building, to go out and get the change.

Returning, she discovered the man was gone. So were the cigarets that had been stacked on the floor preparatory to being put in cases. Mrs. Collins said she heard the man lifting them but she had no notion any one would steal them right there in the police station.

Rose Mary led her mother across the lobby to report the thievery to the police, and last night alert squads were seeking the colored man with the stripes on his pants.

ARMED YOUTH PUT ON PROBATION.

Vincent Kaluszy, 20 years old, 4687 South Bishop street, was put on a year's probation by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Boys' court yesterday on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

ESCORT AND GIRL SHOT IN BATTLE WITH A ROBBER

Brockton, Mass., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Refusing to surrender his automobile and attempting to protect his girl companion, Arthur Gay received bullet wounds in his chest and lung early today that may cost his life. The girl, Sylvia Paulding, a high school junior, was shot in her arm.

Gay, 19 years old, and Miss Paulding, were seated in Gay's parked car when accosted. Gay attempted to kick a revolver from the would-be robber's hand and Miss Paulding beat him with her shoe. The robber shot Gay twice, dragged Miss Paulding from the car, and shot her, then fled.

Gay drove to a farmhouse for aid. Both were taken to a hospital, where police later took Leo Mockus, 35 years old, whom Miss Paulding identified as their attacker.

DECREES ARMY RULE IN BRAZIL TO WAR ON REDS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 2.—(AP)—President Getulio Vargas tonight declared Brazil in a state of war for the next 90 days to combat the spread of communism. A senate minority bitterly fought authorization of the decree, charging the president was becoming the instrument of an eventual military dictatorship.

The decree came on the eve of the seventh anniversary of the revolution of Oct. 3, 1930, and for the second time suspended the three year old constitution. The first suspension was effective from Nov. 27, 1935, to May 20, 1937.

Some members of the chamber of deputies asked whether Gen. Pedro Aurelio Goesmonteiro had not sought martial law so he could strike at Gov. Jose Antonio Flores da Cunha, head of the Rio Grande do Sul state army of 30,000 men. The governor of Rio Grande do Sul is supporting Armando de Salles Oliveira for president. President Vargas' choice is José Americo de Almeida, and Peinio Salgado, chief of the green shirted Fascist movement, is a third candidate.

SNIPER SHOOTS MAYOR'S HOUSE IN RHODE ISLAND

Woonsocket, R. I., Oct. 2.—[U. P.]—A "fantom sniper," armed with a shotgun, broke windows in the homes of the mayor, the police commissioner and other officials early today and indirectly was responsible for the death of a motorcycle policeman.

The policeman, Albert Lemoine, 32 years old, father of four children, was killed when his motorcycle crashed into a cement wall while he was cruising the city in search of the sniper.

JUSTICE BLACK'S STATEMENT.

Mr. Justice Black's statement of the American principle of toleration is unexceptionable. Unfortunately it carries in the circumstances a quality of unintended irony which must deprive it of force with any citizen who regards toleration as a principle to be taken seriously and cherished loyally at all times and not assumed merely when its assertion is expedient.

Justice Black tells his fellow countrymen that he had joined the klan. That, it would seem, was when the devotion to toleration he now asserts should have had some influence upon his conduct. He joined the klan, which was the most flagrant defiance of the principle of toleration in American annals. He was supported openly and successfully by the klan in his campaign for senator from Alabama in the United States senate. He resigned from the klan and thanked the klan for its aid. It is noteworthy that even now in his careful public statement he did not condemn the klan or Klansmen. His condemnation derives by inference from his general remarks on tolerance. In the present situation it is both easy and expedient to repeat noble generalizations upon tolerance. When it was politically profitable to ignore them, when the klan was the most potent political power in Alabama, when Justice Black was running for office in that commonwealth, Justice Black was a member of the klan.

After his election to the senate Justice Black received a grand passport of life membership in the klan. It figures in his statement as a "card" to which he gave no attention and has since lost. According to an official transcript of proceedings of the klan, Justice Black, then senator elect, on the occasion of the presentation of the "card" by Imperial Wizard Evans, accompanied by an address by that official characteristically denouncing Catholics, Jews, and Negroes, Justice Black is recorded as follows: "I realize that I was elected by men who believe in the principles that I have sought to advocate and which are the principles of this organization."

Justice Black made no reference to this occasion in his apologia, although it has been published throughout the press of the country.

Justice Black also refrained from explaining why when the confirmation of his appointment to the Supreme court was pending in the senate and his affiliation with the klan was the subject of open debate in that body he remained silent. It would seem that that was the moment for the senate and the country to hear from him, rather than now.

Justice Black suggests that he has been the victim of "political maneuver" and that this maneuver "threatens the existing peace and harmony between religious or racial groups in our country." We do not think his point of view will be widely shared by American citizens concerned for the protection of American principles. If it was a political maneuver to inquire into the affiliation, past or permanent, of a proposed member of our highest judicial tribunal, with an organization bent upon destroying the "existing peace and harmony between religious and racial groups in our country" we believe American conscience will approve it. It is certainly not for Justice Black, who was a member of that organization and its beneficiary, to rebuke such a "maneuver."

Justice Black relies upon his record in the senate as evidence that he does not condone intolerance. "It shows," he asserts, "that I was of that group of liberal senators who have consistently fought for the civil, economic, and religious rights of all Americans without regard to race or creed."

The proceedings of the senatorial inquisition of 1935, of which Senator Black was chairman and chief inquisitor, makes a mockery of that assertion. In that affair Senator Black established a record in the senate for savage and ruthless disregard of civil rights. He abused flagrantly the guaranty under that bill of every citizen, rich or poor, Catholic, Protestant, or Jew, white or black, to be "secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures." He abused flagrantly the common dictates of fairness and decency and good feeling which are the vital spirit of the bill of rights and of the American character.

For weeks this outrage continued amidst the rising indignation of the American public until that indignation, coupled with an order of the court, became too formidable to defy any longer. Justice Black will go down in our political history as the protagonist of that disgraceful departure from American principles of law, justice, and fair dealing. It was entirely in keeping with the spirit of the Ku Klux Klan. Whatever Justice Black's convenient lip service to the principle of tolerance embodied in the law he has been appointed by Mr. Roosevelt to interpret and apply, Senator Black's inquisition remains a challenge to his fitness for that function. It remains an ominous commentary—and this is immeasurably more important to the American people—upon the ethics which directed his selection. If Mr. Roosevelt did not know of the affiliation of Senator Black with the Ku Klux Klan in spite of public efforts to inform him, if he knew and believed in a repentence which Justice Black has not thought fit to declare, he does know that ten years after Mr. Black's convenient resignation from formal klan membership Mr. Black exhibited as senator an intolerance, a disregard for civil rights, a callous contempt for common fairness among men which were the essence of klan doctrin and morale. In the face of this exposure Mr. Roosevelt selected Senator Black for an office which above all others calls for the qualities his conduct in the senate inquisition revealed he neither possessed nor respected. In the face of this exposure Mr. Roosevelt used his masterful power to compel confirmation by the senate in indecent haste, without inquiry or consideration.

Justice Black has offered the country his explanation, such as it is. Mr. Roosevelt has a heavier responsibility.

A SCANDAL THAT WILL OUT.

Mr. Roosevelt passed through Chicago on Sept. 23. That morning THE TRIBUNE published an editorial entitled "Topheavy Public Works." The editorial called attention to the fact that the great dams which Mr. Roosevelt was about to visit—Casper-Alcova, Grand Coulee, Bonneville, and Fort Peck—were as unsound economically as his topheavy Wyandotte county dam was unsound physically. We said these dams upon which hundreds of millions of dollars are being spent will not begin to return their cost to the country. We said there is no present market for the power and no present need for the farm lands.

Mr. Roosevelt waited until he reached Cheyenne to reply to THE TRIBUNE. He argued that if the kilowatts are produced some one will use them. He said that more irrigated lands are needed to provide a refuge for the families fleeing the dust bowl and the eroded and exhausted lands in the eastern states.

Maybe in Cheyenne his reply carried weight. Wyoming, like most of the other states in the reclamation area, contributes only negligible sums in federal taxation.

Elsewhere the President's reply will be scrutinized more closely. If the kilowatts will find a user regardless of where they are produced, why not harness every river on the continent, no matter how remote and no matter how irregular its flow? Common sense answers, of course, that the cost of producing most of this undeveloped power is far higher than the yield from the sale of the current can justify.

Mr. Roosevelt cannot seriously plead that the colossal waste of funds is justified by the emergency which faced the country in 1933, because the crisis had been passed before construction was started. The dams were remote from the centers of unemployment. As relief measures the reclamation projects were grotesquely inefficient because they did not give relief where and when it was most needed.

The President's confidence in the soundness of his projects is not based upon experience. They will not begin to pay out even if the first estimates of cost are correct, and experience teaches that the estimates made before and even during construction are a most unreliable guide. Projects are commonly undertaken in Washington on a showing of cost which is, to say the least, optimistic. On this basis a first appropriation is obtained. When the work has been started and it is too late to back out the bad news is revealed. The addition of 50 per cent to preliminary estimates is the least that experience would demand. A 100 per cent addition would be far from excessive.

The record of completed reclamation projects undertaken by the government is a dismal one. Few if any of them have paid out. Time after time the government has been obliged to reduce the schedule of payments and to grant more time to the settlers. Even so, defaults have been the rule rather than the exception. Thousands of acres of reclaimed lands have been abandoned despite the government's leniency toward the settiers. There is, therefore, no present lack of irrigated farms for fugitives from the dust bowl. No considerable number of homesteaders can be accommodated on the new projects for years to come and no considerable proportion of the farmers now on marginal lands can ever be accommodated.

It must be remembered that the reclamation and power schemes undertaken by the government in the past have been those which seemed to offer the highest hope of success. Those which the President has been visiting on his present trip are the culls. They had been disapproved by the government's reclamation engineers because the costs were grossly excessive in relation to the anticipated benefits. To obtain favorable reports the present administration brought pressure upon its engineers to reverse their previous verdicts.

The significance of this fact cannot be overestimated. The reclamation engineers have a natural bias in favor of irrigation projects. The more of them which are undertaken, the greater the glory and importance of the men in charge. If the projects undertaken since 1933 had possessed anything resembling real merit it is not likely that the engineers would have overlooked the fact in their earlier reports.

If Mr. Roosevelt wishes to convince the taxpayers that their money is not being wasted on these schemes a means is at hand. All he need do is invite the leading engineering societies to appoint an impartial committee of inquiry to study the projects in detail. The report of such a commission would be given great weight.

THE TRIBUNE, speaking for the state which next to New York contributes most heavily to the federal treasury, protests against the mortgage which Mr. Roosevelt has placed upon Illinois and all the other taxpaying states. We shall continue to protest and we shall continue to publish the truth about these pork barrel ventures until the public has been made aware of the scandal.

PARADES: A SUGGESTION.

The parade is a recognized American institution. It is popular in other lands, but through the years in this country it has reached its highest glory—political marching clubs, plumed lodge members, school boys and girls, nationalistic labor groups, gymnastic groups, militiamen, even pacifist demonstrators. Almost everybody likes to parade.

Beyond question the custom has roots in basic human nature. In it there's a kick and a thrill; it caters to the gregarious instinct; it promotes cheerfulness and fellowship, and as exercise it is good in moderation for the health.

It adds momentary importance to the parader and we all like that. Indivisible from it is the attendant martial music which affords an outlet to some instinctive sense of time and rhythm. Parading for whatever lawful cause is deserving of all encouragement. We are all for it.

But—in a city whose currents of life now are often dislocated by parades—is there not some way in which the ordinary economy of living shall not be disturbed and impeded by the marchers and by which, on the other hand, the procession and the line of march are not interfered with by the normal movements of daily life?

This seems a way. The loop district does not seem fitted for parades on business days, nor does the great link between south and north—Michigan avenue. Would not some of the great roadways connecting the parks of the west side—Independence boulevard, for example—be an admirable and less congested setting for parades, giving full swing to the moving hosts and ample space for onlookers?

WHY PAROLE FAILS.

Director Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of criminal investigation, is the latest authority on crime conditions to protest forcefully against the evils of parole administration. Like others who have had to deal with criminals he is indignant at the "moo cow sentimentalists" who obstruct the administration of justice, and he points out that only lately "have we been able to learn that wholesale opening of cell doors" has occurred.

The moo cow sentimentalists are more active in obstructing practical betterments of the parole system, perhaps, than in opening cell doors. That is the practical interest of organized crime and its ally, corrupt politics, a working if informal alliance which is the most formidable foe of reform. That is the chief reason why, as Mr. Hoover notes, the parole boards of backward states do not profit by the example of the federal parole system, "which has proved conclusively that it is possible to make a success of parole."

HOT WATER—A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

No custom is more ancient than the use of water—hot or cold. Greek soldiers employed hot baths, cleansing the skin scrupulously, followed by an oil massage. Homer tells of the salutary effect of this regimen upon Diomed and Ulysses. In the fourteenth century the bigwigs of the Paris faculty pronounced bathing injurious and prohibited its practice. But today, watering places—spas and mineral springs—the world over continue to attract the ailing and their utility is emphasized by physicians, particularly in troubles affecting the nervous system and the circulation.

But do we take advantage of this beneficial agent with sufficient frequency? A warm tub will soothe the nerves and relax the muscles. There is no better way to allay fatigue than to stand under a comfortably hot shower for a few minutes. The reason we feel better is because blood is drawn into the skin from its internal depots, capillaries are dilated, and waste products washed away.

If one has difficulty in wooing sleep the neutral or tepid bath is helpful. The temperature of the water is approximately 97 degrees Fahrenheit [this must be regulated carefully], one unit lower than that of the body; and the patient may remain under its influence for an hour or even longer.

A most stubborn case of insomnia that came under my observation a few months ago yielded within a few weeks to daily treatment with a neutral bath. A rubber pillow was arranged for the head of the tub and—with a good light—the patient was permitted to read. At first the temperature was fixed between 98 and 100, but was lowered gradually to 97.

Heat is our best pain reliever and moist heat is preferable to dry. In the management of the aching joints of arthritis, immersing the body, except the head and neck, is helpful not only from the standpoint of comfort but so stimulating to the circulation that the repair of damaged tissues is accelerated.

With some victims this plan may be pursued daily while those who are anemic or weak are advised to indulge every other day. At first the temperature is slightly below normal. Little by little, hot water is added until the thermometer rises to approximately 110. It is surprising how much caloric can be absorbed if the heat is raised slowly.

It is well to rest the patient's head against a rubber ring placed against the end of the tub. The duration depends on the resistance and strength of the sufferer. At first 2 to 4 minutes is sufficient. As he begins to feel the afterglow he will desire to remain much longer. However, no more than 10 to 12 minutes is recommended. With the water at 110 a cold cloth or an ice bag should be kept on the head or cold compresses may be applied to the back of the neck.

Then comes removal to a comfortable couch, thorough drying of the skin, with massage of the muscles and joints. Movements are as extensive as can be carried out without eliciting pain. Then a quiet hour of rest is enforced. During the period the patient is stimulated noticeably and the sense of well being may last for two to three hours. Subsequently lassitude supervenes and with it comes sleep.

Hot baths which are prolonged are likely to prove exhausting. In fact, if one is heated for 30 minutes or more with the temperature at 110, considerable fatigue will manifest itself and there is some danger of heat stroke.

Every one should know about the sitz bath, which consists of submerging the thighs, the buttocks, and the abdomen below the mid-line of the trunk. Many men and women so accustom themselves to this type of procedure that they can endure much higher temperatures. They are started usually at about 95 degrees, and the heat increased step by step until it reaches 110.

The best of it all is that water is available to every one—a remedy with a thousand uses.

REPLY.

No. However, they should be taken only when prescribed by a physician.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Oriental crises always teach the American public strange names, but this time the British have shown they can hold their own with the orientals in that line.

To Americans the wounds of Sir Hughe Montgomery Knatchbull-Hugessen, British ambassador to China, who was shot by air machine gunners, were not funny, but his long and complicated name is. To the British it is not. There are many funnier ones here.

Stringing together last names with hyphens is a common British practice. Sir Hughe is outdistanced at it by Vice Admiral the Honorable Sir Reginald Aylmer Ranfurly Plunkett-Ernie-Erle-Drax, for example.

A glance through Who's Who will give a fine collection of multiple names. One good specimen is Maj. Sir George Llewelyn Tapps-Gervis-Meyrick, deputy lieutenant of Anglesey. Another is the Right Honorable Godfrey Lampson Tennyson Locker-Lampson, member of parliament for Wood Green. Among the leaders is Marcus Antonius Johnston De Lavis-Trafford, noted physician. And the combination Newdigate-Newdegate is a fine bit of whimsy.

Members of the peerage may have accomplished less on the average than those in Who's Who, but when it comes to names they can beat them hands down. Charles John Robert Hepburn-Stuart-Forbes-Trebusis, twenty-first baron Clinton, is one picked at random. There are many longer ones.

Pronouncing the long names is easy, however, compared to some shorter ones. Cholmondeley, pronounced Chumley, is famous. But that is just one of many tricks the British have developed through centuries of mixing Scottish, Irish, French, and other names into their language.

George Granville Sutherland Sutherland-Leveson-Gower, fifth duke of Sutherland, has one of the trickiest names. His family name is pronounced, by those who know, "Sutherland-Loosen-Gore."

Beauchamp to the English is "Beecham." Majoribanks is "Marchbanks" and St. John is "Sinjan." The earl of Harewood is the earl of Harwood to the ear, and the duke of Marlborough the duke of Maulbro.

Englishmen, too, seem to have a larger share than Americans of names that are more familiar in other uses. Death, Slaughter, Shave, Pinecoffin, Goodlove, Kiss, Hogsflesh, Whalebelly, and Gotobed are a few of them.

Famous even among Englishmen for his remarkable first name is an old-time Puritan who once lived in Feter lane, London. He was If-Christ-had-not-died-for-thee-thou-hadst-been-damned Barebones. In his family circle, it is said, this was shortened to Damned Barebones.

Fanciful spellings also seem to please the English, and P. G. Wodehouse's Mr. Psmith, pronounced Smith, is not such a far flight of fancy as it might seem.

One of the favorite tricks is a double F at the beginning of the name. Ffynch, ffoulkes, Ffrench, and ffolliott are picked at random from the London telephone directory. Preference seems about equally divided between Ff and ff.

Many of the strange names are the result of the long mixing of languages and races. Englishmen hate to be told they are anything but pure English, or that this country has not always been the home and stamping ground of the English. But it is a question just who the English are. They have strains of Roman and Scandinavian, Saxon and Norman French, and many of the peculiar names are corruptions of those originally foreign. Others are the result of English mispronunciation of Scottish or Irish or Welsh names.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

ESTATE DEBTS.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A died leaving heavily encumbered real estate to B, C, D, and E. B was appointed administrator under will. B borrowed money to pay taxes and interest from F, signing notes as administrator. B died and estate has never been closed. X was given power of attorney by all the heirs to look after estate.

1. Had B the right to borrow money as administrator?

2. And is it a lien against estate?

3. Has X the right to pay F?

4. If C objects has X the right to pay F?

5. If F should get a lien on crop would he hold this ahead of the insurance company? G. D. C.

1. If he did not secure court authority, he is possibly to be regarded as to having borrowed in his own capacity. The important question is whether the item is chargeable against the estate, and it seems probable that the answer is yes, assuming that the proceeds actually went in the interest, and that these items were themselves proper charges.

2. See preceding answer.

3. Same.

4. Yes, unless he has some basis of objection which does not appear from your letter.

5. In general, the word lien means that the lien holder would be paid ahead of general creditors. You give us no facts as to the relation of an insurance company to the case. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ORDERED TO REPAIR OR WRECK.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to know if you could help the people in our neighborhood. I have notified the complaint department at the city hall, but nothing has been done regarding a building on our street. The building is a wreck and it is a menace to the neighborhood, as it is a hideout for questionable characters. Children play there and are in danger of injury or death. It seems something should be done before some one is hurt or killed. M. M.

Our inspector reports this is a two story brick building which is vacant and from which the doors and windows have been removed. This building is, however, structurally safe at this time. The owner has been notified to repair and put in good and safe condition, or have the building wrecked.

If this work is not done at the expiration of time allotted in our notice, we will proceed according to law. In the meantime the building will be kept under observation by this department. RICHARD E. SCHMIDT, Commissioner of Buildings.

INDIANA DIVORCE AND DOWER.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can a resident of Indiana, when filing suit for divorce, name a resident of Illinois as co-respondent? Can this person be brought to court? The husband is now living in Illinois.

2. A single woman is left an estate by the death of her parents. Later she marries but keeps her property in her own name. Is it possible for her husband to have any claim on this estate? L. M. E.

1. No. The "1935 acts" of the Indiana legislature [page 10] contains a prohibition against naming co-respondents similar to the Illinois provision adopted near the same time.

2. Dower and curtesy have been abolished in Indiana, but if you own the land at the time of your death you cannot deprive your husband of his statutory share. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NEWS FROM SPAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Complaints about your lack of fairness in handling the Spanish news are obviously without foundation. But it is my opinion that a little more skill might be used in evaluation of incoming telegraph copy before publishing. The writer was "war editor" in 1917 on a large Pacific coast daily and the major part of that job was evaluation of claims made in news from overseas.

Take the Dahl case as an example. You will recollect that even German aviators captured by Asturian communists at Bilbao were not executed. Of course, they made a threat to do it, but that was not serious. The whole collection of Dahl stories including the last phase of getting him released because Mrs. Dahl sent a picture of herself to Gen. Franco are a lot of trumped up yarns by not so very skilful correspondents looking for something to write about. Gen. Franco is a professional soldier of great ability and wide experience. He fought in the Moroccan campaigns, and he doesn't like the average sensation hunting newspaper man. He does like and is in fact very partial to newspaper men like Edward Neil Jr. of the A. P. You should have seen Capt. Aguilera, one of the general's outstanding press relations officers, working half the night June 19, 1937, to get the cable from Bilbao to London in working order again so Neil's story of the taking of Bilbao could be put through.

The writer saw the last three weeks of the Bilbao campaign and read the stories sent out by the Reds concerning fights just witnessed. Also the stories sent out from Salamanca by Gen. Franco. The former were gross exaggeration and in some instances entirely false. The latter were for the most part, understatements.

A few months' experience in editing statements from Valencia about daily victories, which in the long run prove to be disastrous defeats, ought to enable a desk man to be careful about the next batch. But no.

Editorially the papers of the United States are as much off Fascism as they are off communism—and they seem to lack the ability to see the difference between what occurred in Italy and Germany, and what has and is occurring in Spain.

The writer holds no brief for dictators or anarchy. But any person interested in the future of this country could not help note that conditions which led up to the conflict in Spain and the conflict itself were worth study at first hand.

It is a regrettable fact that with all of our excellent newspapers and all the facilities open to American journalists, the "man on the street" and even otherwise informed men don't know the fundamentals of the Spanish civil war.

Business, industrial, and financial leaders in Spain who agreed that Alfonso had failed and deposed him, were unable to cope with foreign propagandists working among the illiterate. So Spain is now paying for its failure to educate its people. The masses accepted not only the false teachings of communism but an astounding number became convinced that true anarchy is the way to solve the problems of political life. There are as you know 22,000,000 people in Spain, only a small percentage of whom take any interest in governmental affairs outside their own village. When a majority of these few decided that the way out was to kill those who had property and divide things up, the property owners took steps to defend themselves. Leaders sent for Gen. Franco, who had shown ability in Morocco. Also he had been in the councils when Alfonso was invited to leave and his good judgment had been noted. He was asked to take hold and do what he could. Starting with 18,000 men he obviously had to have help, because the day after he started "direct actionists" all over Spain, save in five agricultural provinces, began seizing the reins of local government.

The only place Gen. Franco could look to for outside aid was to the archenemies of communism, Mussolini and Hitler. In accepting this help he saved himself from immediate destruction, but took on the handicap of being classed as a fellow dictator. The fact that he has organized a civil government at Burgos in the hands of nine ministers, and himself attends strictly to the business of war, is almost entirely ignored by the outside world. This very active civilian group, working without pay, has accomplished wonders in increasing the agricultural and mineral output of western Spain—and this in the midst of war.

Our national tendency to take snap judgment and avoid the hard work of analyzing each situation to ascertain the facts is evident in this instance. In England the press is anti-Franco, too, but for a very different reason. They know the facts. E. O. SAWYER JR.

CONSTITUTION EXHIBIT.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—I think general attention should be called to the very excellent exhibit on the history of the constitution of the United States and contemporary material that is on view in the main building of the Chicago public library. It is comprehensive and with a human interest touch. PAUL T. THORPE.

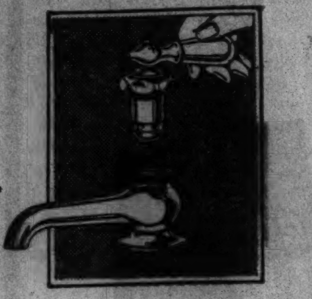
Property owners who install CHICAGO FAUCETS avoid costly maintenance



Why Chicago Faucets are easy to maintain: The standardized, removable operating unit includes all parts subject to wear, and is as easily renewable as an electric light bulb.

ONCE Chicago Faucets are installed, expense ends. Prolonged service interruptions, periodic repairs, more or less frequent readjustments — things which result not only in annoyance, but also in substantial outlays of money —do not occur. Chicago Faucets operate year after year without any maintenance attention further than possibly an occasional seat washer or seat renewal. The purchase cost of Chicago Faucets includes lifetime service.

Your Plumber will gladly show you Chicago Faucets for every type of service. Or, see downtown display, 213 N. La Salle St.—sidewalk level. Phone BELmont 0300 for name of nearest dealer

COURT PROTECTS BUSINESS FROM CIO BLUDGEONING

Judge Restricts Picketing to Actual Employes.

Judge Michael Feinberg of the Circuit court yesterday denied a C. I. O. affiliate union an injunction to restrain policemen from interfering with the organization's picketing of junkyards.

In his ruling Judge Feinberg pointed out that the right to picket peacefully is reserved exclusively to employés on strike and cannot be invoked by one set of business men in an effort to compel another set to enter, against their will, into business relationships.

Peddlers Bring Suit.

The request for the injunction was made by the United Junk Peddlers union, No. 467. Its membership is composed of wagon drivers who collect junk and sell it to the members of the Chicago Waste Material Dealers association, who are operators of junkyards. The union men, Judge Feinberg said, are not employés of the yards, but independent business men.

In their petition, the united peddlers stated that the yard men conspired to set prices each would pay for material purchased, and boycotted sellers who protested these arbitrary prices. Testimony was produced to show that the yard owners generally respected the boycott that any one of their number set against a peddler. The peddlers complained that when they picketed the yards they were arrested.

Boycott vs. Boycott.

"You ask me to create an impossible situation," said Judge Feinberg. "You want me to recognize one boycott designed to break another boycott. In this country no man is compelled to deal with another man against his will.

"Your picketing is illegal because it does not involve any labor dispute. And I cannot enjoin the police from interfering with an illegal act. If there has been a conspiracy to fix prices, that is against the law. But there is no legal provision to authorize picketing by those harmed by the price fixing."

'LIGHT OF AGES' TO BE CLIMAX OF CHARTER JUBILEE

Six periods in Chicago's history will be reënacted nightly on the stage of the Civic Opera house from Oct. 15 to 23, during the "Light of Ages" historical spectacle which will bring Chicago's Charter jubilee to its climax.

Rehersals were begun yesterday by 500 performers—singers, actors, ballet dancers and narrators who will dramatize the arrival of Father Marquette, the era of Fort Dearborn, the beginning of steam transportation in 1848, the great fire of 1871, the World's Columbian exposition of 1893, and a scene from the world war. The pageant has been written by Marcus Bach, and will be produced by John Ross Reed, director in 1934 of "Wings of a Century" at A Century of Progress exposition.

Leading rôles will be taken by Mark Love, bass-baritone, Charles Niehaus, operatic tenor, Kathryn Gail Hubbird, radio actress, and Harvey Hayes, narrator. Carl Craven will direct the Mundelein Verse Speaking choir.

Cook County Farm Adviser to Head Loop Organization

O. G. Barrett, Cook county farm adviser, announced yesterday that he will resign Nov. 1 to become farm adviser of the Chicago Farmers, an organization of loop business men who own farm land. He has been with the farm bureau at Arlington Heights for eleven years, during which the county membership has increased from 182 to 1,901. Mr. Barrett plans to be in the club's Chicago office at 11 South La Salle street two afternoons each week, spending the remainder of his time giving advice on the members' farms.

U. S. Alcohol Tax Agents Raid 2 Stills; 1 Arrested

Agents under E. C. Yellowley, head of the federal alcohol tax unit, yesterday raided stills at 1655 Linden road, Homewood, and at 3522 Van Buren street. In Homewood they arrested Reno Calabria, 30 years old, and seized a 250 gallon still, 3,600 gallons of mash, some alcohol, and an automobile. In the second raid they got a 200 gallon still and 1,350 gallons of mash. No one was in the flat where the outfit was found, but the landlord, whose name was not disclosed, was held for questioning.

WED IN WINNETKA CEREMONY

MISS MACDONALD BECOMES BRIDE OF H. F. WADDELL

White Blooms and Ivy Decorate Altar.

BY JUDITH CASS.

One of the prettiest weddings of the early fall season took place yesterdey at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the Congregational church in Winnetka where Miss Mary Elizabeth Macdonald became the bride of Hugh F. Waddell. Clusters of white flowers and green ivy were used to decorate the altar and the chancel rails. Dr. Samuel D. Harkness read the service. This white and green setting gave way to a riot of coloring in the autumn flowers that were used to decorate the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Macdonald, parents of the bride, where the wedding reception was held.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful off-white satin gown made with long sleeves and a high neckline, and a lace veil and coronet that belongs to her grandmother, Mrs. Robert Stuart, which has been worn by the bride's sister, Mrs. Laurence S. Killaly of Toronto, and by their cousins, Mrs. Barrett Scudder and Mrs. George A. Poole Jr.

Bridesmaids Wear Blue.

Mrs. Killaly, Mrs. Poole, Mrs. Robert Macdonald, the bride's sister-in-law, and Miss Martha Borland were the four bridesmaids wearing powder blue taffeta with hats and sashes of fuchsia color. Miss Anne Macdonald, the bride's sister and maid of honor, was dressed similarly.

The bridegroom's brother, Arthur Waddell, was his best man. Ushering were the bride's brothers, Angus and Robert Macdonald; the bridegroom's cousin, Arthur Ackerman of Peterboro, Ont., home also of the bridegroom and his mother, Mrs. Roland Waddell, who was here for the wedding; Dr. Ian Hodge Murray Boswell, and Ian McClean, all of Toronto.

Bride's Grandmother There.

Among the first at the reception to wish the bride happiness and to congratulate the groom was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Stuart. She wore a black gown and hat, and the mothers of the bride and bridegroom wore blue.

Following the reception the out-of-town guests and the bridal party remained at the Macdonalds for supper and to speed Mr. Waddell and his bride off on a honeymoon trip that will take them to the British Isles for six weeks. After Nov. 15 they will be at home in Peterboro.

Hides Chance for Prisoners to Flee as She Loses Finger

Archer City, Tex., Oct. 2.—(AP)—When Mrs. A. H. Gosler, wife of the Archer county sherif, caught her finger in the master door of the jail where she had just given breakfast to six inmates, she did not tip off the prisoners on their chance to escape. She quietly unlocked the door, closed and locked it again. The finger had been amputated.

She later appeared with other orchestras in Chicago and Milwaukee. Her musical education began when she was 3 years old. She has studied in Berlin and at Lake Como.

18 THEATERS SUE FOR DAMAGES IN BLOCK BOOKINGS

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Eighteen suits asking damages totaling $191,400 were filed late today in Superior court by small theater owners in Los Angles City and county, opening a legal battle against block booking of motion pictures and asserted monopoly by the producers.

The suits were directed against Paramount Pictures, Inc., and Paramount Pictures Distributing company, a corporation. The complaints are identical except for the plaintif and the amount of damages asked.

Damages sought by the various exhibitors range from $600 to $20,000. Because of the asserted block booking method, the exhibitors declare they were forced to accept films solely under terms of studio contract.

Ruth Hammarquist, Blind Singer of N. U., Is Wed

Miss Ruth Hammerquist, blind singer, who attained prominence on Northwestern university campus last year for her work in music and dramatics, was married yesterday at the Ebenezer Evangelical Lutheran church to Robert Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Coleman, 5615 Bernard avenue. She is 21 and Mr. Coleman is 31. He attended Northwestern university and is associated with his father in business. Miss Hammarquist is the daughter of Mrs. Anna Hammerquist, 2153 West Warner avenue.

Illinois Couple Denied Marriage Permit; Drunk

Davenport, Ia., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Nic Legrand, clerk of the Scott County court, today refused to issue a marriage license to an Illinois couple past 50 years of age, who he said were "plainly drunk." "Return Monday when you are sober," he advised them, "and you will be issued a license providing you can meet the requirements of the law." Of eleven marriage licenses issued today only one was for a Davenport couple, the others being from Illinois.

JUDGE TAKES TWO PRISONERS AWAY FROM THE POLICE

1 Suspected of Pointing Out Robbery Victims.

Judge Robert J. Dunne in Criminal court took two prisoners out of the hands of the police yesterday at hearings on habeas corpus writs.

One of the prisoners, Joseph Locascio, 27 years old, 3006 South Wells street, was arrested Thursday in the Pullman State bank by police posing as bank employés. Assistant State's Attorney W. L. McCoy told the court the police had reason to suspect that Locascio was spotting prospective victims, who were then robbed after leaving the bank with large sums of money. He added that about 100 employés of various banks on the south side had been instructed to attend a showup for Locascio today at the Kensington police station.

Sent to County Jail.

Attorney Harold Marovitz, representing the prisoner, said the police had had Locascio long enough and Judge Dunne agreed. He continued the hearing until tomorrow, but directed that the alleged finger man be taken from the police custody and put in the County jail.

After the hearing Capt. Michael Grady of Kensington station said that if Locascio could have been kept over Sunday enough evidence would have been obtained to put him in prison.

"He tried to bribe the police when he was arrested," Capt. Grady said. "We have already succeeded in identifying him as a frequent caller at several banks. He was in the Pullman bank on Aug. 25 when Barth Crowley, a retired policeman, was withdrawing money. A short time afterward Crowley was robbed."

Locascio has been arrested a number of times, but never convicted of any crime.

Assistant State's Attorney John S. Boyle, who was acting state's attorney yesterday, hurried to Judge Dunne's court on learning of the disposition of the hearing, but found the judge gone for the day.

52 Big Robberies in Six Weeks.

He told reporters there have been fifty-two robberies of more than $1,000 each on the south side in the last six months and that Locascio's arrest was the first important one in the investigations.

He and Capt. Grady said that there have been numerous robberies of persons after they had withdrawn money from banks and that a gang of four men is believed responsible.

The second case was that of Frank Towner, 24 years old, 20 South Des Plaines street, who was arrested Thursday by Sheffield avenue police on a federal narcotics warant. Prosecutor McCoy told Judge Dunne that Towner's landlady had seen a small radio in his room similar to the instrument taken from the room of Miss Anna Kuchta, student nurse, who was killed by a moron in the Chicago hospital six weeks ago. The police wished to investigate further to find the radio. Judge Dunne continued the case to tomorrow and ordered Towner put in the county jail.

Told later that the police were upset over the outcome of the hearings, Judge Dunne said: "I'm not upset. Let the police take care of their business. I'll attend mine. They had the prisoners long enough."

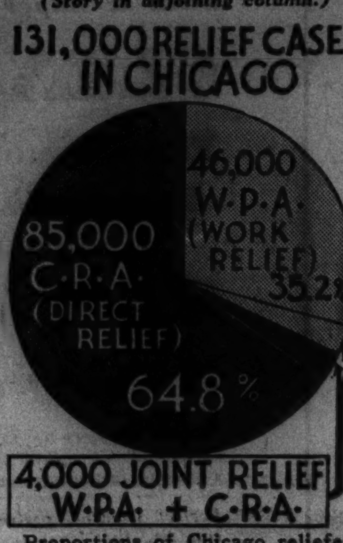
WPA WORK SETUP PUTS PREMIUM ON INEFFICIENCY

System Leads to Wasteful Use of Man Power.

BY WILLIAM O'NEIL.

Relief—Three Kinds

(Story in adjoining column.)



Proportions of Chicago reliefers being cared for by direct aid, by work relief, and by a combination of the two methods.

Reliefers employed on WPA elbow each other for room in which to work or retire to the sidelines to contemplate the scene of industry because the WPA wants to create jobs and the local sponsors of projects want to get the jobs done without spending any of their own money.

The way in which labor needs on a WPA project are figured would appall a private contractor who was trying to make a profit by doing an economical job. This conclusion was reached after a month's survey of the relief situation in Chicago.

Employers complain that WPA work ruins many men for private industry by teaching them bad work habits. Yet WPA is the goal of many reliefers in Chicago who are looking for jobs.

In order to understand how these conditions can exist it is necessary first to know how WPA gets its workers and how it operates.

Nearly 50,000 Employed.

The CRA [Chicago Relief administration] gives direct relief, without requiring work, to 85,000 cases [a case consisting of a person, family or group receiving relief as a unit]. There are nearly 50,000 reliefers, each representing a relief case, on the WPA pay roll in Chicago.

These add up to 135,000 relief cases being supported by both agencies, but the actual figure is nearer 131,000, because about 4,000 of the WPA reliefers do not make enough money at their jobs to support the cases they represent, and the CRA makes up the difference. Thus these 4,000 cases appear on the rolls of both agencies.

Certified by C. R. A.

Each WPA worker must be certified to the WPA by the C. R. A. through the Illinois emergency relief commission as the head of a family or as a single person who is a pauper and in need of relief. From these people the WPA selects the necessary help for a project.

The selection is not necessarily based on the applicant's qualifications for the job. A barber, for example, might qualify only as a laborer on WPA. The WPA does not consider the size of a man's family, or the lack of one, in assigning him to a project.

Local officials of WPA said that the reduction in the number of workers accomplished since last spring has given them a chance to weed out the most unfit and to keep only the cream of the relief crop. Layoffs are made, according to these officials, on a basis of inefficiency and lack of a desire to work.

Too Many for Each Job.

The work standards of the WPA are difficult to establish. It would, presumably, require the services of a corp of trained engineers to estimate the efficiency of the work on a WPA project. But the system by which too many men are put to work on a construction project was discovered.

A private contractor contemplating the construction of a sewer, resurfacing of a street, the improvement of a park, or the building of one of WPA's famous little houses in the back yard, would go about it in this way:

First, from the plans of the project, he would figure out the cost of the materials and supplies needed. Then he would compute the amount of labor, skilled, and unskilled, that was needed and add the cost of this to the cost of materials. After allowing for emergencies and profit, the private builder would arrive at the total cost of the job.

Details Kept Hidden.

The details of any one project under the WPA are difficult to discover. Projects are carried out at the request of and in coöperation with a local governing unit, such as the county, the city, the park district, or the board of education, which then becomes the sponsor.

The sponsor is unwilling to divulge the detailed information of how a particular project was started because of the danger of coming into conflict with WPA and the loss of future projects. WPA is loath to advertise its own shortcomings.

How Sponsors Get Money.

A sponsor, for example, wants to do a project for which the materials and supplies will cost $50,000. This cost might cover anything from rakes and gravel for fixing walks or trenching machines and trucks for digging sewers. The sponsor knows that it can get the labor from WPA, but it has no money with which to buy these essential supplies with which the men will work.

The sponsor, like the private contractor, has now figured the materials cost of the project. The contractor, or his parton, would have to put up this money, as well as the money for labor, himself.

But the sponsor has no money and this prevents WPA from putting men to work. So WPA says to the sponsor:

"Every time you make a job for a man we will pay his wages and, in addition, will give you a certain amount of cash each month the man works for you to buy materials and supplies to be used by him on your project."

Offer Cash with Men.

This extra cash is the allowance per man month that WPA makes for each worker. On some projects WPA has allowed over $20 per man month. At the present time they are trying to keep the allowance under $12.

The sponsor may need 1,000 men for a month to do the job in mind. But the heads of the sponsoring body figure this way:

"WPA will allow us $10 per man month for each man we employ. We can do the job in one month with a thousand men, but then WPA will only give us $10,000 and we need $50,000. Or we can string the work out over a period of five months, keeping 1,000 WPA workers on the job each month, and thus get the $50,000. Or we can put 5,000 men on the job for one month."

Situation Is Improved.

This situation was worse, until last spring, than it is now. Reduced funds make it necessary for WPA authorities to examine each project more carefully, and they are now trying to make the sponsors bear as much of the material cost as possible. The sponsors don't want to pay any more of this cost than they have to.

WPA has one blackjack in the final argument, particularly if the sponsor is the city.

"It is cheaper," WPA officials tell the city officials, "to spend $10 for supplies that will take a man off the CRA and put him on the WPA for a month than it is to pay the entire cost of the man's relief on the CRA."

Painters' Union Treasurer Murder Victim.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—One union official was killed and another suffered severe gunshot wounds today when warfare started anew among the labor racketeers of this city. Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey linked the two attacks with the return of the fugitive Max Silverman, whom he described as "labor racketeer No. 1," to New York for trial.

The wounded man, Max Rubin, business agent for the cloak drivers' and helpers' union, was held in bail of $250,000 by Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora. Dewey requested the high bail, pointing out that Rubin was a witness before the grand jury which indicted Silverman, Louis [Lepke] Buchalter, and Jacob [Gurrah] Shapiro, fugitives. Rubin himself had been in hiding for nine months and was found in New Orleans, the prosecutor disclosed.

Silverman Arrives By Plane.

The murdered man was Samuel Gappel, treasurer of a painters' union. Dewey's investigators had recently taken the union's books for examination and had sought to expel racketeers from the organization. The two attacks occurred within a span of ten hours, coinciding with Silverman's arrival by plane from Los Angeles.

Gappel was shot in the head as he was entering the doorway of his home in the lower east side of Manhattan. His wife ran down the stairs at the sound of the shots and found his body in the hallway. Gappel had just returned from a late meeting.

The slain man's mother-in-law, Mrs. Clara Singer, told the police that until Gappel became an officer in the union three months ago he had no enemies. The police learned from ten witnesses that Gappl was hated by the former officials of the union who had been driven out of office last year.

Rubin Shot from Behind.

Rubin was shot from behind as he walked from the subway to his home in the Bronx. It was a strange coincidence that the gang guns blazed in a thoroughfare known as Gun Hill road. Witnesses said a lone gunman shot Rubin in the back of the neck, jumped into an automobile, with a partner at the wheel, and sped away.

Silverman, a paunchy individual with a lantern jaw, arrived at the Newark airport late at night. Fifteen detectives surrounded the plane when it came to a stop. Silverman was then taken to Manhattan in a police car and booked on charges of conspiracy and extortion. Then, because he was suffering from diabetes, he was taken to the prison ward at Bellevue for the night.

About the time that Silverman was entering Bellevue, Gappel was murdered.

District Attorney Samuel Foley of the Bronx ordered that Louis Feinberg, secretary of Rubin's union local should be held as a material witness when he arrived, at the hospital to inquire about the wounded man's condition. Feinberg was held in $100,000 bail. Then he was taken to the county jail.

DIES OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

Tecumseh, Mich., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Robert Henkle, 7 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Henkle, died Saturday in University hospital at Ann Arbor from infantile paralysis. That was the first case reported in this village.

25,000 PROTESTS ON REALTY TAXES SWAMP BOARD

Approximately 25,000 complaints against assessments of Cook county real estate for 1936 tax purposes are ready for the attention of the board of tax appeals. Emmett Whealan and Paul Drymalski are the members of the board.

The last date for filing such complaints was Thursday. So far 21,333 have been tabulated and about 4,000 more are in the hands of the board's staf. Mr. Whealan said that only 13,073 complaints were made concerning the assessments for 1932 taxes, that year being comparable to 1936 in that it was the one following the quadrennial assessment.

Althought the board is disposing of about 450 protests daily, it is feared that it will not be able to finish the huge docket by Dec. 1, which is the penalty date for the second instalment of 1936 taxes. It was indicated that County Assessor John S. Clark might, for this reason, be asked to extend the penalty date.

STATE FARMERS TO BID ON RELIEF HELP THIS WEEK

Farmers who need help will have a chance this week to hire able bodied reliefers. Leo M. Lyons, secretary of the Illinois emergency relief commission, said relief officials, farm bureau heads, and employment service officials will hold conferences in various counties this week. The first meetings will be in Du Page, Lake, Will, and Kane counties, under direction of A. Ryrie Koch, relief agent.

Lyons said he expects to receive reports from county farm bureaus on the number of men needed. The records list 48,440 employable persons on relief downstate.

Lyons ordered yesterday that hereafter all employable persons receiving relief from the Chicago Relief administration must report once a month to the Illinois state employment service office to be reinterviewed for possible jobs. Previously they were interviewed only when first applying for relief.

GOOD HEALTH IS PERHAPS THE most important essential to a happy married life. For this reason men and women about to marry should make sure that no infectious communicable disease exists which may turn their dreams of happiness into misery and despair.

AN UNHAPPY, CHILDLESS MARRIAGE is almost certain to follow if either should have a venereal infection. Venereal diseases, syphilis and gonorrhea are responsible for more human wreckage than almost all other causes combined. Their principal menace lies in the fact that they can be contracted unknowingly and innocently. No one is safe from their insidious and dangerous attacks.

THEY ARE EQUALLY INJURIOUS to both men and women and especially so to helpless babies—being the principal cause of all still-born, feeble-minded, blind and deformed infants at birth. It is now comparatively easy to guard against these tragic possibilities, for despite the destructive nature of syphilis and gonorrhea they can be readily diagnosed and successfully treated. HOWEVER, VENEREAL DISEASES ARE NOT the only source of danger to health and happiness. Protection is just as important and necessary against beginning heart disease, tuberculosis, cancer, nephritis, diabetes, urological conditions (infections of the kidneys, bladder and urinary tract) and gynecological conditions (diseases of women). These diseases, as well as syphilis, constitute the major causes of disability and death. They are a constant menace to health and happiness and every effort should be made by every individual to have their presence diagnosed at the earliest possible moment.

INDIANA DOCTORS JOIN IN FIGHT ON POLLUTION

Cité Health, Fishing and Beauty Values.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Expressing regret that community action was so long delayed, and expressing eagerness for achievement, the Indiana State Medical association today gave hearty commendation to the state board of health's order requiring cities and towns along the shore to stop the pollution of Lake Michigan.

Recalling the pleasure once found in the waters of lower Lake Michigan, the association declares the "loop" now has been turned into a cess pool with which "we studiously avoid all personal contact."

Scope of Order.

The board's current order directs that no domestic nor industrial waste may be emptied into the lake after Jan. 1, 1939. That will mean that municipalities heretofore using the lake for sewage disposal must build treatment plants and provide otherwise for sewage disposal.

No suggestion is offered by the medical groups for solution of the financial problems involved, but the society declares, "ours is the duty of seeing to it that conservation of health goes forward, even as it has been fostered by our profession for hundreds of years in the past."

"The Grand Calumet river, euphonious in name and villainous in odor," says the doctors' statement, "once flowing through several northern Indiana cities, now has become a slough with little or no current, and is being used by a population of several hundred thousand as a depository for their wastes which are untreated.

Cite Loss to Anglers.

"Streams flowing into the lake, once the home of some of the fightingest bass we ever have known, together with some big pickerel, now are sluggish ponds, filthy with human and industrial waste."

The medical society recalls that Chicago, too, once used the lake for sewage disposal, but reminds Indiana residents that the flow of the Chicago river has been changed, sewage treatment plants installed. Chicago is praised for its part in stopping pollution of Lake Michigan.

PRAISE FORD'S PLAN OF GIVING JOBS TO 'UNFIT'

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Maryland welfare experts today voiced a belief certain labor policies of Henry Ford, if employed by industry on a nation-wide scale, would "eliminate the word 'unemployable' from our relief dictionary."

State Senator Raymond E. Kennedy, chairman of a gubernatorial committee investigating Maryland's relief setup, said the Ford company employs 10,000 cripples, blind persons, mutes, and persons otherwise partly incapacitated.

"The system of the Ford plants goes straight to the point of determining what practical wisdom should be exercised in finding places for persons physically incapacitated," Kennedy asserted.

J. Milton Patterson, executive of the Maryland board of state aid and charities, said: "The vast damage which the label 'unemployable,' has done to individuals never can be estimated."

So-called "unemployables," Kennedy said, are examined by Ford physicians who determine their capacity for work.

Found Dead of Car Fumes; Exhaust Piped Into Auto

Don F. Klinkel, 40 years old, who moved two weeks ago from Waukon, Ia., to 1457 Farwell avenue, was found dead in his car of carbon monoxide fumes yesterday at Washtenaw and Chase avenues. A tube from the exhaust led through a window of the car. Klinkel's wife, Irma, said he had been ill recently. At Waukon he was in the clothing business.

Women's Corn Husking Contest Set for Oct. 21

Belvidere, Ill., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Boone county women corn huskers will compete Oct. 21 to select a county champion. The event, said to be the first county contest for women in the state, will be run the same day as the second annual men's husking contest. Farm Adviser E. C. Foley said it was arranged in response to many requests from the women.

Fall Foils Escape

A robber swung from the roof of a cellhouse at the old penitentiary at Joliet yesterday, attempting to lower himself to freedom by a rope made of bed clothing (indicated by dotted line). The rope broke, the prisoner was injured and captured, and his companion was seized on the roof.

With an auger and a rope of bedclothing as their equipment, two robbers serving one year to life terms attempted to escape from the old penitentiary at Joliet yesterday. One of them, Joseph Wagner, 41 years old, a Chicagoan, sprained an ankle when he lost his grip on the makeshift rope and fell 35 feet.

Wagner and Clarence Syer, 36 years old, lagged behind when the prisoners were marched from the cell houses at 10 a. m. for the recreation period.

They cut away the screen on top of the cells and shinned up the framework to the roof. Then they let the rope of twisted bedding down the side 80 feet to the lawn near the administration building.

Wagner started down first. His fall was observed by Guard James Jennings, who seized him. Other guards put a ladder to the roof and brought Syer down.

EVOLUTION CASE TEACHER WILL QUIT OLD HOME

"I'm willing to move anywhere I can get a job," said the 43 year old member of the D. A. R. and mother of two children.

She resigned this week and the school board of Whiteley township dropped charges that she had been cruel, incompetent, and had taught the nineteen pupils in her one room Baily school that man ascended from a monkey.

"Of course I never taught any such thing," insisted Mrs. Morris. "The pupils asked me about the picture of a pre-historic man in one of the textbooks. I told them man had looked that way once, living in caves for protection from bears."

Princess Mural, Screen Dancer, Must Face Court

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Princess Mural Sharado, raven haired screen dancer and exponent of oriental terpsichore, found herself unable to wriggle out of an embarrassing situation in Burbank today. The princess, whose title comes from her mother, an Egyptian princess, assertedly ignored a boulevard stop. Her car overturned that of George Gordon Fiske. Fiske was unhurt in the crash and accepted the Brunette beauty's apologies. But nothing could induce a trafic officer to tear up a citation charging the fair motorist with driving without an operator's license.

RADIO INQUIRY PLEDGED BY NEW FEDERAL CHIEF

F. R. McNinch Talks of His Policies.

Washington, D. C., Act. 2.—[Special.]—Frank R. McNinch, newly appointed chairman of the federal communications commission, outlined today a program for investigation of the radio industry.

Radio is a public utility, in his opinion, and he believes the commission eventually should be empowered to control rates charged by radio stations for the use of their broadcasting facilities by commercial interests. He said he has not formed views as to whether newspapers should own radio stations. That is to be settled by the commission, or presented to congress for determination, he asserted.

Views on Fixing Rates.

As to rate fixing for radio station services, he declared: "While the statute does not now provide for the fixing of rates by the commission, I question the wisdom of a policy of leaving forever free from regulatory control charges made by any public utility.

"The communications act provides no vested right in a broadcasting license," he remarked, "and the licensee has nothing to sell. I shall be interested to know the actual or legitimate value of equipment that would be affected by the applications for transfer of licenses which come before the commission."

Favors Wide Inquiry.

McNinch will make a complete investigation of charges that the commission is ridden with politics, inefficient and favorable to monopoly, he said.

"There will be no covering up by me no matter how high or how low the investigation may go," he declared. "I have no boss but the public. There will be a complete overhauling of the policies of the commission as far as they pertain to radio. But the investigation will not overlook the telegraph and telephone industries."

PARIS WELCOME TO LEGIONNAIRES RESULTS IN RIOT

Reds, Fascists Tangle as They Cheer Americans.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Frenchmen aired their dirty political linen before international visitors once again today when a row between opposing Reds and Fascists broke in the midst of visiting American Legionnaires in a solemn march up the Champs Elysees. The Legionnaires were on their way to place a wreath and rekindle the flame on the tomb of the French Unknown Soldier.

The length and breadth of the famous avenue was swept by the disorders to the annoyance and inconvience of the American and other visitors. Sporadic fights resulted in arrests as a slender police force strove to restore order.

With brawls still going on after the ceremony of relighting the flame many Americans had to help their wives and daughters to the edge of the sidewalks or across the avenue to extricate them from the heedless, angry mobs.

Both Sides Welcome Visitors.

The conflicts had nothing to do with the Americans, who received from the adherents of both of the opposing camps the most cordial welcome. The reds and fascists, however, happened to express that welcome with their respective political salutes when greeting the Stars and Stripes. The fascists, greeting the Americans as anti-reds, raised their palms in the Italian manner. The leftists, choosing to consider the Americans anti-fascists, lifted the closed fist in the manner of Russian communists.

The warmth of the greeting to Americans was undoubted and the significance of the demonstration was that it made plain that the end of the summer's political truce is here and that a new period of street rioting has begun.

Outbreak Long Expected.

The end of that truce has been presaged in political organs of all shades for a week or more as the reopening of parliament approaches.

If anybody is to blame for tonight's row it is the Fascists. They are strong in the quarter where the brawls took place. They are accustomed to salute paraders who are to their liking with the Fascist gesture and they used it as they cried "Vive les Americains!" When the opposing reds began saluting with closed fists, and the Fascists and reds began booing each other, the Legionnaires were much puzzled.

600 Arrive in Naples.

NAPLES, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Six hundred American Legionnaires arrived here today aboard the liner Rex under the leadership of former Commander Harry Colmery. A battalion of Italian ex-service men met the ship. The Legionnaires will proceed to Rome tomorrow where Premier Mussolini will receive them.

Robust Sandy MacDonald Dies in Ottawa at Age of 95

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Big, bearded Sandy MacDonald, for years a familiar, robust figure on Ottawa's streets, died today at the age of 95. The former lumberjack, full of roaring stories of the northern frontier, boasted of seven wives and 24 children. Now at his death, authorities puzzled over finding relatives, about whom he never spoke seriously. He was born Alexander MacDonald at Inverness, Scotland, in 1842, and came to Canada at the age of eight.

Accused as Separatists; 20 Shot in 'Purges.'

MOSCOW, Oct. 2.—(AP)—High officials of one Asiatic soviet republic and political bosses in another were disclosed today to have been removed from their posts in a drive against alleged widespread separatist movements.

Executions, meanwhile, were reported from various places in the provinces. Five employés of a grain collection organization were shot at Kazakstan for mixing selected seed grain with ordinary grain. Twenty persons, including a woman, were executed in Irkutsk in an anti-crime drive. Three persons were found guilty of spoiling grain in Archangel and sentenced to death.

Premier Called a Spy.

The Stalinabad publication "Tadjikistan Communist" reported President Shirinsho Shotemor, Premier Abdullah Rakhimbaiev, and three commissars of the republic of Tadjikistan were deprived of office.

The premier of the republic, which borders on Afghanistan, was accused of being a spy of "a foreign fascist country," while the president was charged with protecting government employés who were spies.

Commissars of justice, education, and light industry were removed as "bourgeois nationalists" who let industry lag or allowed anti-soviet nationalism to be taught in the schools.

The communist organ Pravda recently denounced the premier as an official "who sold himself to the intelligence service of a neighboring foreign state."

Older Leaders Lose Jobs.

The "Tadjikistan Communist" also indicated a number of older leaders had been shaken out of communist party jobs.

The Tashkent publication "Truth of the East" reported the removal of Akmal Ikramov as secretary of the communist party's central committee in Uzbekistan, where he was a political chieftain. He, as well as Israel Artykov, secretary of the Comsomol [youth organization], who also was removed, was accused of giving jobs to enemies of the soviet régime.

The actions in the two republics brought almost all the autonomous republics which fringe the soviet union frontier within the scope of the drive against "enemies" of the nation.

Pravda today turned its fire on Premier Guloyan of Armenia, denouncing him as a nationalist along with Secretary Amatuni of the communist party there.

Editor's "Protector" Assailed.

Secretary Vereikis of the far eastern communist party, the most powerful politician of his region, was branded by Pravda as the protector of Editor Ashver of the "Pacific Ocean Star," labeled the "Radek of the Far East."

[Karl Radek, once a leading soviet publicist, now is serving a 10 year prison sentence for treasonable activity.]

Movements to separate the republics of Turkmenistan and Crimea from the soviet union also were reported by Pravda.

DETROIT SEWER CAVE-IN KILLS 5; OTHERS INJURED

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Three hours from completion of a 22 foot intercepting sewer tunnel job, started last December, and while planning a celebration party tonight, five workmen were blown to death here this afternoon. Seven feet of clay in front of an air lock collapsed. Sudden release of the great air pressure forced the bodies through the opening and into a completed part of the sewer. Seven men were hurt seriously.

The dead were tentatively identified as Cyril F. Klyn, city sewer inspector; E. De Smit, 38 years old; Emil De Simplar, 44; Joe La Bare, 38, and Wilbert Ellis, 22, colored.

This was the first fatal accident since the construction was started by the S. A. Healy company, contractors for the job.

Seventeen men were in the air lock, sixty-five feet below the surface at West Jefferson and Campbell avenues, when the pressure was released. Fifty-three additional workmen were in the tunnel outside the lock.

Indiana Board Approves Sanitarium Bond Issue

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The state board of tax commissioners today approved a $300,000 bond issue for a 100-bed addition to the Lake County tuberculosis sanitarium.

CHANGES SEX

The same person, now a man because of sex transformation, known as Stephan Pekar.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 2.—Once again the Czechoslovakian athletic commission has had to change officially the status of one of its athletes from woman to man. Miss Stephanie Pekarova, 24 year old student of medicine at Prague university, has been declared a man by a medical board. Now she—or he—uses the name of Stephan Pekar. Two years ago, while competing in a track meet, Miss Pekarova was officially declared a woman. She was one of a number of women athletes given examinations at that time because of the case of Zdenka Koubkova, Olympic runner, who was declared a man.

FLOATING TANKS WEATHER-BOUND ON TRIP BY LAKE

Sheboygan, Wis., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Three mammoth oil tanks are weather bound seven miles east of this harbor. They were caught while on the last leg of their 1,381 mile journey by water from Jersey City, N. J., to Whiting, Ind.

The tanks are so big and heavy that their makers, the M. W. Kellogg company of Jersey City, would not risk sending them by rail or ship.

The tug Marie S. Moran cast them loose when a heavy sea made it impossible to control the bobbing 80 ton floating "crafts" that are 50 feet long and 15 feet in diameter. They are anchored with 600 fathoms of line in 45 fathoms of water. The coast guard boat Perry is standing by to warn Milwaukee and Chicago bound steamers.

Manitowoc and Monroe Veterans to Hold Reunion

Manitowoc, Wis., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Former members of company H, Wisconsin National Guard, will hold a reunion here Oct. 16. It will be the first since the men fought in France. Company H was called into service in August, 1917. At that time the unit was part of the second regiment. At Camp Douglas the Manitowoc company was merged with the Monroe company and the combined unit became company H, 127th infantry, 32d division.

Cincinnatian Finds a Hen That Lays Green Yolk Egg

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Fred Thiele hasn't found the hen that lays the golden egg, but he has one that yields a green yolk. Triele sent two green yolked eggs to Police Chief Eugene Weatherly just for proof. For an explanation he sent another to City Chemist Otto P. Behrer.

6,000 AT DINNER FOR PRESIDENT OF UNION PACIFIC

Governors, Many Other Notables Present.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—More than 6,000 persons—financiers, politicians, rail and labor executives, subordinates, and friends—gathered in Omaha's coliseum tonight at a banquet to honor William Martin Jeffers, the first Union Pacific president to work his way up from within its ranks. He went to work for the Union Pacific as a call boy 47 years ago. Twenty-four hundred of the 6,000 were served by 400 waiters. The others were spectators.

An exchange of compliments between representatives of management and labor, and the belated, dramatic appearance of Postmaster General James A. Farley were features of the program.

Speakers included Farley, Senator E. C. Johnson of Colorado, Govs. Henry H. Blood of Utah, Leslie A. Miller of Wyoming, and R. L. Cochran of Nebraska, George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association; Carl R. Gray, retiring president, and W. A. Harriman, chairman of the board.

All parts of the nation were represented at the celebration, sponsored by the old timers clubs, veterans of 30 years or more of service.

TRIPLE KILLING CASE CLOSED AS MURDER, SUICIDE

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The deaths of three members of the wealthy and socially prominent James G. McHenry family of Detroit and Ypsilanti were recorded officially today as a double murder and suicide by a neurotic daughter who felt "the whole family was against her."

Sherif Jacob B. Andres said the investigation was closed following a ballistics expert's report that the bullets which killed the mother and her 7 year old son had been fired from the .22 caliber repeating rifle with which the daughter, Ruth McHenry, 24, shot herself.

The bodies of Mrs. McHenry, 55, and her son, Jimmy, were found Friday morning in a car abandoned 24 hours earlier near here. Ruth was found dying in the McHenry home in Detroit after she slightly wounded another brother, Donald, 14, about 7 o'clock Thursday night.

4 Youths Trapped After Breaking Into Drug Store

Four youths were trapped early yesterday after they broken into a drug store at 2158 Devon avenue by Rogers Park policemen summoned by Benedict Levinson, owner of the store, who lives in the flat above. The boys are: Harry Poyser, 17 years old, 2432 August boulevard; Stanley Nicholas, 18, of 2165 Milwaukee avenue; Peter Sachowicky, 17, of 1633 Girard street, and Stanley Miller, 19, 1815 Winnebago avenue.

Meets His Public

Marmoset, a tiny Brazilian monkey wearing a mustache, which went on display for the first time yesterday at the Brookfield zoo.

Fu Manchu, the rare white mustached marmoset which arrived at the Chicago Zoological park at Brookfield Thursday, greeted visitors yesterday for the first time in the small mammal house. Robert Bean, assistant director of the zoo, said the tiny Brazilian monkey wrinkled his nose at ordinary food yesterday but feasted eagerly on worms and grubs.

Maybrook, N. Y., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Cupid is doing his part to help Dorothy Ella Storms, 14 year old bride-to-be, in her studies. Dorothy and Samuel Omodio, 25, have received a special court order permitting them to marry. While they wait for the wedding Omodio helps Dorothy with her school lessons. Anyway, that's a good excuse—if any is needed—for him to call at her home regularly, and, of course, there's time for romance on the side.

MRS. ANNA HAHN GAY, UNWORRIED AS TRIAL NEARS

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Hahn was "happy as a lark" in jail today and apparently unworried, attendants said, that in little more than a week she will face the state's demand for her life in what Prosecutor Dudley Outcalt has termed "the biggest mass murder in the country."

Mrs. Hahn is charged specifically with administering fatal doses of a violent poison to George Gsellman, 67 years old, and Jacob Wagner, 78, German born like herself and acquaintances with whom, Outcalt contends, Mrs. Hahn had placed herself under financial obligation.

Her trial is scheduled to open Oct. 11, with both state and defense agreed it probably will last three weeks or more.

The trial date is two months and a day after the time she was arrested as authorities here and in Colorado Springs, Colo., investigated the death in the latter city of George Obendoerfer, 67, a moderately wealthy Cincinnati cobbler.

A major break in the case came as Philip Hahn, husband of the woman, turned over to police a half emptied bottle of a violently dysenteric oil. Traces of the oil were found later in vital organs of Gsellman and Wagner. Hahn said he took the bottle away from his wife during a quarrel and removed it to his office locker for safe keeping.

Organs and Lungs of Lake Victim Will Be Examined

Fond du Lac, Wis., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Vital organs of Alvin Sacker, 28 years old, Milwaukee, who died in Lake Bernice Tuesday, were sent to the state laboratory at Madison for analysis. Examination also is to be made of the victim's lungs, in an effort to establish definitly the cause of death.

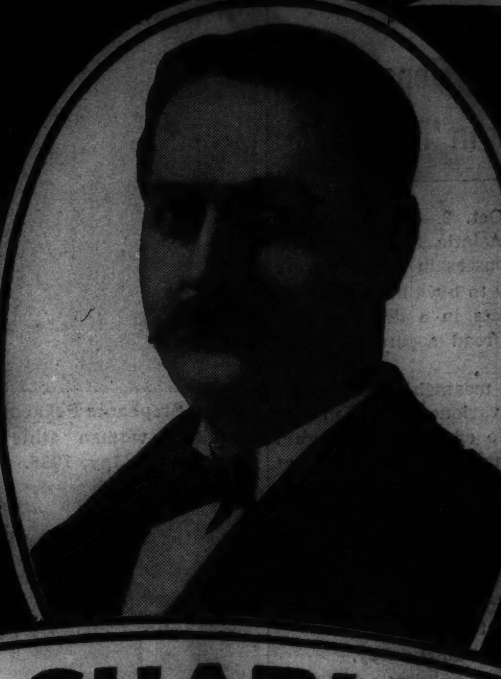
FOUNDER'S SALE

CONDUCTED BY

MOLLIE NETCHER NEWBURY
PRESIDENT, BOSTON STORE

in Honor of the Founder



CHARLES NETCHER

. . . of Mollie Netcher Newbury the late Elbert Hubbard said: "Mrs. Netcher, being a mother and a housekeeper, and early in life having been taught the lessons of economy and conservatism, is able to sell the things that housekeepers prize and women want. The artistic is not sacrificed, although the economies are never lost sight of."

BOSTON STORE

STATE AND MADISON-The BUSIEST CORNER in the World

MOLLIE NETCHER NEWBURY, our president, told us of her plans to conduct a sale in honor of the founder, Charles Netcher. She told us how he would have done things were he living. She explained his policies and ambitions, and gave us, in brief, the story of how he had built this business . . . how his memories had spurred her on to erect this seventeen-story edifice which rears its mighty columns far above the streets of Chicago . . . a monument to a great merchant, Charles Netcher.

YOU CAN IMAGINE how this enthused and inspired our buyers! You can imagine how eager they were to do a most outstanding job, because this was a direct assignment from our president, Mollie Netcher Newbury. Every nook and corner of the market was searched for desirable goods . . . and fortune seemed to favor the courageous and far-sighted. At the time these plans were adopted there was a slight depression in the wholesale market. The country had had more than a seasonable amount of summer heat, with the result that manufacturers and jobbers did not move their fall and winter stocks as rapidly as they had anticipated. Some were willing to convert at least a part of this new merchandise into ready cash. We grasped every opportunity! NOW we bring these savings to you.

. . . of Charles Netcher the late Elbert Hubbard said: "Mr. Charles Netcher discovered that instead of people wanting things very cheap they wanted good things at moderate prices . . ." and we of Netcher's Boston Store have always adhered closely to the principles that were laid down by the founder himself.

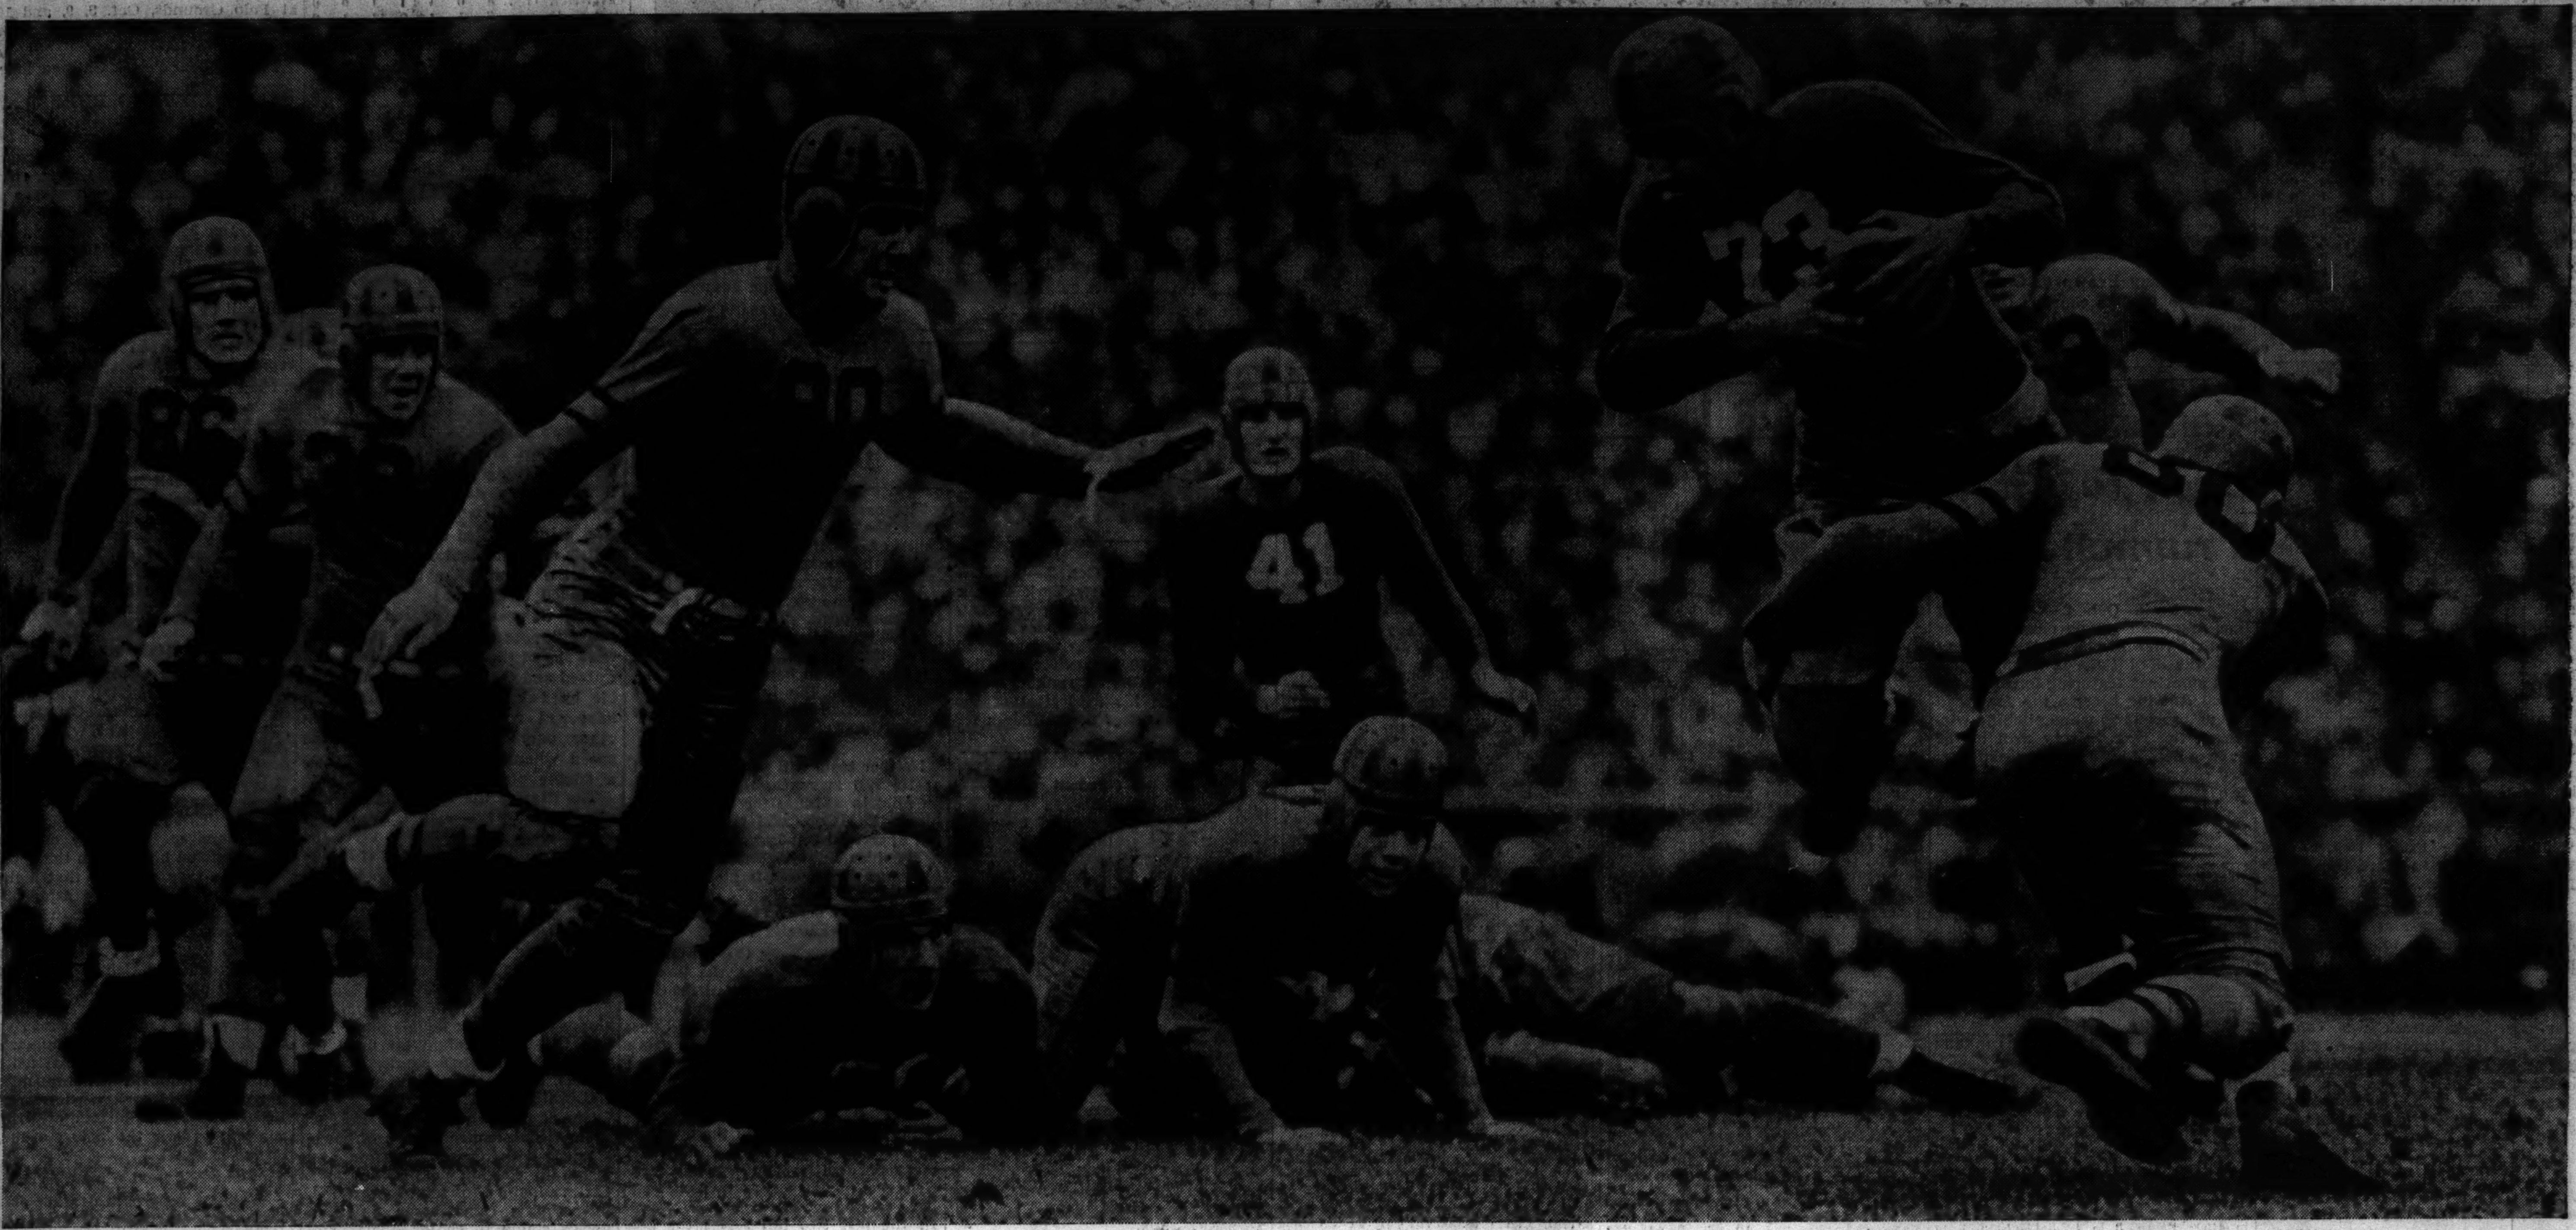
NEBRASKA'S PASSES UPSET MINNESOTA, 14-9

MICHIGAN BEATEN; OHIO, NORTHWESTERN, NOTRE DAME WIN

BADGERS GO BOBBIN' ALONG ON THE COMEBACK TRAIL



Wisconsin is on the way back, they say. Yesterday's 12 to 0 victory over Marquette is Exhibit No. 1 in the plaintiff's case. Right Half Back Malesevich (No. 73), who played a major role in Wisconsin's second touchdown, got away for a short gain in the second period, but was hauled down by Quarter Back Leysenaar (No. 80) of Marquette. Other players (left to right) are No. 86, Czernecki; No. 39, Niles; No. 90, Lumb, and No. 60, Williams, all of Marquette; and No. 41, Gradisnik of Wisconsin. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

MICHIGAN STATE TRIUMPHS, 19-14, BEFORE 71,800

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 2.—Michigan fight was inadequate against Michigan State might and the Spartans from East Lansing today won a blood and thunder football game, the like of which hasn't been seen by the present generation of students at Ann Arbor. The score was 19 to 14, but it hardly represents the margin of superiority for the victorious eleven.

This was State's fourth straight triumph over Michigan, the first time the Wolverines have lost four in a row to any opponent since the turn of the century. Considering the tenderness of the season, the Spartans played brilliant football. Their timing was right, their blocking effective. Their machine like precision at times was almost too mechanical. When they really turned on the power, the Wolverines were a lot of disorganized kids trying to stop the flywheel of a powerhouse with bare hands and belting bodies.

Wolverines Are Promising.

A record opening day crowd of 71,800 saw the battle. The Michigan partisans were silent as they marched back to town through the gorgeous tapestry of autumnal foliage, but nobody was crabbing the play of their warriors. Stronger teams than Michigan probably will lose to Michigan State before gridiron cleats are hung up for the year.

Michigan's 1937 eleven will be no Big Ten doormat. Defensively the team is bright, brave, and belligerent. Repeatedly it stopped State today in the shadows of its own goal. And Michigan today introduced a young man named Hercules Renda, who is going to terrify opponents somewhere along the route. Renda runs, blocks, and catches passes like a seasoned expert, although this is his first year of intercollegiate football.

State Threatens Early

Michigan gave the stronger eleven from East Lansing all the fight and fire it had, but there were too many guns on State's side and the Spartans fired ammunition of too heavy calibre. With the exception of a few moments in the third quarter and again in the

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 2.—Two sustained offensives—one in the first quarter and another in the fourth—gave the University of Wisconsin a 12 to 0 victory over Marquette today at Camp Randall. A crowd of 31,000 sat through a chilly afternoon of gray skies and autumn mists while one of football's most spirited intrastate rivalries was renewed.

That first drive began when Roy Bellin intercepted a Marquette pass on his own 25 yard line. It ended when Vince Gavre sprinted wide around his right end for four yards and a touchdown. The advance was punctuated by Howie Weiss' two sprightly runs, one of 18 yards and the other 17, the latter setting up the ball on the Marquette five yard line.

Gradisnik Goes Over.

The march toward the other touchdown began from Marquette's 47 yard line, where a punt had gone out of bounds. This drive was marked by two sparkling plays—one a forward lateral pass combination that gained 18 yards and the other an end run for 12 yards and a touchdown by Tony Gradisnik.

The outstanding factor in the game was Wisconsin's line play. Time and again the crimson clad forwards surged through like an unbroken wave as Marquette attempted to pass, run, or kick. The Hilltop passers were driven 15, 20, sometimes 25 yards behind the line of scrimmage, where they were forced to throw with a desperate inaccuracy. Marquette was able to complete only five of these passes out of 23 attempts for a gain of 29 yards.

Badgers Rush Kickers.

The Hilltop kickers likewise were harried relentlessly by the Badger forwards. Repeatedly they swung their feet almost in the faces of their charging foes. At the last possible moment the kicks would clear. As a result Marquette was able to average only 34 yards on punts.

It was in handling Marquette's running plays, however, that the Wisconsin line's superiority stood out most emphatically.

Marquette's running game netted exactly no yards. In 20 attempts they gained 23 yards and lost the same amount.

Reggie Coldagelli, upon whom the Hilltoppers had been counting, carried the ball three times for a 19

OHIO DRIVE AND PASS DEFEAT PURDUE, 13 TO 0

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Columbus, O., Oct. 2.—The jinx which Ohio State football elevens have exercised over Purdue teams since 1919 rose out of the sod of Ohio stadium once more this afternoon as the Buckeyes defeated the Boilermakers, 13 to 0. It was the inaugural game of the 1937 Western conference season. A crowd of 49,643 saw the battered Purdue players go home shaking their heads over this hex which has not permitted them to score a single point during the six games they have played Ohio State in 18 years.

In fairness to Ohio State, and in warning to their future foes, however, the Buckeyes did not rely on the aforesaid jinx to accomplish their second victory of the season today. It was a stronger football team, playing more alert football, which outplayed Purdue.

The Boilermakers' only real drive of the day was consummated in the final minutes of the third quarter, when they went to the Ohio State's 24 yard line. On the next play, however, Dick Nardi, Buckeye senior right half back, intercepted a pass by Cecil Isbell to frustrate their scoring intentions.

Nardi Starts Drive for Score.

It was an interception by this same Nardi which bloomed into a 69 yard parade and a touchdown in the third quarter. The Boilermakers, who had made a great stand to halt an Ohio drive within two feet of their goal at the end of the first half, could not withstand the Buckeye power, Nardi finally carrying the ball over. In the fourth quarter Fred Zadworney, Cleveland sophomore, intercepted another Purdue pass and dashed to the Purdue 19 yard line before he was overhauled. On the ensuing third down Mike Kabealo threw a pass to Fred Crow in the end zone for the second Ohio touchdown.

Alex Schoenbaum, giant tackle from Huntington, W. Va., place kicked the extra point. Schoenbaum made two attempts at field goals in the second quarter, but failed to make either.

The statistics tell the story. Ohio

N. U. Routs Iowa State, 33-0; Swisher Scores Three Times

Northwestern flashed a strong running and passing attack to overpower Iowa State, 33 to 0, in the opening game of the season at Dyche stadium before 30,000 yesterday.

Bob Swisher, who was ineligible last year, celebrated his return to the squad by scoring three of the Wildcats' five touchdowns, one of them on a 60 yard return of a punt in the fourth quarter. He scored twice in the second quarter, first on a 1 yard smash at the opening of the period and again on a 23 yard sprint just before the end of the half. Capt. Don Heap and Bernie Jefferson made the other touchdowns. Jefferson's came on the most thrilling play of the game, an 85 yard dash with the kickoff at the start of the second half. Heap scored the Wildcats' first touchdown of the year on a 21 yard reverse midway in the first period.

Iowa State Offense Halted.

Iowa State could make little progress on running plays, but had a constant threat in the passing of Everett Kischer, 150 pound junior quarter back.

The Cyclones' strongest advance of the day was to Northwestern's 25 yard line, accomplished by a 22 yard pass from Kischer to Half Back Al Waite late in the fourth period.

Although Northwestern's regulars carried the brunt of the attack, several sophomores turned in capable performances. Jack Ryan, in his debut as a full back, made 37 yards in 10 attempts. He also kicked two points after touchdowns. Other sophomores who indicated that they will be of use to the Wildcats in the defense of the Big Ten title were George McGurn, full back; Ted Grefe and Bob Daly, ends, and Nick Cutlich, tackle.

Heap Runs 21 Yards.

The Wildcats pushed over their first touchdown midway in the first quarter on a drive that started from their own 47 yard line, Heap culminating the attack with a 21 yard reverse off tackle for a touchdown. Ryan place kicked for the extra point.

Swisher scored the second touchdown on the first play of the second quarter on a drive from the one yard line. The touchdown was set up on a march that started from Northwestern's 35 yard line. Nick Conteas' attempt for the extra point was blocked.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Costly fumbling by both teams just when opportunities seemed to be beckoning to them marked a scoreless tie between Illinois and De Paul in an otherwise well played and hard fought game here today. The Illini and Blue Demons each lost the ball to their opponents three times, the misplay in each instance proving expensive.

Berner's fumble to Chesney early in the third period on the Illinois 35 yard line started the Illini off on the wrong foot, but they came to life sensationally when only three minutes of the game remained.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 2.—Notre Dame's McCarthys, McCormicks, and O'Reillys gave the Bulldogs from Drake university quite a going over at the 50th annual opening of the local football season today.

Bruised and battered, but game to the last second, the Bulldogs paraded sadly out of Notre Dame stadium at dusk behind their 60 tootin' musicians on the short end of a 21 to 0 score. It could easily have been much more one sided because there was a dash and a fire in this new Notre Dame team that was pleasing to its thousands of followers in the throng of 41,000.

Irish Go on March.

All afternoon Irishmen McCarthy, McCormick, and O'Reilly led a dangerous attack. Some mistakes were made, but these merely prevented the Bulldogs from falling into an overwhelming defeat. There was a fumble by Simonich on Drake's five yard line, which, no doubt, cost the Irish one touchdown. Drake intercepted two Notre Dame passes almost on its own goal line that prevented additional scoring. But these incidents only added to the thrills of the grand opening.

The game was played beneath low hanging clouds, but there was no rain. This made playing conditions perfect. And the good physical condition of the players made it possible for both teams to throw their full strength into the struggle when necessary.

The statistics reveal how truly the game was played. They were proportionate to the final score. Notre Dame rolled up 11 first downs to five for Drake and established a 9 to 2 bulge on first downs from rushing. The Irish compiled 301 yards from scrimmage to 124 for the Bulldogs. Running plays netted 278 of these yards, while Drake made 95 of its 124 yards through the air.

Drake's Kicking Is Superior.

The Bulldogs had a decided edge in the kicking department as a result of Bob Huston's long spirals, which got Drake out of danger on several occa-

Cubs' Bats Get Busy; Defeat Cardinals, 5-1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Power at bat, an item missing from the Cubs' répertoire while they were sluffing off their pennant prospects, was relocated yesterday before 3,275 chilly witnesses. The second placers collected enough hits off Bob Weiland to frame a two run first inning. In the eighth they hammered the lengthy southpaw again, this time for three runs. Thus a 5 to 1 triumph was compiled over the Cardinals, making the sixteenth favorable decision over the Gas House Gang this season.

What the Cubs didn't do with their bats Curt Davis did with his pitching arm. The former Philly performed with so much skill that after eight innings of bat waving the visitors could show only four scattered hits for their efforts. In the ninth, however, possibly because Curt was slightly winded as the result of participation in the second Cub scoring episode, the Cards punctured him with a pair of hits and dodged a shutout. The exhibition was season's victory No. 10 for Davis.

Two Runs for Four Hits.

The Cubs burned up four hits while brewing their two runs in the first inning. Hack opened with a roller which caused so much confu-

FUMBLED PUNTS SET STAGE FOR HUSKER SCORES

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 2.—Minnesota's Golden Gophers, cumbersome and lethargic in their running attack and helpless in the air after a first period touchdown parade, stumbled to defeat today before a fighting Nebraska eleven.

Twice Minnesota lost the ball by fumbles, and from both these opportunities Nebraska struck through the air with a precision which riddled the Gopher secondary and produced the touchdowns by which the Cornhuskers achieved their startling victory, 14 to 9.

Thirty-six thousand jammed Memorial stadium. No Nebraska eleven, in recent years, had whipped the mighty men from the north. And these thousands had no premonition that today's result would be different from the pattern of other contests.

Huskers Rally Twice.

But Nebraska's scarlet clad warriors, who fought furiously to check the Minnesota drives, had speed to bulwark their courage. That speed, strategically used and accurately adjusted to the thrilling passes of Johnny Howell and Harris Andrews, twice brought the Cornhuskers from behind and struck down a Minnesota machine for which a national championship already had been claimed.

Howell led the first attack, which gave Nebraska a half time lead of 7 to 6. Then, after Horace Bell, Minnesota guard, had place kicked to send the Gophers ahead, 9 to 7, in the fourth period, Andrews fired the passes which brought Nebraska its greatest triumph in recent campaigns.

Three minutes remained to play after Nebraska had established its lead. And as those minutes slowly ticked away on the huge electric clock Nebraska's fans, scarcely believing that victory was to be theirs, stood roaring encouragement to the Huskers.

They Play for Keeps.

Their apprehension was well founded. They must have remembered last year when after another such gallant defense Andy Uram re-

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Manager Jimmy Dykes sent Johnny Whitehead after third place here today and the big Texan came back with it in the form of an 8 to 2 victory over the Browns' in the series opener.

The triumph assured the Sox of at least a tie for third. Cleveland, victorious over Detroit today, must win over the Tigers tomorrow while the White Sox are losing two to the Browns in order to share third with Dyke's young men.

To prevent this, Dykes has nominated Thornton Lee and Bill Dietrich or Vernon Kennedy to do the pitching tomorrow.

Browns Outhit Sox.

The Browns outhit the Sox today, but the Sox's attack was concentrated. First there was a pitcher named Bill Miller. Bill worked four innings and the Sox came up with six of their runs. Bill Trotter then took over and worked four innings, finally giving way to Pinch Hitter Harry Davis who whacked home the second and final marker for the Browns in the eighth. Emil Bildilli, a southpaw, finished up.

Eleven hits were made off Whitehead, three getting a run home in the fourth and a like number resulting in an eighth inning marker.

The victory was the Sox's 16th in 20 games against the Browns. It was Whitehead's 11th of the year.

Whitehead got himself into trouble before he could get warmed up to his task. With one out in the first inning, Silber walked and Bell got a lucky base hit when his hard smash hopped over Hayes' head for a single. Walker then fumbled the ball and the runners pulled up at third and second. The threat ended when Clift and Allen popped out.

Miller, the Browns' pitcher, was not so fortunate. He retired the Sox in the first and proceeded to get the first two men to face him in the second. But Bonura, third batter in the inning, received a pitch in the back and Conners followed with a hard smash to Carey, which went for a single. Sewell uncorked a well-whacked single, scoring Bonura and Conners. Whitehead popped out to end the inning.

Johnny Settles Down.

Whitehead settled down after his first inning scare, experiencing no trouble in the second and third. His mates weren't as easily subdued and went out to get a run in the third and three more in the fourth. A pass to Kreevich and singles by Walker and Appling accounted for the one tally, while a home run by Conners, a pass to Sewell, singles by Whitehead and Hayes and passes to Walker and Appling, the latter forcing in Hayes, accounted for the cluster of three.

An error by Hayes in the fourth played a part in breaking up any thoughts Whitehead may have had of achieving a shut out. Vosmik hit to Hayes and when Jackie's low throw got by Bonura, Vosmik pulled up at second. Clift went out, but Allen dropped a single in short right, Vosmik pulling up at third and scoring a moment later on Barkley's single off Conners' glove.

Trotter took over the Browns' pitching and got the side out without trouble in the fifth, but in the sixth Hayes walked and, after Kreevich had sacrificed, Walker hit the ball upon the roof of the right field pavilion to give the Sox an 8 to 1 lead.

Conners Stop Rallies.

Two Brown hits and a pass were wasted in the fifth when Conners made a nice stop of Allen's smash and stepped on third for the final out. A fast double play started by Conners knocked an enemy uprising out of kilter in the seventh.

The Browns' second and final run was the result of three hits, a safe bunt by Allen, an infield hit by Barkley and Davis' pinch single in the eighth.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 2.—[U. P.]—Heavy rainfall today forced the postponement of the Tulane-Auburn football game until Monday.

AT CUB'S 92D VICTORY—ONE GAME TO GO

Jimmy Brown of Cardinals slows up in his dash to first base in sixth inning after Cub First Baseman Rip Collins touches the bag for the putout. This play in yesterday's game at Wrigley field went, Billy Herman to Collins. The Cubs won, 5 to 1, for their 92d victory and will try for another in the season's windup today.

Run No. 2 for the Cubs. Frank Demaree slides in under Rookie Catcher Herb Bremer of the Cardinals in first inning. He was on second when Phil Cavarretta singled to center, which gave him just enough time to score.

Yanks Come Back to Life; Triumph, 11-3

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Looking like American league champions for the first time in weeks, the Yankees beat the Red Sox, 11 to 3, today, with an attack featuring four homers.

Red Ruffing became the American league's second 20 game pitching winner of the year. Every man in the Yankee lineup hit safely at least once. Lou Gehrig, by hitting a homer with two mates aboard in the sixth, and a single in the seventh, collected 200 hits for the eighth season of his career.

COALS, GIANTS TO SETTLE CITY SEMI-PRO TITLE

The independent baseball championship of Chicago will be the prize today when the Spencer Coals, champions of the Chicago Semi-pro league, and the American Giants, co-holders of the title in the Negro American league, play a double-header at 4200 North Central avenue. The first game will start at 1:30 p. m.

Interest of the fans will focus on the effort of William [Lefty] Stevens, the Coal's pitching star, to extend his 20 game winning streak. Stevens already holds the semi-pro consecutive victory record, and if he wins today he will break a record set in 1920 by Jim Vaughn, when he won twenty games in one year for the Beloit Fairies.

Stevens will be opposed by Ted Trent, star of the American Giants' staf.

Sox and Cubs Not at Full Strength for City Series

The post-season city series, which until the two teams got into the habit of playing spring exhibitions was a big event, will start next Wednesday afternoon, with the Cubs and the White Sox doing their act at Comiskey park. The second game also will be played there; the next three, if necessary, at Wrigley field; and if a decision hasn't been reached by that time the internecine strife will be carried back to the south side for battles No. 6 and No. 7.

Neither team will go into the event at its full strength, thus providing an alibi in advance for the eventual loser. The Cubs will perform without Shortstop Bill Jurges, crippled by a shoulder injury. The Sox, unless Manager Jim Dykes is plotting, will not have Monty Stratton to assist them in their desire to give the north siders another beating.

It always has been the contention of north side fans that the Sox invariably pin back the ears of the Cubs only because the latter are not vitally interested in the outcome. The Cubs, explain their admirers, always are weary as the result of trying to win a pennant and losing it.

The Sox, having learned by experience, are looking upon the event as an easy way in which to pile up some memories for the winter, not to mention the winning share which they have carried off 14 times in 20 series. In the last two fall series the Sox captured eight games, the Cubs none.

The Cubs' starting pitchers, subject to change, will be Tex Carleton, Larry French, Curt Davis, and Bill Lee. The Sox mound work probably will be shared by Vernon Kennedy, Thornton Lee, Bill Dietrich, and possibly Stratton, regarded as about the toughest pitcher in the American league.

NEWARK DEFEATS COLUMBUS, 8 TO 1, FOR 1ST VICTORY

Columbus, O., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Newark's international league champions blasted three Columbus hurlers for 11 hits and an 8 to 1 victory tonight, their first triumph in four starts in the little world series. Columbus American association champion, won the first three games played at Newark. Joe Beggs, Newark hurler, allowed Columbus eight hits and was the first starting pitcher in the series to finish.

Columbus lost more than the game and a chance to sweep the series, for Field Captain Jimmy Jordan, second baseman, suffered a fractured right leg in the eighth as Catcher Hershberger collided with him on a force play at second. A crowd of 10,201 saw tonight's contest.

sion around first base that he beat it out for a hit. He went to third on Herman's single to left. Demaree singled past Mize, Hack scoring and Herman taking third. On O'Dea's third strike a double steal was attempted and it wound up with Herman being doubled off third. Cavarretta's single to center sent Demaree over the plate, after which Collins grounded to Brown.

The Cubs were offered another scoring opportunity in the third, but were shy of the needed hit. Demaree walked and O'Dea survived on a fumble by Pepper Martin. This much happened with one out. The two other outs came with unexpected speed when Cavarretta tapped into a double play.

The first of the few scattered hits off Davis was a single by Brown after Moore had fanned to start the opening inning. Bremer opened the third with a single to right, only to be doubled on Weiland's poke to Herman.

Mize Gets One in Fourth.

The third hit was Mize's single to left with one gone in the fourth. He found no helpers. Pepper Martin opened the fifth with a hit and was stopped by another double play. This was the last Cardinal hit until the ninth when Moore's single, Brown's double, and an infield out presented the visitors with their run.

The eighth, in which the Cubs gave their second demonstration of power, started with Cavarretta's out but began to develop possibilities when Collins doubled to right. Frey fanned, but Collins came home on Stainback's single to center. Tuck stole second and Davis' single sent him across the plate. Davis went to second on Padgett's wild return throw and scored on Hack's double down the left field line.

Clay Bryant of the Cubs and Lon Warneke of the Cardinals will have the honor of assisting in the National league's final today at Wrigley field. They have been named the starting pitchers.

The Cubs met yesterday and decided how to split their city and second place world series money. Twenty-seven full shares were voted. All except one share will go to 21 players, Manager Charley Grimm, Secretary Bob Lewis, and the two coaches and Trainer Andy Lotshow. One half of the remaining share will be given to Joe Bernardi, clubhouse boy, and the other half split between Players Reynolds, Logan, Epperly, and Higbe. Purses were collected for the bat boy and clubhouse assistant.

Frank Demaree, whose goal is 200 hits for the season, made one in the first inning and none thereafter, leaving him two shy of the desired total. He was the producer of 212 hits last season.

GIANT FANS GAIN HEART OVER THIS WORLD SERIES

Melton and Hubbell Chief Hopes to Stop Yanks.

World Series Facts

CONTESTANTS—New York Yankees, champions of the American league, vs. New York Giants, champions of the National league.

DATES—First two games at Yankee stadium, Oct. 6 and 7; next three at Polo Grounds, Oct. 8, 9, and 10; remaining games at Yankee stadium, Oct. 11 and 12.

TIME—12:30 o'clock Chicago time.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—New York's two major league champions, the brutal Yanks and the foxy Giants, next Wednesday afternoon will square off in the first game of the 1937 world series, the 34th world series involving the champions of the American and National leagues as now constituted.

It will be the second successive all-New York world series and the fifth in history between the New York representatives.

Most of the season American league partisans and many National league fans have been expressing sympathy for the team which would win the National league title and thus have to expose itself to the murderous home run sockers, the Yanks. The Yanks at this late date still remain favorites to take the series, even more readily than they did last fall, when they were forced to go six games. But as the time for teeing off approaches Giant partisans are taking heart.

Hubbell Wins First Game.

Last year the Giants had only one pitcher whom they felt was capable of stopping the Yanks. Carl Hubbell lived up to expectations, winning over Ruffing in the first game, 6 to 1, but dropping the fourth to Pearson, 5 to 2. This year Giant followers are steamed up over another lefty, Rookie Cliff Melton. There are many who believe that Manager Bill Terry will start the elongated hill billy in the opener. They say they are sure that Melton, who was red hot in the August-September drive which saw the Giants come from seven games behind the Cubs on Aug. 3 to a comfortable final margin, can stop Gehrig and Dickey and possibly Di Maggio. That done, the National leaguers say, the Giants will have the Yanks in a panic, very soft for Hubbell and Hal Schumacher.

The Yanks are certain that neither Melton nor Hubbell will stop Di Maggio, Gehrig and Dickey, who on their 1937 records are the greatest trio of run batters in ir the history of major league baseball.

It's a Different Gomez, Folks.

Yankee schemers are rather chuckling at the tendency of Giant dopesters to look upon the current Gomez as the same so-so senor of last fall. And if they don't correct this notion they probably will receive a shock. The Yankees and American league foes who have sampled of El Goofy's 1937 wares say that he's so much better than he was last year that he might easily be suspected of being another gent entirely.

Hubbell hasn't been invincible in the later half of 1937, whereas he was just that and nothing less most of 1936. On the other hand, Charley Ruffing, who lost to Hubbell in the opener last year, has been having his troubles in September, due, it is said, to a cold in his back.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Chicago Maroons were outclassed today as Vanderbilt rolled up an 18 to 0 victory in the first intersectional game of the 1937 campaign in the south.

Scarcely more than 5,000 persons braved rain, which fell in torrents most of the afternoon, to see Chicago make its first appearance in the south. The rain nullified whatever hopes the Maroons may have had in the air and their ground game lacked the necessary power, although they had a weight advantage.

Chicago advanced the ball by its own power beyond midfield only twice, both times on Commodore mistakes, and both these opportunities were allowed to go to seed. Vanderbilt played a far inferior game to the one exhibited against Kentucky a week ago.

Vanderbilt Substitutes Often.

Vanderbilt probably could have added to its score, but substituted frequently. The Commodores made 20 first downs, 12 of them in the first half—during which time the Maroons were unable to make a single first down. Late in the final period, when Vanderbilt was using a team of second and third string men, the Maroons made their yardage four times.

The Commodores scored in each of the first three periods. Jimmy Huggins made the first touchdown late in the opening quarter. After a drive that started on the Maroons' 38 yard mark, had moved down to the 27, Huggins took the ball off left tackle, cut back and outran Capt. Bob Fitzgerald of the Maroons to the goal line. Plunkett's drop kick was wide.

The second touchdown, scored early in the second period, climaxed a 51-yard drive and was achieved in nine plays. The drive ended when Bert Marshall, substituting for Huggins, raced around right end and cut back for six yards and a touchdown. The feature of the drive was a 22 yard run by Huggins which put the ball on the 10 yard mark. Ray's place kick for extra point was low.

56 Yards to Touchdown.

The Commodores marched 56 yards in seven plays to score their last touchdown. Huggins ran through a hole at right tackle for nine yards to cross the goal line. Hardy Housman, sophomore full back, who, with Huggins, did the ball carrying in the touchdown drive, tried a place kick for the extra point, but it was low.

Lunny Hollins, Vanderbilt substitute quarter back, made a 75 yard run late in the second period, but a clipping penalty on Greer Ricketson, tackle, in taking out the last Maroon between Hollins and the goal, nullified it.

Chicago took the ball on Vanderbilt's 29 yard line on a clipping penalty late in the first period, but the Maroons lost 20 yards in four plays.

John Davenport, a reserve back, reeled off Chicago's longest run, a 25 yard sprint, in the final seconds. He collected a total of 31 yards for the afternoon. Sollie Sherman topped the Maroons with 38 yards gained, but lost 11 from scrimmage.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The University of North Carolina scored 20 to 0 victory today to spoil homecoming for North Carolina State college. A crowd of 15,000 watched North Carolina score two touchdowns in the second period and another in the fourth.

Crowell Little went four yards off tackle to score the first touchdown after George Watson had gone 28 yards off tackle.

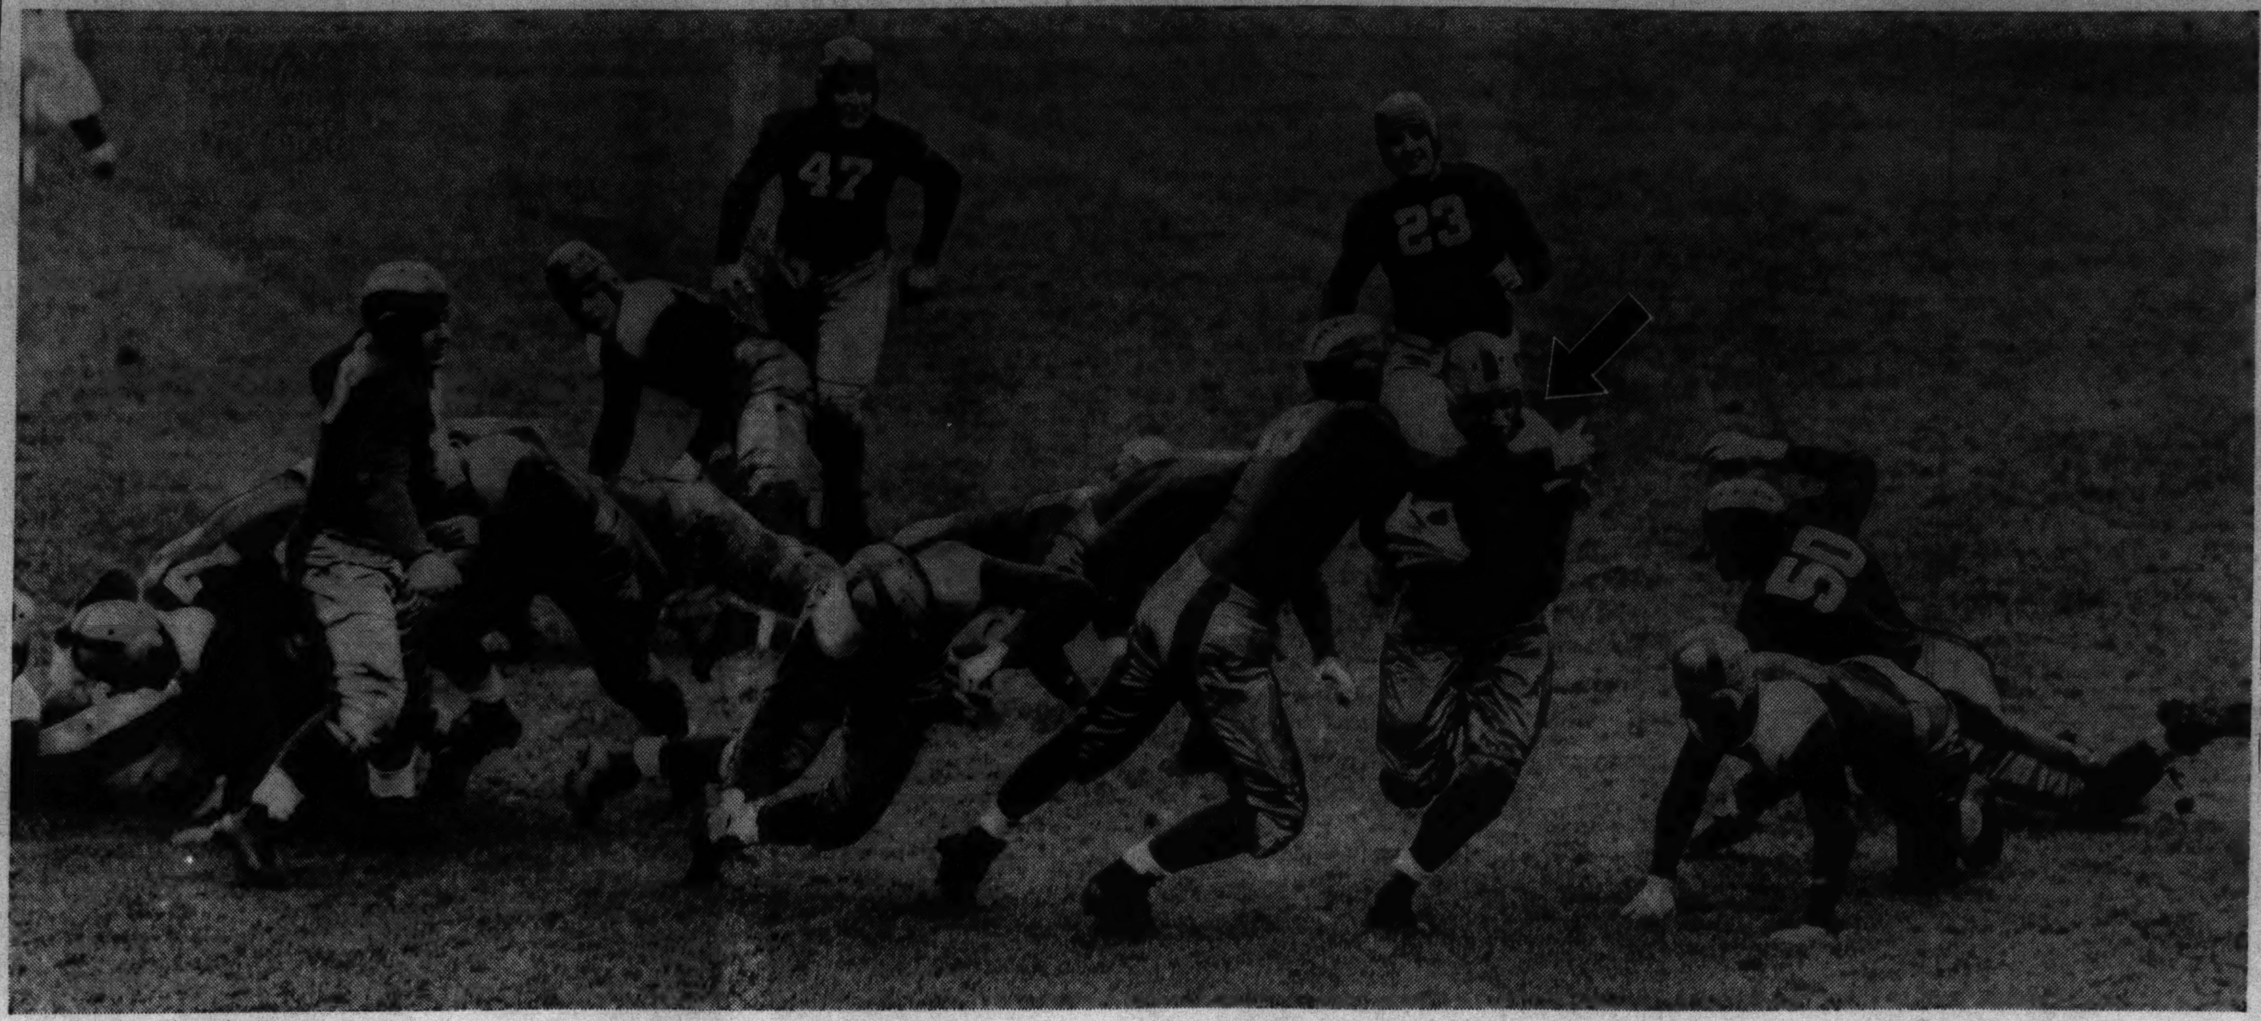
Six downs after the kickoff Tom Burnette passed to End Andy Bershak, for 35 yards and the second touchdown. Watson again paved the way for the score when he went 22 yards through tackle.

In the last quarter Burnette ran 26 yards off tackle to score.

Earlham Whips Holbrook, 19-0, with Last Half Rally

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 2.—[U. P.]—Held scoreless for the first two quarters, Earlham college pushed over three touchdowns in the second half to defeat Holbrook [Ohio], 19 to 0.

NOTRE DAME OFF ON FIFTIETH FOOTBALL CAMPAIGN



Mario Tonelli, Notre Dame full back, picks up yardage against Drake as the Irish open their fiftieth football season with a 21 to 0 victory at Notre Dame. Ready to halt his progress is John Geertsema of Drake. At the left Joe Benoir, whose 73 is partly hidden, blocks a Bulldog tackler. Others whose numbers can be seen are Louis Zontini (23) and Charles Riffle (50) of Notre Dame. Tonelli acocunted for of the three Notre Dame touchdowns.

State made 13 first downs against Purdue's 9, each making four by passing. Of Purdue's 16 attempted passes, five were completed and six intercepted, while the Buckeyes made good on eight of the 14 they tried. In net yardage gained on rushing and passing Ohio state led, 260 to 96.

A Punting Duel.

The early part of the first quarter saw Kabealo and Cecil Isbell in a punting duel, with the former's efforts keeping Purdue deep in its own territory. After seven minutes, the Buckeyes finally connected on a triple lateral, Rabb to McDonald to Kabealo. The play yielded twenty-six yards and a first down on the Purdue 30 yard mark, but the Boilermakers held.

Ohio State made another move in the closing minutes of the first quarter. Wasylik threw a pass to Rabb good for sixteen yards and a first down on the Boilermaker 30 yard line. Two plays later, the same pair connected for an eighteen yard toss which brought the ball up to Purdue's 12 yard line. Wedebrook then fumbled for a six yard loss. Wasylik regained three of these, and the quarter ended with Ohio State holding the ball on Purdue's 20 yard stripe.

Schoenbaum then missed the first of his two place kicks. Ohio State regained the ball and launched a new offensive, but it died on the 23 yard line, when Schoenbaum failed again on an attempted place kick.

Still Another March.

Ohio opened still another drive with two and a half minutes left in the first half. McDonald intercepted Cecil Isbell's forward pass on the Purdue 35 yard stripe and ran to the 6 yard mark. Fordham carried the ball on all four downs, but was short two feet of a touchdown after his fourth try.

Purdue made its first serious offensive gesture of the game at the outset of the third quarter, with the Isbells and Tony Ippolito, former Chicago prep star, bringing the ball to Ohio State's 44 yard line.

Nardi then halted the drive by intercepting Cecil Isbell's pass on his own 31 yard line and running it back 16 yards to his 47. Fordham was stopped, but Sarkkinen took a pass from Kabealo, and dashed to Purdue's 18 yard stripe before he was downed. Kabealo, Fordham, and Nardi then smashed their way to a first down on the 5 yard line. On third down, Nardi went over his tackle for a touchdown. Mastasko came in to try for the extra point, but his kick was low, being partly blocked.

Another Interception.

Another intercepted Purdue pass became Ohio State's second touchdown after six minutes of play in the final quarter. Verberg made the pass, but Zadworney fielded it on the Ohio 45 yard stripe and was rushing along toward a touchdown when Woltman, Purdue tackle, overtook him at the Boilermaker 19 yard line. Kabealo and Fordham collected five yards. On third down, Kabealo flung a pass to Crow, who caught it while kneeling in the end zone. Schoenbaum's successful place kick made it 13 to 0.

With four minutes to play, Ohio State's power again asserted itself in a 49 yard march which saw Wasylik cross the Boilermakar goal line, only to be called back on a Buckeye offside. Bill Phillips, junior half, was the hero of this drive.

sions. Drake's average for 8 kicks was 38.6 yards. Notre Dame's average on six efforts was 21.3 yards. Huston's individual average was 52.8 yards in five attempts, most of them from his own goal line.

Jack McCarthy, by reason of his 85 yard touchdown jaunt, led in the individual averages, running 107 yards in ten attempts, or an average of 10.7 yards a trip. Bunny McCormick was next in this department with an average gain of 8.1 yards for 12 trips. His total was 98 yards.

The game was played chiefly on the ground. And Notre Dame's ground game was superior. The Irish broke off tackle on straight running plays with McCormick and McCarthy, as well as a sophomore left half back, Louis Zontini, driving through wide holes for big chunks of yardage. Then, just when the Bulldogs thought their defense was set to meet these assaults, McCormick would cut back to burst through an opening at center.

When Drake overshifted to meet the Notre Dame strong side attack, Quarter Backs Chuck O'Reilly and Andy Puplis called for a speedy reverse. And only on a few occasions did the Irish forwards fail to do their designed jobs.

Notre Dame Threats Fail.

Notre Dame's point costing mistakes came after the Irish had sailed into an early lead of 7 to 0 at the beginning of the second quarter. They had the Bulldogs on the run throughout the first period, but were unable to score. They went into the second quarter with the ball in their possession on the Drake five yard line. It required no great effort for them to push over the first touchdown. Simonich tried to smash his way through center, but could not gain. Then the Irishmen took the situation in hand. McCarthy, after faking a run around right end, passed to McCormick, who caught the ball in the end zone.

That was the end of the scoring in the first half. Once in action in the third quarter, this newest Notre Dame team began to click like great Notre Dame teams of the past.

The Irish got their dander up after the Bulldogs had made their one serious threat to score. The ball was in play in midfield when Pug Manders, the Drake full back, passed to Suter, who grabbed the ball on the Irish 40 yard line. Following Phil Manders' blocking, Suter dashed down to the Notre Dame 11 yard line before McCormick and O'Reilly banged him out of bounds.

McCarthy Breaks Away.

Then the Notre Dame stampede was on. They threw the Bulldogs back on each of the next three plays. The Drake scoring threat was ended when Joe Kuharich, in at right guard for Notre Dame, intercepted Pug Manders' pass. He was brought down on the Irish 15 yard line.

The next play was perfect. McCarthy burst through his right tackle. In three strides he was steaming along at full speed. He raced down the right side of the field for 85 yards for a touchdown. Pesetski followed him desperately on the long run, but he never got close enough to attempt a tackle.

Five minutes later the Irish were on the march again. Another one of Pug Manders' passes turned out to be a wild pitch and dropped into the arms of McCarthy. He was run out of bounds on Drake's 35 yard line.

Next to come along was Irishman McCormick. He sped around his left end for 15 yards, making it first down on the Bulldogs' 20 yard line. Mario Tonnelli spied a gaping hole at center. He drove through it for 17 yards before Woltz tackled him. He immediately rammed right guard for the additional three yards. O'Reilly accounted for two of the points after touchdown and Puplis the other.

The Bulldogs still were growling and fighting when the battle ended. But that wasn't enough to beat this Notre Dame team.

ARKANSAS AND TEXAS CHRISTIAN PLAY TO TIE, 7-7

Fayetteville, Ark., Oct. 2.—[U. P.]—The University of Arkansas, defending southwest conference champion, and Texas Christian university battled to a 7 to 7 tie today before 6,000.

Arkansas scored early in the period when Robbins passed 10 yards to Benton who lateraled to Hamilton. The latter took the ball on his 40 yard line and ran for a touchdown. Owens kicked extra point.

Late in the period O'Brien, Texas Christian quarter back passed his team to the 5 yard line. On a fourth down O'Brien, on a faked pass play, skipped around right end for a touchdown and then kicked the extra point.

CENTENARY, 7; S. M. U., 6.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Centenary shoved Southern Methodist about the cotton bowl today, winning, 7 to 6, over a team which dozed through several opportunities.

Centenary had the advantage throughout the contest, which was drab until the early part of the third period.

In that period Bynum hurled a long pass to Huddleston on the S. M. U. 43 yard line. Two plays carried the ball to the 7 yard line and Stone, a replacement, went over through the line. Clark kicked the extra point.

Midway of the fourth period Southern Methodist's air attack finally clicked. Crouch took Jack Morrison's short pass on the Centenary 20 yard line and eased over untouched.

OKLAHOMA, 6; RICE, 0.

Norman, Okla., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Oklahoma university's football team amazed 8,000 spectators by turning in a 6 to 0 victory over Rice, the favorite, today.

Muffling the Rice aerial attack, and themselves unleashing a short, sharp passing game, Oklahoma whipped over a touchdown in the first period, threatened periodically thereafter, and in the fading minutes, blocked a ground assault which carried Rice to the threshold of the Oklahoma goal.

The touchdown march, engineered by Jack Baer, and culminated by a 14 yard pass from him to Pete Smith, started on the Oklahoma 44 yard line and was marked by brief, behind the line passes from Baer to Merrell and Gene Corrotto.

GEORGIA WHIPS SOUTH CAROLINA GAMECOCKS, 13-7

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Georgia conquered South Carolina today, 13 to 7, before 15,000, striking twice in the second period.

Vassa Cate, sophomore back, went off tackle for 65 yards for the first touchdown and Sanford Vandiver went around end for four yards and the other a few minutes later.

CORNELL RACES OVER COLGATE ELEVEN, 40 TO 7

End Scores Three Times in Last Period.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Far above Cayuga's waters burst an almost unbelievable flood of touchdowns today. Two burst in the first period, another in the second and three more in the fourth as Cornell's football team swamped the once feared Red Raiders from Colgate by the almost unbelievable score of 40 to 7 before a stunned crowd of 15,000.

Colgate took a short lived lead early in the first quarter after recovering a wild Cornell pass from center. Ed Lalor tossed a touchdown pass good for 15 yards to Don Wemple. Red Chesbro kicked the extra point and the Cornell contingent yelled "hold 'em."

But the complexion of the game changed with lightning rapidity. Lalor dropped Elliot Hooper's kickoff and Vineichler, Cornell quarter back, recovered on Colgate's 25. Ken Brown ploughed over on two line bucks. Bob Rose kicked the extra point and the score was tied. Back came Cornell with reverses, passes and long runs, interspersed by a great one handed catch of a 20 yard pass by Holland, to rush to Colgate's three, from where Whit Baker drove over.

Thereafter it was a rout, with Cornell getting four more touchdowns, three of them by End Brud Holland in the final period. Lineups:

COLGATE [7].		CORNELL [40].
Ritchko	L.E.	Holland
Chesbro	L.T.	McKeever

Wemple	R. E.	Spang
A. Burke	Q. B.	Eichler

Touchdowns—Wemple, Brown, Baker, Rose [sub for Brown], Holland [3]. Points after touchdown—Rose [4], Chesbro.

YALE, 26; MAINE, 0.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Capt. Clint Frank led Yale to a 26 to 0 opening victory over the University of Maine eleven today. Except for a brief time in the first and third periods, when Yale scored all of its points, Maine was successful in stopping the Blue's attack.

Frank, showing the same form which brought him national prominence last year, gave Yale a 6 to 0 lead early in the game when he plunged over within the shadows of the goal posts, and in the third period threw long touchdown passes to Flick Hoxton and Kevin Rafferty for two additional scores.

PENN, 28; MARYLAND, 21.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Three touchdowns in the third period gave Pennsylvania a 28 to 21 victory over Maryland today in the former's football opener. A crowd of 30,000 saw Penn leave the field at the half trailing, 14 to 7.

PRINCETON WINS, 26 TO 0.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Princeton's football machine, despite some apparent weaknesses, rode over a fumbling Virginia eleven, 26 to 0, before a crowd of 15,000 in Palmer stadium today.

Jack White, veteran half back from Lebanon, Pa., led the Princeton attack. He scored two of the four touchdowns, picked up many yards through the line, and got away on one run of 74 yards. He also threw a forward to Eddie Givens for another score.

DARTMOUTH, 31; AMHERST, 7.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The 1936 Dartmouth half back team of Fred Hollingworth and Bob MacLeod, reunited for the first time this season, featured as the Indians whipped Amherst, 31 to 7.

KANSAS STATE LOSES.

Newton, Mass., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Boston college defeated Kansas State today, 21 to 7, in an intersectional battle before 15,000. It was Boston's second victory.

The Eagles scored two touchdowns in the opening period and, after Kansas State had scored its touchdown in the final period, retaliated by getting a third touchdown only a few seconds before the closing whistle.

ARMY, 21; CLEMSON, 6.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 2.—(AP)—On the strength of one blocked kick and another that was partially blocked, the Army football team today turned in a 21 to 6 conquest of Clemson college of South Carolina.

N. Y. U., 18; CARNEGIE, 14.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 2.—(AP)—New York university uncorked a smooth overhead attack today to defeat Carnegie Tech, 18 to 14, in the final two minutes of play. Bernard Bloom tossed a 53 yard pass into the arms of Joe Sivak for the winning touchdown.

NAVY, 32; CITADEL, 0.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Navy, checked in the first half by a stubborn band of southerners from the Citadel, cut loose with a strong offensive in the second half to whip the Carolinians, 32 to 0, before 15,000 today.

fourth the Wolverines were on the defensive all the way. The Michigan line, particularly the right side, had trouble holding the lightning swift cutbacks of the State backs and the ends frequently were unable to cope with the hard hitting State interference on sweeps.

State threatened to score two or three times in the first half, which ended with the ball in possession of the Spartans on Michigan's three yard line. The East Lansing boys lost no time, however, when play was resumed in the third quarter.

Ciolek's Brilliant Run.

State's first touchdown was the high spot of the conflict. Ritchie, Michigan left half back, punted out of bounds on State's 11 yard line. On the first play Eugene Ciolek of Michigan City, Ind., State half back, took the ball on a direct pass from center, faded back almost to the goal where he escaped Don Siegel's tackle and ran wide to the right. It looked as if all the red lights were against him, but he passed them one by one as they were changing. Two or three blockers sprang up from nowhere and escorted him to midfield.

From that point Ciolek was on his own until he reached Michigan's 20 yard line where it appeared that Art Valpey, Michigan's right end, would crowd him out of bounds. At this point Diehl, State's right end, came to his aid and knocked Valpey out of the play. Valpey ricocheted off to one side and spun around on the turf like a decapitated chicken while Ciolek raced over the goal line. Kovacich's try for the extra point was blocked by Siegel, who incidentally played a whale of a game at tackle all afternoon.

Michigan Drives to Goal.

State's touchdown didn't discourage Michigan, for the team came right back with its first sustained drive. Ritchie completed a pass to Nicholson on State's 28 yard line. Two plunges and a pass failed to bring a first down so Ritchie passed to Renda, who leaped high and fell for a first down on State's 15 yard line. Renda then broke off his left tackle, but slipped with a clear path to the goal after he had traveled seven yards. A 5 yard penalty practically nullified the gain. Renda went over left tackle for 4 and on the next play he caught a pass from Ritchie on the 3 yard line and dived over the goal inches from the west side line.

Trosko place kicked the extra point and Michigan led, 7 to 6.

State took the lead a minute or two later with almost ridiculous ease. Pearce returned Michigan's kickoff to the 27 yard line. Pingel, a flashy half back who is helping State to forget Al Agett, raced around right end to midfield. Pingel then tossed a long pass to Walter Nelson, a husky end, on the eight yard line and Nelson scored standing up after eluding Michigan's Fred Trosko. Nelson, from Hirsch High, Chicago, never played football until he entered Michigan State. Pearce converted and State was in front, 13 to 7.

Wolverines Again Take Lead.

Michigan forged to the lead early in the fourth period after an exchange of punts that gave the Wolverines the ball on State's 45 yard line. Trosko passed to Renda who ran five yards to State's 25 yard line. Trosko then chucked one to Quarterback Farmer on the eight yard line. Pingel, defensive half back, touched the ball, but Farmer grabbed it out of the air and moved to the 1 foot line from where he plunged over for a touchdown on the next play. Trosko placed kicked the extra point and Michigan was ahead, 14 to 13, in a game that had thousands blinking in astonishment.

State settled the issue for good, however, less than two minutes after Michigan's last score. Haney, State full back, lugged back the kickoff to his own 38 yard line. Pingel passed to Nelson for a first down on Michigan's 42 yard line.

It's Nelson Again.

Pingel then flipped another to Nelson, who caught it over Ritchie's head on the 15 yard line. He rattled Renda's jaw with a workmanlike straight arm and raced down the east side of the goal. Siegel, for the second time, blocked Pearce's try for point and the score was Michigan State, 19; Michigan, 14.

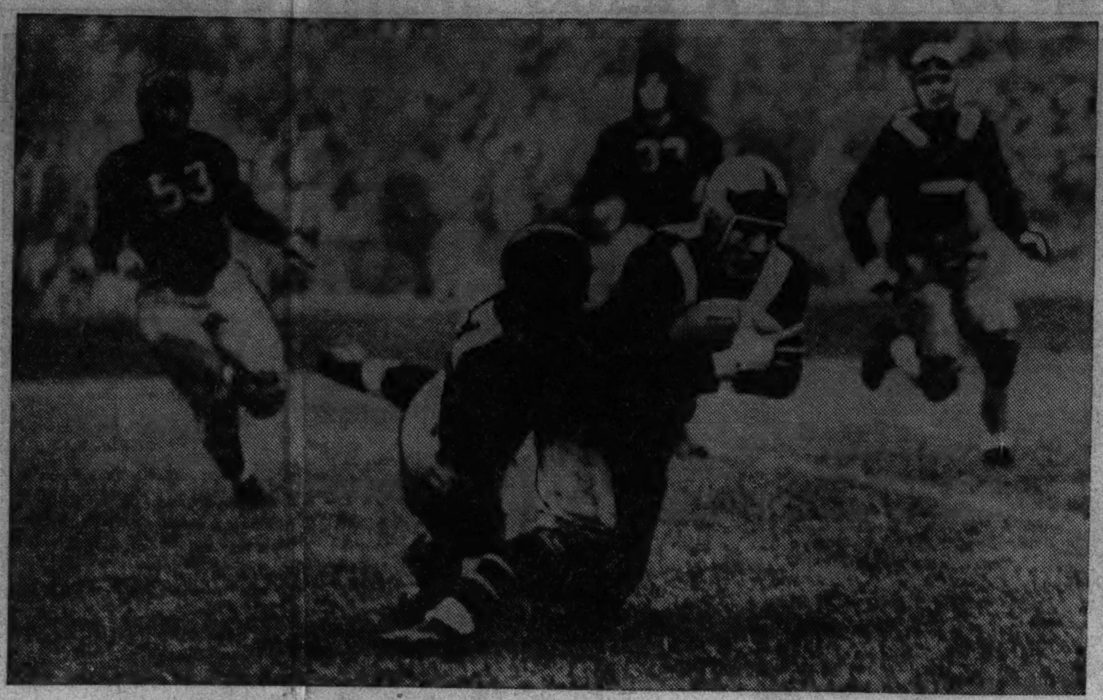
There was a wild scramble for the goal posts as soon as the final gun sounded. State's supporters swarmed out of the stands and attempted to uproot the north uprights, but hundreds of Michigan vigilantes were there to greet them and, due largely to the leadership of Bill Staehle, a two miler on the track team, and Bill Watson, giant weight man, the Wolverines made a successful defense of the timber.

The posts still were standing when dusk came down on one of the wildest afternoons in Michigan football lore.

A THRILLER AT ANN ARBOR



Michigan State made it four victories in a row over Michigan at Ann Arbor yesterday, but the Spartans had to come from behind to triumph, 19 to 14. On this play, Gaines (28), State end, is being tackled by Renda (17), Wolverine half back, after receiving a pass. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Hunter's Garb This Fall Has Less Weight

BY BOB BECKER.

If the poor hunter didn't have enough trouble resisting the temptation of many new guns that recently made their appearance in the gun shops, he now has a hard time fighting the urge to acquire several new hunting gadgets that seem to be begging to go on a shooting trip. Gun cases lined with sheep wool, rubber leggings for wet days in the marshes, game carriers with detachable pockets and rubberized hunting shirts with parkas are just a few of the tricky accessories that may be included in "what the well dressed hunter" will wear this season when in the duck blind or in the pheasant marsh.

When we were looking over the hunting items the other day we had a hard time keeping away from the rain suit equipped with parka for added comfort. This suit consists of a hip length coat [with a parka for the head] plus trousers of the same rubberized, waterproof fabric. [The material also is made up in a long coat.] Both the suit and coat are designed to go over other heavy hunting clothes.

Likes Parka.

We find the parka arrangement on a waterproof garment a very fine idea. One day last fall we stood in a duck blind during a heavy rain yet kept very comfortable by wearing our parka rain cape because no rain could trickle down our neck. Another rainproof gadget that we find indispensable is the cap with a short cape. This cape extends over the neck and rests on the shoulders, preventing water from getting down the back of your neck.

Trend Is to Light Coats.

In former years most of us who hunt used to wear a bulky, clumsy hunting coat with game pockets inside of it. Now the trend is toward light coats and handy game carriers with bloodproof pockets.

BEARS GET BACK INTO PRO RACE TOMORROW NIGHT

Pirates Are Foes; Cards Battle Rams.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The time has arrived for the Bears to quit the back yards and sand lots and devote some attention to the National league championship race. Beginning tomorrow night at Pittsburgh, where they meet Johnny Blood and his Pirates, the Bears will be busy with league competition every week-end except the Sunday before Thanksgiving day. That day has been set aside to prepare for the annual Thanksgiving day engagement at Detroit.

Their 14 to 2 victory over Green Bay in their only league game to date and recent field days against neighborhood champions indicate that the Bears have profited by Coach George Halas' barnstorming experiment. The team which meets Pittsburgh tomorrow night is regarded by rival coaches as the pick of the league, with one exception. Detroit, under its new coach, Dutch Clark, is given an even chance to overcome Bear might.

Feathers, Nolting Carry Ball.

Halas will entrust the ground gaining to Beattie Feathers and Ray Nolting, with Nagurski and Jack Manders, the place kicking full back who has been made into a right half, to clear the way. George Musso, veteran tackle, shifted to guard, is reported to be a doubtful starter because of a tonsilectomy early in the week.

Meanwhile, the Cardinals, who have won two league games, lost one and played a tie, will tackle the Cleveland Rams at Cleveland today. Cleveland, playing its first year in the pro league and relying on a group of freshmen and castoffs, is regarded as an easy mark. The Cardinals generally make their most discouraging showing against these soft touches. Defeats by Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, teams which found it hard to make first downs against other opposition, prevented them from winning the championship two years ago. This season the Cardinals defeated Green Bay, the defending champion; lost to Detroit, upset Washington, the eastern division favorite; then barely escaped with a tie at Philadelphia.

Rams May Impress Them.

The Rams, however, are not as helpless as had been anticipated, and if they continue to show the improvement that has marked their last three games, it is possible that they will impress the Cardinals sufficiently to spur the Chicagoans to victory.

Up at Green Bay the Lions will seek to remain unbeaten by achieving their third consecutive victory. The Packers, the defending champions, will be striving to avert their third consecutive defeat.

Cardinals at Cleveland.

The Budweisers' count was good for two victories. The Whitecaps picked up three more victories and now lead the league with 7 won and 2 lost. The former leaders, Burlington Zephyrs, lost three to the Vogel Brothers and fell among the also rans. The champion Mineralites dropped a pair to the McKessons and still repose in the bottom along with Strachan Coals, G. & W. Mill Farm, and De Young Fuel.

72,000 WATCH WASHINGTON WIN FROM U. S. C., 7-0

Fumble Paves Way for Huskies' Score.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The University of Washington defeated Southern California, 7 to 0, today before 72,000 in the Los Angeles Olympic coliseum.

Washington put over its winning touchdown in the first quarter after Full Back Ollie Day of the Trojans fumbled on his own 24 yard line. Rich Worthington, Washington tackle, recovered. On a reverse and a lateral, Newton to Cruver to Johnston, the Huskies lost eight yards, but Kowitz passed to Cruver to regain ten yards on the next play, and Full Back Al Cruver then flipped a short pass over center to Sheldrake, an end, on the 11 yard line. Johnston and Cruver gained six yards on two line plays. Cruver then drove to the 2 yard line. On the next play Johnston hit the massed scrimmage line so hard he bounced over for a touchdown. Cruver kicked the extra point.

Southern California Threatens.

Southern California threatened early in the second quarter when two passes and two line plays put the ball on the 22 yard line. Schindler's pass to Hibbs, an end, was grounded in the end zone.

Schindler passed successfully to Hoffman for a first down on Washington's 36 yard line in the same quarter, but Waskowitz intercepted another pass on the 14 yard line.

The Trojans turned back a Washington scoring bid toward the end of the half when Wayne Hoffman, University of Southern California's new and powerful blocking back, hit Johnston on the U. S. C. 13 yard line, causing Johnston to fumble.

U. S. C. Makes Most Ground.

Southern California put over nine first downs to Washington's 7 and totaled 179 yards to the winners' 166, but fumbled six times, three of these canceling goalward marches and one of them presenting the opportunity for the Washington score.

OREGON, 7; STANFORD, 6.

Eugene, Ore., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The University of Oregon christened its new turf gridiron today by defeating the University of Stanford Indians for the first time in 13 games. The score was 7 to 6. Two sophomore half backs collaborated in producing Oregon's touchdown in the second period, Jay Graybeal catching Bob Smith's pass on the Stanford 23 yard line and sprinting the rest of the distance to the goal line. Joe Huston, veteran guard, place kicked the point after touchdown for the winning point. An Oregon fumble in the fourth period paved the way for Stanford's score.

CALIFORNIA WINS.

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 2.—(AP)—University of California's Bears coupled stout downfield blocking with costly errors on the part of the opposition today to defeat Oregon State college, 24 to 6, before 25,000. It was the opening conference game of the season for both teams. The Bears scored four touchdowns and, in each instance, the visitors from the Pacific northwest set the stage by fumbles.

WASHINGTON STATE WINS.

Pullman, Wash., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Behind the plunging of Carl Littlefield, Cougar full back, and the passing of Eddie Bayne, quarter back, Washington State college football team defeated the University of Idaho today, 13 to 0. A FORWARD PASS CLICKS AGAINST THE ILLINI pass which gained 31 yards and was caught by Bob Costelo, right end, who was downed on the De Paul 10 yard line. On the next play Spurgeon passed again, but this time Harry Postaer intercepted the throw.

Illini Advance Again.

Postaer's punt from behind the De Paul goal was caught by Spurgeon on the De Paul 37 yard line. The Illinois leader brilliantly eluded two Blue Demon tacklers and sped down the east side line to the 23 yard line. Kein stopped Spurgeon on the next play, a wide end run, which was the final play.

De Paul's most determined thrust was made early in the first quarter when the Blue Demons in six plays drove from their own 10 yard line to the Illinois 10 yard mark. Hard running Capt. Paul Mattei, on a fake punt formation first ran to midfield. A pass, Postaer to Howlett, carried the Demons to the Illinois 33 yard line where Howlett passed to Corrigan on the 10 yard stripe. Postaer's next throw was intercepted by Howie Carson.

The Blue Demons in the second quarter sent another scare into the Illini when Kelly intercepted Spurgeon's lateral intended for Mazeika. Kelly, in the open, lateraled to Postaer who ran to the Illinois 31 yard line before he was brought down from behind by Hodges, Illinois sophomore guard.

DePaul Halted Again.

Early in the final quarter another lateral aroused the hopes of the Blue Demons when Norris threw a pass to O'Brien who flipped a lateral to Raffin who sped 22 yards to the Illinois 34 yard line.

In the second quarter Illinois seemed in a fair way to complete the old "sleeper" play when Carson, who had waited undetected near the sidelines with a clear field ahead, fumbled a throw from Mazeika.

Each team gained seven first downs. The Blue Demons gave the Illini a lot of practice in forward pass defense as they attempted 17 throws, of which five were completed. The Illini tried 11 throws but completed only two. The Illini did better in rushing, gaining 111 yards against 48 by De Paul.

Time, :23 4-5, :48, 1:13 3-5, 1:39 2-5, 1:46. Two dollar mutuels paid: Good Politian, $8.40 straight, $3.00 place, $2.80 show; Prince Pest, $2.60 place, $2.40 show; Wild West, $3.20 show. Winner trained by F. Nancolas. Went to post at 2:01; off at once. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

GOOD POLITIAN, rated under steady restraint to the final quarter and saving much ground early, responded when called upon after straightening up on the outside in the stretch and, wearing down PRINCE PEST, was ready to draw out. Latter, also reserved off the pace, came around the leaders gradually when responding to light pressure and held on well, but was not good enough. WILD WEST, on the inside throughout, forced the early pace under light restraint and held on fairly well, though unable to withstand the leaders.

SECOND RACE—Three-quarters of a mile. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :23, :47 4-5, 1:13 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Barbara S, $29.80 straight, $12.20 place, $9.40 show; Eternal Wave, $9.20 place, $7.00 show; Howdoino, $11.40 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 2:29; off at once. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

BARBARA S, hustled into command and steadied around the turn, failed to withstand ETERNAL WAVE'S challenge but held on well and, regaining the lead in the last fifty yards, barely lasted. ETERNAL WAVE, probably much the best and raced very wide throughout, took command easily after having worked his way up gradually, was over-confidently handled in the final eighth and, coming again after losing the lead, narrowly missed getting up. HOWDOINO, away slowly and badly outrun for half a mile, came with fine belated speed thereafter.

THIRD RACE—Six and one-half furlongs, out of chute. Purse $1,200. Net value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23, :47 1-5, 1:12 1-5, 1:19. Two dollar mutuels paid: Pundit, $38.40 straight, $12.60 place, $6.00 show; Black River, $4.00 place, $2.80 show; Hastinola, $3.00 show. Winner trained by A. G. Tarn. Went to post at 2:55. At post 1 minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

PUNDIT, racing in his best form and not hurried in the early stages, responded strongly to urging after reaching the last five-sixteenths, overtook BLACK RIVER in the last sixteenth, then drew out as he was kept under strong riding. BLACK RIVER forced the early pace under restraint, raced into a long lead gradually and, weakening in the final eighth, could not withstand the winner's challenge. HASTINOLA, cleverly rated in the early racing, was slow to respond but rallied in the final eighth and was going resolutely at the close.

FOURTH RACE—One and three-quarters of a mile. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Time, :26, :52 2-5, 1:18 4-5, 1:46, 2:12 3-5, 2:38 3-5, 3:04 2-5 [equals track record]. Two dollar mutuels paid: Redress, $3.80 straight, $2.80 place, $2.60 show; Two Sons, $3.20 place, $3.00 show; Stratagem, $3.80 show. Winner trained by A. Swenke. Went to post at 3:21½. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won ridden out; place driving.

REDRESS, allowed to race at an easy gallop until reaching the final five-eighths, raced wide when working his way up and gamely shook off TWO SONS in the final eighth. Latter, under steady reserve for a mile and one-quarter, responded gamely when called upon, could not hold the winner, yet held on courageously to the end. STRATAGEM was in hand until reaching the final half mile, bore out badly on the final turn and held on creditably.

FIFTH RACE—Three-quarters of a mile. Purse $2,500, added. Net value to winner, $2,035; second, $500; third, $250; fourth, $125.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Sargazo $12.60 straight, $5.20 place, $2.80 show; Miss Dolphin [entry], $2.60 place, $2.20 show; Silverette $2.80 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 3:51½. At post 5 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

SARGAZO, raced wide, began to move up after about five-sixteenths, bumped REAPING soon after reaching the stretch, closed strongly when clear and got up in the final stride. MISS DOLPHIN, fractious at the post and placed outside the stalls for the start, was under urging from the start, came around TRANSMUTABLE in the stretch and, weakening after opening up a good lead in the final eighth, failed to hold the winner. SILVERETTE, well up from the start, saved much ground and, aided by good rating, held on well to the last fifty yards where she faltered.

SIXTH RACE—One and a sixteenth miles. Three year olds and up. Hawthorne handicap. Purse $2,500, added. Net value to winner, $2,235; second, $500; third, $250; fourth, $125.

Winner trained by C. E. Davidson. Went to post at 4:23. Off at once. Start good. Won easily; place driving.

OUR COUNT well in hand until reaching the last three-eighths where he swung to the outside, took command with a rush after straightening out in the stretch and much the best, continued to draw out when under light restraint in the last sixteenth. PRINCE TORCH, taken under steady restraint when unable to gain a contending position early, was slow to respond to pressure, but came with good belated speed after three-quarters and outstayed MISS SAXON. The latter, also slow to rally, closed boldly on the extreme outside.

MARTIN BARTON, much the best but poorly ridden, was under a strong hold for almost three-quarters, raced around the leaders gradually and eased under a careless ride after taking command, barely lasted. MARFEU, on the inside throughout and in hand for five-eighths, failed to withstand the winner after getting to the front, yet held on well but was lucky to finish so close up. HARDWARE began well but did not keep up and passed only tired horses in the stretch.

Winner trained by E. K. Murray. Went to post at 5:18½. At post ½ minute. Start good. Won easily; place driving.

NOAH'S PRIDE, well up from the start and under restraint for three-quarters, took command under only mild urging and won with something left. MOUSE TRAP, also reserved in the early racing, was forced very wide for room on the second turn and closed well under stout pressure, but did not menace the winner. CHATTERFOL, in hand for a half mile, stood pressure gamely to the final eighth, where he weakened.

Our Count and Sargazo Win at Hawthorne

For a time yesterday afternoon as Hawthorne closed Chicago's major racing season it appeared that the South Americans could not be stopped. Before 15,000 spectators, the Argentine-bred Sargazo scored in a thrilling finish to take the John C. Schank Memorial handicap.

Then came the Hawthorne handicap and at the head of the stretch Cascabelito, another colt from Argentina, moved up menacingly. But Our Count, an Illinois horse, moved up even faster than Cascabelito to capture the Hawthorne handicap by four lengths and prove that these South Americans can be beat.

Hawthorne's 24 day stand came to a close with approximately $7,600,000 going through the mutuel machines, an average of $316,666 per day. This topped all other Chicago tracks.

Runs Brilliant Race.

Our Count ran a brilliant race to turn back eight rivals. Clarence Davison's gelding was held off the pace in the early stages as Desgai and Rushaway raced neck and neck. As they turned for home Cascabelito moved up but he never got to the front. Our Count raced right by him into a clear margin which he increased down the stretch.

Prince Torch, also moving up fast, landed second money with Miss Saxon finishing fast for third. Conrad Mann also managed to nose out Cascabelito.

Paul Ryan made Our Count his 34th winner of the meeting. The horse ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:44 4-5 and paid $14. Owner Davison picked up $2,235 of the gross purse of $3,170. A week ago he won the Illinois Owners' handicap.

Sargazo by a Head.

Miss Dolphin delayed the start of the Schank Memorial but when the field of six was off she raced second to Transmutable in the early stages with Silverette third. Sargazo, kept off the pace, raced fifth but Jocky Maschek had him in striking position.

Entering the stretch Miss Dolphin caught Transmutable but Silverette was close behind and Sargazo, on the outside, was moving up. A hundred yards from home it appeared his bid would be futile, but Sargazo had the final punch and bounded over the line a head in front of Miss Dolphin. Silverette was a neck farther back in one of the best finishes of the season. The time for the six furlongs was 1:12 1-5. Sargazo paid $12.60.

Another Victory for Invaders.

He was the third successful South American invader to win a stake this year, joining Caballero II. and Sahri II. on the list. He won $2,035 by his victory for his owner, A. E. Silver.

SPORTSMAN'S TO OPEN

Chicago's final race meeting of the year—a twenty-four day session at the Sportsman's Park track on the west side—will get under way tomorrow afternoon.

It promises to be the most exciting half mile track meeting held in the country this year. Most of the stables that have been racing at Hawthorne have been held over in Chicago. In addition many other horses have arrived at the Sportsman's Park course from Canada, Maryland, and Ohio. Most of them are breaking the long jump to the southern and far western winter tracks with the campaign at Sportsman's Park.

Liberal purses and an interesting program book, arranged by Racing Secretary Shelley, attracted the horses to Chicago.

Numerous improvements have been made at the half mile course. Most important is a new glass enclosed clubhouse and a heating system that should keep the customers perfectly comfortable regardless of weather conditions.

Post time for the first race each afternoon will be 2 o'clock.

Marek-Thomas Bout Wednesday to Open Stadium

The big bout of the week involves Max Marek and Harry Thomas in a ten rounder, with Marek's state heavyweight title at stake, at Chicago Stadium Wednesday.

The secondary feature of the week brings together Milt Aron, a leading welterweight challenger, and Chuck Woods of Detroit. They meet for ten sessions at Marigold Gardens tomorrow.

Both matches are encores, Marek and Thomas having battled to a draw at the Coliseum April 28 and Woods having conquered Aron at Marigold Aug. 3 of last year.

The Marek-Thomas rematch opens the 1937-'38 indoor season at the Stadium. In their first fight Referee Davey Miller and Judge Ed Klein voted for a draw, but the other judge, William A. Battye, scored for Thomas, 51 to 49.

Thomas weighed 198 pounds, six more than he expects to weigh for Wednesday's meeting. Even so, he will carry an advantage, because Marek is not expected to be at more than 187, two more than he scaled in the previous encounter. Max was at 186½ when he stopped Dick Maloney at Madison Square Garden Thursday.

The contest was Marek's second since last April, he having defended his crown successfully against Art Oliver at White City Sept. 10.

Thomas also has had two bouts since he met Marek last. He scored a four round technical knockout over Jorge Brescia on the Braddock-Louis title program at Comiskey park June 22 and stopped Billy Jones in one round at St. Louis July 16.

Aron originally was scheduled to oppose Al Manfredo at Marigold tomorrow, but the latter changed his mind and Woods was substituted. Manfredo won a disputed verdict over Aron Aug. 30, but Woods had handed Al a defeat at Detroit previously.

MENOW BREAKS WORLD RECORD TO TAKE FUTURITY

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Hal Price Headley's Champagne stakes winner, Menow, today won the 48th Belmont Futurity, richest race in the world for two year olds, establishing a new world record, 1:15 1-5 for six and a half furlongs. A crowd of 22,000 saw the race.

The son of Pharamond II.-Alcibiades made his own pace down the Widener course and hit the wire four lengths in front. Tiger, owned by the Milky Way farm of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago, barely earned the place in a photo finish with William Woodward's Fighting Fox.

Replaces Tiger as Money Winner.

With the $56,825 he won today, Menow replaced Tiger as the leading money-winning juvenile of the year with earnings of $65,825. Twice beaten by Tiger in the west, the Lexington-owned colt has won three of his six starts. Coupled with Bourbon King and Dah He, Menow was a close second choice at 9 to 5 in the field of 12. Tiger, an entry with Mountain Ridge, ruled the favorite at 7 to 5.

A claim of foul was lodged against the Headley entry by Alfred Robertson, who rode Tiger, but the stewards dismissed it.

The former world's record for the distance over a straight course was 1:16 2-5, made by Pompey in the 1936 Futurity. Menow's mark also tops all previous marks made over a course with turns. Menow carried 119 pounds, seven less than Tiger.

Kurtsinger Rides Winner.

Charlie Kurtsinger, who rode War Admiral to victory in the Derby, Preakness, and Belmont stakes, was astride Menow.

Tiger drew down $7,800 for finishing second; Fighting Fox, Gallant Fox's full brother, $4,400 for third, and Mountain Ridge, Tiger's partner, $1,000 for fourth.

Walter M. Jeffords' five year old horse, Firethorn, galloped to an easy six length victory in the 18th Jocky Club Gold Cup two mile test. He previously captured the event, in 1935. The Chicago owned Mrs. John D. Hertz's Count Arthur, last year's winner and favorite in the three-horse field, could not threaten the winner in the last half mile. Moonton, the early pacemaker, finished third.

Quarter Back Darling fumbled the ball as he attempted to kick from behind his goal line and was tackled by Egdorf, Wesleyan guard, when he recovered and tried to run.

MACOMB BEATEN, 6 TO 0.

Mount Pleasant, Ia., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Iowa Wesleyan registered its second triumph of the season today by defeating Macomb Teachers, 6 to 0. A long pass in the third period, from McKinnon to E. Wehrle, placed the ball on Macomb's 10 yard line, from where Hatfield plunged over on the next play.

Nebraska Upsets Minnesota, 14 to 9, on Passes, Fumbles

turned a punt for a last minute touchdown which whipped Nebraska. Andy Uram was on this field today. So were other veterans who had written Minnesota's magnificent record. But today the Gophers, with defeat upon them, failed completely in their efforts to crash through the Cornhusker line. And their despairing passes more times than not were intercepted by Nebraska backs.

Minnesota never threatened in these final minutes; they failed to make a first down or to reach midfield. The Gophers staggered to the end as a punch drunk fighter who, semiconscious, reels unseeingly through a last round.

The battle was waged with a fury seldom seen. Head-on tackles and crushing plunges forced weary men to call repeatedly for time out. After one mêlée, when Howell was kicking from the Nebraska goal line, two players were stretched prone and unconscious.

Eldon McIlravey, Nebraska full back, protecting for Howell's punt in the third period, was kicked in the head. As Andy Uram caught that punt his teammate Rudy Gmitro, trying to block for the return, was knocked out. Both were carried from the field. Gmitro received a painful back injury but was reported fit for duty a half hour later.

McIlravey Has Head Injury.

McIlravey was still unconscious when rushed to a hospital. Physicians reported he had suffered a skull fracture and severe concussion.

That Minnesota contributed largely to its own defeat by its fumbles cannot be denied. Nebraska, except for a pass interception in the final minute, never crossed center field save on its touchdown drives after recovery of these fumbles. It made only two first downs and gained only 18 yards from scrimmage and only 52 yards by passes.

By comparison Minnesota's eight first downs and its 137 yards from scrimmage and 65 yards by passing seem more worthy of victory. But Minnesota did not deserve to win. It could not match Nebraska's elertness, nor did its men display that desire for the conflict which has characterized other Minnesota teams.

Minnesota, however, for the first four minutes was the mighty machine Nebraska had expected to meet. In those four minutes Minnesota drove forward relentlessly.

Gophers Go Over.

Minnesota won the toss and chose to receive the kickoff. Uram caught the ball and returned ten yards to his own 38 yard line. From here Minnesota paraded. Larry Buhler and Gmitro reached midfield in two plays. Two short runs by Uram and another by Gmitro made it first down on Nebraska's 39 yard line.

Then Uram sprinted around left end to the Cornhuskers' 10 yard line. Nebraska stemmed the ground attack, but on third down Uram passed to Vic Spadaccini, Gopher quarter back, in the end zone for a touchdown.

Minnesota had shown such tremendous power that it seemed of slight importance when Uram missed the place kick for the point. More touchdowns seemed certain.

But Minnesota collapsed as suddenly as a punctured balloon. Team play was gone, and thereafter, even when Nebraska had scored in the second quarter to lead 7 to 6, the Gophers could not regain cohesion on attack. Always some player missed a block or permitted a charging linesman to crash through, to upset every drive. Even Minnesota's favorite and dreaded reverse over the weak side tackle could not gain. Gmitro, and later Wilbur Moore, were always tackled and thrown at the line of scrimmage or behind it.

First Costly Fumble.

At the start of the second quarter Bill Matheny replaced Uram in the Gopher backfield. Two plays later, on receiving a punt from Howell, Matheny fumbled on Minnesota's 35 yard line. The ball probably was torn from his grasp, for it was a high tackle. Charley Brock, Nebraska center, followed the ball back to Minnesota's 24 yard line and fell on it.

Jack Dodd lost six yards which Howell immediately made up. Then a pass failed. On the fourth down, with a pass the obvious play, Larry Buhler, Minnesota full back, was out maneuvered and Alloyd Grim, an end, caught Howell's pass for a first down on Minnesota's 13 yard line.

Now Nebraska, for the first time crashed Minnesota's line. Three smashes netted nine yards, and then, Howell, although needing only one yard for first down, piled through left guard to the goal. Lowell English, with Howell holding, place kicked the point which gave Nebraska its 7 to 6 lead. This was the score when the teams began the second half. And immediately, Minnesota passed up an opportunity which might have won the battle.

Nebraska had sent its second backfield into the game. Bill Andreson, kicking from behind his own 11 yard line, booted the ball out of bounds on his own 21 yard line. Nebraska's first team men were hurried into the game and although burley Marty Christenson, Gopher full back, made a first down only six yards from the goal, four more plays failed to score. The last, a pass by Uram, was intercepted by McIlravey on Nebraska's three yard line.

Gophers Back in Front.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, however, Minnesota took the lead This time Nebraska's fighting line again had stopped the Gopher ground assault, but on fourth down, after the teams had changed goals, and with the ball on Nebraska's 15 yard line, Bell stepped back seven yards and place kicked. The ball barely cleared the cross bar.

Bell kicked off and the ball bounded out of bounds on Nebraska's four yard line. Under the new rule it was Nebraska's ball on its 35 yard line, and since Minnesota had been offside on the kickoff, five more yards were gained. But the Cornhuskers couldn't advance and Andreson, again in the game, punted.

Harold VanEvery, sophomore left half who now manned the position where Uram and Matheny had played, took the punt. VanEvery, near the east side line, staggered under the impact of a tackle and fumbled and it was Nebraska's ball on Minnesota's 40 yard line.

On the second play, Andrews shot a pass to Elmer Dohrmann, an end, down the center of the Gopher secondary. Dohrmann caught the ball as Moore, defensive back, reached for it. Nebraska was on Minnesota's 20 yard line.

Huskers Fool Gophers.

Howell and Dodd could not gain and Andrews' third down pass failed. Once more, Nebraska had to pass and Minnesota knew it. It was fourth down and ten yards to go. But despite this advantage Bill Callihan, full back, raced across and through the Minnesota secondary to take Andrews' pass on Minnesota's 8 yard line and continue on unmolested over the goal.

George Faust, Minnesota back, had made a vain attempt to knock down the ball, but it sailed just over his outstretched hands. English place kicked the extra point.

The story of Nebraska's defense was the alertness of the smashing line and the frequently unorthodox positions of the tackles. By crashing into the interference, the tackles piled up Minnesota's power before the forwards acquired momentum. Supporting these tactics were the full back and center. Yet, this eight man line defense, which ordinarily leaves the secondary vulnerable to passes, was changed repeatedly and at all times Nebraska's backs outguessed Minnesota's quarter backs.

By these sudden switches Nebraska intercepted six of Minnesota's 15 forward passes. Four others were incomplete.

Nebraska fumbled three times and recovered all of these misplays. Minnesota recovered only one of its three fumbles.

yard loss. Ray Sonnenberg, Marquette's back field veteran, lost four yards. Harry Leysenaar, Len Raddatz, Rush Niles, and Andy Bakula combined their efforts to pick up 23 yards.

Marquette Forced to Pass.

This ineffectiveness forced Marquette to abandon its running game and depend entirely on passes whenever a scoring opportunity was presented. The first of these chances occurred in the first quarter when Marquette had the ball on Wisconsin's 27 yard line. Two more presented themselves in the second quarter when the Hilltoppers reached their foe's 26 yard line and again got the ball on the 25 yard line. But all these chances were lost on pass interceptions.

Here's the detail of Wisconsin's two scoring drives:

Bellin intercepted Raddatz's pass on his 25 yard line. He sprinted past several Hilltop tacklers and lateraled to Gavre, who was thrown on the Marquette 38 yard line. The ball was brought back 15 yards, however, because of unnecessary roughness on the part of Badger blockers.

Then Weiss went to work. He went off his own left tackle for 18 yards to the Marquette 35 yard line. After Roy Bellin had picked up three yards Weiss again broke away and ran to the Hilltop five yard line. Schmitz was stopped twice with a total gain of one yard. Then Gavre ran his right end for the touchdown. Eckl's try for the extra point failed.

Lateral Passes Gain.

In the fourth quarter the Badgers took a Marquette punt on the Hilltoppers' 47 yard line. Malesevich drove five yards through right tackle. On the next play Malesevich passed to Benz, who made the catch 15 yards down the field. Surrounded by tacklers, Benz lateraled to Gradisnik, who was thrown on the 24 yard line. Another forward lateral, Gradisnik to Benz to Murray, gained 10 yards. Then Gradisnik got loose around his right end for 14 yards and a touchdown. Malesevich's place kick failed.

ly after the next kickoff when Kischer rifled a 27 yard pass to Heileman, placing the ball in midfield. Kischer dropped back to pass and, finding no receiver, elected to run, advancing eight yards to Northwestern's 42 yard line. It was the high water mark of the Cyclones' advance in the first half for on the next play John Goldak, sophomore center, intercepted another of Kischer's passes and ran it back 30 yards to State's 30 yard line. Two plays later Swisher galloped 23 yards through right tackle for a touchdown.

The Wildcats opened the second half with the first string lineup intact. Jefferson took Bowman's kickoff in full stride on his 15 yard line and raced 85 yards up the west sideline for a touchdown. Ryan's kick for the extra point was good.

Late in the fourth period, Swisher took one of Kischer's punts on his 40 yard line and ran it back through the entire State team for a touchdown. Following the next kickoff, the Cyclones made their strongest threat of the game when a pass, Kischer to Waite, placed the ball on the Wildcats' 25 yard line. BONDS ARE FIRM IN SLOW TRADING; RAILS ADVANCE

Federal Issues Uneven; Range Narrow.

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The bond market maintained a firm undertone today which brought to a close a week featured mainly by a recovery in values over a broad list of secondary corporate issues.

The trading pace, however, slackened to a point comparable with the dull short sessions of mid-summer. The two hour turnover of $3,289,000 was the smallest since September 4, when sales amounted to only $2,000,500. On Saturday a week ago, transactions amounted to $6,398,500.

Federal Issues Dull.

The market for United States government obligations, unusually quiet during the greater part of the week, came to a virtual standstill yesterday as prices fluctuated irregularly within narrow limits. The turnover dwindled to $109,000, the smallest since July 31, last, when sales were $71,100, and compared with $351,500 on the preceding Saturday. Closing quotations showed gains of 1-32 to 2-32, and declines of 1-32 to 3-32 point.

The improvement in domestic corporation bonds was again marked by further recovery movements among the secondary railroad issues, where gains ranged from fractions to two points. The bonds of Allegheny corporation, Erie, and Southern Pacific all responded to a good demand with moderate gains.

N.Y. Tractions Strong.

Location traction issues continued to move upward under a brisk demand as the bonds of Interborough rose 1⅛ to 3½ points, while Brooklyn-Manhattan transit 4½s closed up 1½ points. Western Union Telegraph issues closed with fractional gains.

A narrow market prevailed for foreign dollar obligations, with the group featured by weakness in Brazilian loans. The Brazil 6½s yielded 1¼ points, while fractional recessions ruled elsewhere in that group. Other foreign bonds moved within a restricted price range in quiet trading.

BANKS' STOCKS IRREGULAR IN LIGHT TRADING

Chicago bank stocks were irregular in a light turnover last week. First National closed 19 points higher at 252 bid, 256 asked. Continental Illinois was 8½ points higher at 112½ bid, 114 asked.

Northern Trust, Harris Trust and Savings, and Lake Shore Trust and Savings stocks each finished 10 points lower. Terminal National declined 1, Merchandise National 5, and Chicago Title and Trust 4.

Stocks vs. Bonds—1.

An inquirer recently asked if it is true that no actual profit has been made by the average small investor who has bought stocks during the last forty years.

Taken as a broad generality the statement may be true. We do not know, and doubt that such a broad generality can be drawn. Although much money has been lost in the stock market, we can say with equal positiveness that many small investors have made money on stocks.

Stocks present greater opportunities for profits than bonds. The trouble, however, is that the chances are against the small investor. He finds it impossible to be well informed. In other words, he cannot devote the time and energy to becoming a market expert.

Furthermore, even the experts go wrong in a big way at times, as is illustrated by the fact that only a pitifully small minority of the investment services and counselors predicted the sharp break in stocks early in September or the decline which occurred last spring.

Investors' Guide, generally speaking, has advised the average small investor to shun stocks in favor of good bonds. This is because bonds are a safer type of investment. They are senior obligations, the debts of corporations issuing them. A corporation's first obligation after running expenses and taxes is to pay interest on its bonds and to retire them when they mature.

The bondholder is not as dependent on the course of the corporation's earnings as is the stockholder. His position is not that of the stockholder, whose holding represents part ownership of the company.

The stockholder depends on the size of earnings—after bond interest—for the size of his dividends. The bondholder's interest return is fixed, depending only on the corporation's ability to earn enough to cover expenses and pay that interest.

Prices of second and third grade bonds tend to fluctuate rather widely, depending on earnings of the corporations issuing them, though not as widely as stocks. The reason often is that there are so many of these bonds outstanding that interest constitutes a heavy charge on the company. The company needs to be fairly prosperous to cover interest by a good margin, let alone net much for stockholders.

Further discussion of this investment problem will appear next Sunday.

Total Well Above Volume in 1936 Period.

Business transacted by bank checks declined in the Chicago reserve district during the week ended Wednesday, according to figures issued yesterday. Debits to individual deposit accounts [checks cashed] totaled $1,167,356,000 for the week, a decrease of 10 per cent from the $1,297,239,000 total in the preceding week. Compared with the corresponding 1936 period, last week's transactions represented a decrease of 8.6 per cent. The comparable 1936 total was $1,277,512,000.

The figures are compiled by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and are based on reports furnished by 162 banks in 41 principal cities in the Chicago reserve district.

Chicago Total Under 1936.

Many of the cities in the district showed increases in debits over the comparable 1936 period. Chicago banks, however, reported a substantial shrinkage. Chicago's total was $673,320,000, against $817,955,000 last year. Detroit reported an increase to $214,216,000 from $199,238,000 a year ago. In Indianapolis, South Bend, and Des Moines the debits reported by banks were larger than a year ago. Milwaukee's total declined, aggregating $57,111,000, against $62,162,000 last year.

Bank clearings in Chicago for the week ended yesterday totaled $354,400,000 compared with $364,000,000 in the corresponding period last year. The shrinkage was attributed in part to the fact that the comparable period last year included more days in October. Normally commercial transactions in the first few days of the month are larger than in the closing days of the month.

September Total Higher.

September bank clearings in Chicago totaled $1,429,900,000 against $1,282,200,000 in September, 1936.

The record of daily clearings last week follows:

	Clearings.	Balances.
Monday	$ 48,500,000	$ 3,800,000
Tuesday	60,100,000	6,000,000
Wednesday	54,200,000	7,400,000
Thursday	58,900,000	7,600,000
Friday	69,300,000	6,700,000
Saturday	63,400,000	6,300,000
Total for week	$354,400,000	$37,800,000
Corresp last year	364,000,000	40,500,000

The New York Clearing House association reported clearings of members banks totaled $3,745,241,833 for the week ended yesterday. This compares with $3,203,157,087 in the preceding week.

BETHLEHEM MAY PUT BIG LOAN ON MARKET SOON

Several Firms Cancel or Delay Issues.

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A public offering of about $46,000,000 of Bethlehem Steel corporation 15 year sinking fund 3½ per cent convertible debentures will be made early next week, it was reported in Wall street investment circles today. The offering will be the unsubscribed part of a $48,000,000 issue which the corporation offered recently to its common stockholders. The subscription rights expired on Oct. 1. The offering price was par.

Bethlehem brought out the debentures to provide funds for payment of $10,000,000 bank loans of a subsidiary and to obtain additional working capital for plant improvements, and expansion.

Postpone or Cancel Issues.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Another group of companies yesterday notified the Securities and Exchange commission of plans to postpone or cancel proposed offerings of securities. Companies asking permission to withdraw registration statements included Dayton Rubber Manufacturing company, Black Gold Petroleum company, and the New Amsterdam Casualty company. Garford corporation, trailer, truck, and accessory manufacturer, postponed a proposed offering until Oct. 10, Kimberly Mining company delayed one until Oct. 21. Detroit Steel Products company postponed until Oct. 29.

The Continental Can company filed an amendment to its registration statement announcing the complete list of underwriters for its proposed issue of 200,000 shares of $4.50 preferred. Goldman, Sachs & Co. was previously named as principal underwriters. An amendment filed last week "indefinitly postponed" the offering.

Several File New Securities.

Registrations covering proposed security offerings were filed by Sturges Aulsbrook Jones corporation, Sturges, Mich., manufacturer of furniture; Royal Manufacturing company, Duquesne, Pa., chemical maker; L. E. Carpenter & Co., Newark, N. J., manufacturer of lether products, and Hellenic Hydro Electric, and Metallurgical corporation, New York.

Automobile Finance company, Pittsburgh, filed an amendement reducing from 90,000 to 40,000 shares its proposed offering of $1 par common stock. Proposed preferred issue will remain unchanged.

The list of securities which become eligible for offering this week is exceptionally small.

FTC COMPLAINS OF OPTICAL FIRM PRICE POLICIES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The federal trade commission today reported it had issued complaints alleging price discrimination against the American Optical company, Southbridge, Mass., and its officers, and against the Bausch & Lomb Optical company of Rochester, N. Y., and six wholesale outlets it controls.

The complaints accuse the respondents of discriminating in price between different purchasers of their optical supplies by allowing certain purchasers lower prices, rebates, or discounts which are not granted to other purchasers competitively engaged in the resale of optical goods.

Wholesaling concerns named in the complaint included the Riggs Optical company, consolidated, Chicago; Riggs Optical Company, Inc., San Francisco, and White Haines Optical company, Columbus, O. The respondents were allowed twenty days in which to file an answer.

FRENCH FRANC BREAKS TO NEW ALL TIME LOW

Report Heavy Flight of Capital.

A new French financial crisis was believed imminent yesterday when the gold value of French currency dropped to an all time low record in international exchange. The franc experienced one of the most severe breaks this year. It opened in New York at 3.27¼ cents, off .1625 of a cent from Friday, and later sold as low as 3.26¼. It closed at 3.28, off .155.

The market break was accompanied by reports that a heavy movement of capital from France had started. The French government control fund was apparently helpless to stem the decline. Its support of the franc has been irregular in the last few days.

Selling Pressure Heavy.

The early dip in the market Friday was believed to have been the result of the control authorities being caught off guard temporarily. Yesterday's fresh decline, however, indicated that there is more selling pressure on the market than the stabilization fund can or wishes to withstand.

The low point touched by the franc in the post-war inflation period was 1.96 cents on Nov. 11, 1926. This was in terms of the old gold dollar which has since been devalued to 59.06 per cent of its former parity. The value of the franc at its low yesterday in terms of the old gold dollar was 1.93 cents.

Market developments in the last ten days have indicated that the French government was nearing a new monetary crisis. Yesterday's market break brought forth statements from government spokesmen that the franc's weakness was the result of speculative operations and not the reflection of the government's financial situation.

Deny London Story.

American treasury officials in Washington indicated that there was no basis for reports of an impending revision of the tripartite currency agreement between the United States, France, and Great Britain. They denied the story published by a London newspaper that a joint statement would be released over the week-end by the treasuries of the three countries. Secretary Morgenthau left the capital Friday night to spend the week-end at his farm in Duchess county, New York.

The franc's decline yesterday carried it below the level of the Belgian franc, which had been regarded as a possible "resistance level." With the belga quoted at approximately 16.84 cents the Belgian franc was worth about 3.36 cents. Exchange dealers said it was the first time since the war that the French franc has fallen below the level of the Belgian franc. Before the war both units had the same parity of 19.3 cents [old dollars].

BIRTMAN VOTES 25C EXTRA ON COMMON STOCK

An extra dividend of 25 cents and the usual quarterly payment of the same amount on the common stock were voted yesterday by directors of Birtman Electric company. The regular quarterly disbursement of $1.75 on the 7 per cent preferred stock was also authorized.

Williams Oil-O-Matic Heating corporation declared a dividend of 50 cents on its no par capital stock. The last previous payment was 25 cents on Dec. 2, 1936.

Kalamazoo Stove and Furnace company ordered distribution of 50 cents a share on its capital stock. A quarterly dividend of 25 cents and an extra of 25 cents were paid Aug. 1.

Welcome Gunmen—With Guns

Filled with various protective devices against gunmen and coin hijackers, this building will probably be the nearest thing to a fortress that can be found in Chicago. It is the new $200,000 home of Brink's, Inc., movers of money, to be erected at 711 West Monroe street.

Hint France May Soon Ban Gold Exports

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 2.—The fact that France's present gold supply is approximately $860,000,000 below the amount considered an indispensable minimum by the general staf for the needs of national defense and reserve in case of war gives strength to the belief in some quarters that the government will soon be forced to a complete embargo on movement of gold out of France and complete control of exchanges.

Already a beginning has been made by the ruling that no foreign currency can be sold except on the production of a passport and a statement of the pounds, dollars, or florins required for "legitimate business purposes" or bona fide tourist needs.

Dismayed by New Slump.

The present actions of the ministry of finance are not clear, but the general impression is that the exchange equalization fund is being thrown into the battle to hold the franc at its present level of just a little above 29 francs to the dollar and approximately 145 to the pound. The government was dismayed today by a further slump in unofficial trading—banks and the stock exchange were closed—in which the franc touched 152 to the pound.

If the movement continues it undoubtedly will lead to a cabinet crisis. A long cabinet council was held today at Rambouillet, President Lebrun's summer home. It led to a "surface agreement" among ministers and a communique proclaiming that the national money is "healthy."

It is no secret, however, that Premier Camille Chautemps and Finance Minister George Bonnet are opposed to exchange control, but the Socialist ministers favor it, and their communist allies outside the cabinet are pressing for its adoption.

Campaign by Socialists.

A vigorous campaign during the last week by the Socialist and communist papers has tried to accustom the public mind to the adoption of a monetary and economic régime similar to that in Italy and Germany. It can be accomplished only by the Socialists again taking power in the cabinet, presumably headed by Leon Blum.

Control is justified, according to the Socialist and communist argument, because the franc's slump is being caused by "speculation." Money dealers in London and Amsterdam are being assailed bitterly, and it is charged that forces inside France are conspiring against the franc for political purposes.

With control, the Socialists expect forcibly to effect repatriation of capital and the absence of which is held responsible for the present troubles.

Claim United States Support.

According to Blum's newspaper, Populaire, forcible repatriation of capital will receive the coöperation of President Roosevelt — a statement taken in financial circles as expressing a wish.

A review of last week's financial journals showed that the consensus is that technical measures will do little good for France's economic position and that the root of the evil is political. So long as France faces the prospect of a cabinet overturn and the installation of a Socialist ministry with communist participation committed to a policy of "structural reforms," meaning complete Socialism, return to prosperity is impossible.

Hence the cantonal elections on Oct. 10 and 17 are awaited with interest. This will be the first time since May, 1936, that the electorate will have a chance to show whether it still has Socialist sympathies.

September's Airport Departures Set Record

Departures from the Chicago municipal airport in September established an all-time record of 15,973 passengers, compared with the previous record of 15,175 in August and 12,131 in September, 1936, Edward J. Eidson, manager of the consolidated ticket office at the airport, announced yesterday.

CASH FORTRESS WILL BE BUILT BY BRINK COMPANY

Gas, Guns, Gadgets to Greet Robbers.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago is to have what is claimed will be the first building in the country erected exclusively for armored car service—a $200,000 fortresslike structure for Brinks, Inc., at 711 West Monroe street. The company, which transports annually 100 billion dollars through the streets of 800 cities in the United States, now operates more than 600 armored cars.

The building will have a number of unusual features. It will have a modern rifle range for practice of guards, messengers and other employés.

Warm Welcome to Crooks.

Several concealed machine gun nests will be located in the building and it will be equipped with modern gas apparatus so that the entire structure can be gassed from a concealed location by one operator. All doors in the dispatching department will be opened and closed automatically from a central control.

The latest in alarms and air conditioning, and four modern vaults, protected and controled electrically, also will be features of the new building.

It will be a two story reinforced concrete, fireproof structure, and will house the business offices of the firm as well as the armored car and money moving departments. J. L. McConnell is architect and engineer. The builder is the Avery Brundage company.

Started in 1859.

Perry Brink launched the firm in 1859. He used a rickety old buggy to carry trunks from a local railroad station to the old Tremont house. In 1891 the company began moving money to meet pay rolls. At that time protecting these movements of cash by insurance was unthought of.

In 1893 Brink's was designated to deliver and collect parcels, express packages, and money at night on the World's Fair grounds. And during the 1933-'34 Century of Progress Exposition the firm was the only one authorized to transport money to and from the Fair.

The money department of the firm was divorced from the general express service in 1917. Twelve years later, in 1929, the express branch was sold.

APEX HOSIERY CO. FIGHTS AN APPEAL ON STRIKE RULING

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2. — (AP) — The Apex Hosiery company of Philadelphia asked the Supreme court today to refuse to pass on litigation involving constitutionality of sitdown strikes. It urged that a decision of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals holding that such activity would "destroy the foundations of the government itself" be permited to remain in effect.

The litigation—the first involving sitdown strikes to reach the high tribunal — came before the Supreme court on an appeal recently by the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers from the Circuit court's decision. It arose from a strike at the Apex plant on May 6.

BUSINESS TAKES MILLIONS OFF RELIEF ROLLS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Secretary of Commerce Roper said today that "business is becoming more and more conscious of its responsibility to absorb employés and is taking off the relief rolls millions of workers." In a speech prepared for delivery before the District of Columbia Democratic league he said:

"With the continued improvement of business, we should in the near future achieve a balanced national budget and experience prosperity uninterrupted by depressions based on artificial causes that brought about the 1929 collapse."

STAPLES PRICES FALL ON TRADE UNCERTAINTIES

Decline Started by Break in Copper.

Unwillingness of large domestic consumers to make heavy commitments pending clarification of the industrial outlook caused prices of most commodities to decline again last week. Metals, particularly copper, led the recession, which began on the London metal exchange with an outburst of liquidation by speculators who had previously bought on prospects of increased demand for war materials.

In the United States, the break in metals reached a climax when the domestic price of copper was marked down one cent a pound twice within 48 hours to 12 cents a pound. Zinc was cut ¾ cent a pound to 6.5 cents and lead was reduced another ¼ cent to 5.85 cents at East St. Louis. Copper has since rebounded to an average of 12.75 cents a pound.

The position of copper was improved late in the week by a reenactment of production restrictions by the European copper cartel and announcement by a big American company of plans to cut output.

The list of cash commodities which declined during the week included clear bellies, corn, eggs, hogs, oats, steel scrap, domestic and export copper, rubber, cotton, silk, raw sugar, tin, wool tops, lead and zinc. Advances were recorded by butter, lard, wheat, Santos coffee, cattle, and flour.

Declines were registered in leading futures markets by corn, oats, rye, cotton, butter, eggs, cocoa, Rio coffee, copper, rubber, hides, silk, tin, and zinc. Staples which advanced included wheat, soy beans, lard, and cottonseed oil.

Resume Saturday Trading.

Most domestic commodity markets resumed Saturday trading yesterday after remaining closed on Saturday during the summer. Closing prices were irregular and the volume of trading was light for the short session.

Copper futures advanced 0.05 to 0.13 cent a pound, but export and domestic copper were unchanged. Cocoa futures rallied 0.10 to 0.11 cent a pound and coffee futures were almost as much lower. Rubber was irregular. Hides closed a shade higher.

EMPLOYES OWN 25 PER CENT OF PAPER'S STOCK

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The Milwaukee Journal announced today that 558 of its employés own 30,000 shares—25 per cent—of its outstanding capital stock. Thus, the paper said, pledges made when the journal was acquired from heirs of the founder, L. W. Nieman, have been fulfilled.

The 558 employés invested $1,050,000 at $35 a share. To date, less than five months after the employé participation plan became effective, they have paid for 63.21 per cent of their total stock allotment. Employés may sell their holdings only to other employés.

The other owners of stock—each holding 30,000 shares—are Harry J. Grant, publisher and president; Miss Faye McBeath, niece of Nieman, and heirs of the late L. T. Boyd, partner of Nieman.

In his will Nieman expressed a desire that control of the journal be vested in persons who would carry out his policies and principles.

Million Work in One Russian Gold District

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[This is the last article of a series of three on Russian gold production and economic policies.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 2.—Alexander Serebrowski, director of the soviet gold trust, reports in an article published in Za Industrializatsia that in central Siberia alone the trading points of the gold trust are providing for the needs of 600,000 prospectors and their families. In this district the total number of persons engaged in gold mining is well above a million.

Since he became chief of the gold industry in 1928 Serebrowski has made several trips, including one to South Africa to study gold production first hand. American engineers, employed by Moscow as specialists, have already taught Russia all the latest American methods.

Big Industry, Says Director.

The extent of the soviet gold industry is not generally realized abroad, says Serebrowski. A hundred dredges, eighty-five mines, with hundreds of small primitive shafts, and 200 hydraulic arrangements are being worked. Russia has more gold smelters than the United States, it is said.

"Robberies and alcohol smuggling are rare now in the gold fields," says Serebrowski. "In former days we sent bandits and speculators [traders and merchants] to the mines. Later we sent kulaks [employer peasants]. Today we are strengthening the gold mining industry with the best workers from the Dennetz and Kuzbas coal fields.

"Moscow is in direct touch with many mines by radio. We have 214 radio telephone stations equipped with sending and receiving sets. On the Lena river and its tributaries we have 30 steamers and 100 steel barges. There are also 4,000 autotrucks and automobiles working at the mines. The transport of gasoline and kerosene has become a problem. Many autos are equipped with a device to burn gas generated from sawdust.

Equipment Much Improved.

"In 1913 only 20 per cent of the gold was produced by mechanized equipment. Today 80 per cent of our gold is produced in this way. In the Ural rivers the dredges work 18 hours a day. By prolonging the day two hours we gain an additional several hundred kilograms of gold. But even with our modern equipment we estimate that because of improper methods and frequent breakdowns between 35 per cent and 40 per cent of the metal contained in the ores remains unextracted.

"In 1939 we hope to quadruple our gold production and become by far the largest producers of gold in the world. Last year 8,000 state subsidized prospectors were helping us in new fields. To facilitate the daily collection of gold we have grouped prospectors in camps of approximately 100 men each. In the larger mines much is being done to improve the housing of the workers, many thousands of whom are still living in the insanitary barracks.

"During the last twelve months we have begun new mines in Belija

EXTRA DIVIDENDS!
40 stocks in line to make large special year-end payments
DESPITE large corporate earnings, extra disbursements may not be as numerous as last year. Since market conditions do not favor new stock financing, many companies will retain earnings for working capital.
But there is a select group that either do not require new capital or have already sold stock and so will make generous payments before the end of the year to avoid taxes.
Of this group our staff has selected 40 where large payments appear most likely. Investors interested in securing stocks with high income return at current low prices will want this list.

COST OF REPRODUCING NEW HAVEN RAILROAD PUT AT 394 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The cost of reproducing the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad new last Dec. 1 would have been $394,125,572, against an original cost of $343,652,230, and the cost of replacement on that date less depreciation would have been $251,769,278, the bureau of valuation of the interstate commerce commission reported today.

The value of its land and rights was placed at $83,553,645. The mileage wholly owned and used by the New Haven was given as 3,219.3, including sidings and yard trackage. There are also 24.2 miles wholly owned but not used, and 1,733.2 miles wholly used but not owned. Some additional trackage also is used jointly with other roads.

The report contained complete information as to the values underlying the many mortgages of the railroad and its subsidiaries. The largest item was a $15,000,000 first mortgage 4 per cent loan, due in 1954, on trackage between Harlem river and Port Chester. Cost of reproduction less depreciation was put at $18,582,254. Value of lands and rights, $14,194,365.

UTILITY PUBLIC SERVICE BUREAU IS REORGANIZED

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 2.—[U. P.]—James M. Slattery, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, today announced a reorganization of the commission's public service bureau to improve service on complaints and inquiries of utility customers.

"The purpose of the reorganization," Slattery said, "is to centralze responsibilty for supplying prompt, efficient, and courteous service to consumers in matters pertaining to utility rates and service and their transactions with public utilities companies."

Hugh Donaldson has been appointed head of the bureau's Chicago office, and Harry Farris will direct the downstate office at Springfield.

Slattery also announced the appointment of Forrest E. McElroy, former trafic counsellor, as director of the railroad transportation division.

Warning of COLLAPSE
Warning of the possibility of a price collapse was given clients of TECHNIGRAPHICS a month ago.
In a telegram dated August 25, 1937, TECHNIGRAPHICS said:
"STOCKS INCREASINGLY BEARISH . . . CONTINUE TO LOOK FOR LOWER PRICES—POSSIBLY COLLAPSE."

This telegram, which also advised short sales, climaxed consistently bearish advices from July 28 on, and prevented TECHNIGRAPHICS' clients from being lulled into a false sense of security by the deceptive strength of the market in August.
On August 25, the day TECHNIGRAPHICS sent the warning to clients, the Dow-Jones industrial average was at 181.70. In a single month it dropped to 147.
Just as these advices anticipated the March-to-June decline on March 18-20 (and recommended 100% liquidation in investment and semi-investment accounts, short sales in trading accounts), so TECHNIGRAPHICS again anticipated the disastrously swift decline of the past thirty days.
No good, however, can come from surveying past losses except to improve the possibility of future gain. The market is still in a critical position. Now, more than ever, you need dependable guidance.

Egg Futures Again Decline to New Lows

Egg prices again fell to new low ground for the year on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday under selling induced by lower cash prices and discouragement over continued heavy receipts in leading markets.

Closing prices were ⅛ to ¼ cent a dozen lower with October contracts at 21⅝ cents a dozen, November at 21¾, and December at 22⅛ cents. Final quotations were a shade above lows for the day as the result of improvement near the close of the short week-end session.

Cash Prices Weak.

The cash market again was weak and prices were marked down another ½ to 1 cent a dozen.

Yesterday's short session ended one of the busiest weeks in many months on the exchange. Prices of futures contracts fell 1⅛ to 1¼ cents a dozen, or about $225 a carlot. Some grades of cash eggs were down a larger amount. Volume was heavy each day throughout the week.

Butter Futures Lower.

Butter futures were ⅛ cent a pound lower yesterday with November at 33⅞ cents a pound and December at 34⅛ cents. Cash butter was unchanged to ¼ cent a pound lower.

Federal reports placed August production of butter at 146,752,000 pounds, against 141,528,000 pounds in the corresponding month in 1936, a decrease of 9.6 per cent.

TRIAL TO START TOMORROW IN OIL TRUST SUIT

The joint trial of eighteen major oil companies, six subsidiary oil companies, three trade publications, and forty-six individuals charged with conspiracy to fix gasoline prices in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act will open tomorrow in federal court in Madison, Wis. Indictments against these firms and individuals were returned July 28, 1936, by a special grand jury in that city.

Because of the number and the prominence of the persons involved, most of whom are the principal executives of the defendant concerns, it is considered to be one of the most important cases in the corporate history of the United States, including the dissolution suit against the Standard Oil company prosecuted more than a generation ago.

Two Involved in Old Suit.

Two of the companies involved in the present proceedings, the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, Inc., were among the subsidiary companies of the Standard Oil company emerging as independent concerns in that famous case. The predecessor companies of Socony-Vacuum were the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company.

With the exception of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, virtually every major oil company operating east of the Rocky mountains was indicted, along with their leading executive officers. It is estimated that this group of companies represents more than one-half the total investment of about $14,000,000,000 in the American oil industry.

Many Well Known Names.

The Gulf Oil corporation, controled by the Mellon family of Pittsburgh, and the Shell Union Oil company, the operating subsidiary in this country of the powerful Royal Dutch-Shell group, are among the concerns in-

—Now they've got EMPLOYMENT INSURANCE for CAPITAL

"THERE have been times when I couldn't look at my balance sheet without wincing at the amount of my receivables. Today, with sales at the highest mark in years, I probably wouldn't have a finger nail left if it were not for the credit-insurance feature of Commercial Credit Company's new open account financing plan."
COULD HAVE USED THE MONEY
"For years I was a 'die-hard' on the subject of discounting my receivables. I could have sold all or any part of them to Commercial Credit Company at a low discount rate and put the money right back to work earning discounts, buying materials at cash prices, increasing volume, covering pay-rolls without borrowing. In every way, I stood to profit. But there was one rub . . . one angle that always stopped me."
CONSERVATIVES TAKE NO CHANCES
"Suppose I got my cash, ploughed it back, built up my inventories, expanded my sales—and then had one or two of the big accounts I had sold go bad. I couldn't take the chance. Better to wait for my collections to come in, was my idea. So I continued to plod along with the good old ultra conservatives no matter how profitable the opportunities I had to pass up."
FITS STAND-PATTER POLICIES
"Now it's different. Commercial Credit Company has introduced a new feature that makes open account financing available and attractive to stand-patters like me. The Limited Loss clause fits my temperament and my business policies perfectly. I'm cashing my receivables now and employing my capital, protected by employment insurance."
★ THE LIMITED LOSS clause is a sound new development introduced exclusively by Commercial Credit Company to widen the scope of this modern form of industrial financing. STOCKS FIRMER; TURNOVER ONLY 285,220 SHARES

Traders Watch Latest Break in Franc.

New York, Oct. 2.—Stocks closed firmer today, but trading came almost to a standstill. Sales totaled only 285,220 shares compared with 1,469,620 a week ago. Of a total of 559 issues traded, 234 finished higher, 162 lower, and 163 were steady. Price changes in the main were fractional.

No one pretended to know what effect Justice Black's speech on his membership in the Ku Klux Klan had on the market but the scant interest in securities indicated that it was slight. The attention of financial circles instead seemed to be centered in the foreign exchange market where the French franc suffered another bad sinking spell. Trading for a time followed the pattern of the Amsterdam bourse where prices sank to lower levels on the new weakness in the franc. The Paris and London markets had their usual Saturday holiday.

U. S. Steel Declines.

The initial decline of 1⅜ points in United States Steel did not typify the action of the list as a whole. Steel did not appear on the tape until seven minutes after the opening, and it dropped still further to 79⅝ before recovering to 80¼ where it closed for a net loss of 1¼.

Motors shares moved in a narrow range. Chrysler finished with a loss of a fraction, but General Motors remained unchanged. Atchison was a strong spot in the carrier section, rising more than a point, but the trend in this division was not uniform. Pennsylvania and New York Central advanced fractions. Deere climbed more than 3 in the farm implement group and Case moved forward 2⅝ points in an inactive market. Harvester lost a fraction.

Copper stocks were generally firm, reflecting satisfaction over production curtailment agreement. Kennecott and Anaconda were bid up fractions, but Cerro de Pasco broke out of the rut in a rise of 3½ points.

Some of Larger Gainers.

Stocks to gain 1 to 2 points or more included Standard Oil of New Jersey, Sears-Roebuck, Mosanto Chemical, Union Carbide, and Reynolds Tobacco. Losses exceeding a point were rare.

The London and New York Stock markets seem to be playing a big game of tag to determine which is the dominating influence on the trend of securities. For several days it has been almost a ritual for Wall streeters to take their cue from the performance of the London market. And in the British capital, cables indicate, Londoners are geared to follow the New York market.

The European market is being watched to find out whether there will be a repetition of weakness in the commodities markets. Wall street is said to be especially anxious to determine the status of speculative holdings of metals and whether fresh dumping is likely to appear at any moment.

Pennsylvania Railroad Orders Diesel Engine

The Pennsylvania railroad has ordered a 600 horse power Diesel electric engine from Electromotive corporation, Railway Age reports. Westinghouse Air Brake company is inquiring for one type 0-4-0 switching engine and the Central of Brazil for a number of locomotives. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe is reported inquiring for seventeen coaches and twenty baggage cars.

TRIAL TO START TOMORROW IN OIL TRUST SUIT

dicted. The Pure Oil company, dominated by the Dawes family; the Texas corporation, the Tidewater Associated Oil company, the Sinclair Refining company, the Continental Oil company, and the Phillips Petroleum company, also were indicted.

The initial step leading to indictment of these companies and individuals was taken by Attorney General Cummings in May, 1936, when he caused a special federal grand jury to be convened in Madison. At that time it was announced that the principal purpose of the grand jury would be to study complaints of independent oil dealers that the major oil companies were squeezing them out of business. The chief charge was that the oil companies collectively were buying gasoline from independent refiners, thereby fixing the price for that commodity in restraint of trade.

Started Under NIRA.

The basis for these charges, according to oil executives, grew out of a practice started soon after the adoption of the oil code under the National Industrial Recovery act, which was among the first bills passed by the congress following the inception of the Roosevelt administration. Quantities of gasoline were purchased by the major companies to bring about stabilized prices which, in turn, would mean firmer crude oil prices.

At the time of the passage of the National Industrial Recovery act, the oil industry was in a very unsettled state. Because of the development of the prolific east Texas oil field and the erection of a number of small refineries, the industry was suffering from a serious overproduction situation. The price of crude oil in the east Texas area had been reduced to 10 cents a barrel and some distress gasoline was reported sold as low as one cent a gallon.

First To Accept Code.

In the recovery program that was launched by the Roosevelt administration, the oil industry was the first to accept the code. Secretary of Interior Ickes was chosen to administer it. The program was to increase purchasing power of the country by raising wages, adopting a shorter work week and to stabilize prices. During the operation of the code, oil companies coöperated fully with Secretary Ickes in an effort to make this a model for other important industries to follow.

Coincident with rising wages and granting other benefits to employés, a pool of the major oil companies was formed to buy the surplus gasoline being produced by these independent refineries in order to bring about price stability. The result was that in the fall of 1933 crude oil prices in the southwest were established around $1 a barrel and gasoline prices had recovered to around 5 cents a gallon.

Considered Goal Attained.

The administration, so far as the oil industry was concerned, had obtained its goal. On the surface at least everything seemed to be working smoothly. Oil companies were making money, the public was getting oil products at fair prices, and employés were satisfied with higher wages. Crude oil production was being regulated and various differentials between refinery, tank wagon, and service stations were set up for gasoline. The regulations were so rigid that one or twc service station owners were prosecuted by the department of justice because they sold gasoline below the price fixed by those administering the code.

The code was administered jointly by the federal authorities and representatives of the oil companies. A large staf of workers was employed by the government and the congress subsequently levied a tax on crude oil to defray the cost of administering the oil code.

Permanent Code Sought.

Secretary Ickes and other members of the administration were so pleased with the operation of the oil code that they soon started a movement to make permanent the control by the federal government over the oil industry. A tentative draft of some such law was submitted to the congress. The oil companies were opposed to permanent regulations and Secretary Ickes and other members of the administration received much criticism from important quarters of the industry for making such efforts.

When the National Industrial Recovery act was invalidated by the Supreme court in the spring of 1935 the oil code also was rendered null and void. Thus the acts of the oil companies which were in conflict with the Sherman anti-trust act were illegal.

Indicted on Three Counts.

The indictments contain three counts alleging [1] unlawful agreements by the defendants to fix and restrict gasoline jobber margins, [2] unlawful agreements to maintain uniform jobber contracts, and [3] unlawful agreements to adopt uniform policies with respect to jobbers. These agreements are alleged to have been made as early as 1931 and continuing to the time the companies and individuals were indicted.

The prosecution of the case is being done directly through the attorney general's office in Washington. Four members of Cummings' staf have been sent to Madison and W. P. Crawford, an old time trial lawyer from Superior, Wis., has been made a special counsel for this case.

Col. William J. Donovan, former assistant attorney general in the Coolidge administration and the Republican candidate for governor of New York in 1932, is chief of counsel for the defense. In addition there will be forty-five other attorneys who will represent the various defendants.

IC ARMAMENT GRAM BOOSTS ITISH DEFICIT

Mounting Costs Offset Higher Income.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—With armament expenditure dominating Great Britain's financial picture, the revenue returns for the first half of the current fiscal year, disclosed by the treasury this week, show an increase of $90,718,800 in the national deficit. Revenues for the six months ended Sept. 30 amounted to $1,544,308,725 and expenditures totaled $2,036,988,975.

The resultant deficit of $492,680,250 compares with $401,961,450 on the same date a year ago. While expenditures to the end of September soared $174,248,950 income rose only $83,530,150 up. Official statistics indicate that costs are rising in nearly every department, but by far the biggest increase occurred in armaments.

Armament Cost Soars.

The military, naval and air force expansion so far this year cost Britain $129,750,000 more than in the first half of the previous year. Of $91,340,000 estimated as the taxpayers' contribution toward rearmament for the full year, $523,000,000 already is spent, the treasury said, against $393,250,000 in the same period last year.

This year's armaments estimate of $991,340,000 does not include $400,000,000 to be met from borrowed money under the defense loan act of 1937, which will swell the total to more than $1,391,000,000.

An upward swing also was recorded in civil expenditures, which was $25,000,000 higher at $948,138,000. Interest and similar charges increased by $20,000,000.

The revenue, it was pointed out, has come in well as indicated by the fact that about 40 per cent of the estimated expansion of $191,000,000 for the full year has already accrued in the lean first half.

Income Taxes Higher.

The income tax and surtax, expected to produce $175,000,000 more this year, so far have brought in $40,000,000 extra, compared with last year, though only about one-sixth of the total yet has been collected.

Death duties are up $25,000,000, against an estimated increase for the whole year of only $5,000,000. Customs and excise, expected to produce $61,500,000 more in the year, so far show a gain of almost $50,000,000—reflecting the revival of foreign trade and the maintenance of domestic purchasing power.

Receipts from stamp duties, however, lag behind with a decline of $1,800,000, indicating reduced activity in the stock market. Miscellaneous revenue is down sharply with a drop of close to $31,000,000, and is expected to fall further before the end of the year.

COAL BOARD'S COST DATA SENT TO PRODUCERS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The coal commission sent to soft coal producers east of the Mississippi today calculations of basic production costs in the bituminous coal industry upon which the commission soon will predicate minimum coal prices.

The producers' district boards will be asked to adjust the basic cost figures for the various coal regions in line with wage increases and other material cost increases since last January.

Some of the producers, it was learned, expect that the commission's final figures on the cost of producing bituminous coal will be lower than the tentative figures of $2.22 a ton for the Appalachian region and $1.88 for the Mississippi valley region set by the commission at the beginning of the price conferences.

Federal Supply Awards Decrease in Last Week

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Government supply contracts under the terms of the Walsh-Healey public contracts act during the week ended Sept. 30 amounted to $3,870,694, the labor department announced today. This compared with a total of $6,086,481 in the preceding week. Eleven agencies reported sixty-five awards.

More on 77B.

Reorganization plans under section 77B of the amended federal bankruptcy law may be submitted by the corporation, by creditors, and under certain conditions by stockholders. A creditors' plan, to be recognized by the court, must represent at least 25 per cent of the claims of one class against the company.

Interested persons are notified when the reorganization plan is filed. Before a plan can be declared effective it must have the signed approval of at least two-thirds of each class of creditors and 51 per cent of each class of stockholders.

Then, if the court approves the plan as fair and equitable, it is binding on all parties, even though some might have opposed it. The act provides, however, that any person who does not assent to the plan shall have opportunity to voice his objections to it in court before final approval by the court is given. When final approval is made the corporation, theoretically, is again in a sound financial condition, with its organization, personnel, and clientele little disturbed by the proceedings.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The treasury reported today its deficit for the first three months of this fiscal year was $273,823,482. The figure was $436,000,000 in the first week of September—exceeding President Roosevelt's $418,000,000 estimate of the deficit for the whole year—but September's improved quarterly tax collections reduced it.

The three months' collections brought $1,650,690,763 into the federal till, including $707,190,730 of income taxes. In the similar period last year collections totaled $1,135,915,677, including $625,335,765 of income taxes. Expenditures were $1,924,514,245 for the three months, compared with $1,660,799,764 a year ago.

On Sept. 30 the gross federal debt stood at $36,424,613,732.

BREWMASTER NAMED TRUSTEE FOR ATLAS CO.

Allowed to Make Operating Loan.

Judge Charles E. Woodward in federal District court yesterday appointed Henry M. Birsmer, Atlas Brewing company brewmaster, as temporary trustee for the company pending reorganization under the amended bankruptcy laws.

Three Atlas creditors filed a petition on Sept. 29 asking reorganization of the concern. In an answer to the petition yesterday, Richard Mayer, representing the company and stockholder interests, consented to appointment of a trustee. He denied, however, that the concern was insolvent but admitted it was unable to meet current obligations.

Set Hearing for Nov. 1.

Judge Woodward scheduled another hearing for Nov. 1 to determine whether Birsmer's appointment shall be permanent. Birsmer was placed under a $50,000 bond.

The brewmaster was given authority to borrow up to $25,000 by selling receiver's certificates to provide funds for operation of the business.

Atlas is the second large Chicago brewing company to be involved in reorganization proceedings. The other is the Prima Brewing company.

Departure in Appointment.

Appointment of the brewmaster marked a departure from recent selections of outsiders to trusteeships. The naming of Birsmer recalled the recent Prima litigation involving alleged mismanagement of an outsider. Judge John P. Barnes in July awarded Prima $568,895 in damages from the Harris Trust and Savings bank and the First National Bank of Chicago. The court contended that the banks were liable for losses incurred while an outsider—Garrett C. Skinner—was placed in charge of the brewing company at the banks' insistence to protect loans. An appeal has been made.

NEW PLANNING UNITS FOUGHT BY TRADE CHAMBER

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—New criticism of the administration's proposal for seven regional planning agencies like the Tennessee Valley authority came today from the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. It ordered a vote taken on the issue by its 1,500 member organizations.

The board announced one of its special committees had found there was no need for regional planning groups and said creation of such agencies would interfere with flood control proposals and invade state rights. The committee report said one possibility was that the regional authorities would interfere in controversies among many of the western states which use the priority or appropriation system of dividing water among would-be users.

The committee suggested that if the purpose of the proposed legislation was to coördinate the work of existing agencies, these agencies should be reorganized rather than "superimposing a new layer of government upon a defective structure."

3 NEW JERSEY BANKS CLOSED; FORM NEW ONE

Perth Amboy, N. J., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The Federal Deposit Insurance corporation announced here today the discontinuance of three banks as of the close of business today and the establishment of a new bank which will take over the business of the closed institutions Monday morning.

The banks to be discontinued are the First National bank of Perth Amboy, the Perth Amboy Trust company, and the Raritan Trust company. The new bank will be known as the First Bank and Trust company of Perth Amboy. The closed banks will be liquidated.

The new institution will have assets of $6,900,000. The liabilities, aside from deposits, include $750,000 of preferred stock held by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, $100,000 of common stock, and $50,000 of surplus.

August Whisky Production Runs Far Below Year Ago

August whisky production in the United States totaled 6,842,527 gallons, compared with 17,826,522 gallons in August, 1936, the bureau of internal revenue reported yesterday. Tax paid withdrawals in August were 4,658,219 gallons, against 4,278,284 in August last year. Stocks of whisky on hand at the end of August were 449,793,863 gallons, against 328,792,175 gallons a year ago.

Melville Shoe Four Week Sales Rise 12.2 Per Cent

The Melville Shoe company yesterday reported sales for the four weeks ended Sept. 25 were $3,802,255, an increase of 12.2 per cent over sales of $3,387,267 in the like weeks of 1936. MILLION WORK IN ONE RUSSIAN GOLD DISTRICT

Soviet Expects to Lead in World Output.

Gora and Kirovsk in the far east, in Klutchi in East Siberia, in Lebedini near Yakutsk, in Kommunar in West Siberia, and in Beresewsk in the Urals. Gold reefs have also been discovered in Turkestan and Cossackstan and in the far north, west of the Urals, on the Pechera river where colonization has been proceeding for some years. Through using original methods our gold output is increasing rapidly and America and England can today learn something from us."

Although new gold mines have been opened in many distant regions the Lena gold fields still continue the most important source in Russia, according to the Za Industrializatsia. Since its discovery a century ago Lena has produced 750 tons of gold. Soviet geologists, who have made careful explorations, estimate there is sufficient goldbearing sand and ore to last another hundred years even with intensive exploitation. They believe the new gold reefs which have been discovered are the largest in the world.

Working Methods Changed.

Working methods are changing rapidly in the Lena fields. Many small mines of one and two hundred feet in depth have been constructed. Seven large hydraulic sets have been installed and the new dredges now working are operated by electricity. A 2,000 kilowatt steam electric station has been erected and a powerful hydroelectric station is being built on the river Engashimo. Railway communication is still lacking, and of the 1,200 miles separating Lena from Irkutsk only 160 are traversed by road. The remaining distance is traveled by boats. Sixty-five miles of narrow gauge railway with 16 locomotives and 300 cars are helping to transport ore to smelters.

Transportation Chief Problem.

"Lena's chief problem is obtaining railroad transport," says the paper. "It now costs 500 rubles [1 ruble is 20 cents] per ton to ship supplies from Irkutsk to Lena, and the authorities refuse to send more supplies until we increase the gold output. The river journey takes twenty-five to forty days, and in the winter the district is almost completely cut off. Four thousand workers have been permitted to cultivate individual gardens, and potatoes and turnips have been acclimatized."

"The population of Lena is now 80,000, or three times as much as in the czar's time. Communal barracks are slowly being replaced with small four room cottages, which house one or more families in each room. Communal feeding is unsatisfactory and there is discontent because many people are still housed in barracks. About 6,000 children are attending school in the town, and 270 cows provide enough milk to supply the two hospitals and some of the children's clinics and families of higher officials."

Big Gain Since 1930.

The soviet press never mentions the gold production of different mines and districts, but Za Industrializatsia remarks that the total of gold produced in 1936 "was 700 per cent of the 1930 record."

The wages earned by the gold miners are also rarely mentioned in Russian publications. In a recent article discussing primitive conditions prevailing in the Shatoma district the Trud reports that some prospectors are able to make as much as 10 roubles a day. To reach gold bearing sand in this district the miners must dig shafts 15 to 30 feet deep. Shatoma is north of Lake Baikal and little attention has been paid by the G. P. U. [secret police] to this territory, according to Trud. The miners in this area urgently need medical service and better equipment. The settlement is also reported to have no wells, and the river water is reported to be contaminated, especially in the spring.

PWA SUES W. VIRGINIA CITY FOR 'WILLFUL' DEFAULT ON BONDS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Charging willful default of payments on $90,000 of bonds purchased by the government, the Public Works administration has entered suit for collection in the federal District court of West Virginia against the city of Point Pleasant, it was announced today. The case is the first of its kind instituted by PWA despite the fact that on Aug. 31 a total default of $1,061,763 existed on 223 issues.

The Point Pleasant action falls in the category of communities which have borrowed from PWA but have ignored the obligations which officials believe they are capable of meeting, PWA officials said.

The project was a sewer for which PWA made a loan of $81,000 and a grant of $30,000. Subsequently the PWA purchased negotiable special obligation coupon bonds in the amount of $90,000.

PWA officials called attention of the community's default to city officials, but finally decided that it was useless to continue to negotiate with them.

WALLACE SPEECH SENDS COTTON TO SEASON'S LOW

Heavy buying of cotton futures by commercial and foreign interests yesterday was more than offset by hedging pressure and selling induced by a bearish construction placed on Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's speech at Memphis Friday. Deferred deliveries of cotton futures sold at a new low level for the season. Closing trades were at practically the bottom, with net losses in American markets ranging from .07 to .18 cent a pound.

Secretary Wallace on Friday expressed the belief the carryover of American cotton on July 31, 1938, would be between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 bales, compared with a little over 6,000,000 bales on July 31, 1937. The prospective world carryover at the end of the season was expected to be 17,000,000 to 18,000,000 bales, the largest on record. World consumption of cotton in 1936-'37 was 31,000,000 bales.

Spot cotton closed .10 cent lower, with New Orleans 8.25 cents, New York 8.45 cents, Galveston 8.05 cents, and Houston at 8 cents a pound. Prices follow:

GRAINS ADVANCE FRACTIONALLY IN DULL TRADING

Foreign Demand for Cash Wheat Again Small.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

Closing prices on the December deliveries of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Friday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$1.08¼	$1.07¾	$1.15
Corn	.63¾	.63½	.94¼
Oats	.30¾	.30¾	.42¼
Rye	.79¼	.79	.89¼
Soy beans	.94¼	.94¼	...

Speculative interest in grains was extremely small yesterday. Wheat and corn futures held within a range of about ¼ cent a bushel most of the day and closed fractionally higher. Foreign demand for North American cash wheat was dull and sales were small.

Dry weather and hot winds in Australia adversely affected wheat futures in Liverpool, which closed ⅝ to 1¼ cents a bushel lower, failing to fully reflect the decline in North America late Friday. Buenos Aires futures were mixed.

Canadian Market Firm.

Deliveries of 247,000 bushels of No. 1 garnet spring wheat were made on October contracts at Winnipeg, but the Canadian market showed a relatively firm undertone. It was reported that ship space has been chartered for shipment of 18,000,000 bushels of cash grain from North America to Europe during the next few months.

A forecast for wet weather this week led to moderate buying of December and May corn futures, as traders feared the movement of the new crop might be delayed.

Country Sells More Corn.

Country offerings for deferred shipment were slightly larger, purchases of 62,000 bushels being reported. An easier undertone developed in the market for new corn toward the close.

Price changes in oats, rye, and soy bean futures were confined to small fractions of a cent a bushel with little interest shown in the markets.

A corn crop of 2,560,000,000 bushels was estimated yesterday by the J. E. Bennett & Co.-C. M. Galvin report. This compares with 2,549,000,000 bushels by the government a month ago, and with 1,529,000,000 bushels harvested in 1936.

AUTUMN DECLINE IN LAKE SHIPPING ACTIVITY STARTS

Four Boats Are Retired in Last Week.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—After operating at capacity since the Great Lakes navigation season got under way early last May, vessel owners started to curtail their fleets last week, sending four boats to the docks. More ships will be retired weekly, owners announced today.

The Great Lakes Steamship company took two vessels out of service and the Wilson Transit company retired two. Major operators, however, will not send their freighters to the docks until late this month. The Pittsburgh Steamship company, subsidiary of United States Steel corporation has 75 boats in commission. Interlake Steamship company has 45 and Cleveland Cliffs Iron company 24.

More Boats Operated.

Vessel companies are operating 307 boats, exclusive of self-loaders, against 262 at this time last year. Scores of freighters were sent to the docks during the first two weeks of October a year ago, but the boats will not be dropped as rapidly this season, due to the huge ore movement.

Bituminous coal shipments increased in the week ended Sept. 27, according to the Ore and Coal exchange, but the movement is not as heavy as it was a year ago. Shipments for the week totaled 1,222,287 tons, against 1,396,128 tons in the same week last year. The movement for the season aggregated 33,299,619 tons, compared with 31,128,472 tons during the corresponding period last year, 26,143,401 tons in 1935, and 26,664,572 tons in 1934.

Wheat Shipments Below 1936.

Wheat shipments from Fort William and Port Arthur increased in the week ended Sept. 25, but fell below the same week last season. Vessels loaded 4,390,234 bushels, against 6,933,224 bushels last year. Receipts totaled 5,539,975 bushels compared with 9,223,387 bushels last year.

At the close of the week elevators at the two ports were holding 19,969,620 bushels of wheat, 684,413 bushels of oats, 5,245,105 bushels of barley, 297,130 bushels of flaxseed, and 751,675 bushels of rye.

A year ago the figures were 36,415,935 bushels of wheat, 2,749,082 bushels of oats, 5,063,795 bushels of barley, 127,502 bushels of flaxseed, and 1,390,396 bushels of rye.

Announce Two Outlying Neighborhood Home Building Programs of 140 Units

40 BRICK HOUSES TO BE ERECTED IN ROSELAND AREA

Plan One Hundred More in Lincolnwood.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Two home building programs were announced yesterday, one for the Roseland area, and the other in Lincolnwood. They call for a total of 140 residential units. In both projects the homes will be of brick and all will have air conditioning systems. Residences will be financed through mortgages insured by the Federal Housing administration and amortized over a period of 19½ years.

According to Albert S. Bierly, for many years with Edgar M. Snow & Co., and recently active in getting the Roseland project under way, there are no vacant living accommodations in that area.

Will Start This Week.

Yesterday he said that the William J. Venning Realty company of 40 East 112th street, Roseland, would start this week on the first six of a contemplated forty brick residences of six rooms each. The balance of the building program's total will be built during the fall and winter.

The Venning concern has purchased forty lots, all 35 by 135, in the Stewart Ridge subdivision, which was marketed in 1923, 1924, and 1925. Although all of the 265 lots comprising the subdivision, which covers eight square blocks bounded by State street, Wentworth avenue, 121st and 122d streets, were sold, only one house ever was erected.

The lots are on streets which are paved and entirely paid for several years ago and are all restricted to houses which must cost more than $5,000. Venning said the new homes will range from $6,500 to $7,000 in cost, with a $1,000 down payment and the balance financed with an FHA mortgage, amortized over 19½ years. This means, he said, monthly payments of between $55 and $60.

With four houses completed, and eighteen more scheduled for erection this fall, Lincolnwood Developments, Inc., a new organization, yesterday outlined a building program which calls for a total of one hundred homes in the Lincolnwood district [formerly Tessville] by the autumn of 1938.

Lincolnwood Developments has acquired control of twenty acres of land bounded by Morse, Keeler, Pratt, and Kostner avenues.

Two of the four houses just completed already have been sold. All of the homes are of brick construction and were designed by Machaelsen & Rognstad, Chicago architects. Their prices range from $7,500 to $9,500. They are of Colonial, English, and Norman design.

Between Park and Club.

The houses are being marketed by the Triangle Realty company. Clifford C. Elger, attorney, is in charge of the legal affairs of the development. The property has been approved by the Federal Housing administration for loans.

The twenty acres comprise four blocks of land just north of and across Pratt avenue from the Bryn Mawr Country club grounds. To the north, across Morse avenue, is the village park.

AMUSEMENT FIRM LEASES MADISON, KEDZIE BUILDING

The Kedzie Amusement corporation yesterday signed a new lease for ten years on the building at the northwest corner of Madison and Kedzie, bought recently by Dr. Frank L. Nathanson for an indicated $215,000. Of this amount the buyer paid $150,000 in cash and $65,000 with a purchase money mortgage. Nathanson conveyed title to the Charlotte Properties, Inc., which, it is understood, he owns.

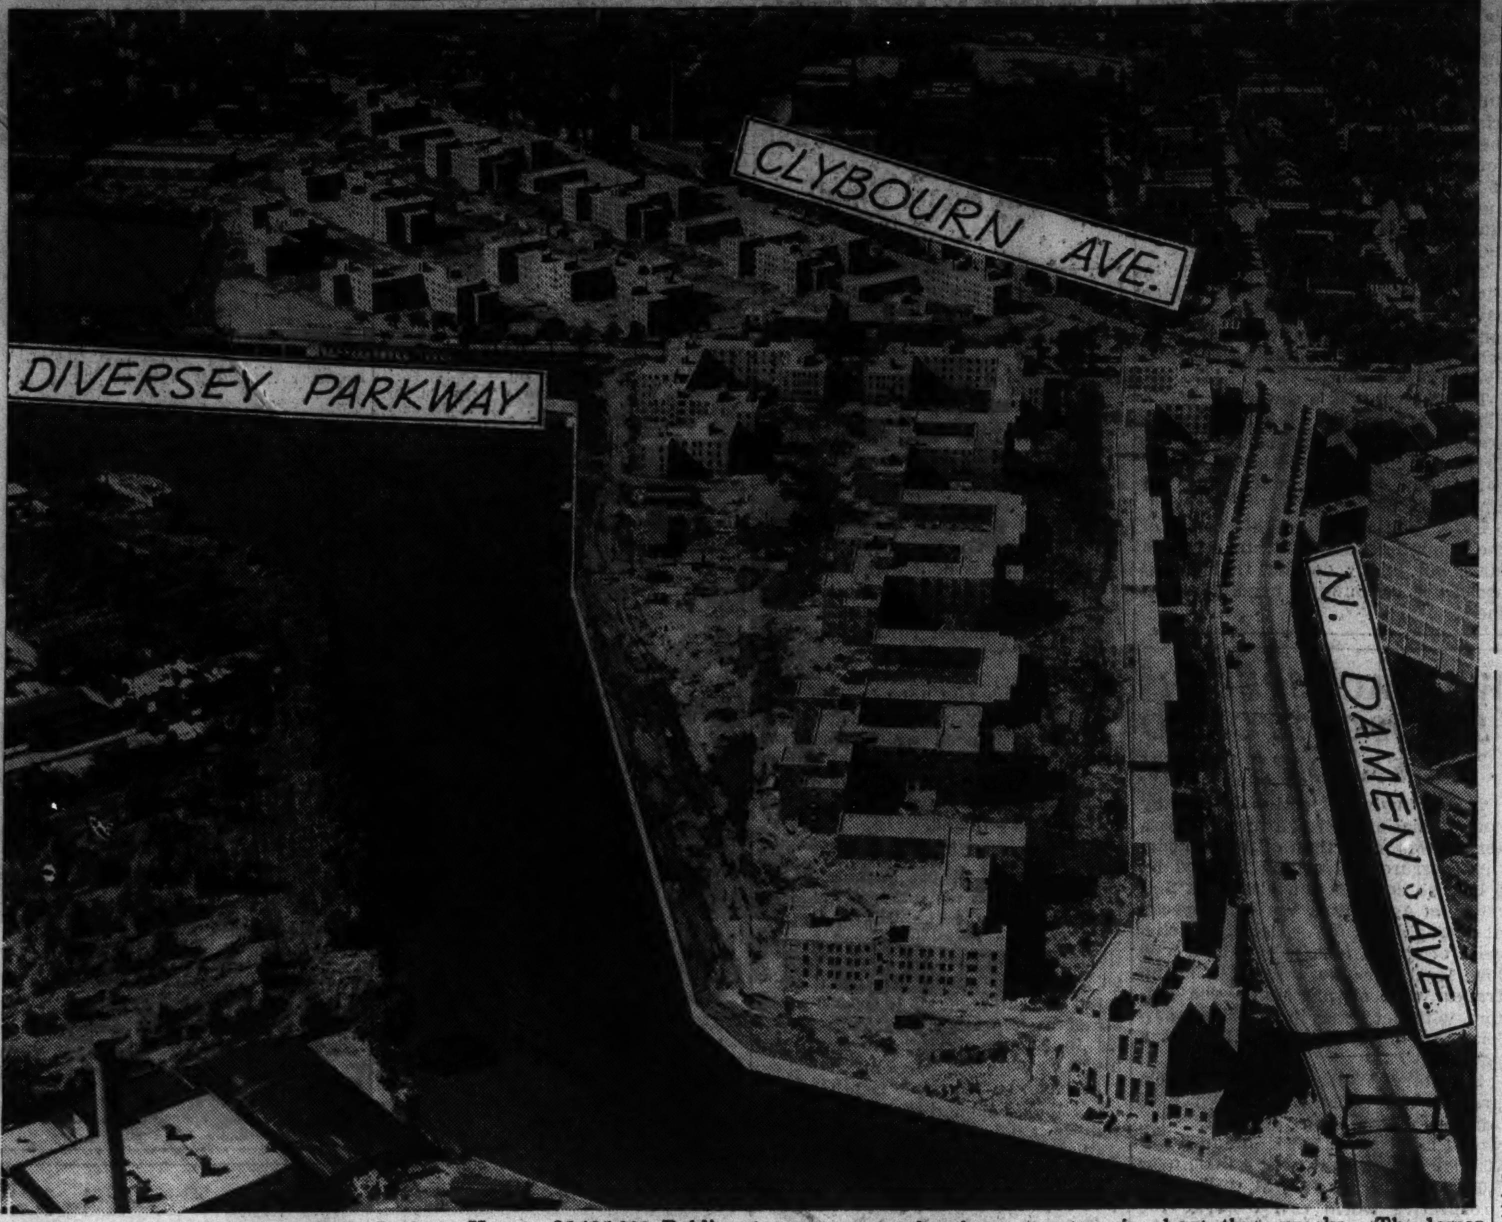
The lease calls for an average yearly rental of $19,000, according to Hogan & Farwell, Inc., who negotiated the sale and the lease for the seller. The buyer was represented by Morris Goodman, of Horton E. Olson, Inc., and Joseph Varon, attorney.

The Kedzie Amusement corporation acquired the leasehold interest formerly owned by Fremont B. Malcolm and the Estate of John A. Rogers. Extensive remodeling with air conditioning for the two theaters is contemplated.

Contracts Awarded

Contracts awarded in Chicago during the week ended Sept. 30, according to figures supplied by the F. W. Dodge corporation, totaled twenty-five, with a combined cost of $411,000. For the corresponding week last year there were forty-four contracts totaling $833,788. So far this year the total cost of contracts is $43,949,283, compared with $35,480,197 for the same period last year.

Air View of North Side Federal Housing Project



This is an air view of the Julia Lathrop Homes, $5,185,000 Public Works administration housing project at Diversey parkway, Damen, and Clybourn avenues and the north branch of the Chicago river, looking north. The accommodations for 925 families will not be ready for several weeks. According to the project manager the section north of Diversey parkway, at the top of the picture, should be turned over to the government by the contractors in about three weeks. The lower section, south of Diversey, is about six weeks behind the upper group. Approximately 6,700 families have filed applications for homes in this PWA project. As a result of the inability of Housing Administrator Ickes at Washington to decide on a rent schedule no tenants have yet been selected.

COUNTRY CLUB PLANS $75,000 MODERNIZATION

Members of the Oak Park Country club have endorsed a program of modernization to cost $75,000, according to Helmer A. Melum, president. Plans by Peter Mayo of Mayo & Mayo call for a swimming pool and bath house, an addition to the men's lounge, construction of a lounging porch to the north of the present ballroom, reconstruction of the men's shower room, reconstruction and enlargement of the offices and women's cloak room, enclosing and extending a porch adjoining the ball room on the east. The program also provides for the rebuilding of the women's locker room, "pro" shop, and kitchens, and the purchase of new equipment and furnishings for all these improvements.

Start Wrecking Old Post Office Building, Oak Park

Razing of the old Oak Park post office building at the northeast corner of Lake street and Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, is under way. Foundations for an eight story building may be installed instead of for six as originally planned, according to Dr. Martin D. Jones, head of the owning syndicate.

GRANDDAUGHTER OF OTTO YOUNG BUYS HIS LAKE GENEVA ESTATE

The Otto Young estate at Lake Geneva, comprising 300 acres, was purchased by Mrs. Fred Koch of Lake Forest, a granddaughter of the late Otto Young. The buyer formerly was Miss Gwendolyn Heyworth, whose mother was wife of Lawrence Heyworth before she married the Count de Korwin. Mrs. Koch is wife of Fred Koch of the trust department of the Northern Trust company.

The property acquired comprises seventeen acres of lake front improved with a large white stone residence, one of the show places of Lake Geneva, erected many years ago. It has been vacant for several years. Across the highway are twenty-one acres on which stands an immense coach barn. In addition there is a 262 acre farm near by.

Mrs. Koch said she had no plans for use of the property. She does not intend to live there.

The price was $135,000 according to the revenue stamps. The property fronts 125 feet on Buena avenue and 183 feet on Hazel avenue. Nathan Swartz was attorney for the buyer.

LEASES WACKER-DEARBORN SPACE.

The American Dry Milk institute, Inc., leased for a term of years the entire third floor at the southeast corner of Wacker drive and Dearborn street. Roy H. Krueger of Ross, Browne & Fleming was broker for the lessee and Charles F. Grey for the lessor.

Bids on South Shore Flat Project Taken

Bids are now being taken on a four story reinforced concrete fireproof apartment building to be erected at 7524-38 Yates avenue from plans by Emanuel M. Feinstein, architect and structural engineer. It will cost about $250,000, and has been financed with a $175,000 mortgage.

Containing ninety-six small furnished kitchen apartments, with a five room penthouse suite, the building has been leased for twenty years by Raskin Brothers, operators of several outlying hotels. Work is expected to start within thirty days with completion scheduled for May 1, 1938.

The entire building will be air conditioned. The property fronts 150 feet on Yates avenue with a depth of 125 feet. The building will have passenger and freight elevators.

COURT APPROVES REORGANIZATION OF ONE LA SALLE

Bondholders Get Most of New Stock.

The Circuit court of Cook county has confirmed the sale of the forty-seven story One La Salle street building to a new corporation, the One La Salle company, and approved the reorganization plan adopted in 1934. This was announced yesterday by M. A. Rosenthal, secretary of the first mortgage bondholders' committee.

The plan has been modified so that depositing first mortgage bondholders will receive approximately 88½ per cent of the capital stock of the new company, and litigation which held up the reorganization has been ended. Ten per cent of the stock will go to the equity owners and stockholders in the old corporation. Holders of second mortgage bonds will get the remaining 1½ per cent of the stock.

Vote Cash Dividend.

New securities will be ready for distribution shortly, Rosenthal said, in exchange for the certificates of deposit.

Directors of the new company recommended a liquidating dividend of $2.50 per share, subject to approval by stockholders, who will meet Oct. 19. This disbursement will be payable out of the paid-in surplus of the One La Salle company. Dividend checks will be delivered with the new securities.

Aldis J. Browne, George W. Griffiths, Louis J. Krensky, Jay C. McCord, and George W. Rossetter compose the directorate of the new company.

Majority Favor Trust.

A referendum of old bondholders as to the formation of a stock trust showed a majority favored it. They will receive trust certificates for ten shares of stock in exchange for each $1,000 certificate of deposit. Those who voted against a trust will receive stock certificates on the same basis.

The reorganization involved $5,250,000 of 6 per cent first mortgage leasehold sinking fund bonds underwritten in 1928 by S. W. Straus & Co. The land is owned by the University of Chicago.

The ground lease is on a minimum guarantee and percentage basis. It calls for a minimum annual rent of $175,000 to April 30, 1938, and $200,000 for the remaining 90 years to April 30, 2028. In addition, the lease calls for ten per cent of gross income in excess of $700,000 per year and 20 per cent when over $900,000.

All reorganization expenses and taxes are paid in full, it was asserted. The company has set aside reserves for currently accruing taxes. In addition to this there is a cash reserve of $100,000 for any future contingencies.

Four Apartment Building Is Sold for $16,500

The four apartment building at 2703-05 Ardmore avenue has been sold by Catherine and Martin Munster to Andrew and Mary Karl for a reported $16,500. Charles Kruggel of Arthur Kruggel & Co., and O. H. Hoppe were the brokers.

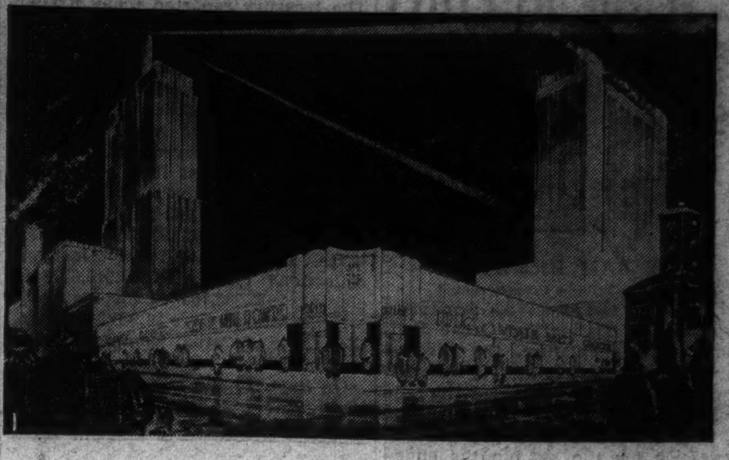
At State and Division



B. Leo Steif & Co. are architects for this one story business building to be erected at the southeast corner of North State and Division streets by a Chicago syndicate which recently bought the property for $100,000.

Will Build at Division and State Corner

Plans are now being drawn by B. Leo Steif & Co., Inc., for a one story business building at the southeast corner of State and Division streets. Work is scheduled to start on Jan. 2 with completion promised for May 1 renting. The architect places the construction cost at $65,000.

Of Bedford stone, the new structure will have six stores. As a corner entrance is much sought after, the architect has planned for two corner doors, one leading into a store with windows on Division and the other an L shaped store with windows on State and a side entrance on Division.

Owned by Syndicate.

The building will be owned by a syndicate which purchased the corner in August from Mrs. Fanny Cary of New York, and the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, for $100,000 in cash. Albert H. Wetten & Co., who represented both buyer and seller, will be renting and management agents of the new building. Title was taken for the syndicate by Julius C. Jaffe.

The land, which is 86½ by 90 feet, is improved with three old buildings, erected shortly after the Chicago fire. The florist shop of Katharine B. Adams has occupied the corner space for more than twenty years. Another tenant who has been in the same location even longer is John S. Purtill, grocer.

Colored Display Lights.

According to Architect Steif the building owners will control all window displays and will insist on windows being well lighted throughout every evening. In order to avoid the monotony of electric signs all of the same color, usually red, every tenant will have a different shade of Neon lights in front of his shop.

E. C. CURTIS WILL MANAGE TWO PWA HOME PROJECTS

E. C. Curtis, project manager of one of the Public Works administration's housing projects in Cleveland, has been appointed successor to H. L. Small as project manager of the Julia Lathrop Homes and the Trumbull Park Homes, PWA housing projects in Chicago. Small retired after three years of government housing service to return to private business. He is with the A. S. Shulman Electric company of Chicago and will have charge of the erection of a power transmission line from Skagit dam to Seattle, Wash.

At the Realty Boards

The nominating committee of the Chicago Real Estate board will announce its slate of officers for the coming year at the regular monthly meeting of the board next Wednesday evening at the board rooms, 32 West Randolph street. An election committee will be appointed. Hyde W. Perce, globe trotting realtor, will tell of his recent round the world cruise.

Assessor John S. Clark will speak before the Evanston-North Shore Real Estate board tomorrow evening, at the board rooms, 616 Church street, Evanston.

Howard T. East, district superintendent of the Public Service company of Northern Illinois, with offices in Oak Park, will address the Oak Park Real Estate board at its luncheon meeting tomorrow noon at the Oak Manor hotel.

BUSINESS SCHOOL ENLARGES ITS LOOP QUARTERS

The Bryant and Stratton Business college, established in Chicago in 1856, will enlarge its quarters for the third time since 1929. According to F. W. Hazleton, manager of the college, increased enrollment has required an increase of teaching staf and more floor space. With the opening of the fall semester tomorrow the school will occupy another floor in the building at 18 South Michigan avenue, making three floors in all. The space will be divided into six classrooms.

Salem Church Diamond Fete to Open Today

Three-quarters of a century ago a church, whose name meant peace, came to the prairie district of 21st and Archer avenue. This month it will celebrate its diamond anniversary at its latest house of worship, the Salem Evangelical church, 6820 South Emerald avenue.

During its history a busy ministry has baptized 7,827 persons, married 2,756 couples, buried 5,240 parishioners, given communion to 57,738 worshipers, and confirmed 2,555 members.

The Salem Evangelical church was founded in 1862 and intrusted to the care of the Rev. Frederick Menzel, who remained with the church until 1865, when the Rev. Ernest Guntrum took over the pastorate. Succeeding pastors were a Rev. Mr. Wargowski, the Rev. Louis Kling, and the Rev. Carl Krafft. In 1871 the church moved to Wentworth avenue and Bushnell street and stayed on rented ground until 1881, when a site was purchased at 25th street and Wentworth avenue, bringing the English Gospel into the heart of a then notorious area.

Branch Founded in 1910.

An Englewood branch of the church was founded in 1910 in a tiny store at 217 West 68th street. Soon the services became crowded and the present site was bought. A bungalow house of prayer was erected there and in 1927 a Gothic community school hall, valued at $100,000, was built to house a growing congregation. The present pastor is the Rev. Joseph A. George, who assumed his duties in 1915.

The anniversary services will open this morning with Dr. F. C. Klick of St. Louis, president of the Evangelical Reformed church, delivering the main address. In the afternoon a musical vesper will be held. Next Sunday will be devoted to women's work and the sermon will be given by the Rev. F. W. Schroeder of Portage Park, president of the district of northern Illinois.

The men of the church will be addressed Oct. 11 by Dr. George L. Scherger of St. Paul's church, and on Oct. 26 an afternoon reception will be held for the Cradle Roll Mothers, with Dr. Katherine Mayer as the guest speaker. An intervening social event will be a women's luncheon on Oct. 13, at which Mrs. Fred Waterman, publicity chairman of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, will talk.

Plan Reunion Service.

Members who have been confirmed during the last seventy-five years will hold a confirmation reunion service on Oct. 17. They will have for their guest speaker the Rev. Emil N. Krafft of Cleveland, O., a son of the former pastor of the church. Other events during the month will be a reunion banquet on Oct. 20, at which Dr. Louis W. Goebel of Palmer square, vice president of the Evangelical Reformed church, will speak; religious education day on Oct. 24, with Prof. T. W. Mueller of Elmhurst college as special guest, and the last Sunday of the anniversary month when the Rev. Mr. George will conduct a communion service.

A service for friends in the community will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday evening with ministers of various churches in Englewood delivering congratulatory messages. Those participating will be the Rev. Howard Vernon, pastor of Englewood Baptist church; the Rev. C. G. Kindred, pastor of Englewood Christian church; the Rev. Frederick T. Mills, pastor of Emerald Avenue Presbyterian church; the Rev. James F. Le Clere, pastor of Englewood United Memorial church; the Rev. Robert C. Kienle, pastor of St. Luke Evangelical church; the Rev. H. J. Schick, pastor of Immanuel Evangelical church; the Rev. Edward J. Sonne, pastor of Bishop Cheney Memorial church, and James F. McFarland, executive secretary of the Englewood Y. M. C. A.

Names of Present Officers.

Present officers of the church are William F. Bazner, president; J. C. Hartung, vice president; Clarence Stermer, recording secretary; Armand Schultz, financial secretary, and Frank J. Koch, treasurer.

Among the societies in the church are the Church school, headed by Harry Ruter; the Men's club, the Mission society, the Young People's society, the church choir under the direction of Prof. L. B. Cox, the Cradle Roll, with Mrs. Dorothy George as president, and a home department, with Edward Hofsommer as superintendent.

The fall season will begin for southwest Boy Scouts and leaders Saturday and next Sunday when an overnight camping trip and Scoutcraft competition will be held at Camp Kiwanis near Willow Springs.

Outstanding units among the 116 troops in the district will be awarded "A" rank after judges have passed on their organization proficiency, general morale, campcraft abilities, neatness and displays. A campfire will be the rallying spot for the Scouts on Saturday night. Church services will be held Sunday morning.

The "camporee" will be directed by C. M. Olsen, 8004 South Eberhart avenue, district activities chairman; Edward Wilkowski, 3401 South Justine street; Robert Bantz, 6700 South Racine avenue; Joseph Grzinia, 3137 South May street; Gerald Primm, 1811 West 103d street; Harry Laning, 5810 South Fairfield avenue; Fred Wadley, 7922 South Lowe avenue, and Theodore Rowe, 5707 South Winchester avenue. Why School Proms Are So Decorative

After thinking with anticipation about the approaching social season and then glancing furtively at their wardrobes, students of Aquinas High school are encouraged over the timeliness of the fall fashion revue which the South Shore Dominican High School Mothers' club will sponsor tomorrow evening in the school auditorium, 72d street and Clyde avenue. Seated is Miss Virginia Gordon, 2360 East 70th street, in the black and gold lame gown which she will model. Standing (left to right) are Miss Margaret Trude, 7000 South Shore drive, in romance blue satin; Miss Jane Vaughan, 7348 Calumet avenue, wearing black velvet with ashes of roses lining to match her corsage, and Miss Rita Foley, 6128 South Rockwell street, in white shimmering satin with gold slippers and bag. They are pictured at the South Shore Country club.

TUESDAY IS LAST DAY FOR GENERAL VOTE REGISTRY

200,000 Townsmen Still Lacking in Poll.

The 200,000 or more Cook county voters from country towns who failed to enter the permanent registration system last Monday will have their second opportunity to do so on Tuesday.

Precinct polling places in 80 cities and villages in 28 townships will be open from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. on that day for the convenience of the voters, who must record their names under the new "honest ballot" law before they can vote again.

Registration under the new law is simple, it was pointed out by County Clerk Michael J. Flynn, who has charge of the new system in the outlying towns.

Must Sign Cards.

The voter need merely visit his polling place and furnish information concerning himself, signing three cards that will be filled in by a polling place worker.

After Tuesday it will not be so simple to register, Flynn said. The voter who does not visit his polling place then must make a personal appearance before his township or municipal clerk in order to qualify for his franchise. This he can do only from the first Monday in December to Jan. 20, or from the first Monday in May to the first Monday in October.

All Must Register.

Every one in Cook county must register now under the new law excepting residents of Chicago or the ten outlying towns that are under the jurisdiction of the Chicago board of election commissioners. These ten are: Berwyn, Chicago Heights, Cicero, Elmwood Park, Evergreen Park, Harvey, Morton Grove, Niles Center, Stickney and Summit. Residents of Chicago and the other ten towns have been under the permanent registration system since July 1, 1936.

Flynn emphasized that the new system, while it may put the average voter to some inconvenience, is beneficial because it safeguards the right to vote.

NEW $5,000,000 OUTLAY AWAITS 1938 PROGRAM

7 Grade Separations Aid Trafic Safety.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

Well over half of the $10,000,000 spent for highway construction in Cook county by the state and county this year went for the improvement of thoroughfares in the south and southwest sides.

This was revealed in announcements last week by Kendrick Harger, state highway engineer for the county, and President Clayton F. Smith of the county board. Their figures on highway expenditures for 1937 showed that about $6,055,500 was spent for paving and grade separation in southern Chicago and Cook county. This compares with $3,948,500 for the rest of the county.

Next year will see a comparable improvement, according to plans already under way, Harger and Smith indicated. Major projects to be launched in 1938 by the state highway construction department will cost more than $3,100,000, while the cost of those in prospect by the county's road building division will exceed $2,335,000. These figures do not include the lesser paving projects which will swell both totals considerably.

Both Have U. S. Aid.

While the county and state have full supervisory control over their highway construction programs, each receives federal help. Both state and county highway building have been financed in part by Public Works administration funds.

This aid will continue for certain pending projects, although no new PWA commitments are being made. The state will continue to receive regular federal paving aid, and the county's 1938 program will be financed by the state gasoline tax, which will bring an estimated $2,500,000, and by $600,000 the state owes the county.

The state and county spent about $10,003,000 on paving projects finished or being completed this year. Of this the county spent about $5,035,000 and the state approximately $4,968,000.

Six Millions for Paving.

Of the total spent, some $6,408,500 went for paving, the county providing about $4,120,200 for this purpose and the state about $2,288,300. The other $3,593,500 represents the approximate cost of grade separations, for which the state spent $2,679,700 and the county $913,800.

Among the state's projected road building plans for next year, the largest is the $800,000 grade separation over the Burlington railroad at Ogden and Cicero avenues. Another grade separation to cost about $350,000 will be constructed at Roosevelt road and the Belt railroad tracks in Westchester.

The largest state paving project in prospect next year is the 3.1 mile stretch of Archer avenue between 35th and State streets. This will cost an estimated $745,000, according to Mr. Harger.

The county's 1938 plans contemplate a grade separation to carry Kedzie avenue trafic over the Belt railroad west of Blue Island, and a new viaduct in Central avenue at the Milwaukee railroad tracks, which will separate Grand and Central avenue trafic.

Two Bridges Planned.

County plans call for two new bridges—one to carry Torrence avenue trafic over the Calumet river at 138th street, and the other to take Irving Park road over the north branch of the Chicago river.

The county's paving plans include the surfacing of Devon avenue from Milwaukee avenue to Canfield road, to make Devon a four lane highway from Sheridan road to Higgins road, the paving of Irving Park road from Central avenue to Pulaski road, the surfacing of Clybourn avenue from Western to Ashland avenues, of Diversey avenue from Kimball to Logan, and of Fullerton avenue from Western to Lincoln.

One of the seven new grade separations in the south and southwest was built by the county. It is the $417,000 structure that carries California avenue trafic under the Belt railroad and Grand Trunk tracks at 49th street. The pavement under the tracks is now being laid and the viaduct will be open in a few days, Smith promised.

Six Others Made Safe.

The other six grade separations and the approximate costs of each are:

The structure carrying 147th street over the Chicago and Eastern Illinois tracks near Indiana avenue in Dolton, costing $228,000.

Kedzie avenue over the Belt railroad near 75th street, costing $355,667. Will open today.

Chicago High R.O.T.C. School News

6,650 UNIFORMED CADETS GRANTED TO R.O.T.C. HERE

Army Approval Means an Increase of 1,000.

The R. O. T. C. of Chicago high schools, the largest organization of its kind in the United States, gained even greater magnitude with the receipt of a notification from the war department allowing an enrollment of 6,650 uniformed cadets, an increase of 1,010 over 1936-'37, it was announced last week by Col. W. F. Morrison, who has charge of the unit.

The enlargement will be effected with little increase in cost, he said, because the extra uniforms necessary have been in stock for several years at the R. O. T. C. storehouse, 107 South Morgan street.

Because of the great interest shown in the R. O. T. C. in Chicago, the addition was requested by educational authorities and granted through the 6th corps area headquarters.

Drum Lauds Organization.

Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, who has come to Chicago from duty in Hawaii to assume command of the corps area, expressed the growing enthusiasm for the R. O. T. C. as he commented last week, "I am a great believer in both the junior and senior R. O. T. C. They are important units in our national defense."

Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, urged the high school principals at their last meeting to put forth a little special effort to enroll second and third year students in the R. O. T. C., and added that the maximum registration could be attained with little difficulty. It is necessary to maintain the maximum to retain the government allowance.

"I think there is very little doubt that we will closely approximate the authorized enrollment," Col. Morrison said.

5,650 in Uniform Now.

Already preliminary figures show a registration of 5,650 uniformed cadets, a great increase over the number at the same time last year, and second semester enrollment is always larger than the first. The total of R. O. T. C. students at the present time, including freshmen who are not issued uniforms, is 7,050. Final reports will boost this figure several hundred, it is expected.

Col. Morrison alloted each of the 27 high schools a definite number of uniforms before he learned of the enlargement, and the individual units will be expanded at the request of the military instructors when it becomes apparent that the enrollment will exceed the estimated allowance.

Eight of the schools have reported a gain over last year, and the instructors have asked for larger allotments. Schools with the greatest jump are Hirsch and Bowen. The other six are Lindblom, Tilden, Du Sable, Fenger, Steinmetz, and Von Steuben.

Although the Chicago junior R. O. T. C. was only one of the 142 units in the United States last year with an aggregate enrollment of 57,777, it listed 10 per cent of the total number of cadets.

—Lindblom—

Cadet Major Ralph Wojohn was promoted to battalion commander of the Lindblom High school R. O. T. C. last week, and Cadet Captain Donald Balderman was named adjutant, it was announced by Technical Sergeant Edward J. Depke, military instructor.

Appointed company commanders are Cadet First Lieutenants Henry Mengel, A; George Diadium, B; John Adams, C, and Alen Huet, D.

Cadet sergeants who are eligible for promotion to commissioned officers have taken a test on close order drill, extended order drill, and first aid, and the commissions will be announced soon.

All cadets in the battalion and band have been issued uniforms and R. O. T. C. manuals.

Lindblom Letter Girls to Induct Leaders Tuesday

The sixth annual banquet of the "L" club, composed of letter girls of Lindblom High school, will be held Tuesday evening in the Central Y. M. C. A., 59th and Monroe streets. Outgoing officers who will be honored are Bertha Johnson Kolbaba, president; Emily Pechek, secretary, and Eleanor Johnson, treasurer. Incoming officers who will be introduced are Miss Pecjek, president; Irene Stoffel, secretary, and Virginia Hilkens, treasurer.

Looking Toward "Neatest" Award

Slipping in and out of coats and trousers and eying themselves as carefully as though they were purchasing that new Sunday suit, thousands of cadets in the Chicago high school R. O. T. C. units were fitted and issued uniforms last week. At Fenger High school Sergt. William P. Robinson, military instructor, checks off the equipment as it is issued, while Cadet Mario Ferrini dons his new uniform with the assistance of Cadet Staf Sergeant Kent Cox.

4,200 BOYS BEGIN PATROL DUTY ON SOUTHWEST SIDE

Guard Crossings Near 183 Schools.

With the opening of school last week approximately 4,200 patrol boys on the southwest side took up their stations at 95 public and 88 parochial schools. Throughout the city 15,000 of their members are on duty at 300 parochial and 332 public schools.

Fifteen years ago, after a short lived term under the direction of the city police, the schoolboy safety patrol system came under the sponsorship of the Chicago Motor club. Since that time the club has provided the boys with white Sam Browne belts and badges, has prepared and distributed a patrol boys' instruction manual for the use of teacher-sponsors, has aided in the boys' instruction, and has furnished every classroom throughout Illinois and Indiana with safety text material and posters.

Conducts Annual Contest.

In addition the motor club has sponsored an annual contest to determine the most representative patrol boy in the various sections of the city. The winners are awarded with a motor trip through historical regions of the eastern states, terminating at the National Safety Patrol Boy conference in Washington, D. C.

According to figures announced this week by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, the patrol system, since its inception, has been responsible for the decreasing death rate of grammar school children.

3,435 Lives Saved.

Statistics based on what the five to 14 year old bracket accident rate might be if there were no patrols show that 3,435 children were saved from death and 19,980 from injury.

Patrol boys are not allowed to direct trafic and are not substitutes for trafic policemen. Their duties are to keep children on the sidewalk until the road is safe to cross.

—Englewood—

Leaders in the recruiting campaign for the R. O. T. C. unit at Englewood High school are Cadet Thomas Netherton and Cadet Sargeant Richard Williams, it was announced last week by Private John A. Reeser, military instructor.

The rifle range will be opened soon and competition will begin for positions on the team. The team is expected to be strong this semester, Private Reeser said, because most members of last year's squad have returned.

A special officers' school is conducted during the eighth period each day. Weekly inspection will be on Thursday.

NEW HARRISON HIGH R.O.T.C. CADETS ENTER CLASS FOR RECRUITS

Sergt. Bastnagel.

The program for the freshmen includes one day a week for athletics, two days for drill, and two for theory. Later only one day will be devoted to theory and the remainder to drill. Upper classmen will take examinations soon for promotions.

To give the cadets sufficient time to clean their uniforms and shine their brass and shoes for inspections, Monday has been selected as the day each week on which uniforms will be worn.

Twenty-three cadets have been designated for hall guard duty during the eighth period, and Cadet First Lieut. Edwin Kostro has charge of the detail. His assistants are Cadet Second Lieuts. George Cohn, Warren Tyk, and Walter Yudchitz. Hall guards are Cadet First Sergts. Meyer Halperin and George Radovich, Cadet Staf Sergt. Richard Marek, Cadet Sergts. With a preliminary enrollment of 217 last week, the Hyde Park High school R. O. T. C. unit has been formed into four companies, and the battalion is headed by Cadet Major Wilbur M. Brown, it was announced by Staf Sargeant Will J. Brewer, military instructor.

Temporary company commanders are First Lieutenants Jack Fisher, Robert Jacoby, Phillip Darr, and Walter Milburn. Company B leads in the enrollment with sixty-eight cadets, followed by company D with fifty-two. Company C has fifty-one, and company A, forty-six.

WHY SOUTHWEST SIDE HOMES ARE QUIET

School days are here again and reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic is once more the daily routine. But it's fun to be back, exchanging tall tales of vacation adventures over desk tops. Anyway, that's what these four young pupils of the Bennett school, 10115 South Prairie avenue, seem to be doing (left to right), Donald Boudoin, 10107 South State street; Doris Ducett, 39 East 101st street; Lydia Giacchetti, 9536 South Calumet avenue, and Glenn Livingston, 9523 South Calumet avenue.

The Rev. Father Mathopoulos who has been pastor of the church for the last year and a half, has devoted a large portion of his time to promoting the building of the new church and new school. The school building will be erected at a cost of $175,000, following the completion of the church.

Raises $100,000 Fund.

During the pastor's stay at the Assumption church he was instrumental in raising $100,000 toward the building fund and in increasing the congregation membership 33 per cent. He is a former pastor of a Greek orthodox church in Canada, where he had stayed four years. He came to America from Greece in 1930. At present there are 12,000 Greek-Americans residing in the west side and suburbs who are members of the church.

The Assumption church was started Nov. 28, 1924, and the first meeting was held in a rented hall at 3800 West Madison street. There were 34 present at the first meeting. A board of directors was elected with John Koliopoulos as its first president. A unanimous resolution was passed in February, 1925, to purchase the lot at Central avenue and Harrison street which faces Columbus park. A temporary chapel was built that spring and the first services were held in that chapel Aug. 14, 1925.

Ten years later the congregation began organizing a committee to arrange for the building of a church. The 1935 chairman of the building committee was Nicholas Andros. The next year Peter Kuyriazopoulos was in charge and this year the chairman is Peter Koclanes.

Plans for the building were drawn up by Peter Camburas, architect. and Constantine Vlamis was selected as general contractor. The church structure will form a cross. The main chapel will have a seating capacity of 1,400 persons and the basement will contain a large social hall for club meetings and other events. The dome will be of copper.

The trustees who worked with the pastor in the financial drive and the church plans include the following: Theodore Vlahandreas, president; Harry Rammos, vice president; William Poulos, secretary; Peter Galanos, treasurer, Xenophon Panopoulos, executive secretary, and James Gatzioles, Christ Harvalis, Charles Rantis, James Pekras, Epameinondas Alevizos, Christ Andrianopoulos, Andrew Fasseas, and Gus Poulos.

The school of the Assumption church has an enrollment of 400 children and offers courses in religion, Greek language, Greek history, the geography of Greece and music. The classes meet four days a week after the closing hour of the public school. The principal is Xenophon Panopoulos.

FOUR ROOM HOUSE PROVIDES SPACE FOR EXPANSION

Concrete Floors Insure Safety from Fire.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The problem of the very small house is not in its infancy, but it is still very young. Efforts are being made every year to solve this problem the low cost way, and in many noteworthy cases we see conscientious attention focused on sturdy construction, simple design, and practical layout.

Here is shown a house recently built in Joliet which was designed by Arnold J. Kruegel, architect, also of Joliet. The owners are now Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hokensen.

The purpose was to erect a definitly small and definitly low cost home. The result is a sung, attractive little four room Cape Cod cottage which falls in the $5,000 class. It has a content of 15,480 cubic feet, and in most communities can be built for around $4,800, depending upon locality and local building costs. In Chicago the cost would run a little higher.

Walls of Concrete.

While the design of the cottage is traditional, the architect has departed from traditional construction methods. The exterior walls are of concrete masonry units, painted white, and this construction is reënforced by the use of steel rods of pencil thickness laid in the mortar joints in a continuous line around the walls directly above the lintels. The floor is of concrete, supported by precast concrete joists, a type of flooring which provides maximum fire safety and which, until recently, has appeared for the most part only in much higher priced homes.

The house is insulated in addition to the protective hollow masonry units, the plaster has been furred out to provide a dead air space, and metal lath has been used for a plaster base.

For further economy the interior walls have been left unpainted. Instead, the plaster was colored a light cream, to save on present decorating costs. Later on the walls can be painted when a different color scheme is desired.

Living Room Carpeted.

The living room floor is carpeted, while black marbleized linoleum is used in the kitchen. Any type of flooring may be laid over a concrete floor. Many new and expensive homes have a first floor of concrete for fire safety, covered with beautiful wood flooring of different pattern and design.

In construction, layout, and finish this little home is quite abreast of the times. There is the combination living-dining room; a four room capacity house was needed, but the living room and dinning room appear as one. This gives a much greater air of space as you enter the home. The living room is eleven feet wide by twenty feet long, but at its north end is the dining alcove, adjacent to the kitchen.

The kitchen, nine feet by eleven feet, is streamlined for compactness. The sink, set under a north window, has cabinets on each side of it and beneath the left cabinet the refrigerator is housed.

Basement for Recreation.

Like the majority of larger homes being built today, a large recreation room shares basement space with furnace room and laundry. This recreation room is the same size as the living room and is painted white above a four foot paneling of terra cotta tile. In an adjoining space is the furnace room, with a warm heating system which possesses a humidity control for winter health. The heating plant is coal fired.

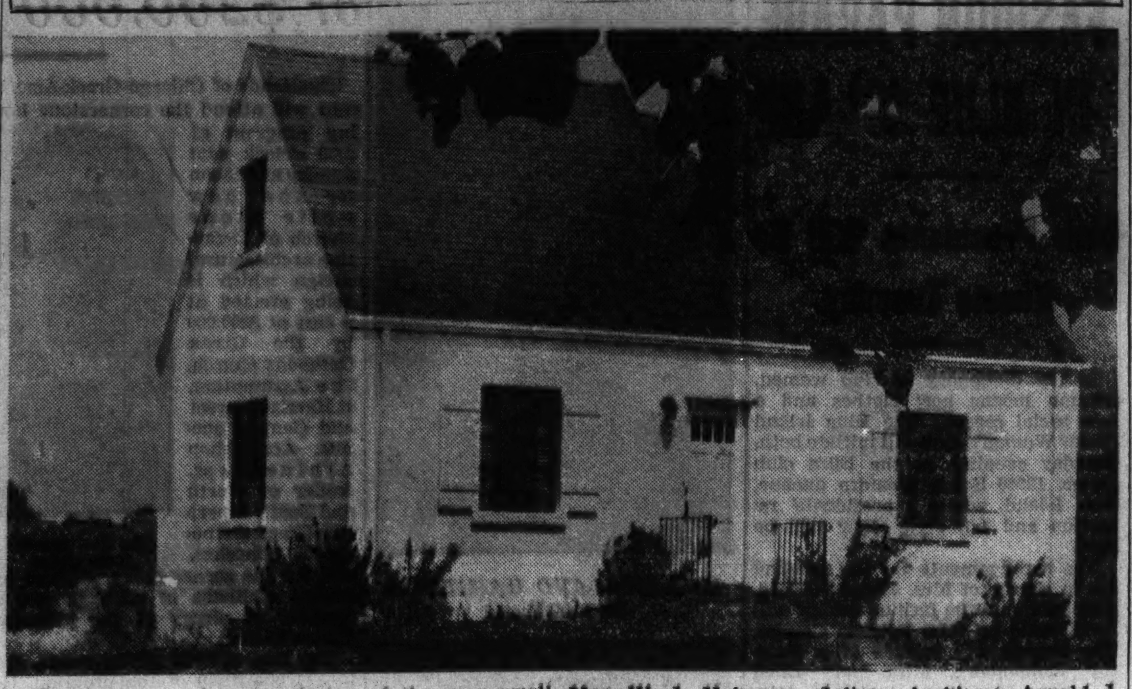
As the house now stands the owners have all the accommodation of a five room home—bedroom, living-dining room, kitchen, bath, and basement game room. Later on, the second floor, by the addition of partitions and plastering, can be converted into two large bedrooms with ample closets. Both wiring and plumbing outlets have been installed in these unfinished spaces for future use.

The windows throughout have steel sash, set into slots by the specially designed concrete blocks. The window sills are also of concrete, designed with an exterior groove to allow rain to fall directly from edge of sill to the ground—as insurance against wall stains, which sometimes do occur. All doors and windows are provided with double lintels to protect against frost intrusion.

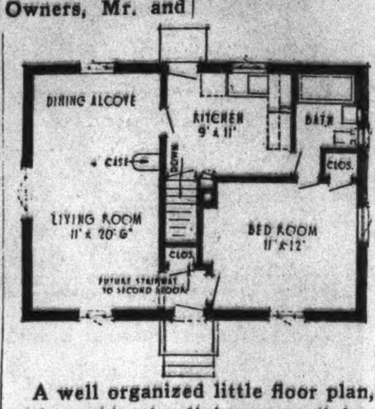
A fire safe, sturdy, very pleasing little home, quite free from airs and affectations. Some day it can assume the capacity of a seven room home, if its owners wish. But at present house and owners are content.

Mrs. Bargelt will talk over W-G-N next Monday at 2:15 p. m.

COTTAGE FOR SMALL FAMILY



One happy and honest solution of the very small house problem: a Cape Cod four room cottage with walls of concrete painted white. Owners, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hokensen, Joliet. Architect, Arnold J. Kruegel, also of Joliet.



A well organized little floor plan, with combination living room dining room.

25 SOUTH SIDE GROUPS TO JOIN IN TAX PROTEST

Civic Council Supports Rally Next Friday.

Twenty-five south and southwest side citizens' groups will join 23 others from other parts of the city next Friday evening to protest high Cook county taxes by a massmeeting in the Chicago Civic Opera house. This was announced last week by the Cook County Civic council which is sponsoring the rally.

Chicago's present tax rate of $9.52 for each $100 of assessed valuation, the largest in the city's history, is attributable to the fact that owners of 300,000 parcels of real estate in the county are not paying taxes, it was charged by William F. Stelzer, president of the council. Stelzer laid this situation to the laxity of public officials in collections.

"The Illinois constitution," he said, "provides that all wealth shall be taxed equally and uniformly. Exclusion of some property from taxation, in my opinion, makes an entire levy unconstitutional.

Urges Objections to Bills.

"An honest levy made in compliance with the law would relieve all real estate of at least two-thirds of the present taxes."

Stelzer urged all taxpayers to file objections to their 1936 tax bills in the County court. This, he said, will enable the state's attorney and the county judge to order the county treasurer to make refunds of illegal levies.

Five branches of the Lawn Civic association will have representatives at the meeting, it was announced. These are the Chicago Lawn branch, the Argo-Summit branch, the Gage Park branch, the Englewood branch and the Roseland branch.

Other Groups Listed.

Other south and southwest groups to be represented are: Town of Lake Taxpayers league, Washington Heights Constructive association, Marquette District Civic association, Archer-West End Civic federation, Longwood Manor association, Property Owners' Improvement Association of Chicago, West Lawn Improvement club, West Lawn Neighbors Improvement association, Woodlawn Property Owners league, South Bryn Mawr Improvement association and Chicago Neighborhood Improvement and Protective association.

The south and southwest list concludes with these groups: Marquette Park Lithuanian-American Citizens club, Bohemian Taxpayers association, Greater Bellevue Civic association, Landlords Southtown bureau, Archer Limits Improvement association, Gage Park Citizens Improvement club, Brighton Park Landlords bureau, 13th Ward West End Improvement club and Auburn Park Improvement association.

"Music of England" will be the theme of the first fall meeting of the Crescendo Musical club at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. C. C. MacMahon, 2142 West 110th street. Miss Lois Dangremond, 11314 South Lothair avenue, will be program chairman, and Mrs. Paul Grundman, 9701 South Vanderpoel avenue, president, will conduct the meeting.

A group of two piano selections will be played by Mrs. MacMahon and Mrs. Cecil L. Bothwell, and Mrs. L. K. Ford, soprano, will sing English melodies. Mrs N. W. Johnson will give musical readings, and others on the program will be Miss Sylvia Daniels, who will play cello solos, and a woman's vocal trio, composed of Mrs. Harry E. Mikesell, Mrs. E. F. Porter, and Mrs. B. B. McCulloch, accompanied by Mark S. Hallett, will entertain with two Elgar numbers, each with a two violin obligato played by Miss Dangremond and Mrs. A. C. Moysey.

Tea will be served by the social committee at the close of the program.

FANFARE TO OPEN KEDZIE AVENUE VIADUCT TODAY

2,100 Foot Bridge Gives Access to Southwest.

The long advocated Kedzie avenue viaduct over the Belt railway at 75th street will be opened this afternoon with cutting of ribbons, flying of planes, speaking of dignitaries, blaring of bands, waving of banners, and parading of residents.

The 2,100 foot bridge, which has been under construction the last year by the state highway department, was financed from a $355,700 federal grant. In addition $36,833 for rights of way and damages was paid out of the gas tax fund of the county. The overpass will open the dead end that formerly sent Kedzie avenue trafic east to Western avenue or west to Cicero avenue, and will connect with highways to the south and southwest.

Egan to Cut Ribbon.

Although Kedzie avenue is the dividing line between the 13th and 15th wards north of 65th street, and runs through the 18th and 19th wards south of Marquette park, Ald. John E. Egan [13th] has been the leading exponent of making it a through street. Two years ago he obtained the extension of Kedzie avenue through the park from Marquette road to 71st street in anticipation of the newly constructed overpass. For his efforts Ald. Egan has been invited to cut the ribbon at the 13th ward end of the bridge.

Final announcement of the plans for the automobile parade and ceremonies reveal a new route to be followed: beginning at 71st street and California avenue, north on California to 59th street, then west to St. Louis avenue, south to 63d street, east to Kedzie avenue and south to the bridge.

Three Bands to Play.

The bands of Lindblom and St. Rita High schools and St. Nicholas grammar school, will furnish music. A program of singing and entertainment has been scheduled.

The parade will start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and the dedication ceremony will begin at 3 o'clock. William A. Canavan, chairman of the transportation committee of the associated organizations of the southwest side, has announced that contingents from Blue Island and Evergreen Park will join the local automobile parade at the starting point.

Among officials expected to attend are: Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, United States Marshal William H. McDonnell, County Clerk Michael J. Flynn, Clayton Smith, president of the county board; Ald. James F. Kovarik [15th] Ald. Harry Perry [18th], Ald. John J. Duffy [19th], Ald. Bryan Hartnett [12th], and Richard Frohlich, Democratic committeeman of the 15th ward.

Others to Attend.

Others will be Thomas F. Byrne of the Sanitary district, Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works; James P. Boyle, president, and E. J. Glackin, secretary, of the board of local improvements; A. N. Williams, president of the Belt railway; William Fox, general superintendent of the railway, and the mayors of Blue Island and Evergreen Park.

CUPID FINDS GOOD HUNTIN' GROUNDS IN CLASS ROOMS

28 Feminine Teachers Change Names.

Chicago's public school teachers for the most part make their charges behave, but they've had only mediocre success in their handling of chubby little Dan E. Cupid. The young archer's seductive shafts recently have reached the hearts of twenty-eight of the feminine teachers, according to record changes requested by Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools.

The woman teachers not only surrender with average readiness to marriage proposals but also contribute their full share of June weddings, the record changes show. Thirteen of the twenty-nine assigned teachers, who will be known officially henceforth by their married names, were married last June.

Full Names Given.

These thirteen, their given, maiden and married names and their schools are: Kate Bluestein Mizock of Morse elementary, Florence Carolan Smith of Gray elementary, Marie Hampton Kinnard of Keith elementary, Adrea Hanson Heiden of Budlong elementary, Cecilia Hasty Hayes of Felsenthal elementary, Cora Hughes Garner of Raymond elementary, Anna Kane Gibbons of Twain elementary, Madeleine Kunz Robinson of Bell elementary, Beaulah Odekirk Claxton of Flower High, Alma Payne Turner of Forestville elementary, Thelma Payne Powell of Phillips High, Henriette Schmidt Haberichter of McKay elementary, and Eileen Wall Collins of Mayfair elementary.

August was second only to June as the most popular marriage month in the recent list, eight of the teachers having become "Mrs." last August.

These eight are Eleanor Heatherly Conroy of Clay elementary, Louise Horrocks Madsen of Parker Practice school, Helen Latchford Le Strange of Moseley elementary, Ethel Maher Ward of Ravenswood elementary, Florence Noonan Soderberg of Lovett elementary, Rose Phillips Moore of Roosevelt High, Margaret Woodward Batteast of Shoop elementary, and Clara Sher Bentkover of Ericsson elementary.

Others Who Married.

The other assigned teachers married this year who now are carried on school records as married women are Alice Delaney Storer of Englewood High, Irene Eyer Keene of Lowell elementary, Ruth Foster Luneburg of Ericsson elementary, Marie O'Heron Cunningham of Orr elementary, Kathleen Shea Marr of Morris elementary, and Lozetta Tansey Morgan of Fuller elementary.

Violet Davis Furmidge of Talcott elementary school was married last Nov. 28. A Gage Park elementary teacher known officially as Rosalie M. Hawkins has revealed that she was married on Aug. 29, 1932, and now she appears on the records as Rosalie M. Leonard.

PRESIDENT

Mrs. Robert S. Houts, newly elected president of the Englewood Woman's club, will open the club season at a meeting tomorrow in the clubrooms, 6730 Wentworth avenue.

FACULTY SHIFTS TAKE EFFECT AS SCHOOLS REOPEN

Elvira Fox Named Head of Two Schools.

Numerous faculty changes in the Chicago public school system took effect when the elementary schools reopened last Monday.

Miss Elvira Fox, formerly a teacher in the Flower High school, has just been elected principal of two schools, as yet unnamed—one at Jarvis and Rockwell streets and the other at Leavitt street and Foster avenue, it was announced by Supt. William H. Johnson.

Three principals were recently transferred by authority of the board of education headed by James B. McCahey, Dr. Johnson announced. Miss Ruth M. Rathbun, former principal of the Mayfair elementary school, is now principal of the new Jamieson elementary school. Miss Mercedes Howe, who formerly headed the Nightingale elementary school, is the new principal at Parker elementary, and her former post has been filled by Miss Catherine Tierney, former principal of the Motley and Peabody elementary schools.

Will Head Tilden Branch.

William H. Collins, a teacher in the Tilden Technical High school, was elected head teacher at Jungman branch of Harrison High. Collins succeeds Glen Worst, who was recently named assistant principal at Bowen High.

Gertrude Vaughan, a teacher in the Blaine elementary school, was named assistant principal of the Nettlehorst elementary school to succeed Julia H. Cunnard, Dr. Johnson announced. Miss Cunnard was one of three women appointed special teachers of art in the elementary schools. The others are Nell Galvin, formerly of the McKinley High school staf, and Ingaline Bjotveidt, former teacher in the Lincoln elementary school.

18 Teachers Reassigned.

The recent transfer of the Beidler school's deaf-oral unit resulted in the reassignment of eighteen teachers to the new unit in the Mitchell school. Alice Schilling, head teacher of the Beidler unit, is now acting in the same capacity at Mitchell.

The other seventeen transferred are Nellie Barden, Ruth Bost, Maude Carmody, Lucille Cooper, Eleanor Enstrom, Bess E. Fair, Sylvia Malter, Helen McKenna, Helen F. Noel, Myrtle Rea, Anne V. Rowe, Charlotte Schrik, Esther Schutte, Emilia R. Schwartz, Beatrice Schaffer, Vera Spikula, and Marie Sweet.

A shift in the Cissold branch school boundaries because of completion of the new Esmond school addition brought about the transfer from Clissold to Esmond of Oreal M. Falles, the head teacher, and six members of her staf. The others are Bernice Bausor, Alberta S. Finan, Margaret Hynes, Gabrielle Johnson, Alice Middleton, and Frances Ryan.

Helga A. Hagen, formerly assistant principal at Schurz High, now is a teacher there. Fred J. Moehle, assistant principal of the Jackson branch of McKinley High, has also reverted to a teachership. Stella Flint of Hayt elementary, Lester Schloerb of Lane Technical High, and Ida Dushek of the Richards prevocational school have been transferred to the bureau of curriculum. Three teachers were shifted from the bureau to school service—Etta G. Clark to Roosevelt High, Sherman Cook to Lindblom High, and Edward Kunter to Darwin elementary.

Vanderpoel Trio Transferred.

Isabelle M. Alburn, Nova E. Pyle, and Lila R. Sauer, formerly of Vanderpoel elementary, have been transferred to the 92d and Hamilton elementary school to compensate for boundary shifts.

Other transfers were: Katherine C. Carroll of Cook elementary to Barton elementary; Ethel G. Cleaves of Douglas elementary to Colman elementary, Orleen Dougherty of Nash elementary to Peirce elementary, Rose E. Hill of McCosh elementary to Beale elementary, Anna M. Hintz of Bateman elementary to Peterson elementary, Anna G. Moran and Jeannette V. Moynihan of Warren elementary to 86th and East End elementary, Frances A. "IF I DON'T GO TO SLEEP I'LL GO NUTS"

BonKora has brought priceless relief to many run-down, nervous, pale folks who couldn't sleep—who had no appetite, and suffered from headaches, biliousness, gas pains, and other unpleasantness due to retention of waste in the digestive system. These relieved sufferers are loud in their praise of BonKora. We know what BonKora has done for so many others who suffered from the nervous, run-down, sleepless condition brought on by faulty elimination or colonic stasis. So—here's a proposition that you'll hardly ignore. Get a bottle of BonKora from your druggist at once. Drink a glass of orange juice mixed with a tablespoonful of BonKora half an hour before breakfast each morning—and at the end of one week you must be sleeping better, feeling better, looking better—or we lose. You risk nothing.

YOU WIN—OR WE LOSE!

If you don't go to sleep quickly — sleep soundly — feel better—look better—at the end of one week, your money will be promptly returned without a word. No delay. No argument. You are the sole judge. You must be satisfied with BonKora results or we lose.

Veterinarians Crusade against Hit-or-Miss Dog Feeding

CASE HISTORIES PRESENTED BY SWIFT AND COMPANY
World-Famous Purveyors of Fine Foods

Condition Illustrated by Luhrs

*Dr. C. N. B.______

"This 3½-year-old Schnauzer's thin, under weight condition," said Dr. C. N. B...... the veterinarian who treated him, "was chronic. He had failed to put on flesh for over 15 months. This was just another case of incorrect feeding—the cause of so many dog ailments." Like many leading veterinarians, Dr. B.... is actively crusading against hit-or-miss dog feeding, particularly against nutritionally deficient dog rations. (The Schnauzer, shown in photograph at right, has gained weight and is now thriving on an exclusive diet of Pard, Swift's canine-tested feeding formula.)

PARD..SWIFT'S CANINE-TESTED FEEDING FORMULA

From savage ancestors your dog has inherited the body of a wild animal. Today his living habits are quiet, civilized—but his digestive tract is that of a primitive flesh-eater. For this reason the correct feeding of dogs is a difficult problem.

After years of research, Swift & Company has solved this problem for you. PARD has been tested on more than 100 fine dogs—to 4 successive generations! In Pard, fresh beef meat food products are balanced with seven other fine ingredients, including minerals and vitamins. To keep your dog in top condition, feed Pard regularly. Swift & Company, Chicago.

RADIO IN RIO IS JUST LIKE IT IS HERE, BUT LOUDER

Advertising Man Tells of So. America's System.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

AN American journeying to South America for the first time might be a bit startled to find that radio enters quite as much the daily life of his sub-equatorial brother as it does his own. At least that is true for the great population centers such as Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires.

Your reporter had a number of misconceptions in this regard set aright in an hour's conversation with Henry P. Clark, general manager in Latin America for the McCann-Erickson Advertising agency, currently on a furlough in this country. We had always had the idea that the South American system was closely patterned after European models. Mr. Clark, however, demonstrated—if it were not for the difference in languages—that North Americans might quickly become accustomed to the Latin American way of handling radio. The facilities, for the most part, are privately owned and commercial sponsorship is permitted.

Few Institutional Programs.

Most advertisers, however, go for "short phrases," what we call participating sponsorship and, in some instances, "spot" advertising. A musical program, for instance, may be interrupted numerous times throughout an hour for plugs of various unrelated products.

In general the lavish good-will, institutional type of advertising is missing in South America. However, there are exceptions. Through Mr. Clark's agency Standard Oil interests for several seasons have sponsored concerts on LR4 by a great Symphony orchestra under Frider Weissman, conductor of the Berlin State Opera in pre-Hitler days. [In this connection you may recall that S. O. several years ago sponsored the Chicago Symphony orchestra.]

Radio Ubiquitous in Rio.

Another point brought out by Mr. Clark is that radio is just as ubiquitous in Rio as it is in New York, Chicago or Hollywood. Even the poorest hovels have them—and they are usually going at full blast. The Argentinian prefers his music loud—much louder than we do. No one living in a busy quarter needs actually have his own radio turned on, according to Mr. Clark. He can always hear with perfect ease his favorite program by way of the nearest café loudspeaker.

Despite the similarity in radio systems South Americans turn more often to the offerings of European short wave stations than they do to those of North America, according to Mr. Clark. There are several reasons. In the first place there is the language barrier—despite the fact that English is heard a great deal everywhere in South America.

They Turn to Europe.

South Americans do like our music, both serious and otherwise. But the problem of how to sift it out of our many variety programs such as the Rudy Vallee hour or the Bing Crosby show with comedy and advertising copy all tied together is a tough one for Latin Americans. They accept gratefully such programs as are pitched up by Schenectady, Pittsburgh and New York with Spanish announcing and continuity.

But they turn more naturally to Europe and especially to Germany which serves up a great deal of fine music with comment in Spanish and Portuguese. A lot of attention is paid also to Russia, Italy, and England, all of whom are given to considering seriously the preferences of South America, though they all serve up a lot of propaganda along with entertainment.

Because of the different nationalities and the concentration of population in a few large cities there are no "coast to coast" networks. Most of the big stations are separate entities, though three or four may be linked together for a group of broadcasts. A big station like LR1 [short wave LRX], operated by El Mundo publishing interests can blanket the major portion of the Argentine market.

Few Famous Names.

There are few radio names known the breadth of a continent as there are here. The most popular names, Mr. Clark pointed out, are usually those of orchestra leaders and "speakers," who compare to our announcers and masters of ceremony. There are popular comedians but none of the status of Eddie Cantor, Jack Benny, and Fred Allen here.

Every café has two orchestras—one playing tangos only and another other less nostalgic types of music.

The name of Hollywood is quite as spell inducing in South America as it is here. Thus, the South American in general is considerably interested in the emanations from Hollywood with their magic names—even though he does not always comprehend their contributions in full.

Jimmy Petrillo would be interested in the fact that few of the big stations permit the use of recordings in any form. On the other hand, the long hours and poor pay of the musicians would make no hit with him.

Penalties for Offenses.

The Simon Legree of the South American system is the postoffice which regulates and controls broadcasting. The postoffice can and does inflict penalties for infringements on good taste and sometimes for too pointed criticism of government officials, departments or policies. Stations are penalized a little like American football teams. They may be ordered off the air from three hours to a whole day—during which time, of course, they lose considerable revenue.

The American influence may be noted in the general acceptance of our receivers. Chassis parts are built in the United States for assembly and installation in South American made cabinets.

IN CONCERT HOUR

GRACE MOORE.

HELEN JEPSON.

MARIA JERITZA.

These three world famous singers, along with Erna Sack, Richard Tauber, Donald Dickson, Joseph Schmidt, and Jussi Bjoerling, will form the permanent concert company to be heard with a seventy piece symphony orchestra on the motor-sponsored hour returning to WLS-NBC at 7 o'clock tonight.

JAMES W. RILEY TRIBUTE PLANNED ON STOKES HOUR

Hugh Studebaker to Read Several of Works.

On next Wednesday, when Indiana celebrates a James Whitcomb Riley anniversary, W-G-N-Mutual's Melodies from the Sky program will pay tribute to the famous Hoosier bard.

The program, to be heard from the main studio at 9:30 o'clock, will feature Hugh Studebaker in a presentation of several of Riley's best known works with a musical background provided by Harold Stokes and the orchestra. Edna O'Dell and Arthur Wright will be the soloists, and the Glee club will also be featured on the remainder of the 45 minute broadcast.

Harold Stokes will present his Rhythm and Romance program at 9:30 tonight with Joe Johnson, violinist; Berenice Taylor, soprano; Arthur Wright, tenor; the Four Shades of Blue and the chorus. Old popular tunes, the newest in modern melody, and a pair of novelty tunes will be heard on the broadcast.

Tomorrow at 9:45 p. m. Henry Weber will present the W-G-N concert orchestra and chorus; Attilio Baggiore, tenor; Bertha Waldman, mezzo-soprano, and Mark Love, basso, on the "Pageant of Melody." Miss Waldman, a member of the Chicago City Opera company and well known concert soprano of Chicago, is making her first appearance on W-G-N and Mutual. She will sing "Divinite du Styx" from "Alceste," by Gluck, and she will be featured with Mr. Baggiore and Mr. Love in a medley of Indian melodies.

9:30 p. m. Tuesday—The Northerners, with Edna Thompson, soprano, as guest soloist.

9:30 p. m. Thursday—The Concert Revue with Henry Weber, the W-G-N concert orchestra and chorus with Kathryn Witwer, soprano, and William Miller, tenor, as soloists.

9:30 p. m. Friday—Curtain Time, dramatic show produced by Blair Walliser, presenting "Faith" by Margery Williams, and featuring Elizabeth Reller, Betty Jeffries, and Hilda Graham.

McMullin on Forum.

James McMullin, whose column "National Whirligig" is printed in 200 newspapers, will speak on the W-G-N and Mutual network "Commentator's Forum" from 8:30 to 8:45 tonight.

SH! LISTEN TO THIS RECORD- THAT'S BLABBLE'S VOICE-

N-N-NO, MR. B-BLADE - I GUESS NOT - IF YOU SAY SO - IS YOUR GREAT-GREAT-GRANDFATHER HERE, TOO?
NOT TONIGHT, ANNIE - THIS IS ONLY THE LITTLE COMPANY THAT WAS ABOARD THE SHIP THAT DIDN'T COME IN-

Most Bad Breath Begins with the teeth!
Scientists discover new facts about bad breath

ALICE, NOBODY MEANT TO HURT YOUR FEELINGS! WE JUST HOPED THE NOTE MIGHT MAKE YOU ASK YOUR DENTIST ABOUT YOUR BREATH!
YOU MEAN IT'S TRUE?
THAT'S QUITE RIGHT, ALICE. MOST BAD BREATH COMES FROM DECAYING FOOD PARTICLES IN HIDDEN CREVICES BETWEEN TEETH THAT AREN'T CLEANED PROPERLY. I ADVISE COLGATE DENTAL CREAM. ITS SPECIAL PENETRATING FOAM REMOVES THESE ODOR-BREEDING DEPOSITS

76% of all people over the age of 17 have bad breath!

Read how Colgate Dental Cream protects you

TESTS among 2,152 men and women (of all ages and from all walks of life) indicate that 76% of all people over the age of 17 have bad breath! Tests also show that most bad breath comes from improperly cleaned teeth!

Ordinary cleansing methods, which merely polish the exposed surfaces of your teeth, fail to remove the decaying food deposits in hidden crevices between your teeth. And these deposits, tests show, are the source of most bad breath, dull, dingy teeth, and much tooth decay.

But Colgate Dental Cream has a special penetrating foam which gets into every tiny crevice—emulsifying and washing away those food and acid deposits that cause bad breath.

At the same time, Colgate's soft, safe polishing agent gently yet thoroughly cleans and brightens enamel—makes your teeth sparkle—gives new brilliance to your smile.

So brush your teeth, gums, tongue with Colgate Dental Cream at least twice daily and have cleaner, brighter teeth—sweeter, purer breath!

MARINELLO
OCTOBER 3, 1937.

AN OPEN LETTER TO AMBITIOUS GIRLS:

"Hitch Your Wagon To A Star." There is a lot of truth in those old copy-book maxims. If you aim high enough, you are bound to succeed—if you have the determination to achieve success, and if you prepare yourself adequately for it.

In the profession of Beauty Culture, just as in all fields of endeavor, you yourself must supply the ambition. Marinello School will furnish the training and preparation for success in this career.

Marinello instructors are chosen for their ability to train others, as well as for their expert knowledge of scientific Beauty Culture. The thoroughness of the Marinello course and the high esteem in which Marinello training is held by beauty shop owners is proven by the constant demand for Marinello graduates. A Marinello-trained operator has not only mastered the modern principles of scientific Beauty Culture, but is also capable to rise to managership or ownership of a beauty shop.

If you are interested in Beauty Culture as a career, it will be to your advantage to have a personal talk with me at Marinello [National School of Cosmeticians, Inc.], 108 N. State-st., Chicago, the foremost school of Beauty Culture in the world today. Day and evening classes at Marinello must necessarily be limited, therefore it will pay you to visit our school tomorrow. If you cannot do this, write, or phone State 5057 for National Descriptive Manual.

MEN

If you live on the South Side or South Side suburbs, let me start you in a profitable business of your own, backed up by our prosperous company.

I have been on this territory exactly 10 weeks and have already set 35 men up in business for themselves, and still have 10 opportunities left on the south side of Chicago.

I am in control of this territory of a business unique in character, merchandising an electrical unit that has no competition, for which there is an ever increasing demand.

If in a personal interview you can satisfy me that you are honest, reliable, and trustworthy, and really have a desire to succeed, willing to study, and are teachable, you may be the very man I am looking for.

Our business is very profitable; many of our associates are earning as much as $50 on a percentage basis in a single day, and after they become experienced handling our business, receive a sizable monthly income; not regulated by the seasons, as ours is a year around business.

Selling experience not necessary, for if you are selected you are thoroughly trained at no expense to you; some of our most successful associates never sold anything before joining us.

We stand all expense of your business, such as rent, light, heat, telephone, help, etc., and in addition to giving you merchandise on open accounts, carry all of your time payment paper.

You do not invest one cent with us. We finance everything.

Our business is depression-proof, as same has increased every month of the last 7 years with 1937 our busiest year. We have thousands of satisfied customers in the territory and are considered one of the country's outstanding organizations. There are no strings connected with this offer, and if you can meet the above requirements you will be granted a personal confidential interview which will quickly determine our mutual interests.

Apply Monday, 1:30 p. m.; no other time. No interviews after 1:45. Suite 400, Maryland Bldg., 841 E. 63d-st. [one block East of Cottage Grove]. Ask for Mr. Baldwin.

THE TRUE STORY
WONDER LAKE
NATURE'S BEAUTY SPOT
4 Miles from McHenry, Ill.

A Group of
CHICAGO
SPORTSMEN

Bought practically ALL 12 miles of shoreline around this magnificent wooded Spring-fed, Sand-Bottomed Lake, just 50 miles northwest of Chicago. Then they:

[1] Stocked this lake with 5,000,000 Bass and Pike and prohibited fishing for 3 years so the fish would grow and breed under ideal conditions. [Fishing officially opened at Wonder Lake September, 1934.]

[2] Set aside 60 acres as a permanent pheasant cover and hunting grounds for owners.

[3] Made the lake STRICTLY PRIVATE, so only owners could fish or hunt.

[4] Refused to sell property further than 1½ to 2 blocks from the water.

[5] Set aside great big sand beaches with piers every ¼ mile so there would always BE MORE than ample beach facilities for children, grown-ups, and boat landings.

[6] Priced the property so low that every one—even ordinary wage earners, could afford a country home.

[7] Arranged financing terms on homes so low that the yearly cost is less than a season's rental for a cottage elsewhere.

[9] Made it an exclusive GENTILE community.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Old Fashioned Sorghum!

October 2, 1937.

OLD fashioned delicious sorghum, the kind that tastes good on pancakes on a frosty winter morning, soon will be ready at the experimental farm. When we visited the sorghum patch [in the test plots] a few days ago the men were cutting the plants for both seed and the canes.

The latter are being tied in bundles. Within a few days one of the men will drive to a sorghum mill near Wilmington, where the juice will be extracted from the cane and boiled to make sorghum.

There are several varieties of sorghum being grown on the farm. The plan is to have each handled separately at the mill so the quality of the different sorghums may be determined. The heads of the stalks being cut the other day are loaded with seeds. The poultry will get this seed for food.

Three Fall Extras.

Big yellow squashes piled up on the basement floor . . . newly made grape wine gurgling and bubbling in big casks . . . cider in the keg . . . here are just three farm extras that caught our eye last week when we had occasion to visit a basement of one of the cottages on the experimental farm. With all of these good things to eat and drink being assembled for the winter, the basement reminded us of a real old fashioned farm home. The boys expect to make more cider soon. There still are enough apples in the orchards to make several gallons of this tasty drink which is associated with autumn days.

The surviving part of one very old tree on the Wheaton farm is going to be watched carefully this winter. It is the shoot of a ginkgo tree, which geologists believe to be the oldest type of tree in the world. The original ginkgo tree on the farm was planted many years ago, but recently it died and most of it was cut down. It was sawed off just above a live shoot or sucker which had started to sprout from the trunk.

Geologists believe that the ginkgo has been on the earth for more than two hundred million years. It sometimes is referred to as a living fossil. Almost exterminated by the fast ice sheets of the glacier periods and again attacked later by a blight, the ginkgo tree was saved by Buddhist monks who protected and cultivated a number of them in their gardens. The remnant of the old tree on the experimental farm [planted many years ago] has many historic associations, so the workers are hoping it will come through the winter.

Ducks Presage Light Snow.

The amateur weather forecasters on the farm have looked at the breastbones of enough Muscovy ducks to make a prophecy that there will be little snow this winter. The boys who rest their case on this sort of evidence say that if the duck breastbones show considerable white it means much snow during the coming winter. If they are rather gray it means little snow. The first Muscovy duck breastbone examined was mostly gray, so the amateur weather forecasters now are confidently announcing little snow during the winter months. But they are anxious to look at more duck breastbones to get more evidence.

We have checked them on this forecast for the last two seasons, and they have been correct both times. In the fall of 1935 the breastbones were almost all white, indicating much snow; in the fall of 1936 they were streaked, indicating a few scattered snowfalls. Some northern tribes of Indians are supposed to have originated this system of forecasting snowfalls.

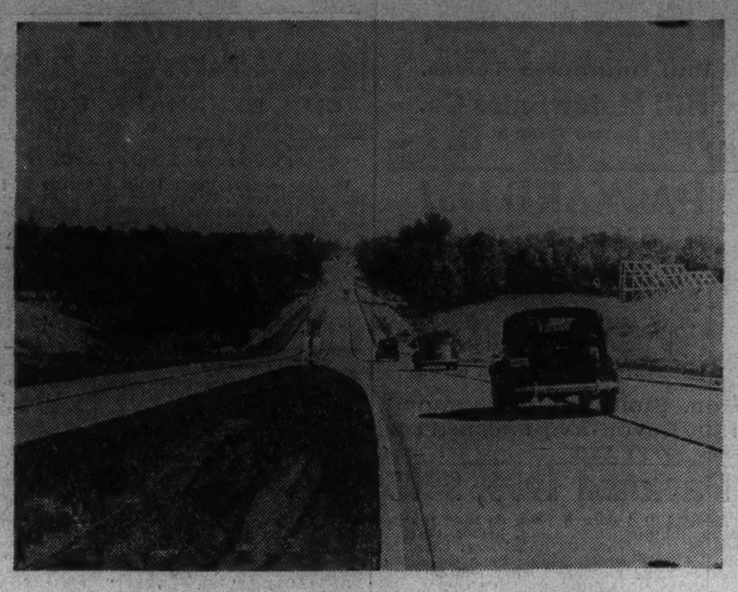
MOTORS—TRAFIC—HIGHWAYS

NEW SECTION OF U. S. 66



This is a view on a recently opened new section of U. S. 66 north from Springfield, Ill., for the 4.73 miles to Sherman. State highway officials described the $697,000 project, including a $257,000 bridge over the Sangamon river, as an outstanding example of modern highway engineering, a statement that this photograph tends to dispute.

In the foreground is part of a parkway that separates opposing streams of trafic for 3.63 miles of the new pavement. Trafic engineers agree that such separation is essential to safety on a four lane highway to prohibit the occasionally reckless driver from swinging to the left of the center line to pass overtaken vehicles.

Single Slab Proving Deadly.

In the background is a forty foot slab extending for 1.1 miles with nothing but a white and black line separating opposing streams of trafic. In the metropolitan areas of Chicago and other large cities, rural four lane pavements of a single slab are proving deadly.

As yet there has been no agitation to reconstruct this 1.1 miles of new U. S. 66 slab. The pavement has scarcely become stained by trafic. There has not been enough time to accumulate an accident record. There are precedents, however, for a prediction that there will be such agitation within a couple of years.

Advocates Reconstruction.

The Chicago Regional Planning association has been advocating reconstruction of a pavement of similar 40 foot design on the Cook county section of Skokie road. The association recommends that an additional ten feet of concrete be laid on one side of the existing slab and that the center ten feet of the resulting 50 foot pavement then be removed for a parkway, a procedure that would give a roadway with center landscaping like Skokie through Lake county.

The Michigan highway department is experimenting with a low rounded center curb to separate opposing streams of trafic on forty foot slabs. The California highway department is trying a variety of schemes to accomplish similar results. New Jersey used a power jack to split four lane roads.

VOICE OF TRAFIC

EXEMPLARY DRIVING.

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 30.—As a daily reader of your column, I have often noted hot comments about the way certain people are driving their cars on the streets and highways of your state and wondered why mention was not made of those doing an unusually good job of conscientious driving. I had an experience with a Chicago car this summer, Illinois license 31—368, that is worthy of your readers' attention in this column.

Returning from the south on my vacation, just outside of Vincennes, Ind., on highway 41, this car passed me and maintained a considerate speed all the way to Terre Haute, Ind., a distance of about sixty miles. For a while I kept a good distance behind, and then seeing the kind of driver he was, followed closer.

Each time he would go to pass a car a big yellow arrow on the left at rear would come on, that also being the case when making any right or left turns. Apparently, observing my car directly behind, he made very easily understood hand signals if it was safe for me also to pass a car or truck he was passing, or wave me down if not. There were four wig-wag stop lights at the back that would not escape attention by any one following.

In the hour or so of driving behind this car it was a liberal education for me as to how a car should be handled on the highway, and believe if every one were so attentive and expert in his driving we would not have to worry about the accident toll. When passing the car in Terre Haute my wife and I noticed he had gone so far as to put a speedometer out in front over the head lamp so it would not be necessary to take his eyes off the road in watching speed.

If that driver should see this compliment, I'd like him to know that we really appreciated the consideration given to us in following and for what part of my driving he did so patiently. It's too bad there aren't more of them. A. S. P.

O. K.—AFTER NEW BRIDGE OPENS.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—North Michigan avenue has the most cockeyed rules of any in the city. Instead of stopping north and south movements at the same time, some smart aleck conceived that this system in practice for the last century lacked originality, so his fertile brain thought up a new system.

Now north trafic rushes pell mell while south stops, and vise versa, at certain intersections only. At other intersections the old-fashioned idea prevails.

To be specific, take the corner of Michigan and Chestnut. An automobile wishes to turn left into Michigan. South trafic stops but north trafic rushes along at a merry clip. It is only with the gravest danger that a motorist can round the center post and get into this moving stream.

The poor pedestrian leaps to the center of Michigan avenue and stands there in the middle while one stream of automobiles almost scrapes his nose. If it's a rainy day, it's just too bad for the sap. Just another cleaner's bill.

And to top it all, there are those hideous signs right in the middle of the boulevard.

I advocate a return to sanity.

JAMES C. FITZGIBBON.

SIGNS TRAP MOTORISTS.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—A trafic hazard exists and has persisted for the past several months at 159th street and Keane avenue. Trafic approaching 159th street en route south encounters a stop sign at this corner. Motorists are confused by ten signs which line the west side of Keane avenue for a distance of 500 feet as they approach 159th street.

Some of these sign advertisments are of colorings which harmonize with the colorings of the standard stop sign thus adding more to the confusion of the motorists and making more excusable his neglect in failing to come to a full stop at 159th street.

Two filling stations, both on the west side of Keane avenue are at this 159th street corner and the one at the southwest corner serves as a convenient parking and ambush spot for police. Wholesale arrests are made of motorists who pass through this stop sign en route south. I presume the officers do the same "good" business on north bound trafic, but situated as I am I do not suffer the displeasure of seeing such arrests.

NEIGHBOR.

HIDDEN LICENSE PLATES.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—I wrote Mr. Otto Jelinek [Chicago park district trafic engineer] regarding hidden license plates on his safety patrol cars. Although this is a violation of the state laws, no action was taken. I believe that bringing this to your attention will get results.

ROBERT MOHOR.

FAVORS TRAPS.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—I see where motorists are protesting against the so-called speed traps of the Chicago police. Being a pedestrian and not a demon motorist, I heartily approve of these traps. One writer in last Sunday's TRIBUNE admits that the police were arresting only those who drove through the red light, yet he is outraged that the police lie in wait for these offenders. If more were arrested the massacre clock would be slowed down.

TRAFIC COUNCIL LENDS ITS AID IN DESIGN CONTEST

$5,000 Prize Offered for Elevated Highway.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Chicago council trafic committee last week tendered its coöperation in a contest sponsored nationally by the American Institute of Steel Construction to develop an improved design for elevated highways on city streets. Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the committee, said pertinent data compiled by consultant and staf engineers for Chicago during the last ten years will be made available to participants in the contest.

"The committee's studies and surveys were made at public expense," said the alderman, "so it is proper that all this information should be made public."

$5,000 Prize Offered.

The competition is open to all architects and engineers, foreign or American. For the best design a prize of $5,000 will be paid. There will also be a second prize of $2,000, a third of $1,000, and ten prizes of $100 each. The contest will close on March 31.

A pamphlet received from the headquarters of the steel institute sets forth that the design must have the following physical and operative features:

1. Complete physical separation of streams of trafic moving in opposite directions.

2. No direct access to abutting property.

3. Eliminate all intersections through a continuous and complete separation of grades.

4. Deceleration lanes for vehicles slowing to leave the highway at specially provided exits and accelerating lanes for vehicles entering from specially provided entries.

Originality to Play Part.

The competition will be judged on the originality of design, practicability of construction, the economical use and arrangement of materials, adaptability to actual conditions, and beauty. Entrants may use new methods of design, new materials, and colors if they so elect.

The jury will consist of Harland Bartholomew, city planner, St. Louis; Col. Willard Chavalier, president, American Road Builder's association; Paul P. Cret, architect, Philadelphia; Loran D. Gayton, city engineer, Chicago department of public works; Paul G. Hoffman, president, Studebaker corporation; Albert Kahn, architect, Detroit, and C. M. Pinckney, chief engineer, borough of Manhatten. Inquiries should be addressed to V. G. Iden, secretary, American Institute of Steel Construction, 200 Madison avenue, New York City.

NEWS AND VIEWS

The Studebaker automobiles for 1938 presented to the public last week came as a surprise to motorists who keep watch of new models each year.

The new Studebakers have been built without compromise to tool-and-die amortizing budgets or other previous model handicaps. According to R. H. Keeling, general manager of Studebaker Sales company of Chicago, no previous Studebaker introduction has caused so much favorable comment.

The 1938 Studebakers are offered in three lines: the President, the Commander and the Six. The President models are powered with 110 horsepower eight cylinder engines. The Commander and the Six have 90 horse power six cylinder engines. The President wheel base is 122 inches, the other two models have 116.5 inch wheelbases. In each group of cars there are coupes, club sedans, cruising sedans and convertible sedans.

Plans to continue the sales increases that gave Cadillac-La Salle a record with its 1937 models will be outlined at a meeting of Cadillac officials at the Stevens hotel tomorrow. The meeting is one of a series throughout the country that precedes public introduction of a new series of cars late in October.

D. E. Ahrens, sales manager of Cadillac-La Salle, heads the Detroit group. Besides his address on the 1938 market possibilities, C. V. Crockett of the engineering department will describe the mechanical innovations on the new models; F. J. Denney, advertising manager, will discuss enlarged advertising plans, and E. L. Rickenbaugh, sales promotion manager, the program of his department for 1938.

The first automobiles in history using conditioned air systems for winter driving will be previewed in Chicago tomorrow by the men who will present them to America.

This was learned yesterday when officials of the Nash Motors division of Nash-Kelvinator corporation, headed by Charles W. Nash, chairman of the board, completed plans for the annual distributor convention, which begins tomorrow.

Officials of the company declined to reveal the workings of the new conditioned air system which, they declared, represents the first application of thermo-dynamics to the interior of an automobile.

Production schedules call for a total of 125,000 units, an increase of approximately 1,005 over the total production of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., from Dec. 1 to Aug. 15.

Factory employment, which totaled 5,000 men at peak production periods during the last several months, will be increased to 6,000 men, according to David R. Wilson, president. Additions to the passenger car line include an economy and de luxe coupe and a custom sedan.

● Right: Fine wool, decorated with silky flat trim of Persian, combine to make this snappy street coat. Notice the fitted streamline, the row of buttons down the front and the snug fitting collar that ends in points. A matching muff of the Persian lamb and wool completes the costume.

By RHEA SEEGER

NEW CLOTHES, vintage of fall and winter, 1937, can and will lure more money out of the pockets of hardened hoarders than any collection ever unpacked. Street, daytime, and dress parade clothes are so exciting, so alluringly feminine, that all the men will wonder where the sun tanned savages of last summer have vanished and thank the gods for such a miracle. For suits, slim dresses and coats for daytime hours almost rival the luscious confections of silk, satin brocades and velvets designed for dress parade.

If these superlatively designed new clothes leave you cold or unresponsive you're completely sunk in a stupor. Watch the big face-framing hats with swoops of veils go out, watch the fur trimmed suits snapped up almost before they're out on display, watch the bright colored jackets trimmed with gold or silver braid, worn with a tight, straight dress or skirt, go out to conquer and impress the boulevard crowds. Gloat over yardage, in picture book-perfect dance dresses, the swishing, billowing skirts of taffeta fastened to tiny fitted bodices that accent a neat and small waistline. See gay, noisy silk petticoats showing under a slit to the knee; sheath gowns for dinner or dancing, and see and do appreciate all the wealth of simple but inimitably slim daytime dresses without an inch of extra doo-dads or trim to mar their smart simplicity and praise the wise designers that present them, the better to contrast luxurious furs, jewelry, and the best looking hats we've had in years.

It's going to be fun to wear clothes this winter, for every costume will easily make a potential heartbreaker out of any shrinking wallflower. Clothes with swish, clothes that will be decorative without being overdone, costumes and gowns that dramatize . . . clothes that are so delightfully feminine, so devastatingly picturesque, that we shudder over the puritan tailor-mades of a while back . . . so the fashion parade rolls on.

Streamlines that are smooth, even in heavy winter coats, in suave satins, dull crêpes, velvets and thin wools; in dresses, suits and even separate blouses, mean the smoothest and finest of fitted underlayers. Without such underlayers these fascinating new fashions lose their appeal, curves that should curve acquire unsightly bulges and the entire desired finished effect is ruined. No matter how much you spend for clothes, the correct underlayer is imperative.

Spotlight stealers and spellbinders of the first fashion shows are the costume outfits, the separate slim dresses, and the fitted fur trimmed first arrivals of the winter coats. Coming along with these are the clever, snappy, high colored suede jackets teamed with vivid plaid skirts. Costume outfits consisting of either suit and coat, or dress and coat reach the peak in the swanky affairs of dress and fur coat combine. Never have these been so attractive, both in price and contrast. Unusual furs, most unusual color contrasts and lovely fabrics combine to make these finds the best of the current shopping attractions. The dresses that slide under the fur coats are miracles of smooth fitting and exquisite detail. The coats are mostly short and smartly squared along the shoulderline. Every imaginable fur is used and prices range from a little under a hundred dollars up for the dress and coat duet.

Short fur coats, swankily boxed over the shoulderlines, boxy in silhouette, are practical buys. First for the spectator sports dresses are the gay plaids and checks or the bold, bright, fleecy woolen dresses or two piece suits. Such skins as kid, caracul, lapin, and skunk, together with more expensive pelts of opossum, or a new vicuna dyed in either iron gray or blue fox gray, are the special attractions now available.

Vividly colored wool dresses in such colors as bronze green are accented with tanbark brown in footgear. Gloves and handbags, even belts, come in this glowing shade of high brown. This green bronze and tanbark brown combine is one of the smartest color contrasts of the new fall season. Equally effective are the stunning bronze green suits, trimmed with shining bands of skunk fur, and one of the best third colors to use for contrast is chamois yellow.

Bright blue the exact shade of a blue pencil is used with raspberry red and black. Dark mauve combined with a gray violet is another inspired contrast featured in the import collections. The dress, a slim sheath of the pale violet wool, the fitted jacket of deep mauve diagonal wool, with the revers outlined in silver kidskin. The third color, sandals of raspberry red.

Some of the most exciting new finds of the early fall showings have been sketched, six different and individual outfits ready for immediate wear, six that show the way of the fashion wind.

● Above: Dashing as a mounted policeman, a suede jacket suit is ready for country or spectator sports wear. The skirt is cut straight and slim. The jacket goes with other skirts, so does the skirt with other tops.

You Will Like These Graham Cracker Foods

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WHEN you and I were very young [once upon a time] our mothers gave us graham crackers to munch upon when we became fiercely hungry in the middle of the morning and afternoon. On special occasions the crackers were made into sandwiches with a confectioner's sugar, cream and vanilla mixture spread between them. That was the way we loved them best.

The baby often got a graham cracker to suck or chew on when he became fretful, too, so that these brown wafers always were a part of the kitchen cupboard supply.

Now, although graham crackers are just as useful as ever for children's snacks and baby pacifiers, they have taken on added importance in the household. They're adult food, too, appearing in numerous delicious guises. If your cooking collection doesn't include a recipe or two for graham cracker puddings and cakes it isn't complete, and you'll want to clip these special formulæ from our files. Probably you'll want them anyway.

GRAHAM-NUT CAKE

1 cup sugar
½ cup shortening
3 eggs, separated
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt
28 graham crackers, rolled finely
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts

Cream together the sugar and shortening until fluffy. Add the beaten egg yolks, the milk, and salt, stirring vigorously. Mix together the cracker crums and the baking powder, stirring this into the sugar-shortening mixture. Fold in the vanilla, nuts and stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into two greased layer pans and bake in a moderate oven [375 degrees F.] for 20 to 25 minutes. When the layers are baked and cooled spread between them sweetened and flavored whipped cream. Top with more cream and sprinkle nuts over all.

ALMOND APPLESAUCE CAKE

2½ cups graham cracker crums
1 cup brown sugar
¾ cup finely chopped almonds
4 tablespoons butter
1½ cups applesauce

Line the bottom and sides of a buttered baking dish with 1 cup of the crums. Sprinkle with half the sugar. Pour the applesauce over this and top with another cup of crums and the remaining almonds and sugar. Top with the final half cup of crums, dot with butter, and bake in a moderate oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve hot or cold, in pie shaped pieces, with whipped cream.

GRAHAM GRAPE JUICE MOLD

1 tablespoon butter
1½ cups grape juice
2 tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons cold water
½ cup crushed graham crackers
¼ cup nut meats
½ cup sliced bananas

Add the butter to the grape juice and heat. Stir in the cornstarch which has been mixed with the cold water, and cook until thick and transparent. Cool the thickened mixture, fold in the crushed graham crackers, nuts, and sliced bananas and pour into a buttered mold to chill. Serve cold with whipped cream.

EDEN PUDDING

[Serves six]

1 cup heavy cream
½ pound marshmallows, cut finely
1 package dates, cut finely
3 bananas diced
½ cup black walnuts, chopped
8 rolled and sifted graham crackers

Whip the cream. Fold in other ingredients, except cracker crums. Shape the mixture into a roll three inches thick. Roll in the cracker crums, which have been spread upon waxed paper. Chill for three or four hours. Slice in pieces about one inch thick. Serve in sherbet glasses, topped with whipped cream and maraschino cherries.

Campus Modes by a Co-ed

THERE are plenty of surprises packed away in this neat little tailored frock which you can spring on the campus clan. You needn't have a conscience about the matter, either, because the tricks are legitimate and not at all fanciful. We might as well break the news all at once. The trickery lies in the belt. You may, of course, use a regulation tailored one around your midriff, but we recommend the one with the surprises. Here's the way it goes. Pockets, two perfectly swanky ones, are either buttoned to the belt by their flaps, or attached to the belt, flaps down, whichever way suits your fancy. These captivating pockets, of satchel dimensions [you really can use them] have plaits and are large enough to accommodate a large collection of doodads.

There are two necklines for this frock. The sketch at the left recommends a high one with a tiny collar. The other takes to V lines and uses a soft and narrow rolled collar. You may have two stunning but insignificant pockets on the bodice, if you like, and don't forget the chic in the buttons down the front. Use either large ones, widely spaced, or small ones, placed in close quarters. The sleeves, either long or short, are puffed at the shoulders only slightly. [The big puffs are definitly "out," my dears, and are bunglesome under heavy coats, anyway.] The skirt has nice flare.

My own dress has a surprise color scheme in keeping with the surprise element of the pockets. I bought some brown woolen jersey and trimmed the frock with bright blue suede. [You can use suede cloth, if you're a little afraid of handling the lether.] Another grand color ensemble is slate blue with bright green. There are many unusual shades on the market today, and combining them artfully produces some startling but smart results. Go to town, schoolmates! If you're in business, stay the heavy hand and use your wits. Too bright shades are taboo in an office, but the smart lines of the dress you can have. In fact, I don't see how you'll be able to do without them.

Style No. T-8537 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years.

Suits Are Fur Trimmed According to Occasion

SUITS are more or less fur trimmed according to their degree of formality. The newest line is the jacket with the fitted basque covering the hips, with the top of the body closely molded and a normal waistline. Shoulders are squared but never built out and sleeves are the acme of simplicity.

Good Taste Is Key to Wearing Flowers Well

Why must the hostess at a bridal shower select her guest list with greatest care? The answers to this question, and many others about the etiquet of bridal showers, are given in the booklet, "The Bridal Shower," by Helen Bartlett, Tribune etiquet editor. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 2 cents. Postpaid, 3 cents.

By Helen Bartlett.

IS there anything in this world that can approach fresh cut flowers in their power to create innocently an atmosphere of beauty and charm, and lift the spirits of the individual to new heights? And they don't have to be expensive cultivated blooms. A bouquet of hand-picked field flowers will dress up a room if well chosen and attractively arranged. Or a single flower plucked from the garden . . . a gardenia bought from the street vender . . . pinned on last season's suit lapel will give the wearer an air.

As in everything else we do and say, however, if the effect created in wearing flowers is to be the best, originality and good taste should be observed. While a shoulder full of orchids may provide the necessary cheerful note, still, if the flowers are not tastefully worn the effect is likely to cause amusement rather than admiration. A corsage that is so large and heavy that it appears to eclipse the wearer, or one that is entirely unsuitable to the costume, defeats its purpose.

THERE is an art to wearing flowers gracefully, so try to acquire it. Let it be remembered, first of all, that there is no rule which says the corsage always must be worn on the shoulder. On some frocks it is much more attractive if pinned just at the point of the V neckline. A high-necked dress might find it becoming if a little cluster of flowers were placed high under the chin, or arranged in a little crescent just below the round neckline of the dress. And another style of dress is given additional charm with the flowers worn at the waistline.

The color of the flowers always should harmonize with that of the dress. And the type of flowers always should be suitable to the style of the frock. For a tailored costume select a small, tailored-looking bouquet, such as a tight little bunch of daisies or chrysanthemums, or even a single aster, a small cluster of violets, corn flowers, or carnations. Gardenias, roses, sweet peas, and some of the more fragile, less sturdy posies are more flattering to afternoon dresses. Chrysanthemums, available only in the fall months, are very adaptable. They may be made suitable to tailored or more dressy attire simply by arrangement.

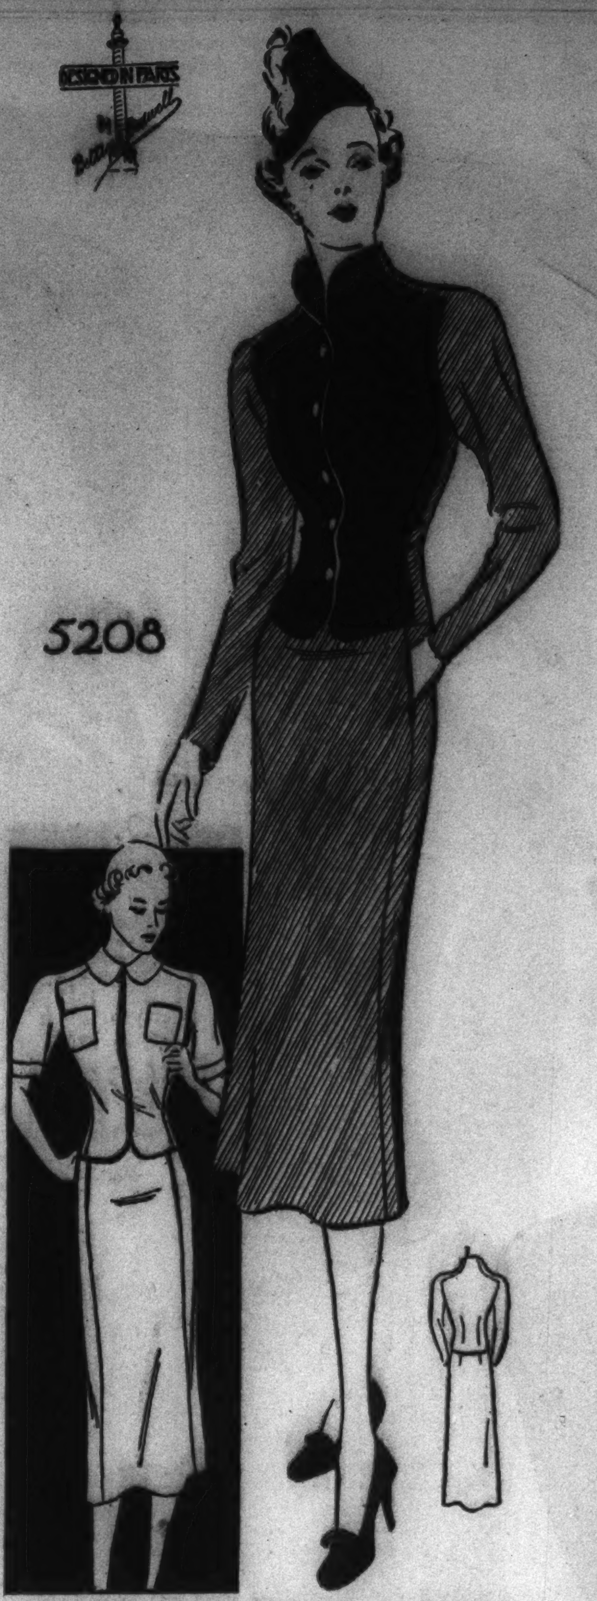
THAT aristocratic foreigner, the orchid, is more at home on a very dressy afternoon frock or for evening wear, although it is true that there are some varieties of orchids that are small and not too exotic looking, and take well to street clothes of the more tailored type.

All flower corsages, real or artificial, should be worn with the stems pointing down in the natural way. Particularly is this true of orchids. And one final suggestion is that gardenias should be limited to two blossoms in a corsage, or three if they are small. It seems a little on the gaudy side to weight down one shoulder, and very often a corpulent one, with a rope of six heavy scented gardenias.

Sports Frock from Paris Combines Colors Artfully



No. 5208—The Paris pattern for this frock is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—You girls who are going to the football games this fall, here is a Paris pattern for you, No. 5208. This model has the very chic half-and-half blouse, the front in one color and the back and sleeves in another.

Make this two piece sports dress of blue jersey, the color of the French soldier's uniform, and make the front of the blouse of vivid red velveteen, jersey, or broadcloth. Or make the dress of dark green with the front of the blouse in rusty red material or of a light burgundy red.

You may combine fine, pencil striped woolen with plain wool if you like. That also is smart. Or make this dress of checked or plaid wool with the blouse front of plain but bright wool.

The straight skirt with set-in trouser pockets is very smart, and is roomy enough to step out in, although it looks very slender.

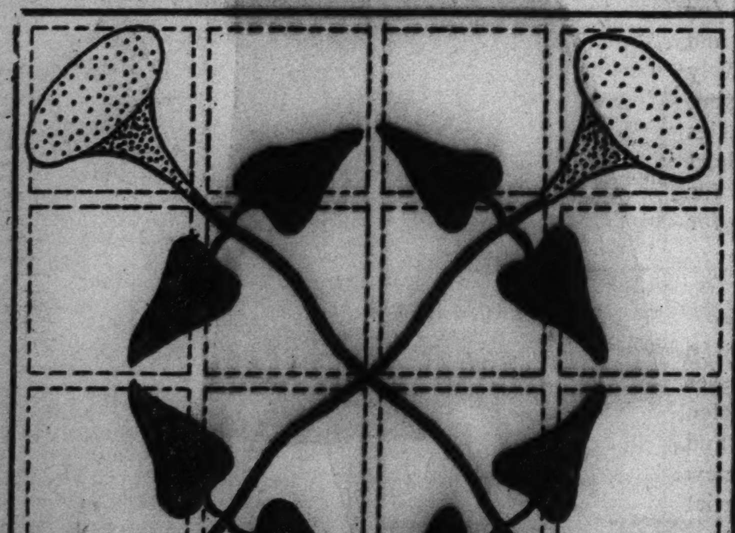
Applique Quilt Employs Delightful Morning Glory



MORNING GLORY.

By Nancy Cabot.

THE delightful blossom known as "Morning Glory" has formed the design for a great many appliqué and embroidery patterns. The appliqué block illustrated today is one of the best. It is a rather small block, set together with three inch white bands between each appliqué block and finished with a three inch white border and a one-half inch bias binding to match the leaves. The two shades of lavender and green, against a white ground, create one of the coolest and most attractive color combinations for any room. The quilting lines in the center of the appliqué blocks are carried out in the plain blocks, and form a lattice over the entire coverlet.

Patterns of this design are 5 cnts. stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

London Living Conditions on 'Spot' in Book

If you want to make a Londoner squirm, Robert Sinclair in his book on "Metropolitan Man" LONDON gives you all the material.

One in every three Londoners dies in a workhouse or in a rate-aided hospital. Infant mortality is higher in some boroughs of this world capital than in the blackest listed parts of the "distressed areas." One out of every 70 deaths is a suicide.

"London, holding one-fourth of the inhabitants of Britain," says Mr. Sinclair, "is a hot bed of chronic disease. Its romance and its leadership are shams, and its prosperity a myth."

LONDON seems to be a very pleasant place to live, but no one so far has refuted the mass of material which constitutes Mr. Sinclair's indictment.

Metropolitan London has to knuckle under 355 statutory authorities. The metropolis has twice as many policemen to population as have the provinces, but there are three London crimes out of every four that never are cleared up. Four-fifths of the stolen property goes unrecovered, and the proportion of mistaken arrests has risen by 50 per cent in six years.

Waste of time through trafic congestion is estimated to cost $125,000,000 a year. London recipients of unemployment pay and relief would more than fill all the London buses at once. [There are more than 6,000 buses on the metropolitan streets, and they hold 290,000 passengers.]

The London County council houses 250,000 persons, or more than the whole population of Delaware, but London still is badly short of houses. In the West Riding district, which includes Sheffield, Leeds, Bradford, and Huddersfield, fewer than five per cent of the families lack private dwellings. In Birmingham the figure is 5 per cent and in Manchester it is 12 per cent, but in London it is 63 per cent.

IMMIGRANTS to London from the provinces over the last five years average 50,000 a year.

In summing up the influence of London psychology on the rest of England, Mr. Sinclair says: "We dare not continue to overlook the falseness of the London legend as a harmless trick of sentiment. Its effect is spreading. The submissive creed of the Cockney, his cheap-jack vocation, his shortsighted philosophy of despair, his abdication of government and the servility of his leisure are already becoming the standard of the urban English."

A FRIEND IN NEED

By Sally Joy Brown.

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer use, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago. Activities of this department are sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

HOUSEWIVES all over the country are in the midst of that furious upheaval known as "fall housecleaning." Houses will be scrubbed and straightened from top to bottom, winter supplies will be unearthed and aired, and summer needs packed away. Blankets and woolens will come out of moth balls, canning and preserving will go on at a great rate, and much will be discarded and replaced. There will be numerous articles relegated to the attic or the storeroom which would help keep some needy family more comfortable during the coming winter, and we beg that housewives will keep this thought in mind during the next week.

The following cross-section of the hundreds of letters pouring into this office shows rather definitly the need for many small items.

Even homes managed on a tiny income may have some of the materials needed so badly by Mrs. M. M., who writes:

"Do you think any of the readers could supply me with old linen to use as bandages for my very sick husband? They need not be anything good, just soft and clean. You have helped me before and I know you to be a friend to those in need."

The address is on the northwest side of the city.

If any reader is discarding a garbage burner, it will be of great assistance to Mrs. S. on the south side.

"I am the mother of four children, girls, 8, 6, 3 years, and a baby 3 months old. I am in need of some sort of stove on which I can heat things, as I have to bathe the baby each day and the weather is getting too chilly for us to be without warmth of some kind in the kitchen, and I am afraid the children will take cold and be sick all winter."

This mother is on relief, but the agency is unable to supply a stove for her. The address is on the south side.

Mr. F. B. on the west side writes: "Dear Miss Brown: We are an elderly couple, 60 and 65 years. I wonder if some reader has a coat and dress size 48 or 40 for my wife. She had a nervous breakdown and has been sickly ever since. I am not on relief but don't earn enough to buy anything but food and am too old to get better work."

"Follow my Camay beauty care to have a lovely Skin"

SAYS THIS PRETTY NEW YORK BRIDE

NEWBURGH, N. Y.:

I'm on top of the world because using Camay regularly made my skin so smooth and soft! Any girl who follows my Camay beauty care can have a lovely skin.

Sincerely,
(Signed) BETTY BLANCHFIELD
(Mrs. John J. Blanchfield)

August 27, 1937

ROMANCE just parks on the doorstep when a girl has a Camay complexion! Stays there, too, if she keeps her skin lovely year after year!

"This business of complexion care is serious," says charming Mrs. Blanchfield. "I've actually seen girls ruin their looks just because they neglect their complexions. I never skip my Camay care—not for a single day!"

Sound advice! Mrs. Blanchfield's brown eyes may twinkle, but they tell she knows what's what! Here is a tip for clever girls—the girls who are out to win.

Many a girl is lovelier today because she has found out this. No soap has the same rich, velvety lather Camay has to get skin thoroughly clean. Camay's beauty bubbles go down deep to the pores, remove the grime and dirt that cloud the beauty of your skin. Remember, skin that's really clean is lovely!

No other leading beauty soap is milder than Camay. Repeated tests, carefully made on every type of skin, have shown that Camay is definitely, provably milder than other well-known toilet soaps.

No soap that you can buy is better than Camay, but you'll find this gentle beauty soap reasonably priced. Why don't you buy half a dozen cakes today? Let Camay be your way to a new and glamorous beauty!

Simple Tricks Make Care of Child Easier

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

IF YOU'RE one sort of young mother, you probably will turn up your powdered nose, or your mouth, carefully lipsticked, will curl at the corner with contempt as you read the following letter. But if you're the opposite kind, your nose [undoubtedly quite shiny], will not take the scornful tilt; and your lips [undoubtedly reddened only for state occasions], instead of curling with superiority probably will droop forlornly at the corners with sympathy —and self pity!

Well, here it, the letter I mean, one only out of a large batch with the same theme:

"My Dear Mrs. Bevans: Words cannot express the gratitude my heart will hold toward you if your booklet, 'Tips for Tired Mothers,' helps me. I feel greatly fatigued, never seeming to get any time for myself, and feel ready to throw up my hands in despair.

"While I am a very young mother, I just seem to be 'overfussy' without being able to get a grip on myself. I do things such as dusting the dining room table three and four times a day [it's always dusty] and running the sweeper in the living room endlessly—almost after every trip the baby takes into that room!

"I fuss lots and lots with my little girl because I just adore her and want her always to be spotlessly clean; but I find myself working from early morning until I fall into bed wearily at night!

"I do all our own washing and ironing; in fact, all of my housework, having only a very limited income to manage with. I never get to shows; and I am very sorry to say, I can't seem to even take time to sit in the park with the baby.

"My husband gets so provoked with me. He says I'm just a 'cleaning fanatic'."

THERE'S a lot of detail and endless work that can be done about a house if you do everything you should.

There's a lot of detail, hundreds of steps and motions, involved in the care of a young baby. If a girl or young woman is inexperienced at the first task, and then her baby comes along, she's often in just the state this mother describes.

There are people who are naturally good managers, good organizers, and who seem to cope easily with house and baby; there are others who don't and who have to somehow work it all out if they are to get any pleasure out of life. Also the matter of temperament or disposition enters in —and the matter of physical endurance. The woman who is well and has by nature a great deal of vitality and drive tosses off housework and baby care very differently from the ones who haven't either.

So don't feel yourself stupid and inferior if you've gotten into a despairing state similar to that described in our letter. But also don't feel, just because you think you're "not the type," that nothing can be done. All you need is some one outside the picture, like me perhaps, to make some suggestions.

NATURALLY I can't prescribe in detail how you shall go about mending matters; there are too many individual circumstances in each case for me to do that. But I can offer you a number of general suggestions which may fit and will certainly start you on your way. Here they are:

As it doesn't matter much which end we take hold of first, let's start with staleness. No matter how much you may love a job, if you do it intensely without a break for numberless hours a day, week in and week out, you get stale.

So, get some sort of break, change, recreation. It isn't easy, I know; but get it, by hook or crook. "Hook or crook" may mean relatives, or hiring some one in the evening, or combining forces with a neighbor in taking charge of each other's house or baby. Or if you can't do anything else, exchange services of some sort, especially if money is scarce. But do put your wits together and get away for a while from your job, i. e., house and baby.

NEXT, we'll deal with this housework problem. You simply must not try to have an immaculate house, always in order. Even without a baby some women make themselves slaves to their houses, wear themselves out, and make their husbands miserable. I've seen it. But add a baby—and oh dear, what a struggle!

If you've been like that, just do a right-about and change your standards. First simplify everything. Reduce your laundry work, if you do your own, in every possible way; rough dry bath towels, attractive place-doilies or mats that do not need washing, paper napkins [big ones are a fair substitute for linen ones]. Get rid of dust collecting ornaments, bric-a-brac, and so on.

Here's the next hint. Let your husband help you. It isn't likely that he'll be so tired every evening that he can't give you a lift with the housework or the baby. Besides, change of work is a rest, every one agrees—tell him that! And besides, and quite honestly, a man gets a lot more fun and real pleasure out of his baby son or daughter, and a much closer understanding if he has some of the physical care of him or her.

If you're a tired mother with older children let them help. They can be made to see it as their share in family living—and even come to enjoy it.

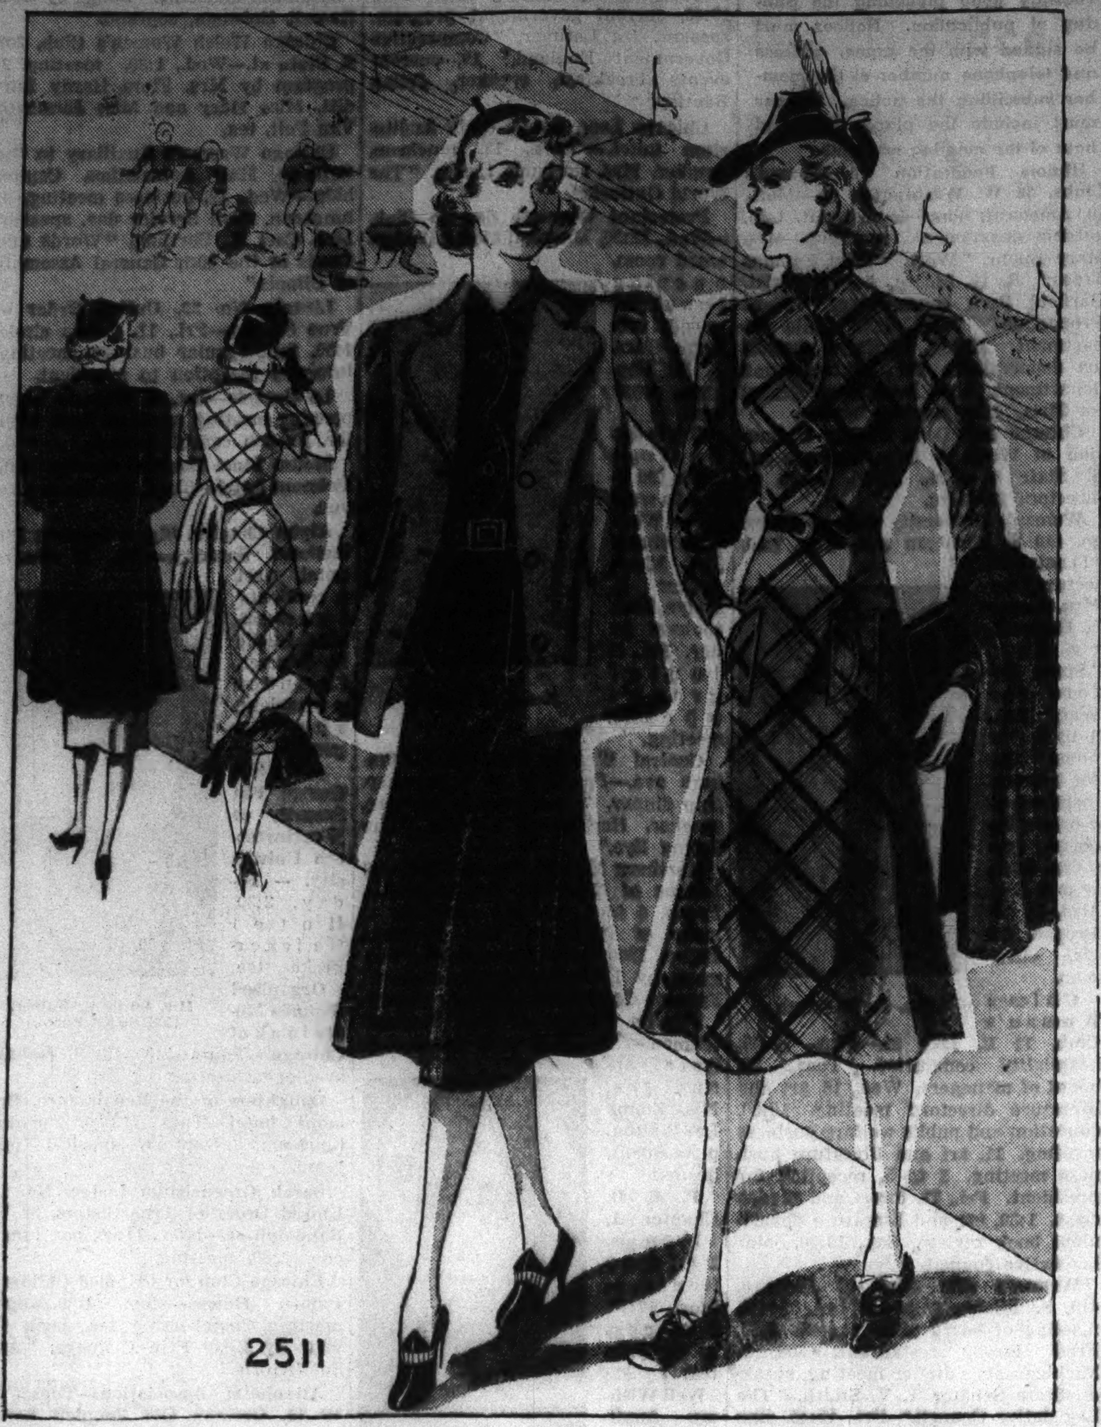
NEXT, keep the baby in simple things; he looks sweeter in them anyhow. When he's a little older make him a pair of flowered overalls to creep in—protecting knees and keeping his clothes clean. Dress the older children simply it's smarter, too. Why a lot of white dresses and little white or pastel suits and white shoes? Darker things are just as attractive.

And the last thing I have space to recommend is that, in case you haven't learned it, get the knack of managing your small one or older ones without argument, struggle. Nothing is more tiring than friction. We have reading on this, in case you would like that sort of help.

These and some other suggestions are contained in our leaflet "Tips for Tired Mothers." It will be sent out on receipt of a large, 3 cent, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Bevans' column also appears in the Tribune on Monday and every other weekday.

Patterns by Clotilde



By Clotilde.

HAVE you noticed how gay and gallant the new fall plaids have become? Every wardrobe should have at least one woolen costume in a bright plaid, and nothing could be more useful than a two piece suit uniting a dress and a boxy coat, such as the ensemble illustrated today.

There's a world of usefulness wrapped up on this trim outfit. The dress in gay plaid is just right for campus or town, and if the shades are subtle enough, grand for the office. Notice that the scallops emphasize the molded lines of the bodice, and the full skirt minimizes the size of the hips and waistline. The clever pockets and ascot neckline should please you, too.

The coat has squared, puffed shoulders. The collar develops revers which extend almost to the waistline. The garment, which extends just to the hipline, has two novel pockets and three fetching buttons.

You may, of course, make both dress and coat in plaid, but a much smarter idea is to have one in plaid and the other in a harmonizing shade of plain, whichever suits your purpose best. The topper, no matter whether plaid or plain, may be worn with all your other tailored fall frocks. Another idea is to avoid plaids entirely, united dark and light shades to harmonize in the ensemble, as illustrated by the larger figure at the left.

If you like, the frock may have short sleeves, and the coat may be made in three-quarter length. These garments are not difficult to make. They're the simplest things in the world. To aid you, a step-by-step sewing chart accompanies the pattern.

Style No. 2511 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material for the dress, with 2¾ yards of 39 inch fabric for the coat. Necessary also are 2¼ yards of 39 inch lining.

IT'S FUN making your own things. You can make the clothes that express your personality. Get a copy of Clotilde's big new Fall and Winter Fashion Book for 1937-'38. It contains descriptions of 116 brand new, easy to make styles for the coming season. On sale at the Tribune Advertising and Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 15 cents, or 20 cents for the book and one Clotilde pattern, if ordered at the same time.

WHEN man speaks, his woman acts! We're not saying how she acts, always! But in one departure with which we are familiar, man can make his woman act as she often is not able to drive herself to do. We have the word of a dozen and more women that if their husbands hadn't spoken, they [the women] still might be toting around their anywhere from ten to forty pounds extra. Indeed, some of those interviewed to substantiate the rumor that had reached our ears about who was driving women to reduce, told us tales of near-tragedy on the domestic scene being averted by listening to the man's hints or outspoken words.

Now, we are not saying that because women are overweight their marriages are threatened. Some men like 'em plump and easy-going. Some men are definitly prejudiced against the skin-and-bone moderns, as they call them. In fact, we've always held a suspicion that a few pounds over never hit the masculine eye as disadvantageously as pounds under.

But the fact remains that there is a large group of men who can't look at a spreading waistline and the jump from a size 16 to a 44 without reverting to dreams of that slender bride with whom they did the Lohengrin step some years ago.

ANYWAY, we went seeking information on the subject, stopping in to talk with Basil Carabella, director of the New York Central Gymnasium for Women, and certain of his feminine clients who would talk.

"Yes," said Carabella, "it is true that fully 50 per cent of the women enrolled here is married and has children. And it is equally true that nearly all of them come here at the suggestion of their husbands. The old saying that 'she got her man and forgot her figure' is out, because the man she got keeps admonishing her now."

The first matron interviewed directly, married eleven years, with much more of her in scale figures than the bride of eleven years ago, admitted that her man didn't attack openly on the subject. But the hints she got were unmistakable. The interest her man began to take in her diet was symptom No. 1. Advice that she'd better cut down on sweets and starches indicated a growing discontent. Formulas for weight reducing marked off in magazines and newspapers, left where they could be seen, suggested a near crisis in the man's feeling. But the day her man brought home the bathroom scale was the turning point. That was the day Mrs. D. decided to act. That bathroom scale episode occurred three months ago and Mrs. D. told us that the satisfaction plainly detected now in her mate's eyes cannot be put down altogether to a rising stock market or a good day at the office.

A short, blonde woman, married for five years, during which she'd run her weight up from 107 to 133 pounds, though maintaining the same five-foot-no-inches height, was bribed into getting into reducing harness and arriving back where she was five years ago.

"BOB always took pride in my trim and streamlined figure and many the compliment he paid me on my 'bantamweight championship,'" she said. "When I began putting on I always intended doing something about it. Never got around to it, however, until Bob offered me $5 for every pound shed; also promising to foot the gym bill if I got down to 115."

A third matron whom economic force and a husband's supplications combined to accomplish a new figure resolve, appeared in one who was forced to supplement her man's meager income.

"The arbitrary age limits set by organizations make it hard when you need a job," she said. "Well, you can't set the clock back, but you can keep from looking the extra years that superfluous weight and its own age dealing load imply. But that wasn't my driving force so much as the added respect my more youthful appearance gives my temporarily disabled man."

A dozen more were interviewed. The last speaker, who'd shed almost forty pounds since her mate began a subtle campaign of admiring other women's silhouette preserving faculty, admitted she was driven to it by subtle force and further admitted getting the following lesson out of her experience:

"With all the stress being laid on what to do with leisure time, for a woman, at least, one answer lies in keeping up her attractive appearance. The very fact that a woman looks well acts as a tonic that helps her meet life's problems with a high sort of courage.

In closing we might suggest that the masculine movie patron whose romance from the screen is presented him in slender, silhouette form, may be carrying away that idea of romance outside the darkened theater. Or it may be the efficient young secretary before his eyes all day. Whatever the reason, there are men who suffer, and not always silently, when the maid of their earlier dreams has become estranged from those earlier dreams by twenty, thirty and over pounds.

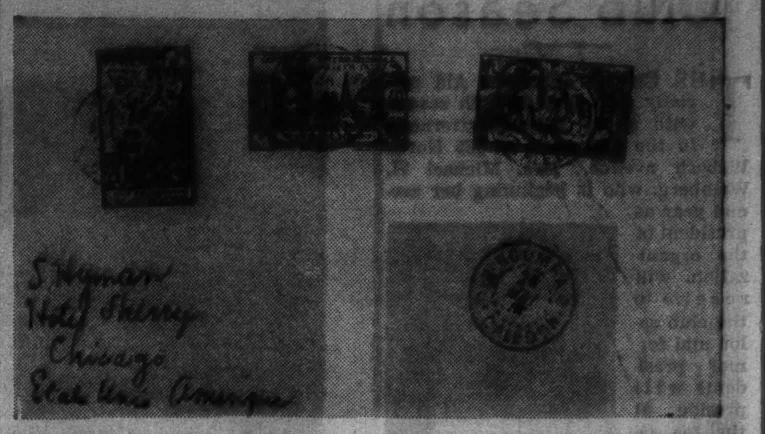
The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning value. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Postage Stamps and Coin advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.



This cover, loaned by S. Hyman of Chicago, shows one of the French colonial sets of stamps issued to commemorate the International exposition held in Paris this year. This cover was mailed in Noumea, New Caledonia.

EACH new commemorative issue of the United States is responsible for an untold number of new collectors, and unfortunately for collecting as a whole, the majority of these want to be United States specialists, but actually are speculators in a small way.

Stamp collecting is a difficult hobby to master at a single stroke, and a collector should have some knowledge of stamps, or at least a natural shrewdness before he gives free rein to any dealer to build up his collection.

Some knowledge is gained by collectors who obtain their stamps from friends, and by trading duplicates with other collectors, but when the trading is on the stamp-for-stamp basis, each specimen is equally valuable to the collector. If he trades with others of his own age who have had no greater opportunities than he has had, the chances are that the trades will equalize each other, but the moment his group encounters a collector with a knowledge of values the situation is changed and the better stamps will enter the newcomer's collection within a short time.

In order to bring a collection past the school boy stage, it is imperative that the collector have access to a priced catalog of stamps. Unfortunately, but necessarily, such a book, listing and illustrating approximately 100,000 stamps, is beyond the reach of thousands of collectors, but concerted action on their part is generally successful in having a catalog available at the public library or at a school library where all may study it.

Unless the question of relative values enters into a stamp collection it will be always limited to the penny stamps and a few good stamps which have been donated by friends. The same is true in every line of collecting. Some bird's eggs are worth more than others on account of scarcity or the difficulty of robbing the nest, and one lady slipper or an Indian pipe in a herbarium of Illinois flowers is worth more than a thousand violets, common or dogtooth. Even tobacco tags have their scarce and desirable varieties, although in this case the rarity of the tag is directly proportional to the undesirability of the plug which it adorns.

It is suggested that beginners try general collecting before attempting specialization in any form. This will give a general knowledge of stamps which cannot be obtained in any other way. At present there is a tendency to collect in topical form and many collectors devote all of their energy to obtaining stamps which picture ships or birds or other subjects too numerous to mention. Others collect only commemorative stamps, but the most recent fad is found in the collecting of souvenir sheets issued primarily to sell to those who limit their collections to souvenir sheets. Now and then a country forgets to sell any of these sheets to the public, in which case our cataloguers wisely take the stand that they are not postage stamps at all and refuse to list them in the catalogs.

Completeness is an ideal to seek in any collection and whether it embraces the world or a single country or colony there is a lot of satisfaction in being able to say that here is an example of every stamp issued by Timbuctoo, Patagonia—or what have you?

The 3 cent purple Hawaiian stamp of the territorial commemorative series, which is to be placed on sale in Honolulu on Oct. 18, will have for the central motif of its design the statue of King Kamehameha I., which stands in front of Iolani palace in Honolulu. The usual service will be accorded collectors of first day cancelations by the postmaster at Honolulu.

For the benefit of a few correspondents who do not take their history seriously, Hawaii has been a part of the United States since 1898 and has used United States stamps since that date. The domestic postal rate applies for ordinary mail but the airmail rate, via Pan-American Clipper, is 20 cents per half ounce.

Stamp Notes.

The selection of new designs for the British colonies continues and to date twenty-three new sets have been announced by the crown agents for colonies, according to the Kenmore Stamp company. The latest selections include regular postage stamps for Basutoland, Bechuanaland, British Guiana, Cambia, Northern Rhodesia, Sierra Leone, and Swaziland.

Basutoland, Bechuanaland, and Swaziland will have eleven values, each from ½ penny to 10 shillings including a new 1½ penny value. The designs will duplicate those now in use except for the change in the king's portrait. British Guiana will have thirteen values, a new 36 cent stamp being added to the present series. The 4 cent value will show an outline map of South America while other values will use designs now in use but not on the same values. All will show the portrait of George VI.

Gambia, with twelve values, will show the head of George VI. on a design in which the border of the colony forms the central feature. Northern Rhodesia will have thirteen values from ½ penny to 1 pound, similar to those now in use but with the change in portraits. Sierra Leone will have the same values as Northern Rhodesia, seven showing the city of Freetown and six showing rice harvesting.

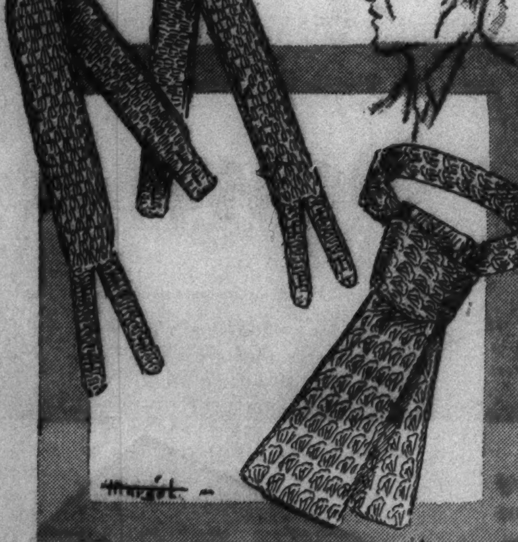
Crocheted Tie, Suspenders Make an Excellent Gift



By Ellen Bruce.

IN this emancipated age women as well as men wear suspenders and ties, but crocheted ties seem to be the strictly masculine. Most men who wear crocheted ties are ever grateful to be the recipient of handmade ties of the soft but nonstretchable variety. The crocheted tie illustrated today is one of those simple, easy-to-make kind that can be done in one day. If the crochet worker is one of those nimble fingered people who can work like chained lightning, a tie of this type may be done in three or four hours. It is not a difficult stitch, but one affording a firmness which means much if a crocheted tie is to stand. The [illegible] a good firm stitch which makes them worth while for service as well as looks. The women can wear them with blouses and skirts for effect, while a man will wear them to insure the perfect hang of his trousers. An interesting crêpe material of the ombre variety creates a most attractive pair of suspenders which may be worn with any color skirt or trousers.

If you wish instructions for crocheting the suspenders and tie illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Ellen Bruce, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

Bridge Expert Sings Praises to the Ladies

By Ely Culbertson

(Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.)

IF IN the past I have been something less than gallant in my anecdotes of feminine bridge players, today's column should do much to palliate my offense. For today I shall sing praises to the ladies gustily and whole-heartedly. Henceforth no woman will be able to point the finger of scorn at me and say: "He's biased! He's so full of sex superiority that he can't see anything good in a woman's bridge game!"

Of course, I have never understood how such an impression could have been formed. For years I have acknowledged publicly that my wife, Josephine, is as great as any living player, if not greater. Is it possible that some of the skeptics with whom this world is so unfortunately crowded attributed my announcement to normal domestic discretion? If so, they were wrong. I lay no claim to lion-heartedness, but in this case I was speaking no more than the simple truth.

I am not biased against feminine bridge players! If by a miracle they are gifted with the proper bridge temperament there is no reason why they should not be fully the equal of men. Temperament, of course, as I use it, is a highly inclusive term, meaning the ability to count to thirteen, to concentrate intently on the matter at hand, to remain calm and unruffled in the face of all sorts of adversities (including criticism), and to defer all conversation dealing with noncollateral subjects, such as wearing apparel, cosmetics, the feeding and care of babies, and the latest amorous adventures of the Joneses, to a more appropriate time.

Now for actual proof as to the bridge prowess of women! Here is a hand that was played superbly by a Chicago woman. Of course, her modesty was such that she would not send the hand herself; one of her male friends, obviously carried away with admiration, sent it to me.

The play, as reported in the admirer's letter, went as follows;

West opened the spade king, dummy won, and every trump was run off, after which the three hearts were cashed. Now all hands were reduced to three cards. North had one spade and two diamonds; East, the jack of spades and two diamonds; South, the four of spades and the ace-queen of diamonds; West had had to hold the king-jack of diamonds, of course, so could keep only one spade, the queen. Dummy, on lead after the last heart, then led the spade. West had to win and return a diamond from his king-jack up to declarer's major tenace. The opponents made only one spade trick.

It is only with the greatest reluctance that I must let a grudging note appear in my congratulations to the declarer for having fulfilled the slam contract.

There were three different lines of play that could have been used, and, in fairness to the declarer, I freely admit that she did not choose the worst one, which was to finesse for the diamond king. It is apparent that declarer placed West with that card because of his vulnerable spade overcall, and, indeed, this was logical card placing. Thus an elimination and throw-in play, which would force a lead up to the diamond tenace, was highly preferable to the diamond finesse. Unfortunately, however, this plan required a bit of coöperation from the defenders themselves.

In the above recorded description of the play it was mentioned somewhat naively that "West had to hold the diamond king guarded and therefore could keep only one spade—the queen." I concede the truth of this statement up to but not including the last word. West had to hold the diamonds all right, but in holding on to the spade queen he became not an adversary but an ally of the declarer's. Surely it should have taken very little imagination on West's part to see what was coming. He could not know, of course, that his own partner instead of declarer had the spade jack; but he could know so long as he held on to the high spade that a throw-in play, with himself as victim, would be as easy as shooting fish in a bathtub. Thus had West shaken off his coma and ditched the high spade I probably never would have heard about this hand.

This would have been a pity, because the hand contains a further point of interest. As noted, declarer's play should be based on recognition that the diamond king is probably off side. West's vulnerable overcall could hardly be justified without the diamond king. With that vital card placed, I should like to suggest the following plan:

Declarer should duck the first spade lead. This is safe unless West holds a seven-card spade suit, and the potential gain is worth the risk. (If West holds only a five-card spade suit, which means that East holds three and can take over West's burden of guarding spades, the contract is doomed.) Thus, inasmuch as declarer rightly decides that the diamond finesse will not succeed, the only propitious line of play is to hope that West holds exactly a six-card spade suit, in which case a squeeze will be inexorable. The play goes as follows:

Dummy ducks the first spade and wins the second. Every club is run off (dummy discarding one diamond), and three rounds of hearts follow. On the last heart lead West must throw up the sponge. With only two cards remaining, he finds himself in the anomalous position of having to hold a spade to guard dummy's remaining five spot, and two diamonds. If he lets go the spade, dummy plays the five and declarer discards the queen of diamonds. If he throws the jack of diamonds, surely it is not difficult for declarer to play a diamond and go right up with the ace, to drop the obviously blank king.

But, as I said above, the lady fulfilled the contract with only a little help from the opponents, and therefore any objection to her play must be at best a quibble.

Today's Questions

Question: The bidding has been as follows:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass

What is South's next bid with:

♠ 8 ♥ K Q 8 6 4 ♦ A K 10 5 ♣ Q J 10

Answer: Bid four clubs. Partner has strong support for hearts, and the combined total of honor tricks may be 6½ or more. If the necessary suit controls are present there should be a slam. If partner has the club king, spade ace, and heart ace he will respond four no trump and South can bid six hearts.

Paris Evening Styles Show New Elegance

By Bettina Bedwell.

THE new Paris evening fashions bear out my earlier forecast by flagrant catering to economic royalists with no-limit purses and a will to have one grand fling. Fifteen thousand francs is the asking—and getting—price for lots of the more gorgeous dresses in the French collections. Glamorous gold-with-color, brocaded lamés, and deep pile velvets are the first rank evening materials. Satins, tulles, laces make 100 yard dashes into wider skirts and skimpier bodices for dancing. Slinky, high waisted directoire frocks with looped up trains, or long scarves contend with full skirted dresses for first place silhouette in the new styles.

Chanel's frocks with prodigal many yard skirts and long fitted corselet bodices are news. Vionnet's thin line, trained frocks with twin scarf bodices playing hide and seek around the bosom are sensations. Mainbocher's black frocks bedazzling with fireworks spangles all over are fresh excitements. Schiaparelli's skin fitted metal brocade frocks and her trailing velvet ensembles crusted with the richest embroideries are knockout evening fashions. Alix's low cut, full skirted vivid velvet frocks trimmed with a thousand yards of rainbow colored ribbon are stunning. Jeanne Lanvin's miraculous black ermine evening cloak that envelops you from chin to heels, and Paquin's chinchilla and mink wraps that do likewise announce the new epoch of unbridled extravagance.

ABOUT half of the latest Paris evening clothes are like the new strategy of those nations that fight without declaring war. These clothes parade as daytime clothes, under big hats and with jackets and dresses that have sleeves and high necklines, but they're grand for evening just the same. Molyneux shows big velvet hats like Boldini loved to paint, with lots of his evening costumes. Schiaparelli's brimmed evening hats and her exotic Persian turbans are a sensational part of the quasi-evening mode that's going to be worn.

While black is still very smart, particularly with lots of brilliant color added to it, straight color is more important for evening than it has been for years. Golden yellow, brilliant fuchsia, green, scintillating stained glass blue and screaming pink are leading evening colors. Two-colored dresses and ensembles are just as chic for evening as they are for daytime.

THE evening styles, being so varied, are a regular kindness campaign to the assorted shapes that women come in. You are not obliged to wear any dress that doesn't gloss over your bad points and show up your best ones. Unless you're tall and slim, don't wear the slinky directoire dress. Unless you are young and slender, don't wear the skin tight bodice with a hundred yards of skirt. If you need help at the back, don't wear any of the new gowns that have a rush of fullness to the front and clinging back lines.

Women who cannot afford to reveal a lot of bosom and shoulders without confessing a lack of something or other, or women who are always cold in low cut frocks, may wear sleeves and built up necklines anywhere this winter. A cover-all evening model comes from the new Schiaparelli show.

A grande dame evening model appears in the new collection of Mainbocher and is one of the all-black evening dresses which will undoubtedly be worn by distinguished women in this very colorful season. The material used for this model is a very black black, called by Mainbocher "Chinese ink," and the becoming skirt is trimmed with a cascading ruffle of brilliant black spangles.

Schiaparelli makes a sash dress which is one of the new front forward styles that Paris is bringing out for evening. The dress is made of dark red velvet, cut on very slender, simple lines, with a very low cut décolleté. A gorgeous sash of Indian gauze in brilliant red and other colors is draped loosely around the waistline and makes two full length ends in front. It is held firmly in place by a belt of gold lether placed over the sash.

Through the Looking Glass

It's quite possible to pat away the threat of chins in duplicate. Posture and care all play their part, but use of a good astringent is an efficient help against crepiness.

THE best thing to do about an ageing neckline is to avoid it. Maybe that's not very encouraging advice from a beauty editor, but we're in the poor but HONEST class, and it's all we'll ever say on the subject.

And, after all, it's possible to avoid it and, as far as we've ever been able to find out, impossible to cure it once it's settled in on you.

IN the first place you get plenty of warning. Your own mirror shows the first symptoms. And so does the calendar. When you get to be 30 or thereabouts, you'd just better watch out!

So get going with your preventive measures. When you cleanse your face give the chin some good, healthy pats. Every little bit helps to keep the tissues firm. Watch your posture. Don't wander through life looking at your feet. And when you read or work or just sit around, do it with your chin up!

Astringents play a good part in this preventive game. They even help a bit if the crêpiness of skin already has gotten you. But some are too strong, some too mild. It's hard to find an efficient one. As a matter of fact, it's hard to find a simple neck treatment that doesn't involve a good bit of expense and messiness.

We have been working with a preparation that seems to us just about perfect. It's a liquid, with a good whiff of menthol, if our nose tells us right. It's not strong enough to burn the skin, but it's miraculously efficient in keeping the skin firm. You have to do some patting, of course, but the liquid does its share.

ALL you do is pat it along the neck and chin line every night and morning. It dries instantly. There is no bothersome smear of cream to mess up your downy pillow at night and no unsightly chinstrap to undermine your poise in case of fire. It isn't expensive, either.

You must hold your head well back while you pat this in briskly. Play your fingers briskly along the contour line and allow the liquid to be absorbed. Don't wash it off.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Oct. 4.

Dig gladioli as soon as the tops turn. Dig all other summer flowering or foliage bulbs as soon as they freeze down, but do not take the chance of allowing them to remain in the ground until after the severe freeze or they may be injured. Store bulbs in a cool, dry place and they will be in good condition next spring. After a freeze, hill up the soil around the roses for a foot or more, cover after a heavier freeze with strawy manure. This applies especially to hybrid perpetuals and tea roses.

Tuesday, Oct. 5.

Make cuttings of all bedding stock, such as geraniums. Geraniums that have been flowering all summer in outdoor beds should be dug, stored in boxes of soil and kept in a basement window or other place where they can be cared for. Cuttings can be made from the best wood, placed in pots of half sand and soil, and potted when rooted. Old plants will not flower indoors before spring. Buy new stock for winter blooming.

Wednesday, Oct. 6.

Peonies may still be divided and transplanted. Give them a sunny spot in rich soil. Do not plant the crowns more than 2½ inches beneath the surface. It will take about three years for a plant to flower well. Do not mulch bulbs until after the ground is thoroughly frozen, but be sure to have a supply of material ready for use.

Thursday, Oct. 7.

After the ground freezes give the raspberries, blackberries, gooseberries, and currants a good mulch, not too deep. It will pay to give some extra attention to these fruits. Mulch strawberries but keep manure away from the crowns.

Friday, Oct. 8.

After removing house plants indoors spray occasionally with clear water but do not permit the soil to become saturated unless the plants are well rooted. Flowering pot plants must not be allowed to suffer from a lack of food and water, and if they fail to do well in one location or window try another for conditions may not be the same with regard to light and heat.

Saturday, Oct. 9.

Steep banks can be kept from washing if certain types of shrubs are planted on them. Suggested kinds are the snowberry or coralberry, five-leaved aralia, sweet fern and fragrant sumac. The ironclad plant [aspidistra] is one of the best plants for dry rooms.

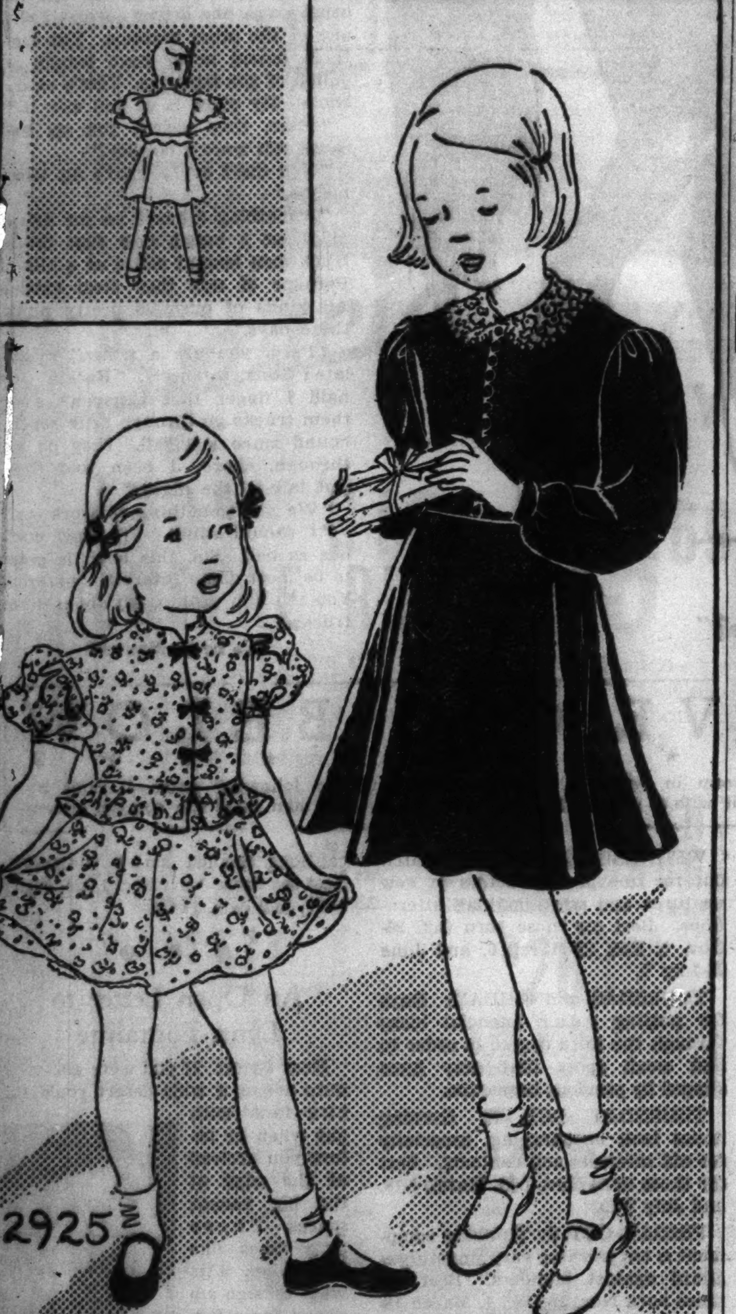
Clotilde Children's Fashions



WE stress, all too often, the practical aspects of juvenile clothes. Naturally, with youngsters being as active and hard on their wardrobes as they are, the family purse and mother's patience have to be considered, but now and then it is a good idea to offer the children a frock which, aside from its wearability, possesses real charm and pretty details of styling.

Wonderful for children's parties and general "going out" is the lovely dress offered today. Two versions are possible. The one illustrated at the left gives the illusion of two pieces, blouse and skirt, whereas the frock in reality is a one-piece model. It has a stand-up collar, short puffed sleeves, perky bows down the front, a diminutive and fetching peplum and a full, swing skirt. Challis prints are adorable for this model. Gay shades are in order, no matter what fabric you select. Silks and cottons both are ideal, of course, and a lightweight woolen is a grand possibility.

The other version of the frock, grand for the girl who is beyond the toddler stage, is dressed up with a lace collar. Its puffed sleeves may be either long or short. It dispenses with a peplum and relies upon the swing skirt and tightly fitted bodice and waistline for its chic lines. Buttons in a close row adorn the front of the waist. Any fabric is appropriate for this model, but the dressier the better.

Style No. 2925 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. Size 4 requires 1⅞ yards of 39 inch material.

THE STORY TO DATE

INSTALMENT II.

"Hello, yourself," Lance replied to the man.

"You look sort of on the loose."

"If that's any of your business, I look just what I am. Why?"

"No offense. We're waiting here for a guy, and I just wanted to be friendly. Care for a drink?"

"Not till I have a feed."

"Broke?"

"Flat as a pancake. And jobs are scarce as hen's teeth in this slow burg."

"Say, buddy, there's plenty jobs for the right guys."

"Is that so?"

"Yeah, can you drive a truck?"

"Mister, I could drive two trucks if I got paid for it," retorted Lance, boastfully.

"How'd you like to make some real dough?"

"Uhuh! Sounds good to me. I'd pull almost any kind of a job if there was dough in it. Only I'd want to be sure I was going to get it," laughed Lance.

"Exactly. It's okay. Now who are you and what have you been doing?"

"You never heard of me, Mister," said Lance, evasively.

"You're a westerner, I know. Probably a bum, too. Not wanted anywhere, are you?"

Lance laughed grimly and looked blankly silent, and averted his face somewhat from the scrutiny bent upon him.

"Come clean with me, Buddy, if you want your luck to change. Are you from around here?"

"Are you asking me, Mister?"

"Yes, I am. It's not for you to ask me questions," snapped Uhl, with impatient sharpness. "Take it or leave it."

"Aw, what the hell? I'm hungry. I beat it out of Frisco ahead of Latzy Clark,' hazarded Lance, remembering the name of a shady underworld character who had recently been eluding the police on the coast.

"Uh-huh. The hell you say. Well, if you're not lying, you talk too much. I just asked you if you were from around here," flashed Uhl, snapping his fingers. And with his eyes like gray fire he turned in the seat to his companions. Lance took advantage of this moment to scrutinize the driver of the car, and the three hard faced individuals in the back seat. At the side of the one farthest toward the road Lance espied the muzzle of a machine gun. What had he run up against? He felt a desire to ease himself away, but somehow he seemed to be rooted to the spot.

"I guess you're okay, Buddy." Turning again he pulled out a roll of bills. "Here's some dough in advance." From somewhere in the roll he extracted a fifty dollar bill, which he shoved toward Lance.

"Wait a minute, fellow. Just what is the job?" interposed Lance.

"See the big canvas covered truck across there, back of the service station? Well, she's your bus. You're to take her to Tucson. She's empty, but you drive slow, as if she was loaded heavy. See? You'll be held up sooner or later, probably just this side of Tucson. That'll be okay. You're dumb. You were just hired to drive the truck over. See?"

"I don't know whether I see or not," rejoined Lance, dubiously. "Who'll hold me up—and why?"

"Listen, I said you were dumb. If you know what's good for you, stay dumb. See? You don't know nothing."

"Does that truck belong to you?"

"What's the racket?" queried Lance.

"Listen, bozo," snapped Uhl, "are you going to take this job or am I going to take you with us. You know too much already."

SILENTLY Lance took the proffered money, wondering why he was such a fool and what he was getting into, but he had to know more about Uhl.

"What'll I do when I get to Tucson?" he asked.

"You'll be on the main highway. Stop at the first all night service station on the edge of town. Right hand side."

"Then what?"

"If we don't meet you some one else will."

"Suppose these holdup gents take the truck away from me?"

"That won't be your loss. You'll just have to hoof it back to town."

"Bee," interposed the sallow faced man called Dip. "This bird is packin 'a rod."

"Shut up. What do we care. I hope he gets sore and turns it loose on those dopes. Buddy, if you turn this trick there'll be more dough in it for you. Now beat it. We'll follow a way to make sure you keep going."

As Lance strode off, carefully pocketing the money, he heard Dip say: "Damn it, boys, I'm not so sure about that guy. But we had to get some one."

"Don't worry, Dip. Maybe he won't ever get there," laughed Uhl.

Lance passed on out of earshot to the rear of the station. He said to the operator: "That truck ready?" Upon being informed that "She's all set," Lance climbed into the driver's seat and took a look. The machine was a fine one, of a make Lance did not recognize. As he moved out of the station yard he observed that the big black car had gone. Lance did not look to see what had become of it.

"Queer set-up," soliloquized Lance, now giving rein to his conjectures. "I hit the bullseye with that crack about Latzy Clark. Maybe I hit it too hard. I seem to remember Clark was suspected of kidnaping or something like that up north. Anyhow I got away with it. And this Bee Uhl. He's a crook all right. This big truck must have to do with bootlegging. Over the border maybe. Or up from some harbor on the gulf. Nothing to me. It gets my goat, though, what this slick bozo had to do with that girl."

Lance reflected presently that he ought to have that circumstance mastered. Madge's own words testified to that. She had flirted with Uhl, obviously for the kick there was in it. She certainly knew he was a member of the underworld. Perhaps that was the secret. A girl like her must be besieged by admirers, importuned and bored until she was tired of them.

All at once Lance had a disturbing thought. Uhl, gangster, racketeer, bootlegger, whatever he might be, might still have another slant to his crookedness. He, too, might be a kidnaper. That seemed reasonable enough, and the idea grew on Lance. The girl must belong to a rich California family. Her style, her patrician air, her talk of a ranch full of Arabian horses, surely these attested wealth. And that might explain Bee Uhl's interest in her. With the repeal of prohibition these bootleggers must work up other rackets. Already there had been a nationwide activity in kidnaping.

"Goofy or not, I take it as a hunch," muttered Lance with finality. "Believe me, I'll get a line on that slicker with his roll of centuries, if I can."

CARS and trucks with bright lights flashing into the desert going and coming passed Lance now and then, the southbound trafic being the heavier.

Almost before he knew it he was climbing the tortuous grade through Bisbee, keeping keen lookout for the holdup he had been told to expect. About midnight he went through a picturesque Mexican town on the outskirts of which he halted for gasoline. This necessitated his breaking the fifty dollar bill Uhl had given him. The service station man, a westerner of middle age, glanced from the bill to Lance with keen blue eyes. "Seen bills like this before—an' also that truck you're drivin' How about yore company?"

"Don't savvy," returned Lance, gruffly. "What you mean by company?"

"Wal, usually thar's two or three trucks like this one strung along. Reckon you're new to———"

"To what, Mister?" interrupted Lance.

"Wal, I ain't sayin'," responded the operator in cool evasion.

"Yeah? Well, as a matter of fact, I'm damn new at this job."

That byplay roused Lance anew to the possibilities that might be thickening ahead of him. Thereafter he kept keen as a whip, and if anything increased his speed a little.

Some miles beyond Vail there appeared to come a brightening to the north. Soon Lance made that out to be the lights of Tucson, miles away still, but clear in the rarified atmosphere. Lance, rolling along at thirty miles or more an hour, began to feel on edge for the expected holdup.

Presently a car came up behind and held its place for a couple of miles. Lance anticipated that this was the one, and he forced himself to be ready. He slowed down from thirty to twenty-five and then to twenty. The car kept behind him, somewhat to the left. At length it slipped up alongside Lance. "Hey, you driver. Halt!" rang out a hoarse voice. Lance shut off and, applying the brakes, screeched to a stop.

"Stick 'em up!" came from the car. A flashlight blinded Lance.

"Okay!" he yelled, complying with the order.

Two men leaped out and a door clicked. The car moved on ahead to come to a standstill in front of the truck. Lance's door was jerked open. Light flooded his cab. Over an extended gun he caught an indistinct sight of two faces, the foremost of which was masked. Lance heard footsteps, running back behind his truck and the clank of bolts.

"Nope. Another new one," came the laconic answer.

"Who are you?" followed the demand.

"Who hired you?"

"I don't know. Five men in a black car at Douglas."

From behind clanked the hinge and there was a slap of canvas. "Empty, by God!" cried a hoarse voice in anger. Footsteps preceded the appearance of two more men, one of whom Lance managed to distinguish despite the blinding flashlight. "Henny, we're tricked. He's made suckers out of us again. This truck is empty."

"Aw, hell no!"

"Hell yes! It's a cattle car. As late as yesterday, when we picked them cars up, this one was full of steers. The other one had the——"

"Shut up!" snapped the leader, pounding his gun on the door. "Hey, driver, how many trucks like this have you lamped lately?"

"Goin' which way?"

"North."

"Ah ha! I told you, Henny," yelled the enraged bandit. "An' they'll all come back full of steers. He's took to buyin' steers. What you think of that? In the cattle bizness. A blind. Ha! Ha! An' it made a sucker out of you."

In another moment their car was roaring south on the highway, and Lance had a clear road ahead. Relieved, and more interested than ever, he threw in his clutch and sped on toward Tucson. Lance saw that he had been used merely to throw this gang off the track. The cattle slant to the business seemed a trick that would take more than one carload of bandits to beat.

The run from that lonely stretch of road to the all night service station designated was accomplished in short order, Lance driving at a forty mile clip. The truck appeared to ooze along as smoothly as a limousine. Hardly had Lance come to a halt in the station yard when two men in dark garb, slouch hats pulled down, hurried out to meet him. Lance was ready for them, and opening the door he stepped out with a long whew of relief.

"Hello. Am I glad to see you? Take her away," he said, vociferously.

"Dey stick you up?" queried one, tensely, while the other leaped into the seat.

"You bet. About five miles out."

"How much'd you dole out for gas? The boss forgot thet, an 'told me to square it."

Lance named the sum, which was handed to him in a five dollar note and no change wanted.

"Blick, we ain't got all night," rasped the man in the drivers' seat. "Cut it."

"Keep your shirt on. The boss gave me an order, didn't he? Driver, yer come through clean. I'm to tell you thet if you're hangin' 'round Douglas next run, you can get another job, and here's another fifty for you. Honey Bee Uhl always pays off."

"Swell. I'll hang around, if it's not too long. When's the next run?"

"I don't know. Mebbe in a month —mebbe longer."

When they had gone Lance went into the service station, aware that his arrival and the short conference had been observed.

"How far to a hash joint? I'm sure starved," he began, genially.

"Stranger hereabouts?" the man returned, with a keen look. "Plenty grub places up the street, but only a couple open this time of night."

"Thanks. Yes, I'm a stranger. And I don't mind telling you I drove that truck because I was broke. I was held up out here and scared stiff."

"You don't say. Well, that's not strange considerin' the company. You got off lucky."

"Yeah? What was I up against?"

"Couldn't say."

"Did you ever see that truck before?"

"Yep, an' some more like it. They been comin' and goin' every six weeks or so."

"Cattle business must be good when steers get hauled in trucks," commented Lance, then waiting a moment for an answer, which did not come, he strode up the poorly lighted street. In the middle of the second block he found a café where he obtained his breakfast. At the next corner there was a hotel. Inquiry brought the information that he could take a bus for Douglas in a few hours. Then he went to bed. Events of the day had been thought provoking, but they did not keep him awake.

On the bus late that morning, however, he had nothing to do but think. It took Lance practically all that long ride to reason out the futility of any further interest in Uhl. Lance did not want to drive any more questionable trucks. Aside from an interesting experience, this meeting with Uhl had no warant to absorb him. It was the singular connection with the college girl that kept him wondering and conjecturing, and thinking that he should warn her somehow. But he did not even know her name. And to go back to Los Angeles on such a fanciful assumption seemed absurd. Nevertheless, his conscience bothered him. That passed, however, leaving Lance with only the increasing pang of regret.

When at Douglas he went out to see Umpqua, and quite provokingly he conceived a picture of Madge on his beautiful horse, he almost gave way to rage at his sentimentality. All the same, thought of the girl persisted, and Lance finally reconciled himself to being haunted.

Riding north from Douglas the Arizona desertland magnified its proportions of color and wildness and rugged grandeur to such a degree that Lance was loath to travel on and turn his back to ranges that dwarfed those he had ridden in Oregon. What a grand country he was entering! For two days he paralleled the Pedrogosa mountains, and then headed toward the western slope of the Peloncillo range.

HE SPENT one night at a place called Cochise, named after a great and famous Apache chieftain. Next day he reached Castle Rocks, which town appeared to be in the center of a vast green and gray range surrounded by rugged mountains. He was now in New Mexico, and he had begun to see cattle in considerable numbers, though not one hundredth as many as the country might have supported. At the station Lance found his baggage, paid storage on it, and asked to have it kept until he could send for it. Then he rode on and on over a rolling and lovely valley.

Three hours after sunset he sighted lights ahead and soon entered a place called Bolton. Unlike most of the other towns, this one appeared to be comparatively new and located on both highway and railroad. There was a wide main street with bright lights and many parked cars, stores, and cafés, a hotel and an inn, a bank and motion picture theater. Lance rode on through to the outer zone of garages and auto camps. Umpqua, staunch as he was, had begun to tire. Lance was pleased to see several horses tethered beyond a garage off the main street, and next a livery stable. The garage, evidently, also provided the facilties of a service station and was quite modest compared to showy places Lance had passed.

"Hello, yourself," replied Lance, greeting a sturdy, bowlegged young man who had appeared from somewhere. There was enough light to make out a lean tanned face from which shone narrow slits of eyes, keen and friendly.

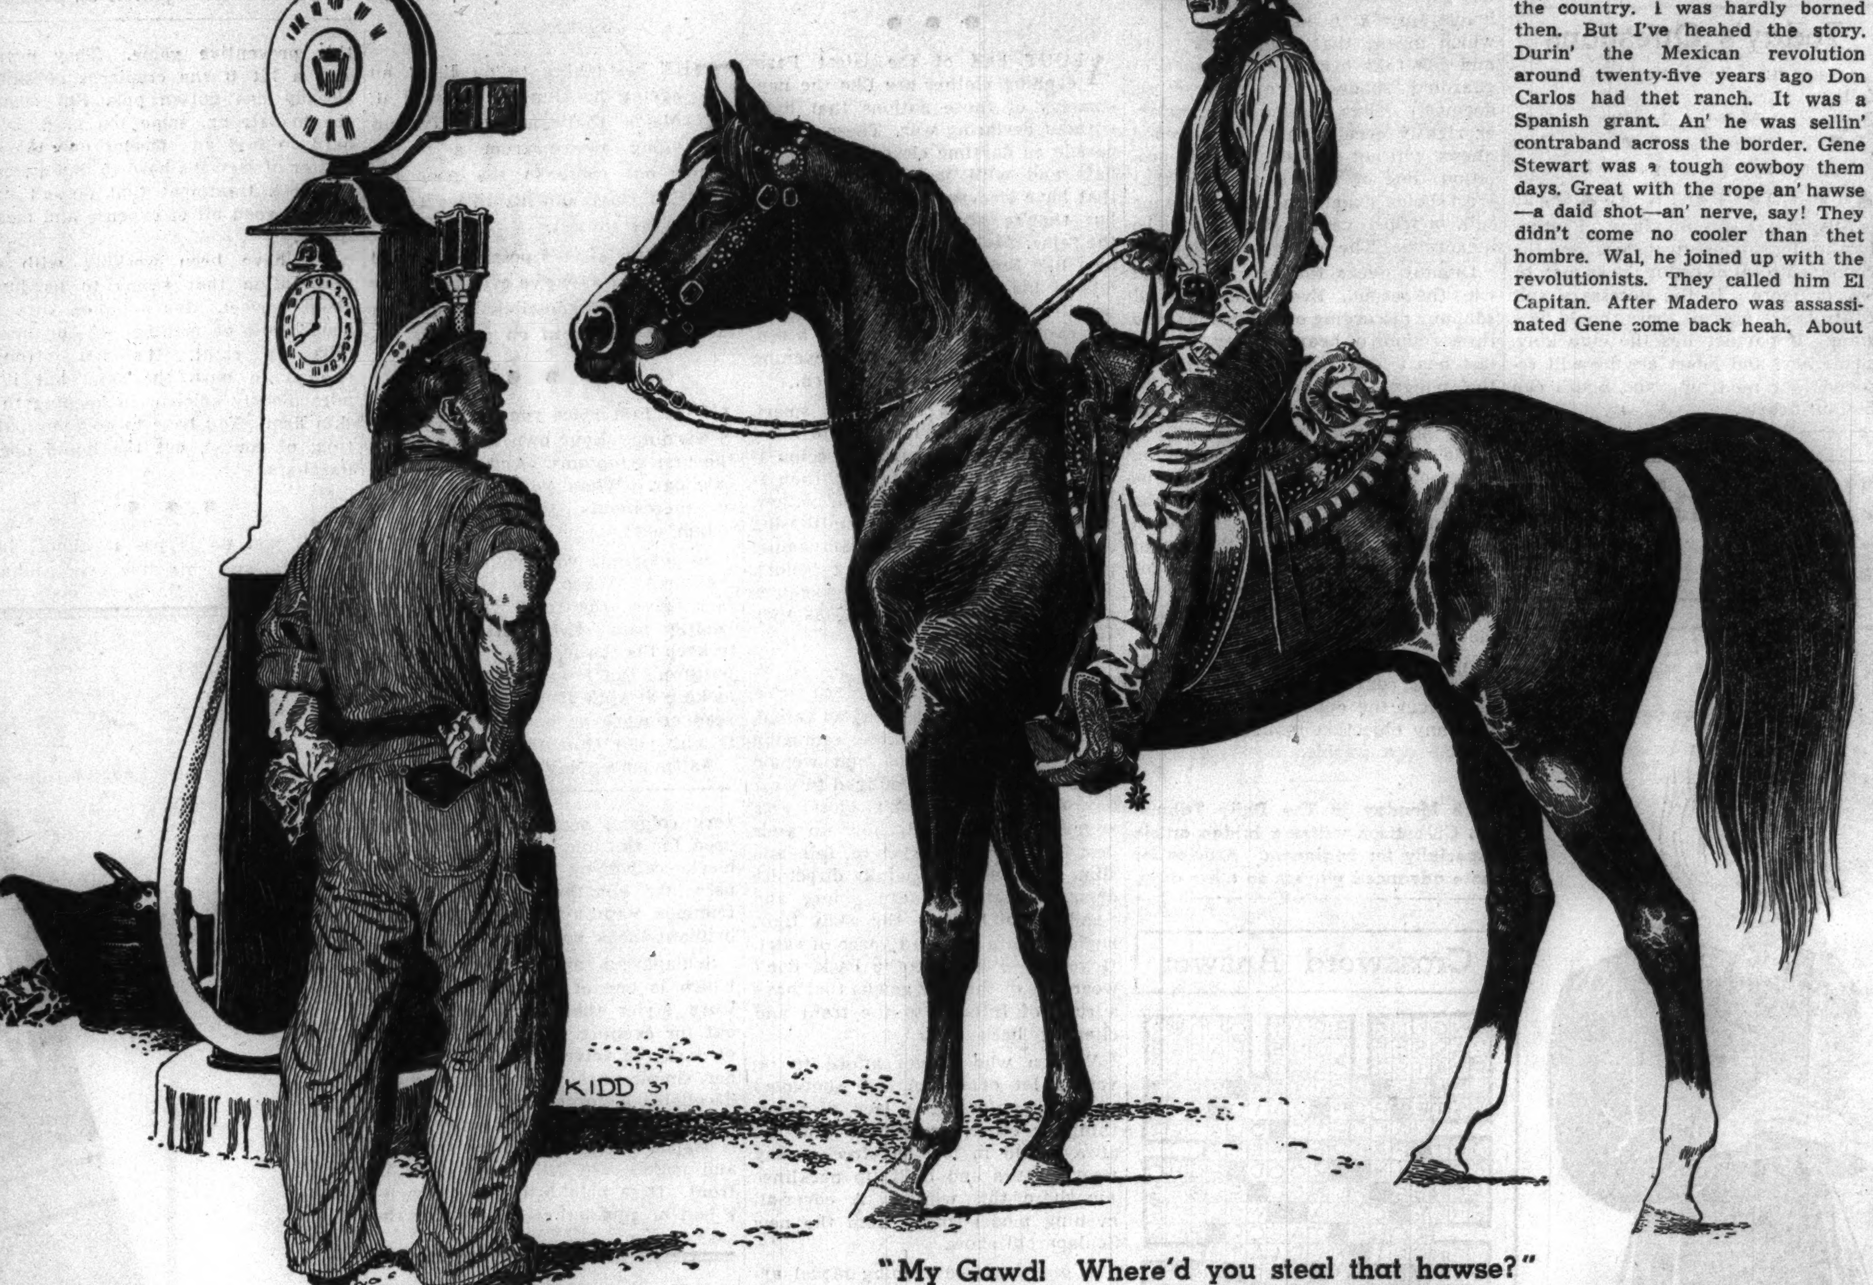
"My Gawd! Where'd you steal that hawse?" queried this individual.

"Are you kidding me or is that the way horsemen are greeted here?" asked Lance.

"Shore kiddin', cowboy. We got some grand hawses in this country an' thet's why I said that. But, on the level, where did you find him?"

"Oregon bred. From Arabian stock, as no doubt you see. He was given us when he was a colt. And I raised him."

"You from Oregon?" went on the other, walking around the horse in a way that betrayed a love of horseflesh. It was an open sesame to Lance's friendliness.



"My Gawd! Where'd you steal that hawse?"

"Yes. Rode him all the way."

"Don't tell. I'll be dog-goned. Wal, lookin' him over, I ain't so surprised. All hawse, fella, an' I'd trade you my garage for him."

"Sound cowboy," laughed Lance.

"Shore, I was—I am a cowboy. Been ridin' the ranges in New Mexico and Arizona all my life. But these hard times I had to make a livin' for my mother an' me."

"Gee, that's bad news. I came to New Mexico to find a job with some cattle outfit."

"Wal, you're jest outa luck. Cowboys air scarce these days. As scarce as jobs. Plenty of cattle all through heah. An' the outfits thinned down to two or three riders. My job for three years before this bust-up hit us was with Gene Stewart. Finest rancher in New Mexico. Used to run eighty thousand haid. But of late years Gene has lost out. An' as I couldn't ride no more for nothin' I had to take this place. Pays fair, but I just hate it."

"Don't blame you. How about me bedding down Umpqua in this livery stable?"

"Umpqua? What a name! Where'n hell did you git thet?"

"It's Indian. Name of a river in Oregon. Means swift."

"Swell handle at thet. Shore, this stable is okay. I'll go in with you. What'd you say your name was? Mine's Ren Starr."

"I didn't say yet. It's Lance Sidway."

"Air you gonna hang about heah a spell?"

"Yes, if I can find work."

The livery stable man turned out to be an old fellow with an unmistakable cattle range air about him. He was almost as enthusiastic over Umpqua as Starr had been. For the first time in a long while Lance began to feel at home with his kind.

"Ump, old boy, this barn smells good, doesn't it?" said Lance and, giving his pet a parting smack, he went out with Starr. "Where can I eat and sleep?"

"Several places, but outside the hotel, you'll like Mrs. Goodman's café. Nice woman, dotes on cowboys, an' runs a swell little chuck house."

"Won't you come with me? I'd like to talk."

"Wal, shore. I've had my supper. But I can always eat. An' it's closin' time for my place anyway."

Presently Lance was ushered into a clean fragrant little shop with more of a homey than a café look, and introduced to a portly woman of kind and genial aspect. Evidently she had a warm spot in her heart for cowboys.

"Wal, Oregon, I'd shore like to see you stop heah," said Starr eagerly. Manifestly he had taken to Lance as Lance had taken to him.

"All the way up from Cochise I've liked the range more and more."

"Hell, this ain't nothin'. You ought to see Coronado Valley an' thet range along the west slope of the Pelanallo mountains. Swell deer and antelope huntin'. Bear an' cougar up high. Trout fishin', O boy! Grass an' sage ranges."

"Sounds more than swell. Is that where your Gene Stewart runs cattle?"

"Used to, when he had ten outfits. But now he's only got about a thousand haid left, not countin' yearlin's an' calves. He jest lets them graze around his ranch, with a couple of greaser kids ridin' for him."

"How far away is that ranch?"

"I reckon about thirty by trail. The road runs round an' up an' down. Cars register forty-two miles. No road work this spring makes tough goin', an I don't mean mebbe."

"Wonder what chance I'd have getting on with him? Wages no object for a while. I want to ride open country, and have a square meal often, with pasture for Umpqua. You see he was raised to fare for himself. Alfalfa and grain would spoil him."

"My idee of trainin' a hawse right. I'll tell you, Sidway, there's a pretty shore chance for you out with Gene. He needs riders most damn bad. I'll give you a note to him in the mawnin'. Thet'll cinch it, if you really want a job for nothin' 'cept board. He'll be glad. Only you gotta approach him sorta careful. Sensitive fellow, Gene is, but the salt of this range. For two bits I'd sell out and go with you."

"That'd be swell. Why don't you?"

"It'd be all right with Mom. She wants to get out of this hot country for a while. But I'm makin' money an' I reckon I ought to save plenty before hittin' the trail again."

"All right, Ren. Thanks for the tip. I'll go. Maybe we can see each other some time. I'd like that."

"Me, too. Shore we can. Gene would give you a Sunday off now an' then. I'd run out after you."

"What kind of a ranch does Stewart own?"

"Gee whiz. I reckoned every puncher in the west had heahed of it. Used to belong to a Mexican named Don Carlos. He was shot long before I come to this part of the country. I was hardly borned then. But I've heahed the story. Durin' the Mexican revolution around twenty-five years ago Don Carlos had thet ranch. It was a Spanish grant. An' he was sellin' contraband across the border. Gene Stewart was a tough cowboy them days. Great with the rope an' hawse—a daid shot—an' nerve, say! They didn't come no cooler than thet hombre. Wal, he joined up with the revolutionists. They called him El Capitan. After Madero was assassinated Gene come back heah. About thet time a rich girl from Noo York come along. She bought Don Carlos' ranch. Stillwell, the foreman, then corralled the hardest bunch of cowboys thet ever rode a range. But nobody could boss them until Stillwell put Gene on the job. They run Don Carlos an' his greasers off the range. An' they made thet ranch the finest in New Mexico. It's as beautiful as ever, but turible run down these last two years. . . . Wall, Gene married his boss, the rich girl from the east, an' was thet a romance!"

"Darned interesting, Ren. I'm going to like Stewart."

"You shore will, an' if you turn out as good as you look—excuse me bein' personal—Gene is goin' to cotton to you. He was grand to me. An' I just love him as if he was my dad. He always stops in to see me, hopin' I'll come back. But he never says so. He was in town today, worried plain about somethin'. . . . He said it was only 'cause he was losin' a few cattle."

"Cattle thieves?" exclaimed Lance, quickly.

"Rustlers out here, Sid."

"No!"

"Shore. There's still some rustlin' all over. Nothin' heah like it used to be. But you see a dozen haid to Gene now means more'n a thousand, years ago. He was sore because he couldn't find out how the cattle was stole. An' old Nels, the last of thet great outfit of cowboys, couldn't find out either."

"Too old fashioned, maybe."

"Dog-gone, Sid. I had thet very idee."

"Say, Starr," spoke up Lance, as if with an inspiration. "Not so many days ago I drove a big truck from Douglas to Tucson over in Arizona. It was empty, but it had been full of steers."

LANCE related briefly the circumstances that made it necessary for him to earn some money, but he did not go into detail about the men he had met on that adventure.

"Wal, I'm a son-of-a-gun! . . . What kind of a truck?"

"A big one, fine built, and canvas covered. I took the license number and the name of the owner. Which I suspect is not the name of the right owner."

"Sidway, you're sayin' things," rejoined Starr, growing cool after his excitement. "I've seen three or four trucks like thet one pass heah every month or so. One went through north four days ago."

"Did you pay any particular attention to it?"

"No. Only saw it an' was sore as usual 'cause the driver got gas from one of the other stations. You see, them fellers never have bought a gallon of gas from me. Thet's okay, shore. My place is as you saw it."

"Starr, they passed you up because you were a cowboy."

"You don't say! That's an idee, mebbe."

"Something I heard on my drive gives me a hunch now that these truck men bought cattle as a blind. Perhaps of late they steal cattle. All kinds of business pretty punk these days."

"Pard, you are a whizz," ejaculated Starr, intensely. "Rackin' my haid I figger thet I haven't seen them trucks go through heah southbound since last fall. They do go through, shore. I been told thet. But late in the night."

"We got something to work on."

"I should smile. I'll grow curious as hell. Sid, this heah is goin' to be most damn interestin' to Gene. You tell him pronto. All about them trucks."

An Open Letter to Lynn Fontanne

Dear Lynn: If you were going by auto across a wide desert you'd fill the tank with gas when or before you arrived at the edge of the big vacant spaces. There are times like that when it is wise to sign up ahead for a few years on the edge of what might otherwise be a rather arid spot financially. Such is the case with you. Get a couple of years under contract by the middle of 1938 and all will be as good as possible. With best wishes,

WYNN.

N. Y. STAGE SEASON OPENS WITH 3 NEW COMEDIES

By Burns Mantle

NEW YORK.—(Special.)—The theater season finally got under way this week, opening not with a bang nor a rush but with an entirely consistent assortment of mediocre plays well staged and competently played.

These included (1) a comedy by Valentine Davies called "Blow Ye Winds," starring Henry Fonda, featuring Doris Dalton, and relating the romantic adventure of an educated and rebellious vagabond; (2) "George and Margaret," a comedy by George Savory, a bright young Britisher, revealing a slightly mad English middle class family, and (3) "The Lady Has a Heart," a comedy from the Hungarian of Ladilaus Bus-Fekete, adapted by Edward Barry Roberts, featuring Vincent Price and Elissa Landi, and relating the adventure of a perfect gentleman's gentleman who was elected a Socialist deputy and dared love the daughter of the prime minister, who was his employer.

"George and Margaret," though variously received by an expectant first night audience composed in equal parts, it seemed to me, of idle actors, visiting Legionnaires, and representatives of the English Speaking union, was something of a disappointment.

Mr. Savory, the author, is 27, an actor by trade, and a devotee of the school of wit and wisdom of which Noel Coward is leader. In fact, if Mr. Savory were to confess that he had written "George and Margaret" originally as a Noel Coward sketch and then tried to stretch it to cover three acts in place of one I should not be sufficiently surprised to raise an eyebrow.

"George and Margaret," after a private showing by a stage society in London, was produced professionally in a west end theater last February and is still running. The fact that it had been such a hit with the British led us, quite naturally, to believe it also would prove a hit with us. We hunger for hits early in the season. Particularly comedy hits.

One of the best jokes of the new comedy is that of the title. George and Margaret are talked about all through the play, but never appear. They serve merely as threats. They have written that they are coming for a week-end with the Garth-Banders and the Garth-Banders are stricken. George and Margaret are frightful bores. The Garth-Banders would scatter quickly and completely if it were not for the restraining influence of mother.

Otherwise it is a comedy of smart lines and little action. The smart lines are a little heavily English and frequently slurred in the reading. The slight plot concerns the sexy Garth-Bander daughter's determined assault upon a different young man visiting her brother and an older brother's equally persistent pursuit of the housemaid, whom he also is determined to marry. They both get their wishes.

The company is British, too. Irene Browne, who played last season in "The Country Wife" with Ruth Gordon, is at the head. Morland Graham, a likable comedian playing an absent-minded father, is a newcomer, and so is a pretty girl, Rosalyn Boulter, who is the sister. There are two, Alan Webb and Moya Nugent, who were here with Mr. Coward last season.

Mr. Fonda, the tall young hero of the screen, is the first of the Hollywood contingent to come back to the stage for further seasoning. Henry now is the star of a light seagoing romance, and if the girls and their mothers like him as well in the flesh as they swear they do in the shimmering shadows "Blow Ye Winds" should do well. Otherwise it is fairly thin entertainment, leaning heavily upon Henry's charm and the beauty and appeal of Miss Dalton.

Henry plays a young college bred vagabond. He had rather sail his sloop than work and his favorite sideline is flirting with susceptible skirts. He meets many of these when he rents his boat out for moonlight sails.

Doris is a brilliant young scientist wedded to a career. Being curious about life, she plays up to Henry's advances and goes sailing with him solo. He runs the sloop on a sandbar, and there they are. As it turns out their moonlight fancy turns into pretty serious love. Doris goes back to her studies and Henry goes so far as to get a tugboat job in town to be near her.

Then, tiring of their clandestinely conducted affair, they marry. Being married, naturally they quarrel. Henry goes back to his boat. Doris plans a divorce. But the night she goes to the boat to make final arrangements about the divorce it happens again. We leave them headed for other sandbars but determined to work something out for their lives.

Pleasant romance, long drawn out. My brothers doubt its adaptability to the screen. I don't know why. It always has been adaptable before.

Henry is moody, taciturn; steadily, calmly, authoritatively charming as both a man's man and a woman's man. He doesn't overdo his manly lure and has, I think, gained in confidence and consequently in poise since last he acted for us, also on a boat, in "The Farmer Takes a Wife." Miss Dalton—slim, youthful, and beautiful—fills the eye as a romantic heroine and deftly lets it be known that she, too, knows about sex and charm and all the prettier lures.

"Blow Ye Winds" is by Valentine Davies. You probably wouldn't remember him. He wrote the University of Michigan show, "Tambourine," in 1929, and a comedy called "Three

We don't see much of Frances Dee since she married Joel McCrea—and the loss is ours! It's nice to know that she hasn't deserted the screen entirely, however, and that she has a most important role in "Souls at Sea" (Chicago), playing opposite Gary Cooper.

Meet the doctor and his wife, in "Wife, Doctor, Nurse!" You recognize them, of course—Loretta Young and Warner Baxter. The nurse? Ah—Virginia Bruce! And if you detect the shadow of worry in Loretta's eyes you may well believe it's there with reason. (Oriental.)

Frank McHugh is one of the silver sheet's most popular comedians. Here he is enjoying life with Carol Hughes. This pose was clipped from the film, "Marry the Girl," which you can see if you go to the State-Lake this week.

Don't they look romantic? They are Joan Fontaine and Nino Martini. And they're being very gay and musical in "Music for Madame," the Palace's current photoplay.

Grand Opera House Opens with 'Show Is On,' Broadway Revue

Chicago Stage Gets Hit from WinterGarden

By Charles Collins.

THE arrival of a Broadway revue of the first class, the cause of Manhattan cheers and gossip, is always an important event in Chicago theatrical life.

First nighters who have remained within their shells since the stock market collapse of 1929 turn out in profusion, grayer around the temples and more creased around the jowls, but bright eyed in anticipation of a new crop of coryphées to admire. Old codgers who can remember "Babes in Toyland" and maybe "The Black Crook" come tottering gleefully down the ailes. Young men about town put on their best suits and date up their most radiant blondes for the occasion. Aldermen, judges, corporation counsels, and sometimes mayors rub elbows in the lobby with hotel managers, tavern keepers, dramatic critics, and alumni of Harvard, Yale, Princeton, and Siwash colleges. Fellows who have seen the show in New York and want the world to know about their travels are present in abundance.

Such an occasion is at hand: The time, next Tuesday night; the place, the Grand Opera house; the production, "The Show Is On." It provides a subject which deserves to be enlarged upon.

Burlesques of Theater Personalities.

This amusement, by advance report, is a revue of the "Passing Show" type which was prevalent during the heyday of Al Jolson and other noted song-and-dance men at the New York Winter Garden and on tour. That is to say, it is devoted to burlesque and satire of recent or current events in the realm of theatrical entertainment. It is rich with comic sketches whose topical mirth ranges from "Uncle Tom's Cabin" to John Gielgud's and Shakespeare's "Hamlet." These episodes, of course, are preceded, followed, and blended with singing, both solo and choral, and dancing by specialists and ballets. The most elaborate dance number is dedicated to Casanova, whose sinful memoirs have become an important work in the education of young moderns.

"The Show Is On" began its career about a year ago and has been in performance on Broadway ever since, except for the summer swoon. It comes to Chicago in one jump without exhausting its energies or wearing out its costumes in cities of lesser degree. Last night the troupe moved out of the Winter Garden, New York, more than 100 strong, piled into an eleven car special train—five baggage cars, five sleepers, one diner—and headed toward Chicago's shrunken Rialto. The caravan will arrive about 12 o'clock tonight and its crew of stage hands will start immediately on the long and complex task of unloading scenery, unpacking costumes, and arranging everything in its proper place and order with a multiplicity of ropes, properties, and electrical gadgets in preparation for the première, originally planned for tomorrow night, but now postponed until Tuesday.

When Show Was Not On, but Off.

The last time a large scale Broadway revue came to Chicago on this schedule direct from New York was in April of this year. The show was "Red, Hot, and Blue," of high reputation, and the first nighters as described above assembled in high hopes. But about 8:45 p. m. Jimmy Durante, in costume, protruded his celebrated schnozzle across the footlights and announced that no performance would be given that night because the stage hands could not untangle the scenery. Would every one please come back the next night or some other night? This event was a minor sensation in Chicago; it had never happened before.

You can count on it not happening again in the case of "The Show Is On." "Red, Hot, and Blue" was managed by an impresario who seldom stepped off Broadway and apparently knew little about the transport department of his business. "The Show Is On," however, is under the direction of the Shuberts, who have been doing this sort of thing for about thirty-five years.

This frolic was often called the Beatrice Lillie-Bert Lahr show during the first phase of its career on Broadway because these well known mummers were its stars. The fact that neither Miss Lillie nor Mr. Lahr will be in the company that visits Chicago should not cause any surprise or gnashing of teeth. They dropped out of the cast some months ago to go in pursuit of motion picture money. Long before the New York run ended the program had been rearranged to suit the personalities of other entertainers. Willie Howard has taken over Lahr's duties and has brought along his singing brother, Eugene, as usual, as foil for his didoes. Rose King has inherited much of Miss Lillie's rôle and also has a partner, Chic Yorke, to supplement her contributions and to add something of his own to the performance. These two were a well regarded vaudeville team in the era of the "two a day"; they are now making their debuts as revue personalities. Thus "The Show Is On" at present has four stars instead of two.

Other principals in the company are Charles Bowers, John McCauley, Jack Good, Miss Terry Lawler, Lyda Sue Leeds, Marcella Swanson, Demetrios Vilan, Mildred Webb, Dave Mallen, Roy Cropper, and André Charise. The late David Freedman, one of Broadway's topnotch gagmen, wrote most of the comic sketches; Vernon Duke and Ted Fetter are authors of many of the songs. Supplementary material, however, has been supplied by other bright young men of the Broadway revues. The late George Gershwin was among these contributors.

ROMANCE IN 'YOU CAN'T TAKE IT'

Henry Richards and Margaret Callahan carry the love interest in the comedy, "You Can't Take It With You," at the Harris theater. This play has been in Chicago since last winter.

Times the Hour," which Brock Pemberton tried unsuccessfullly in 1931.

Vincent Price, tall and handsome, was the young American [from St. Louis, I think] who happened to be in London when the stage society was casting "Victoria Regina" for a special Sunday night showing and was afterward engaged to play Prince Albert in the New York production.

He is a likable lad and a good actor with limitations that have more to do with a lack of experience than anything else. As Jean, the valet to the prime minister, in "The Lady Has a Heart" he is called upon to do little more than to be suave and persuasive in a perfectly polite way, while the Countess Katinka flies into tantrums whenever they meet. The countess resents Jean's success in politics and also is frightfully upset because she cannot help loving him.

They are, of course, paired in the end. Thus, "The Lady Has a Heart" becomes no more than a kind of slow motion cinema romance. Miss Landi lends beauty and a nice line of theatrical fidgets to the part of the countess. She, being an actress who does better in the more stable rôles, has had little luck in New York so far.

It is always a shock when a player dies. They seem such close and often such old friends, though we may not have had theater contact with them for years. A little like gods, we come to think of them as impervious to common ills. Virginia Earl died the other day. She was a little old lady, living as a guest at the Actors' Fund home.

A greater loss last week was that of Osgood Perkins. He was only 45. A career of illimitable promise stretched out before him. He had made a name legitimately and advanced steadily in a profession for which he had no youthful longings. He was never stage struck. He was looking for a job when he got out of the army. [He had gone over to drive an ambulance for France before we entered the lists and reenlisted when we did.]

He was looking for a job and turned to a motion picture enterprise which made several pictures but no money. He was still looking for a job when Winthrop Ames gave him a part in "Beggar on Horseback."

He was a true actor in the sense that he brought neither a Greek profile nor a striking physique to the stage, yet triumphed in a variety of straight plays. Osgood Perkins was one of few actors it will not be easy to replace.

He presents three of the chief assistants from his radio revue: Tommy Cecil Mack [Judge Hugo Straight], Eileen Barton [Jolly Gillette], and Bert Gordon [Count Mischa Moody].

The Chicago theater's stage program this week features the blind pianist Alec Templeton. He offers classical and popular music and compositions of his own, together with music hall impersonations. Templeton, brought to this country with the Jack Hylton orchestra, has remained to become a radio star and concert artist.

The State-Lake theater's stage program this week is a revue called "Foolin' Around," headed by the comedian, "Senator Murphy." Other performers are Larry Collins in a comic skit; Jay and Lucille, the four Olympic Aces, Doris James, a radio singer; Verne Buck, and the State-Lake ballet.

Sande Williams Becomes Band Leader at Stevens; Waring Departs Oct. 6.

A NEW cabaret program, with Benny Fields as star, will begin performances at the Chez Paree next Friday night. This will be the third engagement of the popular singing comedian since his emergence as a night club star of the first degree a few seasons ago. Other principals in the troupe will be Georges and Jalna, ballroom dancers; Gracie Barrie, singing girl of Broadway revues; Dolly Arden, the dancer who recently starred at the Villa Venice; Sunny Rice, and Rosita Royce. The costume numbers for the ballet include a "Bird of Paradise Fantasy." Henry Busse's orchestra and Maurie Stein's swing band will continue. A new song by Busse called "Farewell, My Love" will be on the program.

- The Continental room of the Stevens hotel launched a new program of entertainment last Thursday night. Sande Williams' band, new to Chicago, plays for dancing. This organization comes from the Carlton hotel in Washington, D. C. The Music Hall Boys [Frank Kamplain, Van Kirk and Allen Sterling] offer comedy songs. They have been active in London night clubs. Pierre and Temple give a repertory of ballroom dances. Keith Beecher's orchestra has been engaged for "relief" playing every Monday night.

- Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians will end their engagement in the Silver Forest of the Drake hotel next Wednesday night. The room will be closed to the public until next Sunday, when it will open its winter season as the Gold Coast room with Vincent Lopez as orchestra director. His soloists include Johnny Morris, singing drummer; Fred Lowery, singer and whistler; Lois Still, singer; Bob Litell, balladist; and Ernie Mathias and Bob Snell, comedians. In addition, Willard and Hurley will give badminton exhibitions, and Bob Du Pont will perform juggling tricks.

- Wayne King's arrival in the Empire room of the Palmer house on Sept. 25 marked his first café appearance in Chicago, and also set a new record for an opening night of a dance band. Previous to King's opening, Guy Lombardo held the record with Eddy Duchin in second place. The all-time opening night record is still held by Veloz and Yolanda.

In the floor show supporting Wayne King are the Renee De Marco and her husband-partner, Antonio, ballroom dancers; Alexander Gray, singing star of stage, screen, and radio; Dolly Thon, specialty dancer; and the Twelve Abbott dancers. King and his orchestra play every evening but Monday, when he is relieved by Charles Gaylord's band. The floor show is presented twice nightly.

- The College Inn continues its fall revue with Frankie Masters as orchestra leader and master of ceremonies. "Candid camera" nights have been resumed, but on Tuesdays instead of Mondays.

- Roger Pryor's band and floor show will continue in the Marine dining room of the Edgewater Beach hotel until Oct. 15. Orrin Tucker's orchestra will follow.

- Community singing with George Howard as master of ceremonies forms part of the program of entertainment in the Blue Fountain room of the Hotel La Salle. The King's Jesters and Marjorie Whitney continue.

- Carlos Molina's orchestra will play a special engagement at the Aragon ballroom today, with Freddy Martin's band as co-feature. At the Trianon ballroom, Ted Weems' band will be supplemented by Charles Gaylord's orchestra. Sunday dancing in these halls begins at 3 p. m. and continues until 12:30 a. m.

- Dudley Crafts Watson's travel talk in Old Heidelberg next Thursday afternoon will have the Paris exposition as its theme. This restaurant also features Sunday afternoon concerts by Armand Buisseret's string ensemble.

- The Royale Frolics, closed during the summer, reopened last Thursday with a revue called "New Faces of 1938." On the bill are Sid Tomack and the Reis Brothers, comedians and masters of ceremonies; the Karrie LeBarron Trio adagio dancers; Le Roy and Sharp, ventriloquists; Frances McCoy, blues singer; Sinclair Sisters, tap dancers; Nancy Healy, soubrette; Jackie Hilliard, tenor; a ballet of 25 girls and Mark Fisher's dance band.

- Jack Irving, singer and master of ceremonies at Harry's New York Cabaret will present a new show tomorrow night with the following entertainers: Dorothy Wahl and Marjorie Kelly, dancers; Mildred Rock, blues singer; Florence Barlow, dancing soubrette; and a new "line" of ballet girls called the Dorothy Keith Ingénues. Dance music by Charles Engle's band.

- Featured at L'Aiglon restaurant are the Pan American Trio, with Tamara Doriva, and George Bay's orchestra in concert music for dinner and dance music for the later hours.

- Colosimo's has Roscoe Ails, comedian and master of ceremonies; Inga Borg in the "Dance of the Sphinx"; and Mlle. Zee-Zee, a dancer. Others are Ashley and Ware, comic dancers; the Monte Carlo singers, a operatic quartet; Betty Lewis, dancer; Gaye Dixon, singer; a ballet of twelve; and Henri Gendron's dance band, last heard at Villa Venice.

- Appearing at the Hi-Hat Club for her first night club engagement is Armida, Mexican singer and dancer from Hollywood. She appeared in the movie "Border Town Café." Co-starring is Willie Shore, dancer comedian and master of ceremonies. Others are the Hi-Hat Ingénues, ballet dancers, and Cheri and her singing quartet from radio. Sid Lang's band plays for dancing.

- The Yacht Club presented a new show last Wednesday. Holdovers are the stars, Oshins and Lessy, comedy singing team. New performers are a singing trio called Major, Sharp and Minor; Bill Bailey, a trumpet player who imitates dance band leaders; and Jerri Withee, tap dancer. Belva White, singer, and Ted Cooke's dance band, the Commodores, continue.

> "Life means for us constantly to transform into light and flame all that we are or meet with."
> —Nietzsche.

Here, in twenty beautiful volumes, is wisdom that will live as long as the English word is read or spoken. Wisdom for which some wistful remnant yearns, in every one of us. For, with Emerson, when genius speaks to us, we feel a ghostly reminiscence that once, though vague and inarticulate, that same thought was ours.

There is stimulation and courage in these rich and readable books. There is enlightenment and the opening of new broad paths of interest. In thousands of families this 20 volume library will bring a background of wide and cultivated reading that every one longs to possess.

As Carlyle said: "The true University of these days is a collection of books." And this is a marvelous collection! Poring over them, you are startled to see how the greatest minds of the ages solve the very problems you face today. A single phrase in any one of them may have magic for you.

How these books can cost so little

The astonishingly low prices of these handsome books have been made possible by our arrangement with their publisher, and by the vast quantity of the single printing. We believe that such a library is every home's rightful heritage, that possession of the world's greatest thoughts has nothing to do with wealth.

Any one of these volumes will make a treasured gift—and a very inexpensive one. The set of twenty volumes in your own home is a library in itself. And the price of the set, complete, actually saves you $3 over the price of the books bought separately.

Come and see them if you can. Or telephone State 1000 and ask the Personal Shopping Service to fill your order. Or send the convenient coupon below. Our supply is limited.

Do you know, for instance . . .

Why Spinoza dislikes humility and admires modesty?

That the sharp tongued Voltaire wrote the essay which began the dethronement of the Bourbons—but also wrote, "for scholars and serious persons," an essay on Kissing?

What Dewey, whose work first caught the eyes of the world here in Chicago, says about changing human nature?

That Confucius died unhonored in 478 B. C., but his teaching has shown, ever since, how to get through life like a courteous gentleman?

What Plato writes, in one of the purple patches of all literature, about the death of Socrates? How, at sunset, talking gently with his weeping friends, Socrates drank the hemlock. Then, dying, roused to remember he owed a debt of a cock—and to ask that it be paid.

All this, and far more,
is in these masterpieces

Radio Offers a Menace to Film Studios

Broadcasting Companies Are Encroaching on Movie's Territory.

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—So many movie players and writers have come to the conclusion that radio offers more money and more celebrity at just this time that the film studios are getting worried. Radio in Hollywood, with National Broadcasting in a new million dollar headquarters; Columbia Broadcasting building a similar lavish and expensive palace, and Mutual to inherit the old NBC plant, is slapping the whole film colony dizzy with its talk of four and five figure contracts.

One eastern syndicate writer recently came to Hollywood to accept his assignment to cover the movies, but brought along with him a signed, sealed, and delivered contract with a business agent, which binds the newcomer to leave his newspaper connections and turn actor at the first chance to get the dough.

Jean Arthur got so angry with her employers at Columbia studio that, after losing a recent lawsuit to declare her Columbia contract breached, she has just retired to her new ranch home and passed the word along to friends that she decided to retire from films altogether for the time being.

Willard Parker, a six foot youth who played professional tennis in the east, has been cast by Warner as a lead in the Edward G. Robinson film "A Slight Case of Murder." . . . Jack Pepper, vaudeville actor who was Ginger Rogers' first husband, tried to contact Ginger when he landed here for a radio engagement last week, but was not able to do so. Pepper even tried her studio publicity department, but Ginger was not feeling in an ex-husbandly mood.

Deluge of Shanghai Movies to Swamp the Public.

The studios are in a race to get to the public first with Shanghai pictures. Paramount has a cast making "Daughter of Shanghai." Warner's has still more villains but fewer oriental big names in "Shanghai Deadline." Those menacing characters, Peter Lorre, John Carradine, Cesar Romero, J. Edward Bromberg, and Slim Summerville will be in this, along with Keye Luke, Jean Hersholt, June Lang, and Virginia Field.

Isa Miranda, Paramount's new glamor star, is from Milan, and is enthusiastic about Mr. Mussolini, but she can't muster the same exuberance about Mr. Hitler and things German. She was in Germany recently to star in a film there and the end of her picture coincided with a cinema ball which was one of the items of public splurge that bore full Nazi approval. Miss Miranda, who shrinks a bit from meeting people in crowds, was reluctant to attend the ball and had her manager send word that she had brought no evening dress. A curt note came back from the offices of the German leader stating that "anything Miss Miranda needs Germany is well prepared to supply." The note frightened the brown-eyed, blonde-haired Italian beauty so much that she left Germany on the next train. Miss Miranda is "protected" in this country by Alfredo Guarini, Italian film producer, who acts as her manager.

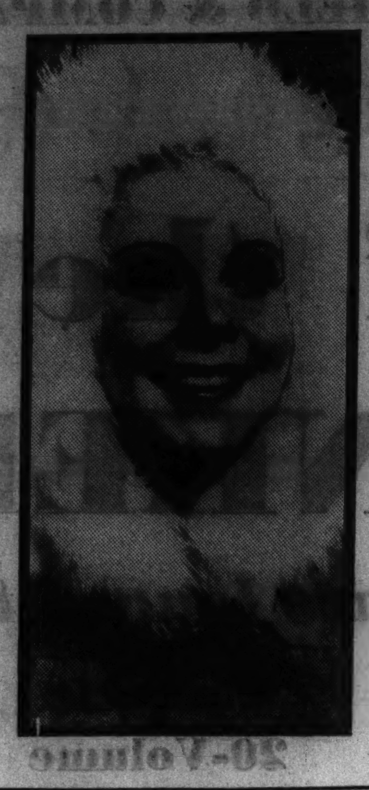
Walt Disney Explains Creation of "Mickey Mouse."

Walt Disney broke down the other day and explained how he came to create "Mickey Mouse." It was because even in his boyhood in Kansas City he had an interest in the little creatures and used to catch them in waste baskets and keep them in cages where he got to regard them as pets.

One of his little friends, bolder than the others, used to crawl around on his drawing board while he worked as a commercial artist, and he designed the cartoon character of a mouse with personality, even before he did his first animated cartoon.

Studios complain their films get the poorest reviews in Ohio and Pennsylvania, where rigid state censorship boards cut pictures to such a degree that the finished product sometimes scarcely makes sense. Hays' office restrictions don't satisfy the "blue law" officials in these two states, studios say.

Word is going around explaining why Paramount had to start "Toast of New York" all over after filming nearly half of the picture. The studio adapted the picture from the book, "Robber Barons," without doing the usual toning down on some of the leading characters. When it seemed that libel suits by descendants might involve sums close to war debt proportions the studio revamped the script, changed the name, and began shooting all over again.



NO, NOT AN ESKIMO

Not an Eskimo maid, but Sonja Henie as she looks in "Thin Ice," now unreeling at the Roosevelt. Tyrone Power, who's been squiring her about lately, is her big thrill in the movie.

DEAD END MR. DODD TAKES THE AIR
STELLA DALLAS TOPPER
DOUBLE OR NOTHING
100 MEN AND A GIRL

By Mae Tinee.

GOOD Morning!

Not as imposing a list as we have sometimes, is it? Fewer of both "bests" and "honorable mentions." O well—the old summer slump, you know . . . but it's over now, and they do tell us there's a grand new season opening plummed with movies we'll sing and be happy about.

"DEAD END"—to reminisce—adapted from the play by Sidney Kingsley, with Humphrey Bogart and the child players who appeared in the "legitimate" heading the all-star cast, proved "strong meat not for the appetites of those who turn shuddering away from the contemplation of realities. . . . All of the acting is tops . . . and if you can find a fault with direction, photography, or settings you're a better trouble locater than I. . . . 'Dead End' isn't pretty—not for one split second—but it IS real life drama of the first water. . . ."

"STELLA DALLAS"—"This remake of the silent film, adapted from Olive Higgins Prouty's novel, is craftsmanlike, and the story of mother love and sacrifice strikes as deep into the hearts of observers as it did ten years ago. . . . Miss Stanwyck presents a gallant portrayal of the mill hand girl. . . . 'Stella Dallas may be dated.' . . . Just the same, it's a production of which the producers can, with reason, be proud. . . ."

"DOUBLE OR NOTHING"—'Bing Crosby's crooning and a 'sing band' of fifty musicians who don't play any instruments, compose the high lights of 'Double or Nothing.' . . . This piece is pleasing comedy with music . . . brain resting entertainment. . . . Mr. Crosby turns out a smooth as silk performance. . . . Able direction and lavish mounting are added reasons why you should put 'Double or Nothing' on your shopping list. . . ."

"MR. DODD TAKES THE AIR"—"Kenny Baker of the airways makes good on screen. . . . Lot of personality to Kenny. . . . Amiable and tuneful diversion. . . . Picture is fetchingly staged, partly dialoged, and smartly directed. . . . Has several lovely tunes. . . ."

"TOPPER"—"Hilarious entertainment with unexpected—if screwy—angles . . . brightly acted, directed, and dialoged. . . ." [Featured, Constance Bennett, Cary Grant, and Roland Young.]

"100 MEN AND A GIRL"—"A treat. . . . Rare blend of artistry and hokum that cannot fail to have universal appeal. . . . Abounds in beautiful music, superfine acting, is blessed with cunning direction, splendid mounting, and a piercingly human little story rich with the humor that is akin to tears. . . . Deanna Durbin—a child marvel—beauty, a lovely voice, remarkable poise. . . . But none of these is so startling as the intelligence which shines through everything she says or does. . . . Magnificent portrayals are contributed by Stokowski and Adolphe Menjou. . . . A perfectly fascinating photoplay. . . ."

And now—come on you "New Season"!

See you tomorrow.

Belle of Campus

FLORENCE SUNDSTROM, who appears as the campus belle in "Brother Rat," is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Einar W. Sundstrom. Capt. Sundstrom, while in command of the S. S. Dixie, saved that vessel, its passengers and crew during a severe hurricane in September, 1935. During the storm he stayed with the ship after the passengers had been removed, although he had been severely injured. He won commendation from President Roosevelt, who said the captain and his crew had brought "great credit to the American merchant marine."

Stage Wages

BROADWAY theatrical producers and the stagehands' union have signed a two year agreement rescinding the wage cut made in 1932. The new scale of wages raises chief carpenters, property men, and electricians from $75 weekly to $82.50; curtain men and flymen from $54 to $58, and stagehands, grips, clearers and operators from $50 to $54.

Critic Grows Testy Over Some Chicago Composers

Sees Timidity in Breaking with Tradition

Makes Exception of a Few Whose Works Show Originality.

By Cecil M. Smith.

THERE is a widespread conviction in our city that Chicago composers write exclusively music that has nothing to say. Some day I should like to write in controversion of this ill-founded conviction, pointing to the originality and aggressiveness of some works no longer new, such as Leo Sowerby's "Northland" suite, John Alden Carpenter's "Skyscrapers," and Eric DeLamarter's Third symphony, and looking with favor upon the present group of younger composers that includes David Van Vactor, Robert Sanders, and Harrington Shortall.

This must wait for a brighter day, however. Today I cannot resist talking sympathetically but frankly about composers less sure of their intention than these six and half a dozen others I ought also to have mentioned.

Last season I attended a number of concerts at which music by a representative variety of Chicago composers was performed. The recollection of some of these concerts makes me a bit testy. For I think the rest of the audience and I were often brought to listen to this music by a claim that was partly false.

Promise of Hearing New Music Partly False.

This partly false claim was the promise that we should hear "new" music. What we actually heard, in too many cases, was the evocation of the shadow of Brahms, of Rachmaninoff, of Massenet, of Debussy, of Wagner, of Chaminade. . . . [You complete the list.] Now this is really very disconcerting, isn't it? You and I might not have felt like hearing Brahms or Rachmaninoff if we had known in advance, and I for one never feel like hearing Chaminade.

Refurbishing the music of twenty-five or fifty years ago gets us nowhere 'n the field of creative music. It hurts to say this, but do you know that precious little music composed in and around Chicago is ever performed east of Indiana Harbor? It is not performed in Denver or Dallas or Dubuque either, for these cities and all the others like them have their own imitators of Brahms and Chaminade, and musical charity begins at home.

But we must not hold our Chicago composers responsible for this state of affairs. Inevitably they reflect the laggard quality of our musical culture. Their rejuvenation depends upon the rejuvenation of the musical life surrounding them.

Chicago's Music in Grip of Conservatism.

For more than a decade now Chicago's music has been in the grip of a dangerously reactionary conservatism. Traditions have become sterile from overobservance. A climactic illustration of the way our minds have become closed occurred season before last when many of the subscribers of the Chicago Symphony orchestra walked out on William Walton's symphony, refusing to listen even once to a work not instantaneously pleasing. This is indeed the evocation of the spirit of Chaminade, if we run in fright from everything but dinner music!

Fortunately signs of change are visible. For the coming Chicago Symphony orchestra season Dr. Stock has just released the most alluring list of novelties he has projected for performance in many years. Albert Goldberg promises an extremely stimulating season with the Illinois Symphony orchestra.

Chicago Needs a Musical Renaissance.

Chicago needs a great musical renaissance. Year by year the musical culture of America has grown apace elsewhere, while we in Chicago have locked ourselves in our ivory tower a little more securely each year. We have watched the development of music without participating sufficiently in it. We have played and sung and composed the same music over and over again. Just as our composers have refurbished Brahms and Debussey, so our orchestra has kept right on playing Georg Schumann's "Liebesfrühling" overture after every one else in the world has decided to forget it, and our opera company gives "Thaïs" with the settings of Hammerstein and a counterfeit of the stage direction of Mary Garden.

Those of us who escape from modern life either by rewriting the music of the nineteenth century or by turning a deaf ear to music of the twentieth, have not been required to answer the important question, "Why do you do it?" Criticism, both in and out of the newspapers, has become too largely a matter of social grace. We all play the game of "trade lasts" [you say something nice about me and I'll say something nice about you].

In a mood of mutual helpfulness and aspiration let's begin to play the game of truth [you tell me what's wrong with me and I'll tell you what's wrong with you]. It is a much more exciting game.

Notes of Music and Musicians

Philip Manuel, Gavin Williamson, and the Manuel and Williamson Harpsichord ensemble will make their second appearance in Northwestern university's "History and Enjoyment of Music" series of concert-lectures in Thorne hall Wednesday evening. The program, upon which both Mr. Manuel and Mr. Williamson will offer commentaries, is devoted to the music of Johann Sebastian Bach, his contemporaries, his sons, and his immediae successors.

Assisting artists will be Dorothy Lane, harpsichordist; Dorothy Brown, harpsichordist and mezzo-soprano; Madeline Reinecke, soprano; Leonard Sorkin, Armand Roth, and Robert Dolejsi, violinists, and Dudley Powers, cellist. In addition to the instruments already mentioned the concert also will demonstrate the clavichord and the viola d'amore. Georg Philip Telemann's program suite, "Don Quixote," and a Mozart Fugue for Two Harpsichords are unusual items in the list.

Jan Peerce, popular radio tenor, who makes his Chicago concert debut at the Civic Opera house this evening, was "discovered" by the famous New York showman, "Roxy" [the late Samuel L. Rothafel]. Roxy heard him playing the violin and singing in a hotel orchestra, and persuaded him to give his entire attention to singing. For the last five years he has been prominent in the stage productions of Radio City Music hall in New York. His assisting artist tonight is 9 year old Aaron Rosen, violinist, a sixth-grader in a west side public school.

The program of Virginia Pemberton, soprano, at the Civic theater Tuesday evening includes songs and arias by Haydn, Mozart, Petrello, Saint-Saëns, Chaminade, Bizet, Loret, Chopin, Puccini, Gounod, Strauss, Schumann, and others.

Opening the season of the Beaux Arts salon in the Medinah club this afternoon, Mathilde Ernestine presents a Czechslovak program, featuring Mary Polarck, soprano; Yarka Bures and Victoria Kulhanek, dancers, and the Slovak Dance Sokol.

Personalized Education Is College's Aim

Hopes to Be Able Better to Equip Graduates for a Business Life.

By the Rev. John Evans.

PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE, Clinton, S. C., extending its program of personalized education, has set up this year a department of personalized student guidance. Frank Dudley Jones, professor of psychology, has been appointed its head.

The purpose of this new department is better to understand the individual student through the use of psychology, vocational guidance, personality, case histories of other students, and similar tests. Thus, by recognizing strong and weak points in the student, through strengthening the former and combating the latter, the student's potentiality may be developed to the highest degree.

Henry Marsden Wilson Jr. of New York City, who was graduated last year from Presbyterian college, has joined the staf as personnel director and to act on the committee, consisting of Mr. Jones and John Osman, the college's field secretary, on personalized student guidance.

Mr. Wilson's duties will consist largely in establishing contact with leading corporations and professions in the nation and determining their requirements for young men entering their respective fields. The particular interests of a student will be encouraged and put to active work. Then, as new fields of his character are uncovered, new fields of interest will become open to him.

THE 137th academic year of Yale university is marked by the installation of its fifteenth president. Prof. Charles Seymour, whose election took place last February, will be inducted with a simple ceremony in Battell chapel next Friday in succession to James Rowland Angell.

Dr. Seymour, who is known as a historian and university administrator, is generally considered an authority on modern European history. His books dealing with the problems of diplomacy and internation relations, especially between the United States and Europe, are widely read. As Sterling professor of history, master of Berkeley college, and for ten years provost of Yale, he has had a wide experience as educator and administrator.

Among additions this year to the faculty is the appointment of Dr. Fang Kuei-li of the Academia Sinica at Nanking, China, as visiting professor of Chinese linguistics, the first application by an American university of modern linguistic methods to Chinese and related languages to be undertaken at Yale.

Dr. Li will become a member of the department of oriental studies which trains scholars in the cultures of the orient primarily through the interpretation of their languages and literatures. His appointment is made possible by the aid of the Rockefeller Foundation, and it is expected greatly to stimulate the study of the far east now being conducted by George A. Kennedy, lecturer in Chinese, who is a specialist in their dialetcs and the general science of the language.

THE Hebrew university in Jerusalem will award the Lord Plumer fellowship in Arabic studies for the current academic year to a graduate of any American, European, or English university. According to Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, president of the American Friends of the Hebrew university, the Plumer fellowship was founded in 1929 by Lord Plumer while he was high commissioner in Palestine.

The school of oriental studies at Hebrew university under which the winner of the Plumer award will conduct his research was established with the ideal understanding and the pursuance of peace among the peoples in Palestine. The holder of the scholarship, the value of which is about $500, must reside in Jerusalem for a minimum period of six months and conduct his research work in the university.

Hebrew university was founded in 1925, and last year the enrollment was 731, including forty-eight research students. The curriculum is a four year course, and of the ninety-one degrees granted since its foundation one-third of these students are now teachers in the primary and secondary schools of Palestine, 22 per cent are government employés, 9 per cent are attending post-graduate courses at other universities, and 7 per cent are continuing studies as senior students.

Chicago Sunday Tribune.
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

OCTOBER 3, 1937

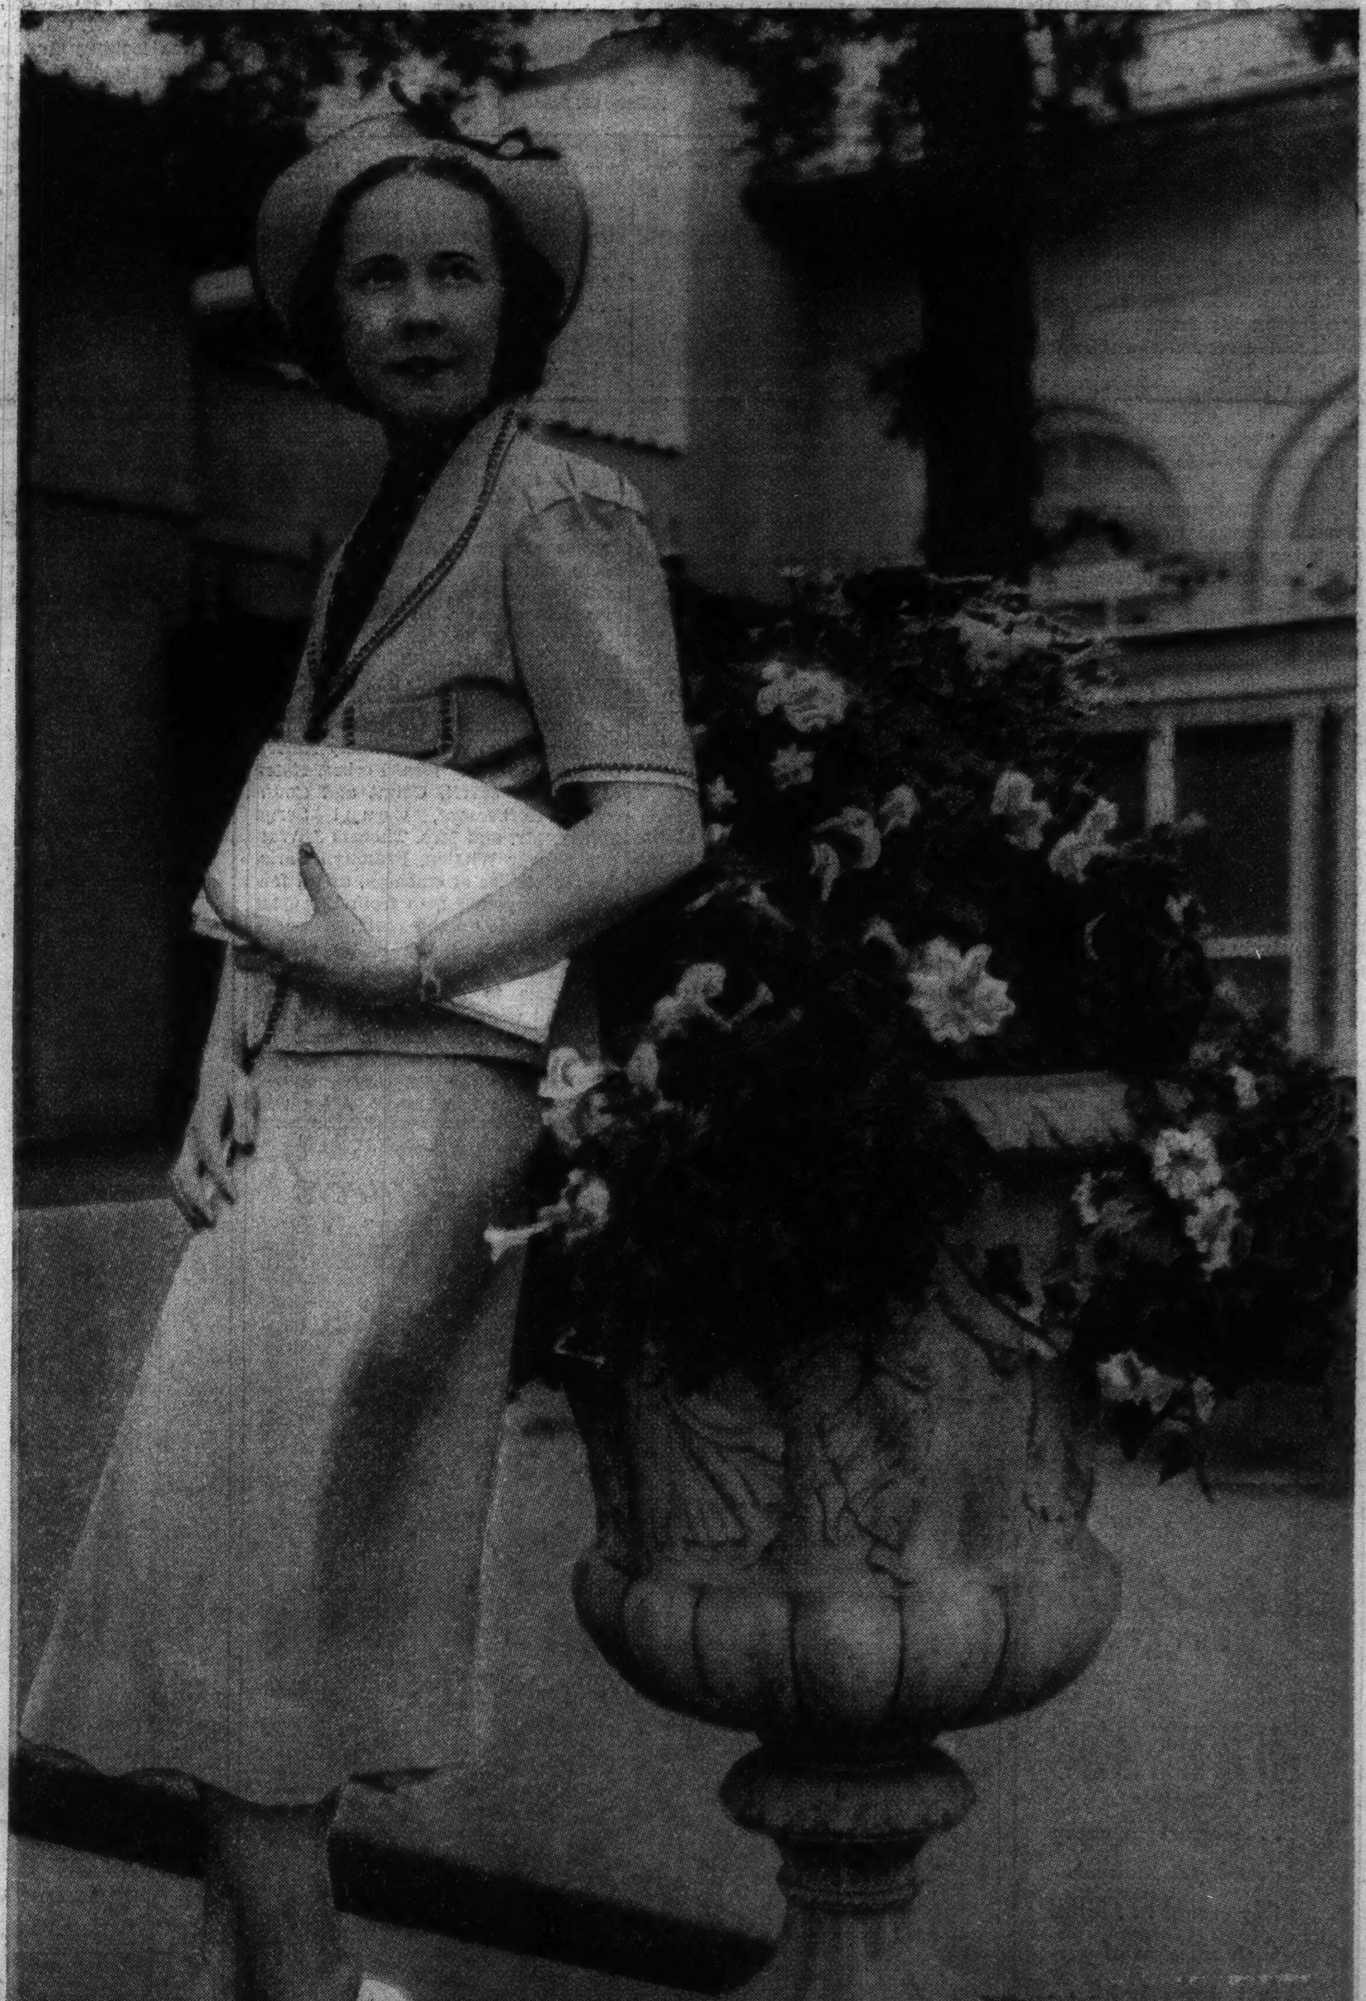
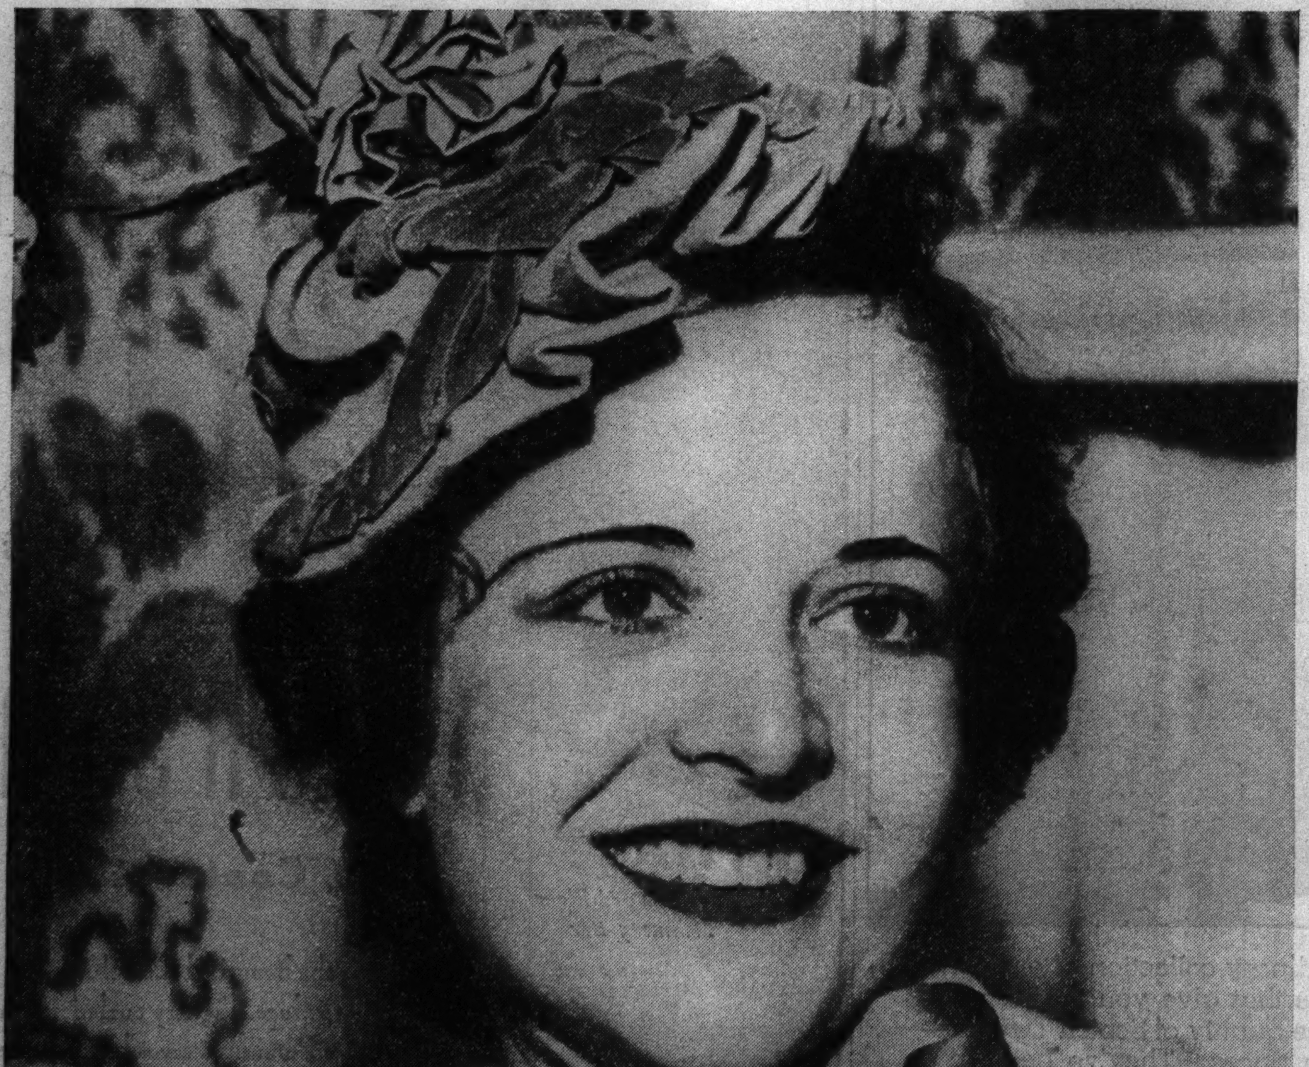
(TRIBUNE PHOTOS)

Below: Mrs. Frank J. Mackey is spending the early autumn days preparing for the luncheon, bridge and fashion show the South Shore Service league is giving Oct. 13 at the Shoreland hotel. The party is the league's annual benefit for the Chicago Maternity center, and Mrs. Mackey is general chairman of the event.



Above: Mrs. Harry G. Zimmermann is president of the South Shore Service league of the Chicago Maternity center. The league's annual benefit party is to be held Oct. 13 at the Shoreland hotel.

Right: Mrs. George L. Plamondon wore her prettiest smile, a lace frock, and a saucy cap for our cameraman the other day, and she will wear them all again Saturday night at the party the Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association is giving at the Drake hotel. The event is called a lace ball, and proceeds will go to the Arden Shore camp in Lake Bluff.



Paris Can Be Describedin Three Words

By Cousin Eve.

WILL WEAR LACE GOWN

Miss Eleonore Thompson will wear a lace gown, but not a genuine old one like that she is wearing in the picture above, which belongs to the Chicago Historical society, when she sells flowers at the Arden Shore lace ball Saturday night at the Drake hotel. To every woman who wears a lace dress that evening will be given, as a favor, a chic little black lace purse.

Paris in three words, high prices, high busts, high hats! We heard a tale that prices would not PARIS go up with the cheap franc, but it wasn't true. Otherwise, pleasure seekers are looking forward to the next demonstration of the extreme left, set for early in October.

Everybody turns out to look on. But Georges Bonnet found money in the treasury and that may spoil the scheduled riots.

Such a funny Paris; the more it changes, the more it is the same thing. I nearly shed a tear to find closed the noble old Hotel du Rhin, whose façade, like that of the Ritz, is a part of the admirable octagon of Place Vendome.

Government offices and the tricolor now occupy these old salles built over the tomb of Mme. de Pompadour; or maybe it was Marquise de Montespan. Anyway, it was one or the other of these notorious girls. Nobody but multi-millionaires could ever afford the Rhin.

The greatest thrill I had in Paris was over the play, "Mme. Bovary," at the Theatre de Montparnasse. It was a fiendish night, with a cold rain pouring down every cranny and an endless drive across the left bank, first the Quartier St. Germain, then the quarters Latin, and finally into an alley, where is this amazing production. It is Flaubert's old tale arranged by somebody in twenty overpowering tableaux of great beauty and flexibility. One never did learn who did it, in the glamorous forty-eight page program.

A new young actress, Marguerite Jamois, is the protagonista. She plays the rôle of a pallid, love hungry Mme. Bovary as Eleanora Duse would have played it, with poignancy and exaltation. She is a poetical creature of enormous fascination and grace, and it seemed to me that I could see the piece again and yet again. In fact, the entire cast is wonderful. This is one of the few plays that are much better than the book. Mme. Bovary and her boy friends have always bored me in the past.

EXALTED by the play and hungry, we decided to eat, and the taxi automatically landed us at Maxim's, where was a dense crowd. E. Berry Wall, that famous nonagenarian celebrated in Paris during a half a century for his now defunct chow dog and his riotous neckties, invited our party to come to his table. It was a ringside one, so that the old beau could dance. The charming old gentleman in high collar and satin stock was snapping his fingers at various blondes seated around the floor with their beaux, inviting them to tread a measure with him. But the perverse creatures all sent word that they were "très fatiguées." And so one of our party volunteered and Mr. Wall gave a marvelous exhibition of foxtrotting and what not, at top speed and much address. I only hope when I reach the ripe age of ninety I can do half as well. It certainly was good fun.

The good weather all of a sudden turned bad, with a cold, wet rain knowing neither let nor hindrance. So one refused a party to the opening day of races at Longchamps and went for the week-end to the Herman Gades at Le Mesnil-St.-Denis instead. An excellent choice as it happened, for the Gustavus Swifts, who went to see the gee-gees with three of their tall youngsters said that it was bitter cold and the crowd nothing to see.

Habitués of the course reported that none of the great French world who is anybody was present, and that the event was flat but unprofitable. Also, it was still early for crashing the new styles on a waiting world, the great beauties being away in the mountains, by the sea, or at various shootings. But at the ancient château south of Versailles all was very snug with no house party nor luncheon that day, though a flock of guests motored out from Paris in the afternoon. Then I met Gretchen Isham again after long years. She who is Mrs. Henry Shelton, lives in Paris, and is ever charming.

THIS was my second visit this year to Mesnil-St.-Denis. I was there earlier when the Walter Kirks came lunching, also Henry Patten with his daughter, Violet Wheeler. We missed by a week the luncheon for Gen. Pershing, whose statue with that of Lafayette will soon adorn the populous road out from Paris. On high, narrow pedestals they will stand facing one another until torn down perhaps, by a future proletariat.

The magnificent pink dahlias big as plates, in the huge silver wassail bowl adorning the luncheon table, led me to wander from there to the fruit and vegetable gardens, where on long espaliers grow apples with rosy faces, and pears. Ripe peaches were nestling against the bricks, I had brought an iron cat with shining eyes from Norway to frighten the birds from the Gade trees, and thereby incurred the displeasure of Bijou, Alice Gade's sealyham. And there is a dog! Visitors to the château are warned upon arrival neither to pet, look at, nor speak to Bijou and all will be well. And when the crusty animal circulates under the dining room table, the charming hosts formula is: "Bijou only bites ugly legs, so nobody need be afraid."

I returned to Paris to dine at the grand gala of the Roi George in the exposition, in honor of Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President. This restaurant has made a great hit, but is not English as many suppose. It was built and run by Martinez of Riviera fame, has its own private entrance into the grounds, and occupies a covered terrace in the center of all the nocturnal events. The playing of the colored fountains went on opposite, fire works that exploded all over the river front, and thrilling water skiing that began at 10 o'clock. Young athletes were towed up and down the Seine, their bodies sleek and flashing in the light of multicolored fountains.

MR. AND MRS. PIERRE CARTIER had forty at Roi George for Mrs. Roosevelt, seated at a horseshoe table, with a small reception beforehand to meet the stately dowager, one of the tallest of women; she towered over everybody's head. The tables were banked with scarlet dahlias and gay with parties; and there was a gypsy orchestra, a program of dancing, and much babble of voices alight with champagne.

Chautemps, the prime minister, was a guest and Mr. Bullitt, American ambassador, whose château of St. Firmin at Chantilly has removed him from circulation these busy days of the exposition, when so many Americans are abroad. Mrs. Forbes, sister of Mrs. Roosevelt, Count and Countess d'Herbemont, Count Serge Fleury, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Watson, Grover Whalen, Franklyn Paris, the secretaries of embassy, and a few handsome young men from the Quai d'Orsay made up the party.

At ten o'clock the lights of the fountains broke loose with the words "Welcome to Mrs. Roosevelt," and the band with various patriotic ebullitions when the French stood up and squeaked at the Star Spangled chanson, and the American rumbled "Formez vos bataillons." After this was ballet dancing, then tout le monde danced. Nor was this lovely gala the only party in honor of Mrs. Roosevelt. I received one intriguing invitation as follows: "You have the honor to be invited to meet Mrs. Roosevelt on Monday, etc." In thinking over the proper spirit in which to answer this invitation, I forgot to answer it at all, and the scandal was great, judging by the ruffled feathers of my would be host.

The Rumanian chargé d'affaires gave a grand luncheon for Mrs. Roosevelt at the Rumanian restaurant of the exposition, one of the prettiest and most chi chi places of all. Its effects are open, and what white wall space there is, is painted in scarlet hunting scenes. And growing plants and flowers are banked partout.

M. and Mme. Gusti, commissioner general and his handsome wife received with Mrs. Roosevelt, sixty guests, few of whom I knew. There was however, Grover Whalen, New York's smartly turned out and winning envoy for the 1939 World's Fair, and Franklyn Paris, the architect, partner of the late Cass Gilbert and organizer of the Fair. Also Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Watson, all the Rumanians of the legation and the ubiquitous Quai d'Orsay lads, among them Count Serge Fleury, Delpeyrou de Croy, who is reputed to be tops among career men in the ministère des affaires etrangères.

Etienne de Croy sat with me at luncheon and I found him a new and modern species of diplomat. He didn't take himself seriously at all, and told amusing stories, and was no end diverting. Finally I asked him why they didn't send a bachelor ambassador to Washington and a lot of secretaries who were good dancers and distinguished and what not? He said the idea was sound but the trouble was that no one who was in this class seemed to want to leave Paris.

While we were eating course after course of marvelous Rumanian food the famous Rumanian gypsy orchestra was wailing in the ears of Mrs. Roosevelt. And this is by far the most stirring music at the exposition and the loudest. So they moved them out from behind the guest of honor's chair into the open where the gypsy violinists made eyes at the much fêted dowager. M. del Peyrou of the Quai d'Orsay had given a luncheon for me in the Rumanian pavilion some days before which was much more amusing I thought. There were seven men and Mrs. Barrett Wendell Jr. of Chicago, who made a great hit with these Europeans. She was looking stunning in lovely pearls and sables, her French is excellent, and she has gayety, entrain. We had a really lovely time. But neither of us ever saw so much to eat in our lives. On and on came the courses and on and on came the wines, lovely sparkling Rumanian decoctions, ruby and topaz.

But the high moments were when the gypsy musicians came to our table and passionately played their violins and the marvelous pipes of Pan. The faunlike creature who blew these weird pipes had long black slanting eyes and pointed faunlike ears, and he produced sounds exciting beyond words. The pipes of Pan are twenty hollow reeds graduating from two inches to eight or ten. Their pipe is infinitely sweet, telling of free joyous bird songs of the wilds, the ineffable happiness of gypsy life on the open road. Barbara Wendell and I were both exceedingly wrought up over the pipes of Pan, and I believe both promised to go to Rumania in the near future.

THE amusement park at the exposition hadn't so much charm as danger. There was a perfectly terrible scenic railway that went upside down and every other way for several miles. There was a high, high tower from which idiots dropped in parachutes, with an endless waiting line of other idiots. There were swings where one swung head down, and cages which kept you circulating in midair like so much popcorn.

But one must speak with bated breath of the Palais National des Arts, avenue de Tokio. This is a gorgeous assemblage of French art from over the wide world. Can they have taken a leaf from our book at the Art institute in 1933 and decided to borrow where were the chef d'œuvres and not to draw on the resources of the Louvre, the Luxembourg, and the various musées in and out of Paris?

As it is, the religious art alone is worth a trip to Paris. Every library and cathedral of France has poured forth its wealth of vases and reliquaries, of missals and chronicles superbly painted in the ancient ecclesiastical manner. The primitives have been returned from London, Berlin, Stockholm, Florence, Vienna, Moscow and other points where they have nested.

Ancient vitrines take their places, and old stone statues and tapestries, so glorious in color and design that only the angels should write about them.

Visitors to the exposition should make tracks at once for those Fontainebleau tapestries sent by François I. to his confrère, the emperor of Austria, which have lain rolled up in the royal palace at Vienna for four centuries. As beautiful now as then.

A PARISIAN homme du monde, who prides himself on being a great art critic, took me to see these chefs d'œuvres de l'art Francais, and he carefully skipped and omitted all the religious art and we started in at once on small portraits and sketches by great masters of the 16th century, whom he adores. There were the masterpieces of Corneille de Lyon, of Clouet and Quesnel, Le Nain, Dumonstier, and Sebastian Bourdon.

And then examples of La Tour, La Hire, Blanchard, Champaigne a Vouet, all great masters, judging the enduring quality of their wor Finally I was rushed to the seco floor to stand before Nicholas Largillière's "La Belle Strasbo geoise." This is a standing portra of a blue-eyed, brown-haired flirt the end of the 17th century, env oped in lustrous dark satins, magni cent laces, glossy sables, and a wi coquettish, swishing hat. It belon to Lady Sassoon of London, and a solutely all of the subject's rosy, t umphant beauty and the sleek op

New Vacuum Cleaners Eliminate Radio Static

A NEW type vacuum cleaner, in addition to several new mechanical features, includes a device to entirely eliminate radio interference.

It is no longer necessary to avoid use of vacuum cleaners on wool pile carpets and rugs during the first months of use. The fabric will fluff to a certain extent during this period but improvements in carpet construction and in the design of vacuum cleaners make frequent cleanings advisable.

Varied Events to Give Busy Social Week

By Judith Cass.

THE seven days of the coming week include in their fleeting hours many events of interest to Chicago society, including weddings, benefits, and the first home football game at the University of Chicago next Saturday. The week is of special interest, however, to members of the Service club and to the debutantes who will take part in the club's revue, for rehersals will get under way tomorrow night.

The revue will not be presented until the night of Saturday, Nov. 6, at the Auditorium theater, but the intervening four and a half weeks will be none too long to shape the production, drill the choruses, perfect the skits, and discover new talent, masculine as well as feminine, for a number of young men have been invited to participate in the show this year. During this month of preparation members of the cast will be lost to outside society, for rehersals will take up a major portion of every thespian's leisure time, especially as November draws near and the schedule becomes more hectic.

THE opening rehersal will be held at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Tower Town club, where all succeeding rehersals will be held until the dress one. Miss Emily Goehst, one of the club's ablest comediennes; Mrs. Sanger Hinchman, and Mrs. George Shields III. are in charge of rehersals.

Miss Mary Louise Laird is chairman of advertising. Miss Lucy Harrison and Miss Phoebe Massey will share the difficulties of filling ticket orders, and Mrs. Ernest Byfield will look after boxes.

The big night of the revue would be as ice cream without any cake if there were to be no cabaret afterward where the stars and chorines could repeat some of their favorite numbers, so there is to be a cabaret again this year, with Mrs. John Goodwillie in charge. It may be of interest to note that the tickets for the revue range in price from $1 and $2 balcony seats to $3.50 and $5 main floor seats. Boxes are sold at $60 for six seats.

Far from the least of the day's pleasures tomorrow will be the opening of the attractive rooms of the Arts club. Luncheon is being served there tomorrow, but the formal opening is to be at a tea from 4 until 6 o'clock, at which Mrs. James Ward Thorne, as chairman of the reception committee, will act as hostess. The president, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, will miss the opening party, for she will not return from her summer home at Osterville on Cape Cod until the end of the week.

TWO of the week's weddings are those of Miss Pauline Rudolph to Lucius Booth Sherman Jr. Tuesday in Winnetka, and of Miss Joan Smith to Corwith Hamill Wednesday in Lake Forest. Both are to be quiet affairs.

Miss Smith and Mr. Hamill will be married at 4:30 o'clock in the Church of the Holy Spirit, with only members of the family present. The church will be generously filled even so, however, for Miss Smith, youngest daughter of Mrs. Harold C. Smith, and Mr. Hamill, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill, are members of very large families.

Mrs. Smith will give a small reception at her home following the ceremony. Mr. Hamill will take his bride to Mexico for a month's wedding trip. They will reside in Wayne.

Miss Rudolph, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Rudolph, and Mr. Sherman, son of Lucius B. Sherman, will be married at the bride's home with only relatives present. The Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard of Christ church, Winnetka, will read the service.

THE climax of most cocktail parties Saturday night will be the long heralded lace ball, presented by the Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association to raise funds for the Arden Shore camps in Lake Bluff. The party really is a dinner-dance at 7:30 o'clock in the Gold Coast room at the Drake and will mark the formal opening of the winter season for the room.

Tickets are being sold at $6 apiece, which includes dinner, dancing, entertainment—a feature of which will be a parade of fashions in lace—and to every woman wearing a lace gown will be given a smart and pretty black lace evening bag. Mrs. Thomas J. Fleming is chairman of the Chicago committee and of the party.

Tuesday afternoon will bring the fashion show and tea that the Southern Woman's Educational alliance is giving at the Country Club of Evanston. Also on Tuesday there will be a meeting of the Woman's Symphony Orchestral association at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the orchestra headquarters, 431 South Wabash avenue.

Dark Furs Trim Some of Latest Parisian Coats

DARK furs are being used to trim light coats this fall in Paris. Black astrakhan makes big revers for a coat in red raspberry wool worn over a black satin dress. Brown astrakhan trims a travel coat in beige tweed, and beaver a camel's hair sports coat. Patou trims a coat, in his very grayed "armor" green, with dark brown sealskin.

Hickory nut ice cream makes a pleasant dessert for fall serving. Add one cup of shelled nuts to each quart of cream or custard mixture. Do not add the nuts, however, until the mixture is half frozen.

The essence of swagger simplicity . . . but with its own formula for flattery. The ingenious collar design is Paris-inspired . . . and so are the softly draped full sleeves. Luxurious Japanese Mink Sides, beautifully worked. Very special $165

Exhibitions of Etchings Stir World of Art

By Eleanor Jewett.

THE exhibit which caused the greatest stir this month among those who follow art was that of miniature etchings by members of the Chicago Society of Etchers, which closed yesterday in the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers. This closing, however, is by no means the end of our enjoyment of shows instigated by that very alert and virile organization. The annual fall exhibition of prints by members of the Chicago Society of Artists opened Friday in the Roullier galleries, Fine Arts building. The group of etchings hung there includes those entered for the yearly competition of $500, the winner to be chosen by vote of the society's members.

Sometimes, if one can realize the creative artist as a normal human being, very much like ourselves, it adds to the significance of his work. From this standpoint it seems worth while to tell these little facts about certain of the contributing etchers which have come to light through the kindness of Mrs. Bertha Jaques, one of the finest, most capable, most enthusiastic and most important members of the Chicago Society of Etchers.

HANS LUTHMAN, whose "Wintertime" and "Scare Crow" took us by storm at Mandel's, was interned behind barbed wires for five years during the war between Russia and Japan. While a prisoner he taught himself to draw; when he was released he came across a book by Joseph Pennell, the famous etcher, in Tokio, and absorbed it. He built himself a press and began to etch as a result of Pennell's inspiration.

Shortly afterwards he met and married a German girl who was as interested as he in his work. She helped him and "We must have spoiled a thousand prints between us," says Mr. Luthman, "but caught the trick finally." The artist has lived in China, Japan, and Germany; in the latter he studied color printing. He lives now in Italy in the mountains near Chiusa.

Eric Scott, another member of the society, was a sheep herder in Australia. He decided to be an artist and went first to Paris to study and then to England, where he is now. He is noted for his pure line, an outstanding attribute of good etching.

A. Hugh Fisher [his "Knife Grinder" drove the most intriguing donkey] lives in London and is not only a finished artist but a writer of novels and poetry. He also illustrates books.

W. P. Robbins is the head of an art school in London and has written books of a technical nature on the graphic arts. His work shows the influence of Rembrandt. Fabio Mauroner [who closes the list] lives in Venice and is a count. He comes of a celebrated old family. His wife is related to Fortuny.

Similar thumbnail sketches of our American etchers might be reported too; all of them are interesting as humans, but we shall have to keep our notes on the various ones unwritten until another week when more space will permit of us revealing a few cheerful secrets.

Meanwhile do not miss the Chicago Society of Etchers' exhibition in the Roullier galleries, Fine Arts building. It will run to Oct. 31.

THE first taste of nonobjective painting for Chicago this season comes in the two man show at the Katharine Kuh gallery, Diana Court building. The exhibit opened in September and will run to Oct. 30. Josef Albers and Misztrik de Monda are the abstract painters represented. Albers is reported to be working for space and light; de Monda, with no definite goal, is evolving curious compositions from his sub-conscious self—or isn't he? Your guess is as good as mine. At all events, he seems to be following a certain phase that Picasso went through and discarded and that Survage perpetrated with much greater agility of line and brilliance of color.

Josef Albers is a professor of art at Black Mountain college, North Carolina, and is engaged to give a series of lectures at Harvard this winter. If his influence spreads, we can expect to see a thousand little mathematical designers littering our future shows with unpredictable compositions.

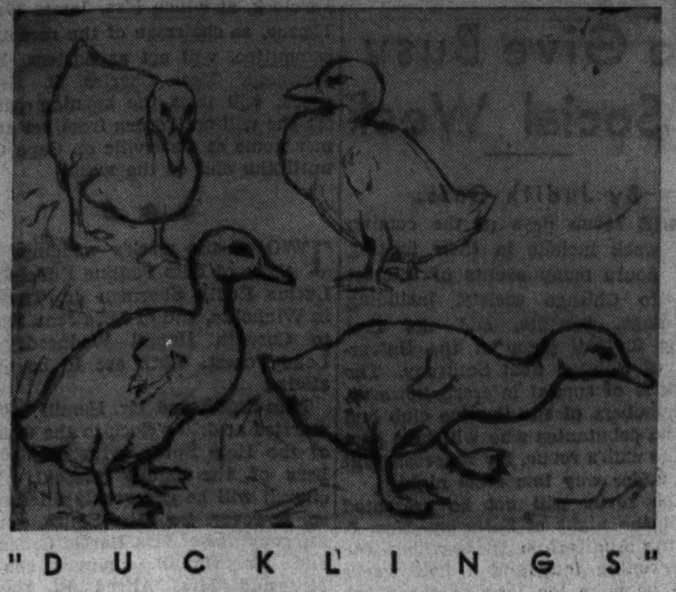
The Art Institute announces that the Hubert Ropp School of Art has now become an integral part of its larger art school. Mr. Ropp will continue in charge of the studio and his classes will be conducted just as in the past. The program will include drawing and painting of nude and costumed models, still life, and composition. The point of view will be that of picture sense rather than classroom exercise. Personal freedom in interpretation, grounded upon sound structural knowledge, will continue to be the primary consideration.

Mr. Ropp's studio is located in Gallery 4, to the right of the main entrance of the Art institute, on the first floor. It is large and well equipped. Classes are from 9 to 12, Monday to Friday, inclusive. Enrollments may be made flexibly to suit individual requirements. Direct consultation with Mr. Ropp in the studio is suggested, prior application being unnecessary. The studio classes open tomorrow.

An exhibition of water colors by the Illinois unit of the Index of American Design [a branch of the Federal Art project] will be held during the first two weeks of October at the galleries of the Renaissance society, Room 205, Wieboldt hall, University of Chicago. Drawings of wood carvings, fine textiles, metal and glassware, toys, dolls, costumes, and jewelry will be included in the exhibit

The Goodman theater will open its new season of play giving tomorrow night with Raphaelson's "Accent on Youth."

The Photographic Society of America will hold an exhibition of some 300 photographs in the east wing galleries of the Art institute from Oct. 1 to Oct. 31. The international photographic salon, sponsored by the Chicago Camera club, closed Sept. 19 at the Art institute. The new exhibit bears no relation to it. The coming group of prints will contain at least 100 selected by a jury and the rest invited prints.



"DUCKLINGS"

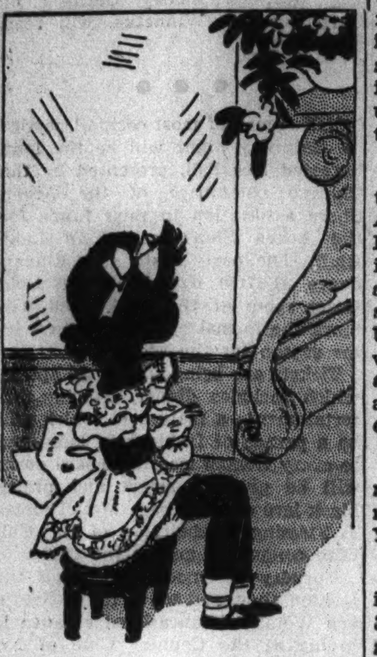
THE TRUTH



By Eleanor Jewett.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

I guess you think I like
My party-dress about the best,
Because it has pink ribbons
And laces and a vest.

Or else I guess you think I like
My sweater that is new,
With little flowers 'broidered on
And birdies two by two.

My mother dresses me in them
And says: "Sit still, don't play.
You must be clean when you go out;
I'll call you right away."

And then I sit and sit and sit
Like an angel without wings;
O, how I hate my party clothes!
I LOVE my oldest things.

British King's "Double" Plans a Movie Career

LONDON

The king's "double" is going in the films. By "double" is meant the man who took the king's place at all the coronation rehersals. He is Henry Hunloke, Eton, etc., and son of Sir Philip Hunloke, who was helmsman and courtier to the late George V. He also is son-in-law to the duke of Devonshire, having married Lady Anne, the duke of Devonshire's youngest daughter.

Mr. Hunloke is typically English in appearance, being fair and handsome. He is descended from the accomplished family of Sir Philip Sidney of Elizabethan fame. The Sidney crusading spirit and intrepid self-confidence stay with him, for he has had no acting experience and has been offered no contract. He is giving up a career in finance.

His wife's brother, Lord Charles Cavendish, married Adele Astaire, so there is some slight connection in the family with the stage. The Hunlokes will stay with Fred Astaire in Hollywood.

Paris Can Be Described in Three Words

lence of the upkeep comes to one after three centuries.

There she stands as blooming and luxurious, fresh of skin and alluring of eye as the day she was painted. This portrait fairly gave my high flying titled guide the jitters. He stamped his foot: "There is a woman," said he "who lets herself be loved and gives nothing." And I saw that other men were equally off their equilibrium while looking at this gorgeous picture of a perfect coquette.

Room after room—Courbets, some of Degas' paintings I had never before seen, Renoir at his best, Monet, Manet. Then, many of the old fellows, Rousseau, Delacroix, Millet, Corot, Harpignies. Nobody seemed forgotten. Then older fellows still, Watteau, with magnificent specimens from Berlin, Fragonard, Greuze, Nattier, Vernet, Charden, Aved, and Oudry.

There also were stilted collections of portraits by David, Ingres, Gros, Gerard, and Gericault. Interesting, too.

One leaves this showing of French art down the centuries, staggering. And there across the way is a collection of Van Gogh's that to miss were folly. Paris days are not nearly long enough for the wonderful versatility of Frenchmen when they start in to show the world.

COUNTESS EDOUARD DE GRAMEDO is a Parisian of Chicago birth, who has an interesting position in the French capital. She came up from the country the other day to see a few friends who were sailing. A petite, pretty woman with charming manners, she was Ethel Spencer-Brown, only daughter of that vibrant personality, Mrs. H. Spencer-Brown. She is the widow of Count Edouard de Gramedo, a Frenchman who also was a grand d'Espagne, meaning a grandee of Spain.

The countess has sold her house at Neuilly with its lovely trees and garden, to her son-in-law, Geoffrey Goetz, whose wedding last year to Consuelo de Gramedo was an event of June.

With other Chicago friends, I lunched one day with the young Goetz ménage at 8 Rue de la Ferme, and found it a darling small house almost in the Bois de Boulogne. The young couple had just come in from a week-end of partridge shooting in the country with Duc and Duchesse de Mouchy, and it was a family party, lacking only Count Tristan de Gramedo, who had the migraine or something.

THE last large party of the week was Mrs. Paul Healy's cocktail rout at the Meurice in honor of the Le Roy Berteaus of Buenos Aires. It took place in a small ballroom, and gay were the scattered groups! Many of the women were airing their new French clothes to devaluate them for the American custom house gentry.

Among the guests were Mrs. Henry Clews, Mrs. Buchanan Merriman [Wally's aunt Bessie], Countess de Gramedo, Lady Decies, Mrs. McKay Le Roy, Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, Mrs. Spencer-Brown, Mrs. Van Wye Wyllys.

Time is getting short and one must crowd in all the pleasures. At four o'clock each Friday, M. Meignan, organist of La Madeleine, church of the great fashionable weddings of Paris, gives a magnificent organ recital. All the organ lovers go loping in.

After a man with glassy eyes had collected three francs [nine cents] from all who sat, leaving a large gallery standing at the rear, Meignan began his program. And there was an intoxicating hour!

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

December 2, 1888.

DEAR JULIA: The wind is howling outside, driving the snow down Rush street, but Will and I are cozy, sitting by the library fire. We did not attend our own church today, but went over to the Chicago Avenue church, called by many people "Moody's." Will had met the minister, the Rev. Charles Frederick Goss, recently, was pleasantly impressed with him and thought he'd like to hear him in his pulpit.

Not an attractive structure, this famous red brick church at Chicago avenue and La Salle street, is well adapted to its work and we found it crowded today, as they say it always is, while many of our more wealthy congregations are sparse. Mr. Goss doesn't know what it means to speak to empty benches, the difficulty being to find room for all who want to come.

D. L. Moody started this church in 1861, his attention having been directed to the need for a mission among what was known as the "Market Street gang." Mr. Moody, a shoe salesman at that time, was much interested in Sunday school teaching, his idea being that of John Wesley . . . to go where the churchless were instead of waiting for them to come to church to be preached to.

Mr. Moody established what he called a "tabernacle" on Illinois street, between Clark and Dearborn streets. It grew to such an extent that he soon saw something larger and nearer the center of his district was needed. So the mission was moved to the corner of Wells and Illinois streets and here the young shoe salesman gathered the juvenile hoodlums. The bad boys, in course of time, became a changed gang and numbers of them are now active workers in the Moody church.

The new congregation prospered. Charities were organized; the poor were helped; situations were found for those anxious to work; the sick were ministered to, and the nonchurchgoing were sought out and invited to the services.

The great fire of 1871 swept away the tabernacle, but Mr. Moody was by that time an international figure because of his evangelistic meetings held in the British Isles. He appealed to the world for help in building the new church. The world responded and the Chicago Avenue church is the result.

The present minister is Charles Frederick Goss, who has been here for nearly four years. Son of a Presbyterian minister, he seems to have been born for just the sort of work he is doing. We liked him very much. He talked simply.

"You didn't smell sulphur and brimstone in his sermon," commented Will. "He just talked to his flock on the common sins and urged them to turn away from them." And I think that is a good description of his exhortation. Always, after the sermon, he invites his hearers to confess their sins, turn from them and lead a new life. And almost every Sunday there are converts.

I peeped into the Sunday school rooms after the service and found young, enthusiastic teachers. They told me that if a child is absent the teacher is expected to call and find the reason. If comfortable clothes are needed an effort is made to provide these. If absence is caused by illness, a doctor is summoned and medicines obtained. Is it any wonder that such work bears fruit in the largest Sunday school in the country?

One of the stanchest friends of the church, though he is not a member, is Mr. John V. Farwell. It was he who, when $15,000 of the $90,000 was lacking to build the church, took over the old lot and assumed the debt.

I believe it is a good thing to attend different churches, to see how many good people there are helping to make our city better. Surely one can't doubt that the Chicago Avenue church is performing its great mission beautifully.

Your loving friend,
MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

The old Chicago Avenue church building still stands at the corner of La Salle street, though the congregation now worships in a new building at 1609 North La Salle street, where it is known as the D. L. Moody Memorial church. The present pastor is Dr. H. A. Ironside. Charles Frederick Goss, minister of the church in 1888, lives in Cincinnati. His novel, "The Redemption of David Corson," was a best seller of 1900.

A month or more ago we offered a prize for the most interesting description of the fashions of men of the eighties. Decidedly the best received came from "J. H. Foote," who sent many sketches of masculine dress of that period. Much surprised were we when we sent the prize and requested information as to the history of the successful contestant to find that J. H. Foote is a 16 year old high school senior in Milwaukee who has taken as his hobby the collecting of pictures and information about the elegant eighties. He collects old songs, too.

We have heard of some Chicago high school students who are clipping this column and making scrapbooks and should be glad to have personal letters from any such young people.

Knits are on the campus

She has to pay attention to the professor's jokes . . . because someone must, and the rest of the class is paying attention to her new knit! And no wonder! It's dashingly striped, and neatly buttoned . . . a knit that will hold its trim lines forever. She chose the new current red, but there are several shades from which to choose. $17.75.

Club Must Be Pioneer Again, Avers Leader

By Betty Browning.

"WE must pioneer all over again." That is Mrs. Willett H. Cornwell's viewpoint as she assumes the presidency of the Chicago Woman's club. The 61 year old organization formally will open another season with a reception for her Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Willett H. Cornwell.

New fields to conquer—that is the urgent need of the metropolitan club today as Mrs. Cornwell sees it. Year by year the neighborhood clubs have adopted more activities of the downtown organization. Programs often are as interesting, community problems are dealt with at closer range, consequently with greater effectiveness. Meetings are more accessible to the busy housewife, and since the depression there is the consideration of carfare saved.

One by one, the projects initiated by the Chicago Woman's club—kindergartens, school children's lunches, to mention but two—have been taken over by the authorities and are maintained at public expense.

"WE must find new phases of activity, again make ourselves uniquely useful," Mrs. Cornwell summarized gravely. She was seated in her office in the handsome clubhouse on South Michigan boulevard, above her the portrait of Mrs. Caroline M. Brown, first president of the club.

"If a solution or even the way to a solution of our dilemma can be found during the next two years, my term of office will be a fortunate one," Mrs. Cornwell added.

Meanwhile, under Mrs. Ralph W. Webster, her predecessor, the club has been preparing for new work by consolidating present activities and dropping those outworn. There are just two departments now, the education and public welfare and the art and literature.

Among the speakers already announced as appearing on the club's program during the year are George E. Sokolsky, who will talk on "Labor's Fight for Power" on Oct. 20; Rennie Smith, who will discuss "Britain at the Cross Roads;" J. G. Crowther, whose topic will be "The Social Responsibility of Scientists," and William H. Kilpatrick, who will speak on "Democracy and Education."

NEW among the club's many study classes will be a music appreciation class sponsored by Mrs. Samuel V. Robuck, music chairman. Development of various types of music will be considered at monthly meetings, beginning Oct. 22.

"Education's Responsibility toward Democracy" will be the theme of the education and public welfare department program. Among the speakers and the topics to be discussed on this program will be Charles Kirby-Miller, "The Awakening of a Social Consciousness;" Johnson O'Connor, "Human Engineering;" Lillian Herstein, "On the Industrial Front;" Clifford Gregory, "Agriculture's Responsibility in National Welfare."

Mrs. Cornwell, who is the club's 35th president, has been a member since 1919. "I was active in the club for a few years, then was a listener for 10 years before going to work again," Mrs. Cornwell described her own career in the club.

Corresponding secretary of the home and public welfare department when it was first organized, Mrs. Cornwell also has served on the finance and program committees, and was corresponding secretary for two years prior to her election as president last June. She also has been president of the Lake View Woman's club and of the Lake View Musical society.

BORN in central New York state and brought up in Washington, D. C., Mrs. Cornwell has been a Chicagoan since her marriage 34 years ago. For 33 years she has lived in the same house on Alta Vista terrace, and has seen Lake Michigan, once a near neighbor, retreat more than a mile from her door.

Years of music lessons during her childhood have not produced a musician, but they have made music her favorite recreation, Mrs. Cornwell admitted smilingly. She and her husband go regularly to the symphony concerts. Incidentally, it was at Mr. Cornwell's insistence that she accepted the presidency of the Chicago Woman's club.

Chicagoans in Beverly Plan Return Home

BEVERLY, MASS.

With the arrival of October there come many departures in the Chicago summer colony although the season seems to be growing longer every year.

After Columbus day there will be more departures, but many in the Myopia district are planning to remain on the north shore until after Thanksgiving.

The hunts of the Myopia club continue to attract large fields and the morning runs have been especially popular. Here in the north shore hunting regions breakfasts are a feature of the morning runs and these add to the enjoyment of the program.

THERE usually are many who follow the meet in motor cars, catching a glimpse of the red coated riders as they follow the trail of the anise seed over hill and dale. The crowd often joins in for breakfast.

One of the largest social affairs of the late season was the dance Wednesday night given by Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Warren at their Barberry Hill home at Pride's Crossing for their daughter, Miss Camilla Warren. There were many guests down from Boston for the affair. Previous to the dance Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman Jr., entertained a large dinner party at their Savin Hill home in Hamilton.

Miss Evelyn Lilly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Clay Bartlett of Chicago, has returned from a visit with relatives in Indianapolis. Miss Lilly was the honor guest at a luncheon Tuesday given by Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge at Selwood, the Beveridge summer home at Beverly Farms.

Plans are being made for a series of winter social programs at the Myopia Hunt club in Hamilton for the all-the-year-'round as well as the summer colonists. Club life continues gayly along the north shore. The

MR. AND MRS. H. PERCY MORGAN have returned to Stockbridge after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Bradlee at their Beverly Cove home.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., who, with Mrs. Lodge, returned from Bermuda this week, is planning an interesting fall season. They have opened their mansion on the Sears estate and will be here until congress opens its next session.

Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman Jr., are giving a dance at their Savin Hill home in Hamilton to present their daughter, Miss Phyllis Tuckerman, to north shore society. Miss Tuckerman was in Ireland for the late summer, where she accompanied her mother for a stay at Bective castle near Dublin.

MRS. JOSEPH LEITER and her daughter, Miss Nancy Leiter of Chicago, have closed Edgewater House, their Beverly Farms home, and have gone to the Homestead, Hot Springs, Va., before returning to Washington. They plan to spend some of the winter in Chicago.

Benefitting the North Shore Girl Scouts, a series of current events lectures are to be given at the Washington street church in Beverly during October and November. The lecturer will be Mrs. Frank M. Taylor of Boston, who recently returned from a summer in Europe.

Local Artists Establishing Pasadena Home

By Ruth Billheimer.

PASADENA, CAL.

Chicago's loss is Pasadena's gain in the coming west of two artists, John F. and Anna Lee Stacey, who are busy with carpenters and gardeners shaping their new home on Prospect terrace to suit their comfort and enjoyment.

Only a quarter mile beyond their northwest windows, which look down upon the wooded slope back of the house, is the Rose Bowl, and across the Arroyo Seco which borders their property at the foot of the hill is a view of the Linda Vista hills which, Mrs. Stacey has already discovered, are especially lovely at a certain twilight hour.

As she tramps up and down the zigzag paths she shows her visitors all the nooks and vistas which hold promise of many a picture to come, and she predicts that Mr. Stacey also will soon take brush in hand.

WITH the arrival at the Huntington this week of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Bartlett, members of the social colony feel that the winter season has begun.

Mrs. Margaret M. Daniels, who, in addition to many other active duties, is chairman of training and personnel for the Pasadena council of Girl Scouts, reminds us that vacations are over, announcing that the fall training class for leaders will open on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Daniels also is a busy member of the Junior league of Pasadena, of which she is on the charter roll.

Sadness came this week to many Pasadenans and Chicagoans who were friends of Mrs. Mary Frances Keeling, for she passed away after her long illness. Funeral services were conducted on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Keeling had made a definite place for herself in Pasadena society, having spent more than a decade of winters here, first at the old Maryland hotel, more recently at the Vista del Arroyo.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Millikan spent last week-end at Montecito as the guests of Robert Woods Bliss, former American ambassador to Argentina, and Mrs. Bliss.

Others in Montecito are Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo and her daughter, Faith, who went there early this week to be guests of the De Witt Parshalls on Hot Springs road.

OCT. 30 is to be the wedding day of Miss Molly Alger, Pasadena debutante, and Albert Buckingham Sturges, son of Mrs. Lelia P. Sturges of Pasadena and George Sturges of Point Loma, Cal., formerly of Chicago. Also of interest to Chicagoans is the luncheon and swimming party given for her by Miss Ann Cornwell, daughter of the C. Oscar Cornwells, formerly of that city, and Miss Dulce Parker, who is engaged to George Wingfield, son of Mrs. Paul Hamlin of Chicago. The affair was given at Casa de Cupola, the Harbor Island home of Miss Parker's parents, the Edward Foster Parkers. The two hostesses left a day or two later to resume their studies at Stanford university.

Another wedding of interest is that on Saturday evening at which Miss Betty Hutchinson, daughter of a former Kenilworth couple, Mrs. Harry Franklin Hutchinson and the late Mr. Hutchinson, will be given in marriage to John Nelson Stewart III. of Pasadena. Miss Helen Rathbone will be maid of honor. The bride-elect, just back from a summer in Europe, is busy with plans for a church ceremony at All Saints', Beverly Hills. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Stewart Jr. of Pasadena.

Miss Nadine Madsen of Oak Park, Ill., also will precede marriage with travel, for following the announcement of her engagement to Aldridge Johnson of La Canada, Cal., she has left for a year of travel and study in Europe. Her fiancé is entering his senior year at Massachusetts Tech.

The Charles Cornelius Kerwins of Los Angeles and Chicago shared honors with Mr. and Mrs. George Julian Leovy of Lima, Peru, recently when Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Toole, Los Angeles, gave a buffet supper for them.

Miss Elsie Jane Shirey of Beverly Hills was on her way this week to visit her aunt, Mrs. John L. Forch Jr., of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Kunze of Kenilworth. She is en route to Wellesley, where she is a junior.

Dr. and Mrs. John Charles Rooney of Chicago have arrived in California to make their home at Santa Monica. Another newly married couple who have forsaken Chicago for a home in Santa Monica are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Fesler.

Arrival of the Windsors Stirs Interest of Paris Society

By May Birkhead.

PARIS

It goes without saying that the much announced arrival in Paris of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor was awaited with keen anticipation. Rumor has it that their program not only will include necessary business, such as estate matters and the like for the duke, but that the duchess will have many appointments with the dressmaker, not to say the modiste and the bottier. The duke, both as prince of Wales and as king, always enjoyed in France that freedom from too much attention which he particularly relishes.

Fanny Ward.

Several celebrities seen lunching recently at the Ritz have been known, in various ways, for their friendship with the duke of Windsor and other members of the British royal family. Fanny Ward was chatting with a group which included Douglas Fairbanks, the elder, brown as a berry, and his wife, the former Lady Ashley. Fanny Ward and her husband, Jack Dean, have been taking the cure at Bagnales-de-l'Orne, said to be particularly good for phlebitis, varicose veins, and other troubles of the circulation. With Miss Ward at this French resort in southern Normandy, was her daughter, Lady Plunket. Lord and Lady Plunket, like Fanny, are close friends of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth, and when the sovereigns were duke and duchess of York they acted as god-parents to the Plunket children. The king calls the ever-youthful Fanny by her first name, and the duke of Kent, who is very fond of her, calls her Fan.

LADY CUNARD, also seen at the Ritz these days, was a close friend of the duke and duchess of Windsor for a long time before their marriage. The story goes that, some weeks before the abdication, she told Edward VIII. that, as an American, she felt impelled to inform him that he was not associating with the right sort of Americans. The king politely bowed her out of the room, and that was that. Many here are speculating as to whether Lady Cunard, who goes around much, will meet the duke and duchess of Windsor at the many places where they might happen to cross each others' paths.

Be that as it may, the duchess' aunt, Mrs. Merriman [Aunt Bessie] figured in many luncheon and dinner parties after her return from visiting her niece in Austria. Recently the director of the Paris office of a trans-Atlantic line heard that the duke and duchess of Kent would lunch at the Ritz grill. He figured it might be amusing to have Mrs. Merriman as his guest right alongside the table which, it had been said, was reserved for the Kents.

THE news got around, the grill-room was crowded, and scores turned away. After some waiting, Mrs. Merriman and her host saw that no one was occupying the table marked as being reserved for the duke and duchess of Kent. It is said that they saw, from the outside, the big crowd that had gathered and decided to give them the slip by going elsewhere for lunch.

Mrs. James Roosevelt, aged 83, and her sister, Mrs. D. D. Forbes, aged 90, are appearing at luncheons, teas and dinners with a regularity and vigor that would be impossible for many half their age. The other day they were the guests, at Versailles, in the château built for La Pompadour, of Mr. and Mrs. James Hazen Hyde.

Pan-American Motif Used for Room Decorations

SOMBRERO drawer pulls, cactus motif trims, tile inserts, Mexican bubble glass panels, authentic hardware inspired by Mexican saddle trim! These are some of the clever ideas incorporated in new bedroom and dining room suites that have distinct Pan-American lines and inspiration.

Rubber Tiling Excellent Where Quiet Is Desired

IN ROOMS where quiet is desired there is no better floor covering than rubber tiling. A new floor style in this sound-absorbing material shows a field of black-white mixture, a star inlay pattern of white, and bands and border of white-black and black-white.

A casserole dish is ideal for the main feature of a buffet supper. It may be made good to look at and it has the superior advantage of being delicious, although cooked hours before the meal is served, and reheated at the last moment.

English Royalty Bans Likenesses in Commercialism

LONDON

Pictures of Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose must come off the chocolate boxes and other commercial articles.

In the past it always has been necessary to obtain royal permission before either the portraits or names of members of the royal family could be used, but during the coronation period it was easy to overstep this rule in the zeal of celebration. As a consequence the two royal princesses have been, to put it mildly, energetically exploited.

At the king's request the home office recently circulated a notice to all manufacturers stating that firms not having direct royal permission no longer may use for trade purposes the "names or photographs of any members of the royal family or heirs of heir-presumptives to the throne." Those not enjoying special permission will be given until the new year to clear their stocks.

This leeway gives the doll manufacturers one break and that is all. There have been prepared for the Christmas trade a new issue of doll faces which exactly represent Princess Elizabeth, and the dresses are said to be exact copies of those the heir to the throne has worn.

The Salvation Army Awaits Leader's Visit

THE forthcoming visit of Gen. Evangeline Booth, international commander of the Salvation Army, will be the principal topic of discussion when the board of the women's division of the Army holds its first fall meeting tomorrow morning at the Army's Opportunity shop, 1240 North Clark street.

Gen. Booth is expected to arrive here Oct. 14 for a six day visit, her first since May, 1935. The 71 year old leader of the Army sailed from England on Sept. 23 to make a speaking tour that will bring her to New York, Atlanta, Winnipeg, and Montreal as well as Chicago.

A civic reception for Gen. Booth on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 17, at the Auditorium theater will be the highlight of her visit here. After the reception Gen. Booth will give a public lecture, and she will speak again that evening at the Auditorium.

EVANGELINE BOOTH'S life has been closely interwoven with the development of the Salvation Army, and on more than one public interview she has called the Army "the one love" of her life. She virtually was born into the organization for her birth occurred on Christmas day of the year her father, the late Gen. William Booth, began his mission work in the slums of London.

Through the difficult early years of the Army she aided her father and became known as "The White Angel." She overcame hostility to the Army, led street parades and braved riotous demonstrations, finally winning approval of the organization's work from the House of Lords.

In 1896 she came to Canada to reorganize the Army there, and in 1904 she became commander of the Army in America, a post she occupied for thirty years. During this period she became an American citizen and received the Distinguished Service medal for the work of her organization in the world war. In September, 1934, she was elected general of the international organization.

The women's division of the Army will make plans for participation in the reception for Gen. Booth at tomorrow's meeting. In the absence of Mrs. Charles King Corsant, president of the division, Mrs. William S. Monroe, vice president, will preside.

A "MEETING of the air" sponsored by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs next Thursday from 3:15 to 3:30 o'clock, central standard time, over a nation-wide hookup, will enlist the attention of many of its 65,000 members.

Miss Celia Howard, Chicago attorney and newly elected recording secretary of the national federation, will open the meeting from Chicago, and will present Dr. Charles Edward Merriam, professor of political science at the University of Chicago. In an address, "Our Town's Business," Dr. Merriam will discuss study of business conditions in local communities which the federation is making through its 1,500 branch organizations this year.

State Senator T. V. Smith will speak on "The Legislative Council" at a dinner meeting of the Woman's City club at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow evening in the Harvey restaurant, 308 South Michigan avenue.

Senator Smith sponsored the bill establishing the legislative council, which was passed on the last day of the recent session of the legislature. The council, composed of ten senators and ten representatives, with the president of the senate and the speaker of the house, is to gather information and formulate policies for the next session of the legislature. Mrs. C. L. Hagerman, program chairman, is handling arrangements for the meeting.

FROM headquarters of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Washington, D. C., comes word that a Winnetka woman, Mrs. Vinton Earl Sisson, is a candidate for the office of librarian general of the national society. Election for the office will be held in April, 1938. Mrs. Sisson has served the Illinois organization as parliamentarian, as vice regent, and as the head of several committees, and she now is national chairman of the committee on national defense through patriotic education.

Mrs. Henry M. Robert Jr. of Annapolis, Md., now treasurer general of the national organization, is a candidate for the office of president general.

Frances Parkinson Keyes, author and wife of a former governor of New Hampshire and United States senator, has assumed the editorship of the D. A. R. magazine, official organ of the national society. Mrs. Keyes, who addressed THE TRIBUNE'S Woman Congress in 1936, is a member of the National Women's Press club and has written much on the life of the capital.

The Woman's Pioneer Aircraft Association of Chicago will hold an aviation day luncheon Saturday in the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel as the opening event of the season. This organization is unusual in that its membership is limited to 50 founder presidents of civic and cultural groups, all pledged to further public interest in aviation.

DR. IRENE BEHNKE, founder president of the group, organized the Aviation Club of Chicago in 1919 to assist world war aviators on their return from France. She has served on the mayor's air commission under three administrations. When the Aviation club's work was finished Dr. Behnke formed the Woman's Pioneer Aircraft association in 1929.

Tribute will be paid to Amelia Earhart and other pioneer women flyers at the luncheon Saturday. Mrs. Eleanor Everest Freer is in charge of the program.

AT HOME IN THE EAST

Mrs. Christopher W. Stanwood, the former Catherine Dent, and Mr. Stanwood are at home in Wellesley Hiss, Mass. Their wedding took place on Sept. 11 in St. Paul's church, Riverside, in which western suburb the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Dent, live. Mr. Stanwood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Stanwood, live in Wellesley Hills.

Victorian Is Again Style in Furniture

Make your bedroom one of the prettiest rooms in your home! How to do it is told in the booklet "Beautiful Bedrooms," by Edith Weigle, Tribune furniture stylist. Get a copy today at either of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower. Price, 2 cents. Postpaid, 3 cents.

By Edith Weigle.

ARE you one of the people who has been living in a Victorian house without knowing it? Sounds funny. But the other day I received a letter from a reader who told me that ever since childhood she had been living in a middle western town in an old brick house with large, high ceilinged rooms and white marble fireplaces, and thinking nothing about it. She had just taken this background as background.

Then recently she began to read about the return of the Victorian in furniture, draperies, rugs and other home furnishings. She looked at the photographs and sketches illustrating the articles, and, lo and behold, they were all of rooms that closely resembled the one in which she was sitting. It dawned on her, at last, that her house was Victorian, and good Victorian, too.

The woodwork was beautiful and painted white; the windows were long, extending almost from the ceiling to the floor; the floors were all of hardwood, and in the front hall a graceful, curving staircase with mahogany treads and white baluster led to the second floor, where each bedroom had an open fireplace, again with white marble mantels.

"WHY, this is really a lovely old house," she wrote, "if I only had had the wits to put a Victorian dress on it. But, not knowing its period, I have a little of everything here. However, now that the stores are selling Victorian furnishings again I can make up for lost time."

She will find it no trouble at all to select a charming patterned rug for the living room, and in the "front parlor" she is going to continue to use her mother's orientals. From the cellar she has rescued the small, folding wooden shutters that used to be hung in each window of the first floor rooms and has had them painted white to match the doors and woodwork.

AT the Merchandise Mart, in the display of an Indiana furniture manufacturer, is a perfectly grand Victorian sofa that would be ideal for a house such as this reader wrote me about. It is covered in soft blue wool with a deep fringe trimming dyed to match. It is entirely upholstered so that none of the frame shows and it is large enough to seat four persons.

In the exhibit the sofa is shown in an attractive grouping. A pair of conversation chairs is drawn up facing it. These chairs are covered in a stunning blue and apricot striped moiré.

A slightly curved coffee table strikes a modern note, as it is completely covered with silver gray rawhide, applied as neatly as paper on a wall. You have a glimpse of a pickled pine bookcase-chest at the right.

The draperies in this room are of white gaberdine, with blue braid in the Greek key pattern used as edging, and they are hung over long, white, sheer curtains. The carpet and lower section of the wall are a warm gray, while the upper walls are done in pale blue.

And no two lists, so far as we can recall, have been alike.

● Now come six experts with a sidelight on the more or less amiable controversy. . . . Experting in the arenas of sports and politics has taken some awful setbacks in the last few years, but these six are still undaunted. . . . They have picked the seven wonders of the world of today. . . . Their nominations are recorded in the Current History magazine, and, like those of most other travelers, their lists reveal a wide divergence of opinion.

● It was more than 2,000 years ago that somebody selected the original seven wonders. . . . The group, in case you have forgotten, was made up of the Pyramids of Egypt, the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, the Temple of Diana, the statue of Jupiter Olympus, the tomb of Mausolus, the lighthouse of Alexandria, and the Colossus of Rhodes. . . . Of these, the Pyramids alone have preserved their ancient majesty for the modern tourist.

● The experts forming the latest "wonders committee" are Malcolm La Prade, the "Man from Cook's"; Carleton Beals, author and traveler; Admiral Richard E. Byrd, scientist and explorer; Richard Curle, English traveler and writer; Richard Halliburton, American traveler and writer, and M. E. Tracy, editor and publisher. . . . Their choices, made with no restrictions whatsoever, were based on personal experience and observation. . . . To the Pyramids went the honor of being the only one of the original wonders mentioned, and they topped the list, with more votes than accorded to any modern marvel. . . . Appropriately enough, the Empire State building was chosen by several members of the committee, thus rounding out something like 5,000 years of architectural achievement.

● Here are the nominations, to be confirmed or rejected according to the reader's individual taste:

Malcolm La Prade—Angkor temples in French Indo-China; Mount St. Michel, off the coast of Normandy; the Taj Mahal, the Empire State building, the Pyramids, the Great Wall of China, Carcassonne, ancient walled city in France.

Carleton Beals—Beethoven's symphonies, Dostoievski's "Brothers Karamazov," Plato's "Republic," radio, the Piazza Duomo in Florence, Italy; the Alhambra, in Granada, Spain; the Greco room, in Toledo, Spain.

Admiral Richard E. Byrd—Man's use of electricity, with special reference to radio; aviation, the gasoline engine, with special reference to the automobile; man's use of steam, with special reference to trains and steamboats; the printing press, the ice age in Antarctica, motion pictures.

Richard Curle—The harbor of Rio de Janeiro as seen from the sea, the deserted city of Pagan as seen from the Irrawaddy river in Burma, the Empire State building, the white towering wall of the Peruvian Andes as seen from the Pacific ocean, Capetown harbor as seen from the slopes of Table mountain, the Pyramids, Victoria falls in Rhodesia.

Richard Halliburton [protesting that it would be easier to name seventy wonders than just seven, and offering as a compromise two lists—one man-made wonders, the other natural wonders]—Man-made: Angkor temples in French Indo-China, the Pyramids, the Panama canal, Manhattan Island, the Great Wall of China, the Taj Mahal, the San Francisco bridges. Natural: Yosemite valley, the Grand canyon of the Colorado, the Nile river, Matterhorn mountain in the Alps, the harbor of Rio de Janeiro, Mount Everest, three waterfalls—Niagara, Iguassu, between Argentine and Brazil, and Victoria in Rhodesia.

M. E. Tracy—The San Francisco bridges, the big trees of California, the Grand canyon, the subway systems of New York City, the Pyramids, radio, the northern lights [Aurora Borealis].

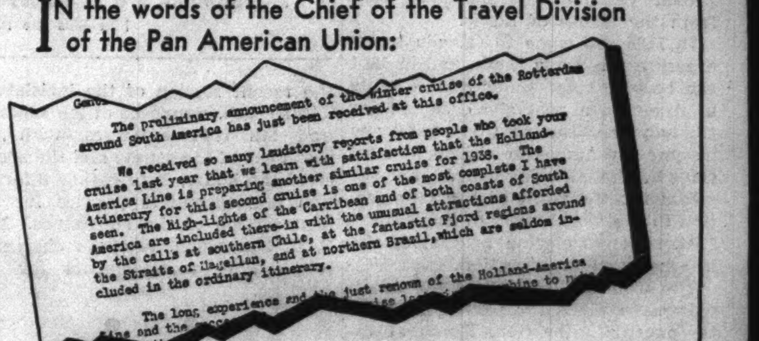
IN the words of the Chief of the Travel Division of the Pan American Union:



Gen

The preliminary announcement of the winter cruise of the Rotterdam around South America has just been received at this office.

We received so many laudatory reports from people who took your cruise last year that we learn with satisfaction that the Holland-America Line is preparing another similar cruise for 1938. The itinerary for this second cruise is one of the most complete I have seen. The high-lights of the Carribean and of both coasts of South America are included there-in with the unusual attractions afforded by the calls at southern Chile, at the fantastic Fjord regions around the Straits of Magellan, and at northern Brazil, which are seldom included in the ordinary itinerary.

The long experience and the just renown of the Holland-America Line and the

STEAMERS—PLANES

Porto Rico: an Unspoiled Tourist Area

By Hamilton Wright Jr.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico.—I've just seen an amazing forest. I've come from nature's own original "air conditioning" plant in the 4,000 feet high mountains of the Loquillo forest known as El Yunque. I've seen "icicles" on palm trees. I've walked through the clouds a mile above sea level.

I've seen 12 inch northern speckled trout only 12 degrees north of the equator. I've been swimming in pools—real swimming pools—high in the clouds, twenty minutes before going for a swim in the blue waters of the Caribbean.

I've stuck my hand out of an automobile and grabbed a delicious lunch from banana trees. I've eaten enough Rorto Rican "apples" [avacados] to keep the doctor away for ten years.

There are more paradoxes, natural and human, here than in any other resort in the world. You have all the atmosphere of a foreign country, yet you're enjoying all of it under Uncle Sam's flag.

El Yunque is a mountain an hour's drive or so from San Juan. It has more varieties of tropical foliage than any other forest. When I call it an air conditioned forest I mean just that. You can make up your mind what temperature you like best and as you drive up from sea level you can stop when the thermometer suits your fancy. You'll see water so pure and cool that your glass appears empty when you fill it. You'll see ferns higher than a man's head. You'll see more varieties of palms than in any other place on earth—and some of them can be found nowhere else. You'll see mahogany—the same wood that your tables and chairs at home are made of.

This is an unspoiled paradise for the tourist. You're among friendly and hospitable people. Meet them half way and they'll stand on their heads to please you.

This island is only 40 miles wide and 100 miles long, yet nature seems to have provided everything in the way of entertainment, natural beauty, and sightseeing panoramas. You can cross from the Caribbean, on the south, to the Atlantic, on the north, in a few hours, hitting a variety of temperatures that will make you doff your sweater or put on an overcoat. You'll see waterfalls in mountain formations that envisage the prehistoric ages. You'll find perfect mountain roads, a bit pretzel-like at times, but all the more interesting. And you'll see mile after mile of sugar cane that looks from the air like a vast field of southern corn.

You'll see many eccentric sides of nature, too. Near Manatee you will find huge mounds looking for all the world like Mayan ruins or some prehistoric shrine. They're the "crazy mountains"—the mountains of limestone the air traveler first sees as he nears San Juan.

Shoreline scene in Porto Rico, Caribbean island that is beginning to attract tourists in a big way.

The Voice of the Traveler

BREATH-TAKING BEAUTY.

Menominee, Mich., Sept. 27.—To the Travel Editor: Last July we made a trip through Michigan's upper peninsula and found it so enjoyable that we promised ourselves the pleasure and inspiration to be had in taking it again when the forests had adorned themselves in their breath-taking autumnal beauty.

This we have just done. We call it our "Jack Frost tour," for no artist of lesser skill could paint these northern forests with such brilliance of coloring.

Those midwesterners who like peaceful traveling and splendid scenery do not have to go far for a delightful week's or ten days' holiday—only, in this instance, they will have to go soon.

This letter may sound like advertising, but it is not. I have nothing to sell. But, after having traveled over most of Europe, I still find much of beauty in this part of the United States. So I ventured to write this, hoping to reach those who have not the time or means to take longer trips.

MRS. GEORGE W. M'CORMICK.

CLIMB INTO THE MOUNTAINS.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—To the Travel Editor: I have before me clippings from THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE of Sept. 12 and 19, embodying your two dispatches regarding Banff, Lake Louise, and other beauty spots of the Canadian Rockies. I took the same trip a year ago, and your descriptions of the benefits to be derived from a journey into the heart of the mountains brought to mind this quotation from John Muir:

"Climb into the mountains and get their good tidings. Nature's peace will flow into your soul like sunshine flows into trees; the winds will blow their freshness into you, the storms their strength, while cares will fall away from you like autumn leaves fall from the trees."

I also recall having seen, somewhere along the highway in the Canadian national parks country, the inscription: "The Mountains Shall Bring Peace to the People." W. WALTER FOX.

Films of Old God.

More or Less Personal

HENRY S. WOODBRIDGE, general manager of Raymond-Whitcomb, will visit our village Wednesday and at noon will be guest of honor at a luncheon at the Blackstone caravansary. . . . James F. Nolan, who looks after things hereabouts for the French Line, was host to Chicago travel agents at a golf tourney and dinner at the Techny Field club Tuesday. The guests were permitted to keep track of their own scores, with the result that some surprisingly low scores were turned in. . . . William H. McConnell, manager of the Cunard-White Star Line's cabin class and cruise departments, is in our midst for a few days. If he is to be believed, cabin ships of the Scythia, Samaria, Laconia, and Georgic type represent a swell investment in comfort for the person wishing a leisurely trip abroad. . . . Manager Adolph Valdes of the Hotel Plaza in Havana came to town last week, and on Wednesday at the Morrison was introduced to our citizenry by Harry K. McEvoy. Something called "Cuban libre" also was introduced, with satisfactory results. Mr. Valdes told the assembled multitude that, with not a revolution or any other sign of disturbance in sight, the advance reservations indicate that this winter will give Havana its greatest tourist season in many years.

GOING SOMEWHERE?

WITH yesterday's departure of the Columbus for the Caribbean, the Hamburg-American Line-North German Lloyd began, earlier than usual, its program of fall and winter cruises. The early start was due to the heavy business booked for the 1937-'38 season. The Reliance, sailing Jan. 9 for a four and one-half months' trip around the world, and the Bremen, to start Feb. 2 for a 90 day circumnavigation under Raymond-Whitcomb auspices, are the program headliners. Thirteen cruises will be taken to the West Indies, with the Bremen, the New York, the Hamburg, and the Columbus pressed into service. The Columbus also will go on a Raymond-Whitcomb cruise around South America.

Featuring two ports never before included in its West Indies schedule, the Canadian Pacific last week announced a winter cruise program to Caribbean and South American ports. The new ports, to be visited by the Empress of Australia on a 32 day trip starting Jan. 15, are St. George's, Grenada, and Rio de Janeiro. This ship will go on eight other cruises between Jan. 4 and April 14. The Empress of Britain will go on one, sailing on Christmas eve for Kingston, Cristobal, and Havana, and returning Jan. 6. Two days later she will leave on her journey around the world by way of the Mediterranean.

Music and native dances of Czechoslovakia will inaugurate the season at the Beaux Arts salon of the Medinah club at 4 p. m. today. Dr. Jaroslav Smetanka, Czechoslovakian consul in Chicago, will be a guest of honor.

The last of the New York Central's all-expense tours for the 1937 season will leave Chicago next Sunday for a seven day trip through the east. Detroit, Niagara Falls, Philadelphia, Washington, and historic spots in Virginia are to be visited.

New Orleans is expecting to act as host to many more midwesterners than usual this winter, as a result of the Illinois Central's rerouting of tourists on their way to and from Mexico. The railroad will provide for stopovers in New Orleans on either the southbound or the return journey.

Railroad fans, model builders, camera addicts, and others will be taken by special train over the Pennsylvania lines next Sunday to see streamlined locomotives under construction. The train is to leave Chicago at 9 a. m. and go to Lima, O., where two and a half hours will be spent at the locomotive works.

Under a contract signed last week the United States liners Manhattan and Washington will have ship-to-shore telephone service by Nov. 1. A device which makes certain the privacy of conversations will be a feature of the equipment. By inverting the frequencies of voice tones, this device sends out from the transmitters an unintelligible jargon meaningless to any radio receiver except the stations equipped to unscramble the frequencies.

This week's travelogue at the Fair store will be devoted to the Philippine Islands, with the Dollar and American Mail Lines presenting the talkies. The program, open to the public, is to be given on the seventh floor at 11 a. m. Friday.

Now that the resort season has ended in northern Michigan, an army of fishermen has descended on the waters up there. Many of the anglers have gone to the Charlevoix area in search of steelhead trout. Bass, muskies, pike, bluegills, and perch are reported plentiful throughout western Michigan. The season on bass will remain open until New Year's eve; that on the other varieties does not end until April 30, 1938. The state's open season on migratory waterfowl will begin next Saturday and last until Nov. 7. Pheasants and partridge may be shot from Oct. 15 to Oct. 31, and deer from Nov. 15 to 30. The "hunter's moon" over Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Canada also is drawing thousands of sportsmen this fall.

Direct service between Chicago and Oakland, Cal., was started Friday by TWA. The Oakland airport is now a scheduled stop on each of that line's daily flights over the new San Francisco-New York route by way of Yosemite, Sequoia, the Grand canyon, and Boulder dam.

Last Wednesday's TRIBUNE announced that, owing to the undeclared war in the orient, the liners going on world cruises this winter were considering a change in their itineraries. If the war was not over by April, it was set forth, Chinese and Japanese ports would be avoided, and Australia, New Zealand, and the Fiji islands visited instead. Word was received yesterday that, so far as the Bremen and the Reliance of the Hamburg-American Line-North German Lloyd were concerned, the change had been definitly decided upon.

Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Indiana department of conservation, sends word that the Brown County State park, widely known for its autumn scenery, is having a record attendance this year.

A pioneer in the development of Caribbean cruising, the United Fruit company has arranged for this fall a 17 day voyage to Cuba, Jamaica, Panama, and Costa Rica, and an 18 day trip to Jamaica, Panama, and three Colombian ports, Cartagena, Puerto Colombia, and Santa Marta. Cruises of from 10 to 13 days call for stops in Havana and Kingston.

In addition to its trans-Atlantic sailings, the Anchor Line, one of the oldest in that service, will have ten cruises to the West Indies this winter. The Transylvania again has been selected; the Caledonia, the California, the Cameronia, and the Tuscania will continue plying from New York and Boston to Ireland and Scotland.

AUSTRALIA

AUSTRALIA, the world's sixth continent, celebrates her 150th anniversary during 1938 . . . historically the youngest of lands, geologically she is the oldest . . . Australian animal life is strikingly different and weird. The flowers and trees are gloriously exotic . . . SYDNEY — Queen City of the South — is one of the ideal holiday resorts of the world; and its harbor, cutting deep into hills, is one of the world's most beautiful . . . Here, too, are the famed Blue Mountains and the mysterious Jenolan Caves . . . MELBOURNE, on the river Yarra, has a population of 1,000,000; in the century of its existence it has become the eighth city of the British Empire. It is famed for its imposing buildings, miles of wide, tree-lined boulevards, extensive parks and gardens, racing, and other sports . . . Arrangements have been made for "Bremen" cruise passengers to enjoy extensive sightseeing drives to points of interest in Sydney and Melbourne.

NEW ZEALAND

NEW ZEALAND, southern neighbor of Australia, is world-famous for its marvelous "Geyser-Land" — a wonderland of spouting geysers and steaming pools, rumbling fissures, and tossing mud — made even more strange by the tattooed Maoris, who cook and launder and bathe with the handy hot water appliances uninterruptedly furnished by nature . . . In the South Island of New Zealand is the impressive MILFORD SOUND, a deep fjord in the abrupt island wall of the west coast . . . WELLINGTON is a city that hangs upon a lofty hillside. The streets climb the slopes and the houses and their terraces rise tier on tier above the water . . . AUCKLAND, the "City of Parks", is an expanse of rolling meadows, fertile hills and bowling greens . . . ROTORUA, in Geyser-Land; OHINEMUTU VILLAGE; FAIRY SPRINGS, and WHAKAREWAREWA will also be visited by Cruise passengers on an overnight trip by special train.

FIJI ISLANDS

THE FIJI ISLANDS — comprising some 250 isles and islets — are probably the most famous and important of all the innumerable islands known collectively by the romantic name of the South Sea Islands . . . In appearance they are truly typical of the rest of the South Seas, for some of them are extinct volcanoes and some are coral atolls with central lagoons, and they are covered with tall palms and luxuriant jungles . . . The people are fine specimens of the Melanesian race. They are above the average in intelligence, but although claiming a considerable degree of civilization, they still delight in the barbaric dances inherited from their cannibal ancestors . . . The call at SUVA will give Cruise members a glimpse of the charms which have enticed so many Americans to these warm and hospitable lands; and they will see those dances which the former Prince of Wales pronounced the wildest and most stirring of all he saw in the South Seas.

From New York to Bali and from Honolulu to New York the Cruise will adhere to the original program in every particular.

Secrets of the Sultan's Imperial Seraglio

Mysterious Home Life of the Grand Turk

CHAPTER I.

By N. M. PENZER

> ### Foreword
> If you stood today atop a certain high parapet in busy Constantinople you would behold a city within a city. This inner city would not be the mêlée of streets, trolley cars, and factory chimneys that is modern Constantinople. Instead it would be a vision of a city more dazzling than was Bagdad in the days of the Arabian Nights.
> ● Its white towers, shining domes, pale-hued spires, and ancient jumbled roofs would spread before your eyes for distances equal to many city blocks. The perfume of mysterious sunken gardens would tinge the air. You would find yourself thinking of Aladdin and Sindbad the Sailor—perhaps even of some famed sultan of Turkey idling away the summer hours in his harem.
> ● Well chosen the latter thought would be, for at the moment you would actually be in the presence of the sultan's own private realm, the seraglio, of which an important section once housed all of the sultan's many hundred women, known as his harem. This mysterious realm guarded its secrets so jealously that until now no man has even attempted to write its complete story.
> ● At last, however, it has been done. N. M. Penzer, a noted author and orientalist, has brought back from Constantinople the remarkable story which you are about to read. Mr. Penzer will relate for the first time all the mystery, court intrigue, tradition, and magnificence of the imperial harem of Turkey.

A HORSE and carriage moved creakily along a side-hill street of Constantinople. It was one of a procession of thirty-one carriages. Inside it huddled six women, gazing wide-eyed through their veils at the bright tiled roofs of the city—a city in which they had lived but which few of them had seen except from the distant windows of the sultan's palace at Yildiz.

These were ladies of the imperial harem. Their black eyes had a certain sadness that spoke of the repression and ignorance that had darkened their days of imprisonment within the strange world that was the sultan's harem. And from the other carriages peered sad eyes, too, for every one contained girls and women of the harem—more than three hundred of them in all. Very few of their swarthy faces showed a gleam of confidence or hopefulness.

The year was 1909. The occasion was the final breaking up of the imperial harem and the harem system. Abdul-Hamid II., the last of the sultans, had fallen and was on his way to exile in Salonica with only a few of his favorites. An institution that had existed for more than four centuries was at an end.

"These unfortunate ladies were of all ages between 15 and 50. . . . Finally they were all collected in the seraglio in connection with one of the strangest ceremonies that ever took place even there. It is well known that most of the ladies in the harems of the Turkish sultans were Circassians, the Circassian girls being very much esteemed on account of their beauty and being consequently very expensive. As Abdul-Hamid's seraglio was no exception to this general rule, the Turkish government telegraphed to the different Circassian villages in Anatolia, notifying them that every family which happened to have any of its female members in the ex-sultan's harem was at liberty to take them home, no matter whether the girls had been originally sold by their parents or had (as was the case in some instances) been torn from their homes by force.

"In consequence of this a large number of Circassian mountaineers came in their picturesque garb into Constantinople, and on a certain fixed day they were conducted in a body to the seraglio, where, in the presence of a Turkish commission, they were ushered into a long hall filled with the ex-sultan's wives and concubines, all of whom were then allowed to unveil themselves for the occasion.

"The scene that followed was very touching. Daughters fell into the arms of their fathers, whom they had not seen for years. Sisters embraced brothers or cousins, and in some instances relatives met who had never met before and were only able to establish their relationship by means of long and mutual explanations.

"The contrast between the delicate complexions and costly attire of the women and the rough, weather-beaten appearance of the ill-clad mountaineers who had come to fetch them home was not the least striking feature of the extraordinary scene,

Her Daily Schedule Would Stagger Many Adults

Mixing Pictures and School a Difficult Task

By ROSALIND SHAFFER

Hollywood, Cal.

"SOMETIMES it's hard mixing school and movies. From a crying scene on the set to Napoleon's strategy at Waterloo isn't an easy jump." Deanna Durbin, 14-year-old motion picture singing star, speaking; place, her home in Los Feliz Heights, in the Hollywood Hills section of the city.

Deanna is without predecessor in this matter of being a singing star at the age of 14.

We went to her home to have a quiet talk with the young lady and her mother, Mrs. Ada Durbin, to see just what her life is like — what she thinks about, what she eats, and generally how she is different from other girls her age.

The above statement from Deanna gives you some idea of how it looks to her. It will tell you something else, too, if you think of it. This young lady is not only exceptional in the matter of having a fully matured voice; she possesses the balance of a much older person when it comes to forming opinions and making estimates.

She speaks with poise, but with none of the offensive self-assurance that often characterizes child screen stars. There are no silly giggles, mannerisms, nor assumed airs about Deanna. She speaks sincerely and makes an effort to reply to questions with thoughtfulness. Perhaps some of the secret of her naturalness is the fact that she comes of an English-Canadian family, where tradition does not tolerate nonsense in children.

The youngster faces a daily schedule of work that would stagger the average adult. When she is working on a film Deanna has a studio day of nine hours. This includes sessions with the hairdresser, the makeup department, her education in the studio school, and her work on the set. When she isn't working in a film there are just as many matters to occupy her. For instance, every afternoon brings a voice lesson with Andres De Segurola from 1 to 5.

Her school work must be fitted in in the morning and lessons done somehow, as she is now in high school, where home work is necesary to keep up progress. Then when she is in preparation for a new film she not only has all the routine things, such as fittings and tests, which film actresses have, but in addition she must learn many songs, from which those wanted for her film will be selected by elimination. This is outside her singing lesson time.

The future holds everything for Deanna; as a possible opera star (the Metropolitan has manifested interest in her) the world can be hers. Yet it is a little sad to see that her girlhood is bound to be so crowded with "musts" that there will be little chance for her to do the girlish things that an ordinary youngster does. "I used to like to sew," says Deanna. "There isn't time for that now."

In answer to whether she plays a musical instrument she says: "I used to be fairly good on the piano, but I have had to give that up for the time being." Since she started in films a year ago she has had no real vacation.

Has Deanna any chums? Fortunately, yes; she is proud that she has the same friends today that she used to have over at the Manchester Avenue school and at the Bret Harte Junior High school in Los Angeles. She has little chance to see them, but she does look them up when she can get away for a little.

During the six months that she was under contract at Metro she became friendly with the other children on the lot—Judy Garland, Jackie Cooper, Mickey Rooney, Barbara Reid, Billy Burrud, and Nan Grey. "I have such fun when Judy and I can be together. Sometimes I can steal a little time; last week I went out on the old lot and had a fine time with the kids," she said.

The story of her sudden rocketing to fame is well known. To sum it up, at the age of 13 she was noted by Jack Sherrill, a neighbor who is an actors' agent, who heard her remarkable singing voice. At that time she had been having voice lessons with Ralph Thomas, who coached her for two years before De Segurola took over her training. Metro, which then had Schumann-Heink under contract, was looking for a child singer to impersonate Madame as a young singer in her life story, which was to be made for the screen. Sherrill took her to the studio, where tests were made and the youngster signed.

Meanwhile Mme. Schumann-Heink was not well and production on the film was delayed. The project had to be abandoned after her death, and there was no apparent use for young Miss Durbin's talents in Metro studio. After the end of six months Metro let her contract lapse after using her in a musical short.

Universal, then under the old régime of Carl Laemmle, signed Deanna, feeling the youngster had some unique possibilities. When the Charles Rogers outfit bought the studio from Laemmle, Deanna was among the few assets facing the new management. Amongst a whole battery of young talent, unknown to fame, signed at that time, Deanna has made the best progress—in fact, record-smashing progress. "Three Smart Girls" was launched as a "B" picture, developed during the making into an "A" production.

It knocked the box office records into tail spins, and a new star was on her way.

Deanna's most recent production, "100 Men and a Girl," has Conductor Leopold Stokowski as Deanna's musical "co-star." This production is being launched with accompaniments of lavishness. Tentative plans are that "Little Lady" will be her next production.

Deanna was born Edna Mae Durbin. When Universal studio wanted to rename her something unusual that would look good in lights, Hubert Voight, veteran publicity man, now with Republic Films, rebaptized her Deanna. Her family, Mr. and Mrs. James Durbin, come from Manchester, England, where her father was apprenticed as an ironworker. They emigrated to Winnipeg, Canada, where Deanna was born. When she was a year old the family moved to Los Angeles, where Deanna has lived ever since. Deanna has an elder sister, Edith, well known as a fencer.

In addition to her film work Deanna has done other singing; she has been on the Eddie Cantor radio show during the past year. Her grandmother, Mrs. W. Read of Winnipeg, takes great delight in getting both the east and west broadcasts of the program. In fact, she won't go to bed until she has heard both programs. Deanna's most recent visit with her grandmother was during the last spring, just after Easter, when she was returning from Philadelphia, whither she had gone to make some recordings with Stokowski.

One of Deanna's thrills was attending the Lily Pons concert at the Hollywood bowl in company with the famous conductor. With him she has also been a dinner guest at the home of Greta Garbo, who, through her friendship for Stokowski, has become interested in the little girl.

"I used to like to sew," Deanna says, "but there isn't time for that now."

Fame Brings Obscurity

Hollywood, Cal.

MARY DEES, the movie actress who shot overnight into prominence when she was selected to fill in for the late Jean Harlow in that actress' unfinished sequences in "Saratoga," has, paradoxically, been pushed back into obscurity for the same reason.

Immediate fame was forecast for Miss Dees for her acting in the Harlow rôles, but M-G-M, which now has her under contract, banned all publicity concerning her for fear of detracting from Miss Harlow's part in her last picture. The studio refused to allow interviews with the Harlow substitute and has not released any photographs of her in connection with "Saratoga" exploitation.

This strange period of obscurity is not to continue indefinitly, for M-G-M has plans to cast her as an actress in her own right as soon as "Saratoga" has finished its run.

"Bootleg" photograph of Mary Dees, no pictures of whom are being released by her studio. This was taken when she had a small part in "Double or Nothing."

Voice of the Movie Fan

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: You being a paid movie critic and I one who finds fault gratis, this missive will surely be little appreciated. More so, because my fault-finding is directed toward one of your recent inconspicuous reviews.

Don't you believe you were a bit off color on reviewing "The Wandering Jew"? I don't see how you could justify the sanctity of your column and the intelligence of your readers by giving that picture such a short, senile send-off. I can honestly say without fear of treading on the better judgment of the average moviegoer that this vehicle, starring Conrad Veidt, establishes a new height in motion picture artistry, emotionalism, and dramatics. Conrad Veidt's acting, the superb photography, and the excellent direction make this without doubt another masterpiece.

As a classic it compares with the greatest of acting achievements and deserves a rating second to none. For its ability to preach a sermon a thousand times as impressionable as any words delivered from the pulpit it should not only be sanctioned by the censor board but should encourage juvenile as well as adult audiences. Where could the spirit of "love thy neighbor" and the need for "brotherly love" be better exemplified than in this movie?

Hoping you are well and that your future cinema sallies find a more agreeable reader, I am, sincerely, A. L. SELRAHC.

Editor's note: I am very well, thank you.

CONRAD VEIDT
Amateur critic thinks well of his acting.

Dear Miss Tinée: What's happening to the mystery stories nowadays? Or should I call them mystery stories? Perhaps I expect too much, but the latest mystery shows have been so "lousy" it's getting to be a joke.

Take, for instance, "The Thirteenth Chair." Have you ever seen anything as bad? When it was all over I wondered just what it was all about. Do you by any chance know?

Movies like "The Bat" and "Cats Creep" used to send a chill up your spine so that you'd be creepy all the way home from the theater.

I guess all I can do is wait until Hollywood decides to give me (and many other people) a real mystery thriller.

DOROTHY KELLER.

Editor's note: Careful, Dorothy! Don't grow blasé.

Dear Miss Tinée: I wish you'd print a picture of that darling comedienne, Marie Wilson, in your column. She's a dear! She's very nice to her fans, too. She sent me a lovely photo of herself and has answered all my letters. I have several from her. She writes such nice letters and is so friendly. I feel as if I know her.

Here's hopin' to see a picture of her.

MARIE WILSON
She writes such nice letters.

Dear Miss Tinée: It isn't a habit of mine to try to break into print with my views on any subject, but the double feature movie programs have so infuriated me that I thought you might perhaps publish my letter and it would reach the eyes of a few movie theater managers.

Why don't the theaters wake up to themselves and give the public what it wants, as is done — and profitably — in every other business? The public — the majority of the public — does not want double feature programs, and many whom I know are practically boycotting movies already.

I have been in various groups when the matter was discussed, and everyone was decidedly against double features. As a result there are lots of folks who, rather than endure the agonies of two pictures, will spend the evening entertaining friends or reading or listening to the radio. I am sure we all go to the movies for a few hours' entertainment and relaxation—and not to see whether we "can take it" and how much.

There aren't enough movies as it is to go around all the suburban and outlying Chicago theaters, so that the public can have a little choice of the program for the evening. Why make it worse by having every house show two pictures?

Miss Tinée, I have read your column for years and have always enjoyed your views immensely. I know your readers would give you three rousing cheers if you would campaign for single features

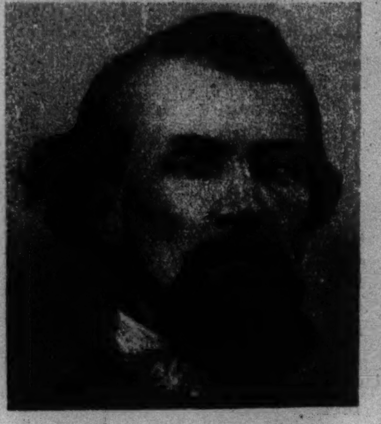
Sincerely yours, FLEUR STARR.

Editor's note: I'd like the "three rousing cheers" all right, but I guess I'll let you do the campaigning. Perhaps your letter will start something.

Goblins and Ghouls—Sordid Story of Klan

Floggings, Murders, and Other Crimes Have Marked Its History

By JOHN A. MENAUGH

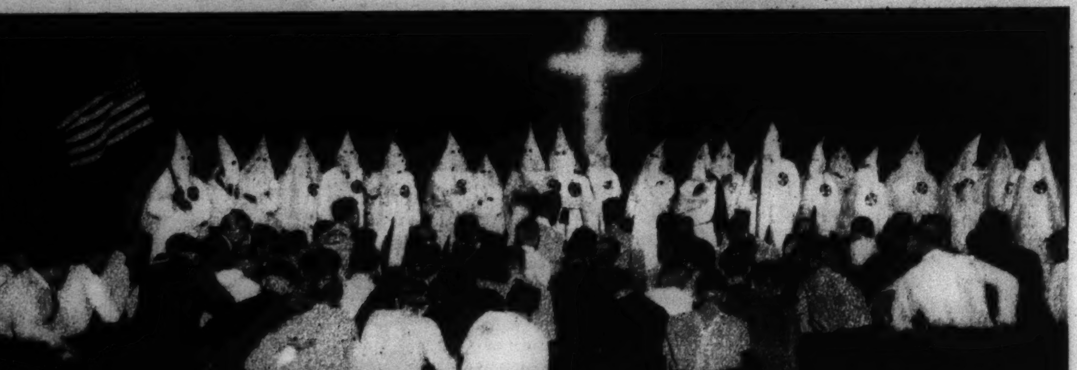


Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest, grand wizard of the original klan.

ON THE EVENING of May 6, 1866, a group of young men, some of them confederate veterans of the civil war, met in a lawyer's office in Pulaski, Giles county, Tennessee, for the purpose of organizing a club. It was a manifestation of the eternal youthful desire for amusement in a mysterious way. The club was to be purely of a social nature. It was to be a secret society. In casting about for a name for their organization the young men hit upon the word kuklos, which in Greek means circle. This was slightly changed to Ku Klux, and another word, klan, was added, obviously for alliteration. Thus the Ku Klux Klan was founded.

Pulaski is just north of the southern border of Tennessee. Across the state line lies Alabama, whence comes former United States Senator Hugo L. Black, whom President Roosevelt elevated to the Supreme court and who is charged in recent newspaper revelations with membership in the Ku Klux Klan.

It should be understood, however, that the organization founded in Pulaski, Tenn., and the one in which Black has been branded with membership, were two separate and distinct bodies. Between the death of the first and the birth of the second was a wide gap of about forty years. Although the modern klan borrowed the regalia of the original and imitated the first in many ways, the two were quite dissimilar in aims and practices. The first klan's alleged fundamental purpose, after its revision in 1867, was to save the south for the southern people. The purpose of the second klan, judging by what it ultimately developed into, was to build up a powerful political machine. It took from the first an antagonism to the Negro. From the Know Nothing movement of 1844-'56 and the American Protective association of 1887-'97 it inherited opposition to Roman Catholicism. To these it added a measure of antagonism to the Jews.



The fiery cross flickers on a kneeling group of "aliens"—initiates taking the oath before becoming klansmen.

As mentioned before, the young men of Pulaski organized a club simply for amusement. Life was dull in the little Tennessee town. They wanted something to do of evenings, an outlet for their enthusiasm. They did not know that they were starting a movement that would spread over the entire south. Youths in other towns in Tennessee and in Alabama and Georgia heard of the Ku Klux Klan of Pulaski, and soon similar clubs were being formed. By the winter of 1866 there were Ku Klux organizations, called dens, in a great number of towns.

Members of the klan readily took to its strange secrets. Mystery surrounded their every movement. They rode horses through the countryside at night dressed in hooded gowns of white. They discovered that they could keep the newly emancipated Negroes of the south in a state of fear by their mysterious comings and goings. The Negroes thought the strange night riders were ghosts of confederate soldiers slain in the war.

Hugo J. Black—storm center of a recent klan expose.

A klansman, garbed in white, would ride up to a freedman's cabin in the middle of the night, call the occupant out, and demand a drink of water. The drink would be poured into a water bag concealed under the gown of the klansman, and he then would demand a full pail of water, which also would be poured into the hidden waterbag.

"That's the first real drink I've had since I was killed," the night rider would shout as he rode away in the night. No wonder the simple black man was terror stricken.

Other klansmen would appear before Negroes at night "carrying their heads" before them on the pommels of their saddles. Still others would employ skeleton hands with which they would shake hands with the frightened Negroes. In every locality in which a former slave had committed some crime or had become offensive to the whites, a program of Ku Klux intimidation was carried out. Being ignorant and highly superstitious, the blacks were easily scared. But the whole Ku Klux business might have died out quickly had it not been for the arrival in the southern states of the "carpet baggers" from the north and the activities of the scalawags, southern whites who were supporters of the reconstruction government.

In March, 1867, the reconstruction acts were passed by congress, and the following month actual reconstruction work was begun. The effects of this legislation were to take control of the south away from the southern people and place it in the hands of men from the north. These men at once set about organizing the Negroes for political purposes. This naturally aroused the south to a white heat. Perhaps the most notorious of the organizations set up by the carpet baggers was the Loyal League, the membership of which included both Negroes and white men. Crime increased throughout the south. There was a reign of lawlessness. In the midst of this the Ku Klux Klan underwent a change, its members were transformed into a band of regulators for the purpose of handling the alarming situation.

At Nashville, Tenn., in May, 1867, a secret convention of the klan was held, the by-laws of the order were revised to meet conditions, and the organization definitly set up as its duties self-protection against the Negroes and opposition to the reconstruction laws. In other words, the klan meant to save the south for the southerner. It was the beginning of a revolution against Negro suffrage, against carpet bag government.

The klan needed a leader. Heretofore its separate bodies, or dens, had acted more or less independently. There arose the necessity of coöperation between dens and a director for the whole program. Gen. Nathan B. Forrest, famous cavalry leader of the confederacy, was selected for the job soon after the Nashville convention.

Forrest was an organizer of considerable ability. He knew the value of widespread publicity. One of his first general orders after taking the job of Grand Wizard called for klan parades in every city in the south on the 4th of July, 1867. The klansmen, in full regalia, rode the streets that day as a pledge to the people of the south that their rights would be protected. So capable was Forrest as a leader that men by the thousands flocked to the dens of the klan. The membership in Tennessee alone was brought up to 40,000, that of the whole south to 550,000.

The entire membership of the klan, through the plan set up after the Nashville meeting, was organized into the "Invisible Empire of the South." Forrest was the Grand Wizard of the empire, which took in the states of Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Mississippi, Kentucky, and Tennessee. Each state was designated as a realm, and the chief officer of the realm was the Grand Dragon. Realms, or states, were divided into dominions, each made up of several counties. Over the dominion as chief officer was the Grand Titan. Counties were known in the klan divisions of the empire as provinces, and each province had as its chief a Grand Giant. The smallest division of the empire was the den. The highest officer of the den was the Grand Cyclops. Directly under the Grand Wizard were ten Genii. Other officers of the order bore fantastic names, such as Hydras, Furies, Goblins, Night Hawks, Magi, Monks, and Turks. Private members were called Ghouls.

With its organization perfected, the klan went about the business of righting so-called wrongs. Particularly favored in this business were the families of dead confederate soldiers. Another object of attention from the klansmen were alleged unlawful seizures. And trials, otherwise than by juries, generally brought forth reprisals from the hooded bands. Exploits of the mysterious night riders have been made the subject of many works of fiction, in the majority of which the klansmen have been heroic figures. In a recent best seller, "Gone With the Wind," white robed riders are made the defenders of womanhood in the city of Atlanta. Thomas Nelson Page wrote a book some years ago called "Red Rock," in which the klansmen played a thrilling part. And then there was the novel by Thomas Dixon Jr., "The Clansman," which was made the basis of the movie "The Birth of a Nation."

Although these tales were imaginary, they gave a pretty good idea of the activities of the Ku Klux Klan. The cruel and bad side of the situation, however, is omitted in most novels woven about the subject.

Almost everywhere in the south ex-slaves were flogged by orders of the klan and by klansmen. Northern sympathizers also on some occasions were whipped and given coats of tar. Buildings were put to the torch, and here and there a murder was committed. The actual perpetrators of the crimes usually vanished into the night and were not called to account. One of the blackest marks against the klan was its opposition to the establishment of public schools for Negro children. Often the school buildings were burned, and in some instances the teachers, who usually came from the north, were intimidated and driven away.

Although the klan was responsible for many lawless acts in the south, it was by no means the only secret organization that resorted to violence. Concurrently with the Invisible Empire of the South there flourished in the southern states a number of other similar societies. Among these were the Knights of the White Camelia, a society founded in New Orleans, which actually had a greater membership than the klan; the White league, the Invisible Circle, the White Brotherhood, the Constitutional Union Guards, the Pale Faces, and a number of other minor groups. It became the practice in the north to speak of these all together as constituting the Ku Klux conspiracy.

So intense became the struggle between the klansmen and the government of reconstruction, particularly in Tennessee, that in September, 1868, Gov. W. G. Brownlow of Tennessee called his legislature into session and caused a drastic act to be passed, under the terms of which association or connection with the klan was punishable by a fine of $500 and imprisonment for not less than five years. Under Brownlow's severe law many men were arrested, there were convictions, and every known member of the klan was virtually outlawed. Despite this, the klan continued to operate for about six months more under the leadership of Gen. Forrest. In February, 1869, Gov. Brownlow proclaimed martial law in several Tennessee counties. That was the day before his term of office expired.

With Brownlow out of the state and on his way to the United States senate, with the prospect of a less drastic government in Tennessee, and on the belief that the Ku Klux Klan, having fairly well served its purpose, was growing out of hand, Forrest decided to officially disband the organization. That was late in the month of February, 1869. But the klan actually did not die then. Klansmen continued to ride at night in some localities, and depredations were reported from various points. In some instances the local bodies came under the control of desperate leaders, prototypes of the modern gangsters, who turned them into bandit bands that preyed on all classes of citizens.

Early in 1871 outrages in the south were the subject of debates in both houses of congress, and in March a senate committee presented both majority and minority reports on the results of an investigation carried on in North Carolina. In April and May of that year were passed by congress the first and the second anti-Ku Klux bills, respectively. In the autumn the President enforced with troops these legal restrictions against klansmen and others of secret societies antagonistic to the government. Hundreds were brought to trial.

A new investigation, in the meantime, was under way, and in February, 1872, a joint committee of both houses issued majority and minority reports that revealed in greater detail both the inner workings of and violations of the law by the white hooded bands and also abuses of the carpet bag governments.

When the house, in May of that year, failed to sustain a bill passed by the senate, extending the President's extraordinary powers, the tension in the south began to ease up. After that the klan was little heard of, only occasionally here and there in the next few years were there acts that could be laid directly to klansmen. Thus slowly faded out of the national picture the Ku Klux Klan and any possible excuse for the existence of an organization such as that.

Forty years have passed. Now Europe is involved in a world war. It is Thanksgiving night in 1915. On the giant granite bowlder of Stone mountain, near Atlanta, there gathers a group of men, about thirty in all. At midnight they light a fiery cross, in the light of which they swear allegiance to the Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan—the second Ku Klux Klan.

In this case history repeated itself in scarcely anything more than name. It is true that among the charter members of the new klan there were three who had been members of the old organization, but they were aging men, little interested in dressing up like ghosts, in riding about at night when they would rather sleep, in signs and passwords, and the like. Their membership lent dignity, of course.

On Dec. 4, 1915, the state of Georgia issued a charter for the new organization, and on July 1, 1916, a special charter was granted by the Superior court of Fulton county, Georgia. The Invisible Empire of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc., was on its way.

The founder of the second klan was William Joseph Simmons, preacher, traveling salesman, and organizer of fraternal societies. His klan he described as a "high class, mystic, social, patriotic, benevolent association," and its purposes, he explained, were to foster the sacred duty of protecting womanhood, to instill the idea of the "Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man," and to uphold the principle of "white supremacy"—in short, to promote "real patriotism" and "pure Americanism."

From the old klan the organization founded by Simmons borrowed the fear-inspiring regalia of the night rider—a white gown and a white hood. In the white hood holes were cut so that the wearer could peer out to see his way about and enjoy visually the fright that his ghostly presence was sure to engender in scary people. From the old klan also was taken some of the original nomenclature. The supreme boss of the new organization took the title of Imperial Wizard. Sometimes he was known as Emperor of the Invisible Empire, and at other times [illegible] as His Majesty. The [illegible] constitution of the order is said to have provided that the imperial Wizard hold office for life.

Many of the names associated with the organization began with the letter [illegible]. The field men were called Kleagles. They reported to a King Kleagle. The separate groups, which in the older organization were called dens, went by the name of klaverns. This was a corruption of the word cavern, made by sticking an "l" behind the initial letter. The ritual of the order was the kloran, a corruption of the word koran, the name of the holy book of the Mohammedans. Klaliff, the designation of certain of the officers, was a corruption of the word caliph, the name of the supreme ruler of the Moslem world. Each state was under the domination of a Grand Dragon, as was the case with the klan of reconstruction days. A system of code words employed among klansmen was known as klonversation. The chaplain of a klavern was a Kludd. Some other officers were Klokards, Kligrapps, Klabees, Klarogos, and Klexters. The ruler of a klavern was an Exalted Cyclops. Candidates approaching the sacred altar to be "naturalized" into the klan were known as Aliens. They were in charge of a Night Hawk.

The obligation, or oath, of the klan originated by Simmons is said to have been a lengthy affair, divided into four sections under the headings of "Obedience," "Secrecy," "Fidelity," and "Klanishness." Of every and in some instances the poor relatives were quite dazzled by the beautiful faces, the graceful manners, and the rich apparel of their kinswomen. The latter seemed all very glad, however, to get away, and as a rule they lost no time in packing their trunks and departing, sometimes after a very affectionate leave-taking of the other concubines. The number of female slaves thus liberated was 213.

"Clad in Circassian peasant dress, they are now in all probability milking cows and doing farm work in Anatolia. . . . This joyful reunion in the seraglio had its sad side, however, as more than one of the men did not find the face he sought. Some of the girls had died, some had been put to death by Abdul Hamid, and others of them, after Abdul Hamid's fall, had been taken with him to Salonica or quietly drafted into the harems of imperial princes who had taken a fancy to them.

"Moreover, a good many of the women, especially those who had already passed their first youth, were disheartened to learn that nobody came to fetch them. Apparently their relatives had died or migrated, or did not relish the prospect of bringing back into their miserable mountain huts women no longer young, who had contracted expensive tastes and forgotten the language of their childhood. . . .

"These unfortunate ladies will probably pine away the rest of their lives in company with the other ladies—remnants of the harems of the past sultans—who fill the palace and who, in the best manner of the Arabian Nights, sigh audibly at the barred and latticed windows and have on one or two occasions dropped roses and perfumed handkerchiefs before good-looking youths passing in the street below."

The harem's beginning, which was gradual, is lost in the misty history of the later middle ages. Perhaps because it involved compromises with the solemn commandments of the Koran, the Mohammedan bible, the sultans never recorded it in their history and it has remained the mystery of the ages, penetrated only by a handful of rare adventurers who at one time or another were lucky enough to glimpse a bit of the great palace grounds or peek into the harem courtyard and live to tell the tale. That is, up to the recent thorough inspection by Mr. Penzer of the now abandoned seraglio grounds, including the innermost sanctums of the harem and the sultan's bedchamber.*

But the eyewitness accounts of some of these early visitors are well worth retelling, because these individuals alone have painted direct from life a few sure brush strokes upon the rare canvas of the intimate lives of the sultans that is presently to be unfolded before you.

The great white eunuch guarding the women of the harem at their bath. The reign of the eunuchs was a long one, and even in the twentieth century their power was as great as ever.

Nicolas De Nicolay was one of the earliest of these, having traveled from his native France to Constantinople less than a hundred years after the historic city had been captured by the Turks from the last of the East Roman emperors, Constantine Dragases, in 1453. Constantinople was by this time just settling down to a new life under the Ottoman Turks, those Asiatic barbarians who had so astonishingly fought their way into Europe and carved for themselves the new Ottoman empire, which in De Nicolay's day covered the whole Balkan region, including Hungary and Greece, to say nothing of nearly all of southwestern Asia. The Turks were comparatively new to Europe, and to western eyes they held all the glamor of the exotic east, which Marco Polo had proved really existed not so long before.

It was natural, therefore, that De Nicolay, being an artist, should journey to Constantinople in 1551 to make drawings of Turkish costumes. And, once there, that he should go to the newly built seraglio palace and make the acquaintance of a eunuch who in time was able to reveal to him certain parts of the great palace grounds in his quest for subjects. Realizing the rare privilege he had been accorded, De Nicolay jotted down his impressions in brief as follows:

"This seraglio is inclosed with strong & high walls, being in circuit about two miles, in the midst whereof upon a little hill is to be seen a fair & delectable garden, which, beginning on the middle of the mound, descendeth towards the sea. There are divers little houses & dwelling places, with a gallery, standing upon columns after the form of a monastery, round about which are about 200 chambers, & thereabout the great Turk dwelleth for the most part of the summer, for it is a place both high, of fresh air, & abounding of good waters. . . .

"Within this compass is still the seraglio of the sultana, wife to the great Turk, garnished with baths most magnificent, & near unto the same a place for young children, which are pages, being notwithstanding esteemed as slaves. They are there nourished, instructed, & exercised as well in their religion as to ride horses, to shoot, & do all other warlike exercises, even from their age of eight, nine, or ten years unto twenty, the ordinary number of these children being commonly about five or six hundred."

Of course, De Nicolay was allowed not even a glimpse of the haremlik or women's quarters of the great, rambling palace. He did, however, gain considerable intimacy with at least one of the head eunuchs, a creature who must have delighted his artistic appetite for the exotic. As described by a later French visitor to the seraglio, Maxime Du Champ, also an artist, here is the chief white eunuch of the palace:

"He is clothed in a splendid costume, and a white turban embellished with green palms around the front. His tired manner gives one the impression that his age is nearly sixty years; he is so huge that he seems not to have a human form because the lines of his overflowing fatness are continued by his clothing. His cheeks, yellow and drooping, furl themselves into a thousand interflowing ripples. He hasn't a blade of beard; a down of childish shade thickens his lips. His gentle eye stares lazily and seems to have difficulty in half opening itself. His hand, holding the flexible stems of a crystal hookah (Arabian tobacco pipe), sparkles at each finger with precious rings. Behind him, a Negro boy boils coffee on a portable hot water heater; he calls him, and his voice is shrill, coarse, and as weak as a woman's."

Although the use of eunuchs to guard women had been customary for centuries both in the middle and the far east, the practice was unknown and unnecessary among the Turks until they had established their capital in Europe and had begun to adopt so many of the customs of the Byzantine Greeks.

The early sultans knew nothing of eunuchs, just as they knew nothing of the harem, royal seclusion, elaborate court ceremonial, or the almost exclusive employment of Christians to form a slave government. At the earliest it was not until the middle of the fifteenth century that the use of eunuchs began to be adopted. As time went on the Byzantine custom of the seclusion of majesty began to impress itself on the conquerors, and the methods previously employed to protect that majesty were also adopted, and so gradually the harem and the employment of eunuchs came into being.

Despotism and polygamy had created the necessity for eunuchs, and the injunctions of the Koran were overlooked with surprising rapidity and casualness. It was, of course, the swift development of the Turkish empire that forced the pace. The continual victories in different parts of Bulgaria, Croatia, and Greece as well as in Asia Minor, Syria, Egypt, and Persia produced a rich booty in slaves. Presents of slaves, both male and female, from conquered emirs or princes wishing to gain the sultan's favor and protection, would often include eunuchs, and once the innovation had proved a success the demand could easily be supplied.

The reign of the eunuchs was a long one, and even in this twentieth century, in the time of Abdul-Hamid II., their power was as great as ever. The idea that eunuchs are necessarily lacking in courage and intellectual vigor is not borne out by history. According to Herodotus, the great historian who lived in the fifth century B. C., eunuchs in Persia were especially prized for their fidelity and were frequently promoted to the highest offices. The capacity of eunuchs for public affairs is demonstrated by the great power they attained to in the administrative systems not only of Persia but of India, China, and especially the Roman empire during the period of its decline.

For the sake of power and wealth many an eastern youth eagerly presented himself for emasculation. Still other young men had the operation performed on themselves to avoid sexual temptation and sin.

Few Adventurers Learned Its Secrets and Lived to Tell

The original home of the eunuch appears to have been Mesopotamia. The contention of Marcellinus that the first person to unsex men was Semiramis may perhaps be not so far from the truth after all. It is proved from extant texts that eunuchs were employed in Assyria, and their constant mention in the Old Testament (whatever meaning saris may have in each particular reference) only tends to support this assertion. Herodotus tells how the Persians emasculated the Ionians and carried them off, together with the most beautiful virgins, to their king. Thus the custom became only too well known in Greece at an early date. In the opposite direction, the practice was already well established in China, and flourished there until the fall of the great palace of Pekin.

Next to the eunuchs the seraglio physicians had the greatest opportunity to know the harem intimately. Even they, however, were restrained to an almost absurd degree, it being rarely permitted them to view more than the ailing lady's face and hands, which parts were thrust cautiously through a curtain for pulse and tongue diagnosis.

One of the late sixteenth century physicians was an Italian named Domenico Hierosolimitano. He ranked third among the sultan's seven physicians, and his duties took him occasionally to the haremlik. Among the descriptions he wrote of life in the palace is the following:

"One enters a narrow corridor which leads to another court with a garden of various flowers; here on one side are the rooms of the Grand Turk, and when the women wait upon him they pass through high corridors by means of a key to the door which he reserves for himself alone, or his chief eunuch. . . .

"On the side where the women are in attendance there are forty-four separate courts, with conveniences of baths and fountains in each, so that one does not look into the other, but he [the sultan] has access by a secret corridor by means of which each can be entered without the others being any the wiser. Communicating with the women's rooms are the suites where the Grand Turk's children—that is to say, the males—are brought up; for the girls remain with their mothers, and the boys on arriving at the age of 6 are taken from their mothers and placed in other rooms allotted to them, with the masters who teach them.

"The aforesaid rooms of the Grand Turk stretch from the side of the men's suites to that of the women's apartments—that is to say, the forty suites, each with its hall, chamber, and conveniences of baths, fountains, gardens, and aviaries, built with surprising cunning and ornamented with panels of painted flowers, but not figures, and hung with divers lovely brocades, with carpets on the floors and brocaded mattresses and cushions—the bedsteads all of ivory inlaid with aloes and sandalwood and large pieces of coral, of which one was sent to Amurat from Hiemen [China]."

The first detailed description of the sultan's bedchamber comes from the pen of Ottaviano Bon, a Venetian ballo (consul general) stationed in the Turkish capital from 1604 to 1607. Wrote Bon:

"Through a window in the divan I saw his majesty's bedroom, which was of ordinary size, the walls, as usual, encrusted with stones—namely, the finest majolica, which displayed patterns and flowers of different colors, producing a splendid effect.

"The bed was like a Roman pavilion, with columns of fluted silver instead of wooden supports. It had crystal lions, and the hangings were of cloth of gold and green Brusa brocade without trimmings, in place of which were lacings made of pearls, showing it to be a work of great value and very well contrived. The quilts were rather more than a hand's breadth from the ground and of gold brocade, as were also the cushions. The floors both of this room and the others, with their sofas about half a cubit from the ground, were all covered with the richest Persian carpets in silk and gold, and the quilts for sitting on and the cushions to lean against were all of the finest brocades in gold and silk."

The first foreigner to describe the whole of the seraglio, including the harem, was a French manufacturer named Jean-Claude Flachat. Passing through Holland, Italy, Germany, Hungary, Wallachia, and Turkey, he arrived at his destination in 1740. Here he settled for no less than fifteen years, during the reigns of Mahmud I. and Osman III., and by diligent and unremitting labor not only traded on a considerable scale in manufactured goods of all kinds but taught the Turks how to make and use looms, dye cotton, plate copper, do tin plating, and other similar industrial trades.

His friendship with the chief black eunuch, the kislar agha (literally, captain of the girls), was the main cause of his success. So interested did this Abyssinian become in Flachat's novelties that Flachat was created first merchant of the grand signor. He sold all manner of things to the seraglio, mechanical devices being in special demand. In fact, the bribe that led the kislar agha to conduct him over the seraglio consisted of an automaton of a man playing a drum, and others of a French girl and an oriental slave, together with some diagrams of other machines.

As luck would have it, some mirrors sent by Louis XV. to Mahmud I. were being installed. Flachat, with the Comte de Castellane, the French ambassador to the porte, was introduced among the workmen, and so any suspicions of the other eunuchs were unaroused. In this way practically the whole of the seraglio was inspected, and Flachat was a keen observer who would have illustrated his account with diagrams had leave been granted.

Having described the palace school and gardens, and kiosks in the fourth court of the grand seraglio, he wrote:

"One passes from the first garden into a second. The two-storied kiosk which is in the center is a lovely place. The sultan very often goes there with the sultanas. The main inside court of the seraglio is at the end of this garden. It consists of four blocks of buildings. The sultan occupies that to the west, and the walls are all adorned with porcelain on the outside. The sultanas occupy the rest, which are all uniformly built on fine arcades. This court closely resembles the royal square in Paris; it is longer than it is broad.

"One next passes into the gallery where are situated the apartments of twelve sultanas. They are large and richly furnished. The windows have iron grills and look into the courtyard. . . . In the middle of the northern façade they have built a fore part which serves as an assembly room, as you might call it. All the women go there to pay their addresses to his highness and try and please him with a thousand amusements which follow on one after the other, and to which the inexhaustible fertility of the genius of these women always imparts the air of novelty.

"On leaving the grand harem one goes down a corridor quite dark. It crosses the detached building which the eunuchs inhabit and leads directly to the prison of the princes, the sultan's sons who can aspire to the throne. This prison is like a strong citadel. A high wall is built all around it.

"The princes have fine apartments and baths in the detached buildings which surround the court. The eunuchs detailed to their service all live on the ground floor, and there is a large number of them. They spare no pains to mitigate their hard lot and to make their prison at least endurable.

"Women are given them, although it is a fact that these women can no longer bear children. They have all kinds of masters, and they even encourage them to perfect themselves in all handiworks that are applicable to their rank. In a word, they leave nothing to wish for save freedom."

Iced Cakes Make Ideal Desserts

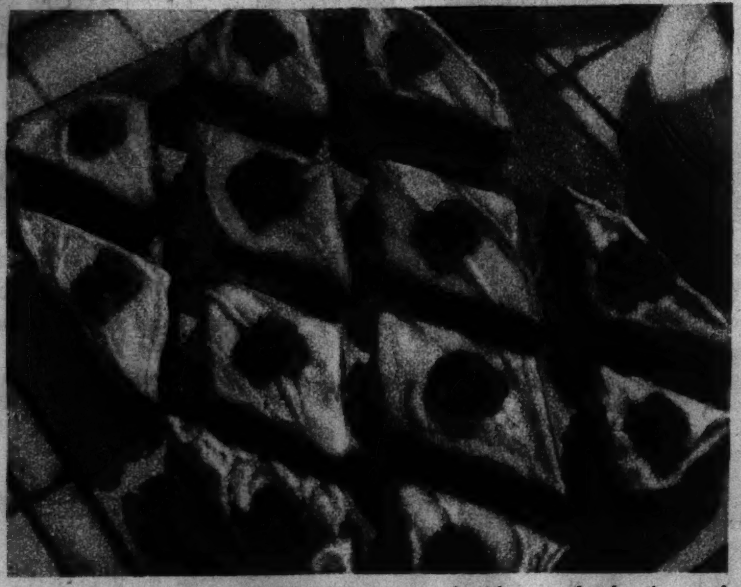
By MARY MEADE

COOKIES and cakes are more fun to make than any other baked goodies, and every household wants to keep them on hand for at least part of the time.

Plain sugar cookies are kept in stock by mothers who feel that the children need an after-school snack to stay their young appetites until dinner time. A glass of milk and a cooky accomplish that purpose without diminishing relish for the later meal.

Chocolate-frosted cup cakes and soft-frosted spice cakelets aren't quite so appropriate for the after-school snack, as they are rich and quite filling. They should be served as dessert at meal time or for grownup party refreshments.

The soft, creamy chocolate frosting used on the cup cakes illustrated was made by melting three squares of unsweetened chocolate in the top of a double boiler, adding a can (1⅓ cups) of sweetened condensed milk and stirring the mixture over boiling water for five minutes until it thickened. Then a tablespoon of water was added and the frosting was ready to spread. Chocolate marshmallow frosting may be made from the same recipe if eight quartered marshmallows are stirred into the mixture and the water is omitted.



Diamond and triangle cakelets are very good with a mocha frosting and walnut halves.

The sour cream spice cake, baked in a thin layer and cut diagonally into attractive diamonds and triangles, was frosted with an uncooked icing and decorated with walnut halves.

To make such a frosting cream ¼ cup butter thoroughly and add gradually 1 cup confectioners' sugar, beating the mixture until smooth. Add alternately with another cup of confectioners' sugar 4 tablespoons cream and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Beat until creamy and spread over cake.

A variation of this frosting may be made by substituting 2 tablespoons of strong coffee for 2 tablespoons of cream in the recipe. It may be necessary to add slightly more sugar if coffee is used. This latter is a mocha frosting, which blends particularly well with the flavor of spice cake.

Halloween Menus

THE gobble-uns'll git you if you don't watch out!

Yes, it's time to think about Halloween and Halloween parties. How would you like to serve pumpkin head canapes, hobgoblin salad, witches' brew, and cold chills for refreshments?

Or maybe you'd prefer to bring forth a heartier menu — say, pumpkin face ham loaf, witches' salad, creamed potatoes, ghost sandwiches, and Halloween shiver cakes?

Mary Meade, Tribune cooking editor, has a booklet which should help a great deal. It contains ten menus for Halloween refreshments and five menus for Halloween suppers or luncheons, along with recipes for preparing the various dishes. There are twelve pages full of suggestions in this orange-covered printed booklet. It's called "Halloween Menus." These typical recipes come from the book:

Cider Frappe

Dissolve ⅞ cup (1 cup minus 2 tablespoons) sugar in ½ cup hot water. Add 2 cups cider, 1 cup orange juice, ¼ cup lemon juice, and 2 cups cold water and freeze to a soft mush in the refrigerator freezing tray. Serve in small, slender glasses. The frappé is meant to be sipped, not eaten with a spoon.

Pickled Goblins

For each goblin cut off an end of a hard-cooked egg so that the egg will stand upright. Cut off the other end to make a cap for the goblin. Scoop out the egg yolk, mix it with chopped sweet pickles and salad dressing. Refill the egg and stick pieces of pickle into one side to make a goblin face. Place a small piece of parsley over the top of the egg to represent hair, and replace the cap.

Hobgoblin Salad

Cut the tops from large oranges or red apples and hollow out the centers. Cut eyes, nose, and mouth from the side of the fruit. If oranges are used, cut only through the outer skin, leaving the white membrane showing through. Fill the cavities with diced fruit mixed with salad dressing and place the tops back on the salad as covers.

This booklet costs 5 cents at Tribune public service offices or 8 cents by mail. The Halloween recipes and menus have also been included in a larger book, "Holidays and Holiday Meals," which may be obtained for 23 cents in stamps, or 20 cents at the public service offices, if you're looking ahead farther than Halloween. The big booklet contains historical information, menus, recipes, and decoration suggestions for all kinds of holiday affairs, including Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's. Aviation's Newest Super Ship Takes Form

Cross-section drawing from engineers' blueprints of the Douglas DC-4, latest in the company's line of transport planes. It is nearly 100 feet long, greater than the wing spread of the present largest transport.

Forty-Passenger Plane to Have Tricycle Landing Gear

By WAYNE THOMIS

ACCURATE details of the 60,000-pound Douglas DC-4 transport plane, which will have four engines and carry forty passengers, now are available. The giant ship is being assembled at the Douglas plant in Santa Monica, Cal., and the corps of engineers, who have been living with it for nearly eighteen months, now believe it will be flying by the early days of next year.

Interior and exterior lines and arrangements of the first ship, which is definitly an experimental plane, will follow those of the diagram reproduced here. It will be a low-wing monoplane with a nose wheel instead of a tail wheel and with the two main landing wheels placed well behind the center of gravity. This innovation follows a number of experiments which proved this feature has many advantages.

The machine also will have a triple tail. That is, there will be but one horizontal stabilizer and one set of elevators, but there will be three vertical fins and three rudders. This was a compromise arrangement adopted in order to provide exceptional control at slow speeds and to avoid the construction of one enormous vertical fin which would have towered more than 35 feet into the air.

The wing span on this first machine will be 138 feet 3 inches. The fuselage, which already has been completed save for the interior furnishings, will be 97 feet 7 inches long. These are stupendous dimensions for an airplane. The largest commercial airliner flying in the United States today has a wing spread of only 95 feet.

On its tricycle landing gear the giant ship will stand 24 feet 6½ inches above the ground. The two main landing wheels will be 65 inches, or 5 feet 6 inches, in diameter, and the nose wheel will be 3 feet 8 inches in diameter. The entrance to the cabin will be 9 feet 6 inches off the ground when the ship is at rest.

The cabin alone will be 7½ feet high, 9 feet 9⅞ inches wide, and more than 66 feet in length. There will be a double row of lounge chairs down each side of an 18-inch aile in the main cabin. The chairs nearest the windows on each side will be 28 inches wide; those nearest the aile will be 25 inches wide.

They will be so constructed that when arranged for night flights 24 persons can rest in comfortable beds in the main cabin and two others in the private compartment on the right side at the tail of the fuselage.

Each lower berth will be 28 inches wide and 6¼ feet long. These berths also will have beside them a lounging chair in what is virtually a tiny sleeping compartment. The upper berths will be as long and somewhat wider—32 inches—but there will be no lounging chair. This arrangement is reached by staggering the lowers.

The rear compartment can be entirely cut off from the rest of the airplane and has its private lavatory, and upper and lower berths much like those in Pullman car compartments.

The cabin floor hides vast storage compartments for mail and express.

There are no gasoline tanks in the fuselage, as in the Douglas DC-2s and DC-3s now flying the air lines. All the tanks for the DC-4 will be in the wings, between the inboard and outboard engines on each side.

All the landing wheels retract into the main shell of the ship, special fairings being provided which will entirely close the wells into which they will sink. The nose wheel is hinged directly under the seats of the two pilots. It retracts straight backward into a well beneath the floor of the gally.

The main landing wheels are set well behind the engine nacelles, and these retract sideways and toward each other to fold into compartments in the wing between the fuselage and the inboard engines. In the air, with landing gear retracted, no portion of the wheels is exposed, as has been the practice on transport machines up to this time.

Engines for this giant craft are being supplied by Pratt & Whitney. They are twin-row Hornets—14-cylinder radial air-cooled types with a displacement of 2,180 cubic inches. They have a take-off rating of 1,400 horsepower at 2,500 revolutions a minute using 95 octane fuel and 1,200 horsepower using 87 octane fuel. Normal rating is 1,150 horsepower at 2,350 r.p.m. with 95 octane fuel.

The DC-3, largest air liner now flying over land, pictured approximately in scale to the DC-4. It is 65 feet long, carries 21 passengers, and is a refinement of the DC-2, which was 60 feet long.

Two of these engines are installed in the leading edges of the wings on each side of the cabin. For the first time in a commercial transport these four engines will bear only the loads of flying the airplane. Special Eclipse engines of four cylinders each are installed behind the inboard engines in each wing to carry all other loads, including those of supplying power for a 110-volt electric light system, radio, vacuum pumps for the numerous giro instruments in the cockpit, and heat for the gally.

As much as 250 horsepower has been taken away from the effective power transmitted to the propellers of engines in other commercial ships, where such accessories as will be operated by the Eclipse engines were actuated off the main engines. It was decided that in the DC-4 the motors would turn their own magnetoes and pump their own fuel but perform no other functions.

The Eclipse engines are buried in the wings but cooled by air led through special ducts for this purpose.

At the maximum forward point in the fuselage nose is the roomy, comfortable pilots' and captain's office. There the controls, switches, dials, and instruments necessary in the flying of the giant plane are placed. Without a doubt the cabin of the DC-4 will be the best from the flying standpoint of any in an airplane manufactured in the United States.

Pilots from Pan American Airways, United Airlines, American Airlines, Transcontinental and Western Air, and Eastern Airlines went out to the Douglas factory and sat in the giant mock-up of the DC-4. These men arranged and rearranged the instruments until they were exactly as they wished them to be.

The final result, to the mind of the writer at least, is ideal. The flight instruments are duplicated for first and second pilots. These groups are placed exactly in front of the two seats. From the ceiling down the instrument panel to the floor run the numerous engine instruments in quadruple series, since the same indicators are provided for each of the four engines.

The flight and engine groups are separated. The throttles, mixture controls, propeller controls, etc., are on a mount between the two seats. There also is a master control for the giro-pilot which probably will fly the big airplane most of the time it is in the air.

A Douglas observation plane, model for the first commercial Douglas, the DC-1, also in scale to the DC-4. It was approximately 32 feet long and carried two persons and mail or baggage.

This master control is a knob which can be actuated like the stick in small airplanes but in addition can be twisted to the right or left to control the rudder pick-offs of the giro-pilot as well. In other words, the pilot with one hand can instantly make any adjustment he desires in the giro-pilot.

Radio switches for the eight separate units are on the ceiling, and the units themselves are placed in a cabinet on the right side of the cockpit behind the second pilot's seat.

A third seat which may be occupied by a commander, who will give orders but never touch a control, a special radio navigator, or an engine specialist, is included. This sliding seat moves through an arc of about 140 degrees from a small table, upon which charts may be spread, to a position exactly between the two pilots' chairs.

Directly behind the cockpit is a lavatory for men and a dressing room. Then comes the gally, which will be completely equipped to turn out hot meals. Behind this the main cabin begins. At the rear of the main cabin is a cloak closet and an aile leading to the women's dressing room on the left and the compartment on the right.

The wings of this plane are attached nearly midway in the length of the fuselage. It is a definite step in the direction of the flying wing which engineers predict will be the ship of the future. The root of the wing is 25 feet in width, but the gleaming metal airfoils taper sharply to a pointed tip.

The sweep-back, typically Douglas in outline, is along the leading edge. The trailing edge is nearly straight.

The whole ship, of course, is constructed entirely of metal—duralumin spars being used throughout. The cabin will be more completely soundproofed than any previous commercial ship, and for once the soundproofing will be extended into the pilots' cabin, hitherto a neglected spot.

While no radically new features are incorporated in this ship, the engineers have overlooked no known formula to improve its speed, control, and safety. One of the features regarded most favorably is the nose wheel and the placing of the main wheels behind the center of gravity.

Tests with smaller ships have proved that the tricycle gear virtually will eliminate all tendency to ground loop. This is true because the center of load, which is at the CG, or center of gravity, leads the main landing wheels rather than pushing forward from behind them. Thus when the ship lands in a cross wind or with considerable drift the load tends to straighten the ship into the track of its motion in the air rather than attempting to swing the tail around to get ahead of the landing gear, as in the case of planes with landing wheels ahead of the CG.

With a nose wheel also, extremely fast landings will be possible without danger. Once on the ground, brakes can be applied without hazard of a nose-over. The ship always is in flying position. This means that passengers in berths will not be cocked at a crazy angle when the ship is on the ground. Furthermore, the initial push needed to get it rolling for takeoff should be less.

This giant plane will carry enough gasoline to enable it to fly for 1,500 miles, with a reserve supply enough for another 500 miles. Thus transport operators will be able to cross the continent with one stop should this be desirable. Cruising speed will be about 200 miles an hour, with a top speed of about 225 miles an hour. It must be able to land with full load at sea level at a speed not greater than 65 miles an hour. To provide for this, flaps have been installed extending from inner margins of ailerons beneath the fuselage.

The Story of the Ku Klux Klan

membership fee of $10, according to stories told by former klansmen, $4 went to the local solicitor who signed up the candidate, $1 went to the state officer, 50 cents went to the district officer, and $4.50 went to supreme headquarters in Atlanta. From this it can be seen that when the klan eventually numbered its members in millions it was by no means a small enterprise.

Members of the old klan made their own robes, but those of the new klan sent to Atlanta for them. They were manufactured there and were sold for $6.50 each to individual members of the organization. Some of the robes of the officers cost even more, since they were more elaborate.

Even though Imperial Wizard Simmons' new secret society had started out well it failed to maintain its early gains. Early in 1920 it was threatened with financial disaster. It had to be pepped up, so there stepped into the picture Edward Young Clarke and Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler, who had been connected with a publicity association and had been successful in drives for funds for various organizations, including the Anti-Saloon league. Clarke, as head of the propaganda department, entered upon a campaign to peddle the klan to the public.

From the time that Clarke took over the rôle of rescuer, which was in June, 1920, until the organization's activities were investigated by congress in October, 1921, a period of little more than a year, klan membership grew from a very few thousand to almost 100,000. Its appeal not being sectional, as was that of the first klan, the organization began to spread out to many parts of the country.

The investigation by congress was the result of a wave of lawlessness that was sweeping the country. Four killings and a long list of floggings and other brutalities were attributed either directly or indirectly to the klan. Headquarters of the klan denied that the organization was connected in any way with these crimes. The exposé, instead of halting the expansion of the organization, seemed to have little or no effect at all. It is believed by some actually to have increased favorable interest in the klan.

At any rate the klan continued to grow, and in localities where it was strong it began to dictate public, and in some cases private, morals. The idea of upholding "white supremacy" and protecting womanhood, as advocated by Imperial Wizard Simmons, seemed to take hold even in localities where the whole population was white and where sacred rights of womanhood were in no way threatened. Animosity directed toward foreigners and others added fuel to the fire, the light of which attracted thousands to the Invisible Empire.

Hooded riders were active in districts that never before had seen a night rider. Fiery crosses were flaming from many a hilltop. The klan grew and grew, until by 1923 it was estimated that it had a membership of two and a half million.

In the meantime, in a house in a woods near Stone mountain, Georgia, in May, 1922, one Hiram Wesley Evans, a Texas dentist, was sworn in as imperial kligrapp, or grand secretary, of the klan. At a klonvocation on the following Thanksgiving he became imperial wizard, supplanting in that office the founder, Simmons. Under Evans' leadership the organization reached the height of its power in 1925. He is reported to have said that at that time the klan had more than a million and a half members actually on its rolls, and that about four million others "wandered through its back door, half of whom never were reported to headquarters."

In the elections of 1922, 1924, and, to a certain extent, 1926, the klan concentrated its powers at the polls so effectively that it was able to elect in several states United States senators, representative, and state officials, and to control local politics. Hugo L. Black was elected to the senate from Alabama in 1926, the same year that the Invisible Empire staged one of its greatest conventions in Washington, D. C. Thousands of robed knights marched down Pennsylvania avenue carrying American flags, as a feature of that meeting. The year before a similar demonstration was carried out in the national capital.

In Indiana, at one time a hotbed of klanism and with a klan membership of 315,000, the conviction of Grand Dragon David C. Stephenson of the murder of Madge Oberholtzer had given the Invisible Empire a jolt that was felt in every section where there were klansmen. The political scandals of Indiana, which were directly tied up to the klan, and those of other states, brought a wave of national resentment.

Innumerable crimes and other violations of the law were laid at the door of the klan, the lists of which would fill many pages. Responsibility for these in every case was denied by supreme headquarters of the klan, one of the weaknesses of which was the self-sufficiency of each separate klavern. The Mer Rouge murders in northern Louisiana had parallels in other sections. The people of the nation sickened of the whole unsavory business.

Although it has been said that the klan is dead politically, a recent news dispatch from York, Pa., where the organization held a state convention, attributed to the grand dragon of that state the statement that the convention would go on record as strongly supporting Black's appointment to the Supreme court.

Queen Victoria's Remarkable John Brown

Her Majesty Smiles at Gossip

By E. E. P. TISDALL

(Reprinted by arrangement with the London Express.)

The first three instalments of this story told of the rise of John Brown, gruff Highlander, to the position of chief attendant to Queen Victoria in the loneliness that followed the death of her prince consort. Brown accompanied the queen on all her drives and waited upon her at all times. He treated the highest courtiers with disdain and ordered the royal children about. Scandalous stories about the queen and her favorite companion began to circulate. In this instalment the author describes the violent press campaign against Brown and the queen's reaction.

JUST when all the tongues in the land were wagging about John Brown, Punch, that inveterate leg-puller, put his wicked tongue in his cheek and mocked at the scandalmongers and their tittle-tattle.

In the July 7 issue in 1866 appeared:

COURT CIRCULAR

Balmoral, Tuesday.

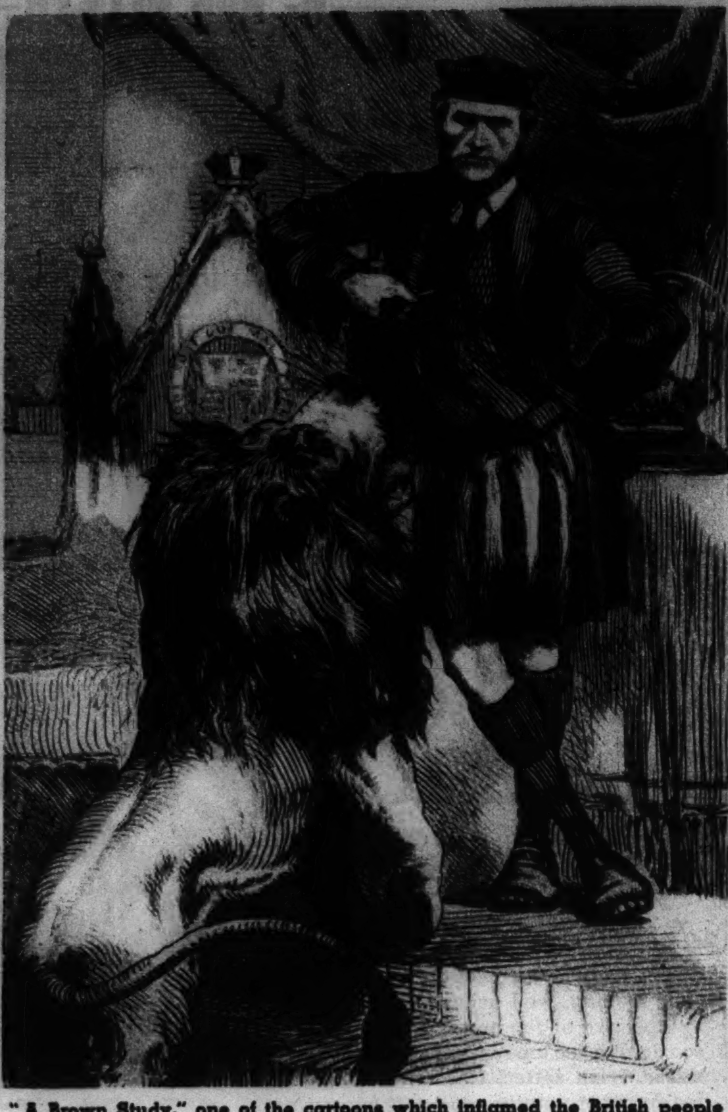
In the evening Mr. John Brown was pleased to listen to a bagpipe.

Mr. John Brown retired early.



"A Brown Study," one of the cartoons which inflamed the British people against John Brown.

Admit that it was very impertinent and very daring to issue under the heading of "Court Circular" the doings of a ghillie raised to be an upper servant, but then Punch is Punch and was even more so in 1866 than in 1937. It may truly have been more a gibe at the gossip of the day which revolved around John Brown than an indication of any disrespectful feeling toward the queen.

The paragraph might have been forgotten after it had lived a week or two as a clubroom jest, but unfortunately it was not.

We cannot pretend to know if the queen saw Punch, or what she said if she did. But the story went the rounds that she did, and was greatly amused! The story also runs that John Brown saw that paragraph and exploded with rage.

He refused to dismiss it with a laugh, there was a regular row, and he made such a pother about it that he was threatened with dismissal from the royal service.

The report of Brown's rage reached the ears of the correspondent of the John o' Groat's Journal, a Scot with a pawky sense of humor, who gleefully sent all the news northward in his "London Letter."

Then the Elgin Courant, which circulated in the Balmoral district, got hold of the story and dished it up with the sauce of John Brown's whisky drinking. The Courant (August, 1866) let itself go without restraint and published:

"THE GREAT COURT FAVORITE

"The London correspondent of the John o' Groat's Journal says:

"'I suppose all my readers have heard of the great court favorite, John Brown. His dismissal some weeks ago was generally talked about at the time, and I observe that the fact has now found its way into print, coupled with the suggestion of John Brown's probable restoration to power before long. The reason assigned for his dismissal is an inordinate indulgence in the national taste for whisky, and the restraining of that appetite is mentioned as a likely condition of his readmission to favor.

"'Far be it from me to question Mr. Brown's powers of suction. They may rival those of one of Dickens' characters, the elder Weller, I think, who would have made an uncommon good oyster if he'd been born in that sphere of life, and it is easy to suppose that a Highland ghillie who has achieved a practical realization of his compatriot's wish, "a Loch Lomond of whisky," will certain not be a teetotaler.'

"But Brown's fall has been more commonly ascribed to Mr. Punch than to any shortcoming of his own. A few weeks ago Punch gave us the following as a 'Court Circular':

"'Balmoral, Tuesday.

"'Mr. John Brown walked on the slopes. He subsequently partook of a haggis.

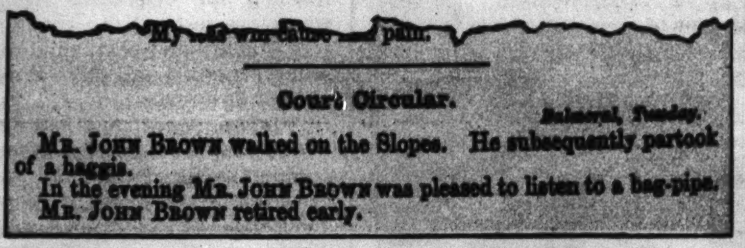
"'Mr. John Brown retired early.'

"These few lines gave rise to an immense deal of gossip, and in a few days we heard that Brown was discharged. It is said his insolence to every person he came in contact with about the court was latterly quite intolerable, and some friends of mine who were near Windsor fishing not long ago, who frequently saw the favorite, not then disgraced, gave me the benefit of a good deal of local gossip about the lusty ghillie. But I shall imitate Herodotus (perhaps I had better give him his usual title, the Father of History) and make an end of my story before I have rightly begun it. By the way, it is as well that the descendants of the same father did not implicitly follow his example, or what a mass of 'good things' would have been lost to the world!"



My [illegible] was [illegible] pain.

Reproduction of item in Punch which mocked the scandalmongers and their tittle-tattle.

The ball had started rolling.

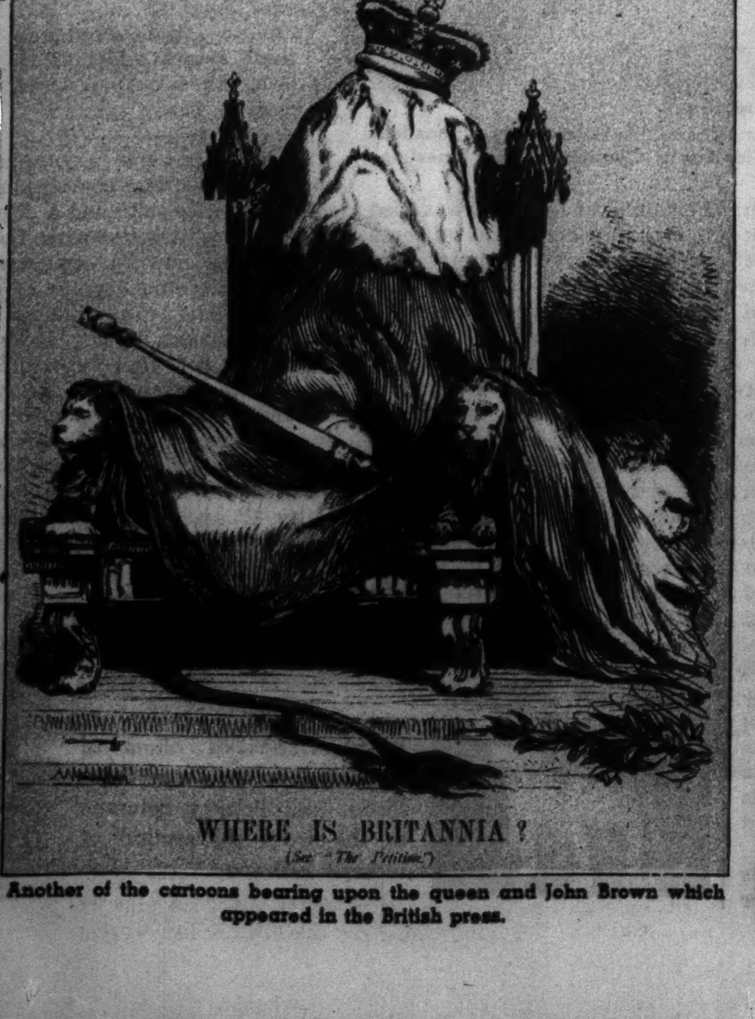
It might be worth mentioning that John Brown was not dismissed and that the queen knew nothing of what had been said in the Scotch papers until long afterward.

The better papers had, of course, nothing to say, but the Tomahawk was anything but a great paper. In its issue of May, 1867, the Tomahawk published a satirical notice of Sir Edwin Landseer's painting of the queen on horseback, mocking at her widow's weeds by saying that "all is black which is not Brown."

Then in the following June the newspaper stated:

"In our first number we spoke of Sir Edwin Landseer's painting of the queen at Balmoral as a black picture of her majesty ('in which all is black which is not Brown'). It gave us quite a thrill of satisfaction to see that our old friend Punch has so far approved of our criticism as to reproduce it in the following form, apropos of a remark in the Saturday Review that the painting was of too black and mournful a hue. The mention of the ghillie should have reminded the Reviewer that the picture cannot be all black, as a part of it is Brown."

Then the cartoons began. There was one showing a vacant throne over which the discarded royal robes were thrown. Under this was the caption, "Where is Britannia?"



WHERE IS BRITANNIA ?
(See "The Petition.")

Another of the cartoons bearing upon the queen and John Brown which appeared in the British press.

In August a cartoon entitled "A Brown Study" showed John Brown leaning thoughtfully on the empty throne, holding his pipe in his hand, while the British lion looked pleadingly at him. Then, more daring still, a fortnight after came "Pictures in the Fire," showing an Indian chief gazing into the fire and seeing among other things "The Mystery of the Season," John Brown leaning against the empty throne.

The Tomahawk issued its final number in June, 1870, and passed into the limbo of forgotten things unmourned. But in its wake several papers appeared (of a sort that would not be tolerated now) which kept up the John Brown stories.

Whether the queen saw these pictures and articles or not we do not know. Probably not, but she knew of their existence. The effect of this on the national mind was to stir up a protest against Brown being in attendance on the queen during the Hyde Park review in June, 1867.

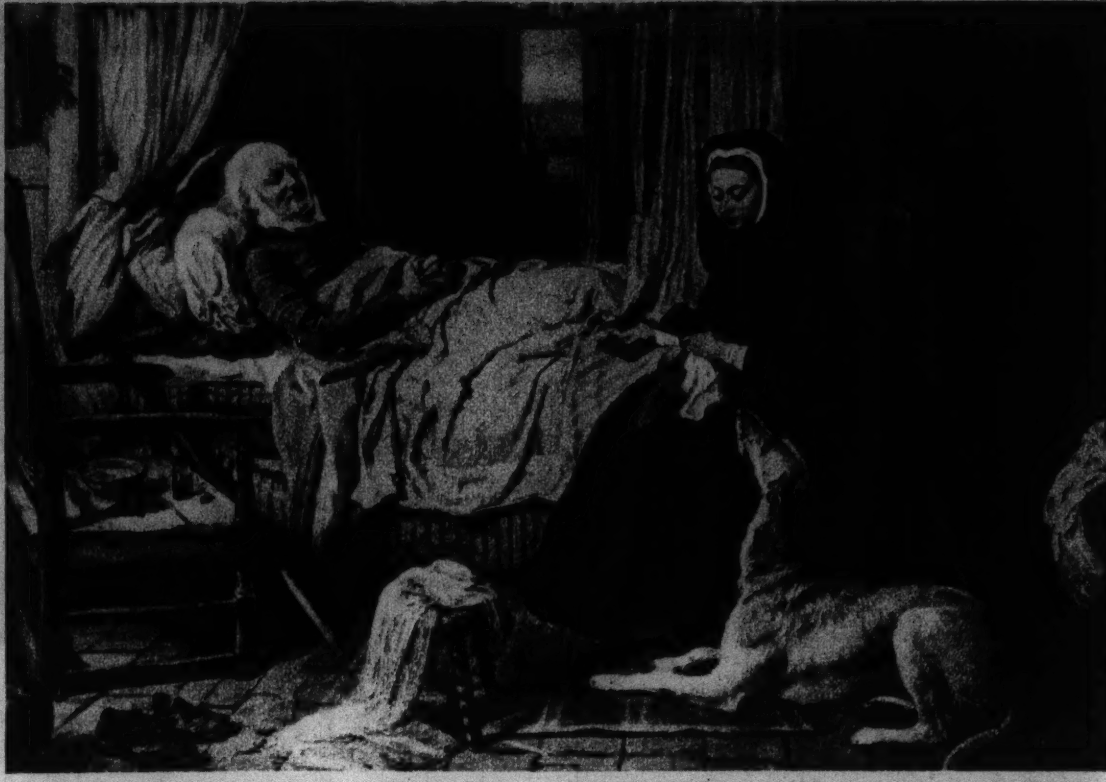
The whole nation was roused on this occasion about the presence of the taciturn ghillie, who stood on the royal rumble. News came that serious disturbances threatened in London.

Apprehensions about the position of the throne were felt in certain high quarters. The queen, furiously indignant, was shaken, but stood immovable. She wrote to Lord Charles Fitzroy:

". . . Lord Charles Fitzroy having always been so kind to the queen in all that concerns her convenience and comfort, and having only lately informed her that the duke of Beaufort so completely understood her wishes and entered her feelings respecting her faithful Brown, and having also told her last year that several people quite understood his going as an upper servant with her carriage, and he (Lord Charles) thinking there should be no difference in London to the country, and moreover, having taken him everywhere with her for two years on public as well as private occasions, she is much astonished and shocked at the attempt being made by some people to prevent her faithful servant going with her to the review in Hyde Park, thereby making the poor, nervous, shaken queen, who is so accustomed to his watchful care and intelligence, terribly nervous and uncomfortable.

"Whatever can be done the queen does not know on this occasion, or what it all means she does not know; but she would be very glad if Lord Charles could come down tomorrow morning any time before lunch, that she may have some conversation with him on this subject, not so much with a view as to what can be done on this occasion, but as to what can be done for the future to prevent her being teased and plagued with the interference of others, and moreover to make it completely understood at once and for all that her upper Highland servant (whether it be Brown or another, in case he should be ill, replaces him) belong to her outdoor attendants on state as well as on private occasions.

"The queen will not be dictated to or made to alter what she has found to answer for her comfort, and looks to her gentlemen and especially to her equerries setting this right for the future, whatever may be done on this single occasion. If when Lord Charles arrives he would first go to Countess Blücher he will hear from her what has passed."



The queen had much more freedom at Balmoral than she had in London. In the former she could obtain the seclusion which permitted her to be gay and care-free. She could visit the natives, comfort the sick, and make friends with farmers and servants.

A month later, from Osborne, Victoria again wrote to Lord Charles on the burning question:

". . . the queen cannot conclude this letter without telling Lord Charles that Sir Thomas Biddulph told the queen only a few days ago—when she spoke to him about 'the state of London,' which had been described to her as so dreadful—that he thought it greatly exaggerated, and that Inspector May of the police, who had taken great pains to inquire, and who knew more about the feelings of the people than any one, had given it as his decided opinion that not only nothing would have occurred of an unpleasant nature (such as a scuffle with Mr. Beales and his party on the occasion of the review in Hyde Park, which was foretold), but that he was convinced that nothing whatever of any unpleasant nature would have occurred! Sir Robert Mayne said the same, and Sir Thomas said he entirely believed this.

"This completely corroborates all Lord Charles not only heard but said from the first, and what the queen always felt sure of. While it is satisfactory to hear this, it is the more provoking that the queen should have been so deeply annoyed (it will be very long before she forgets all the worry and uneasy sensations it caused her), and that she should have been weak enough to let Lord D. [Derby] understand she would listen to the 'alarm.'

"Sir Thomas considers it to have been a 'mere panic.' And the queen must say she is much shocked that Lord D. could have listened to what must have been merely the result of ill-natured gossip in the higher classes, caused by the dissatisfaction at not forcing the queen out and probably seizing hold of those wicked and idle lies about poor, good Brown which appeared in the Scotch provincial papers last year, which no one noticed or knew till long after, and which probably have been fished up to serve the malevolent purposes of ill-disposed persons.

"In addition to this the queen has heard from a friend, who is acquainted with some of the most influential people connected with the press, that they all treat this 'talk' about this and about the queen's unpopularity as complete 'shameful rubbish,' not to be listened to for a moment, and that the queen was just as popular and would be just as well received as ever!

"The queen believes, however, that good will come out of it all—just as has so often been the case before with far more serious and alarming, although equally unfounded, 'cries.' The queen will quietly and formally continue to do what she thinks and knows to be right, though it will leave a painful and bitter feeling in her heart toward many, not easily to be eradicated."

Queen Victoria was not the sort of woman who would submit to any kind of pressure, nor would she be frightened into dispensing with Brown solely on public occasions. Certainly it must be admitted that the two letters of Queen Victoria quoted have rather an amazing content.

In reading them one has before him all the clews to a great human riddle, for as she wrote the grim, determined, lonely little middle-aged queen was thinking deeply—seemingly a woman at bay—about the man she intended to keep at her side.

Yet nobody today can read the truth behind those letters—whether they express the petulance of a haughty, obstinate, self-centered woman in poor health, or a deeper sentiment; nor is it likely that the persons to whom the letters were written were any wiser.

Rumor even said that the queen was married to him, and there were many who believed this unfounded and impossible story.

At the other extreme there were those who said Brown must have some secret and extraordinary power over the queen, because he smoked in her presence! Brown did smoke, but never near the queen.

Queen Victoria hated tobacco smoke to such an extent that any one who wished to smoke could only do so in the smoking room, and not in any other part of the castle. But even there it was only permitted within bounds, and Lord Charles Fitzroy, who as master of the household had a task that must have called for all the tact and diplomacy possible, received a letter on this subject from the queen to ask him to see that the smoking room was closed at midnight.

Queen Victoria.

"This," so the letter ran, "was her original intention, as well as that 11 o'clock should be the time for leaving the drawing room; but she hears that smoking goes on till very late, a thing which in her house she does not intend to allow. The servants (she has heard) feel these late hours very much (and they are not wrong), and she must say that it is a bad thing for them, and a bad example, especially in these days.

"Perhaps Lord Charles will draw up a short memorandum to be handed over by one equerry to the other gentlemen who succeed him. Lord Charles would perhaps simply mention it to Prince ——, without giving it as a direct order, that the queen felt it necessary for the sake of the servants, who were kept up so late and who had to be up so early in the morning, to direct that the smoking room should be closed and the lights put out by 12 o'clock, not later.

"Lord Charles will no doubt agree with the queen, and he will see that it is done quite quietly, but effectually; some one coming to remind the prince and gentlemen that the hour has come when the lights must be put out. If Lord Charles wishes to speak to her about it she could easily see him tomorrow morning."

During the queen's stay at Balmoral in the autumn of 1868 much comment was aroused in the neighborhood by the absence for a whole week of Brown from the queen's outdoor retinue. It was given out that he was suffering from a chill. Soon it was being whispered that the prince of Wales (Edward VII.) and one or two of his friends had hired a brawny boxer from Aberdeen to pick a quarrel with Brown in order to give him a thrashing. The plot duly materialized and Brown was badly hammered in spite of his great strength and agility. Whether the story was true or not, it is believed at Deeside to this day, and a man who swore he witnessed the fight died only a year or two ago.

There was no forgiveness for smoking or keeping late hours in the queen's household, but in the course of time Brown's pipe became as celebrated as Mr. Baldwin's (the former prime minister) is now, and he, Brown, kept a sort of open house in his room for his cronies, smoking, drinking, and talking until the "wee sma' hours."

But this was always done privately, and, it should be added, Brown never gave extra work to the servants, with whom he was most popular.

There is an engraving of the queen, dated 1868, showing her seated on her pony. All her youthful loveliness has gone. She is portrayed in a curiously dowdy hat, a little, tight-fitting coat, and a most voluminous and formless skirt. At the pony's head is John Brown in his Highland costume. Together they present a typical picture of solid, uninspiring, unemotional Victorian respectability.

Some have said that Queen Victoria asked for nothing more in John Brown than unvarnished truth, absolute obedience, unswerving fidelity—three virtues hard to find. She certainly did find these in John Brown.

The Skunk as a Life Saver

At top: The New London, Tex., school blast, in which hundreds died because of odorless gas. The skunk's unpleasant scent may prevent such tragedies.

THE skunk's defense against its enemies was long considered as useful for only the skunk. In recent years it has come to be a defense for man against dangerous and odorless gases. Some years ago there were a number of deaths resulting from the escape of a poisonous and nearly odorless refrigerant from leaky refrigerators. More recent was the disaster in Texas where a school building was blown up because no one had noticed the mild smell of the natural gas that was filling the building.

The characteristic smell of the skunk is due to the presence of a small amount of a sulphur compound known as butyl mercaptan. Sulphur itself is without odor. When an atom of sulphur is combined with two atoms of hydrogen a gas, hydrogen sulphide, is formed. Every high school student who has taken chemistry remembers this gas because of its overpowering odor of rotten eggs.

When one of the hydrogen atoms of hydrogen sulphide is replaced by any of a number of groups of carbon and hydrogen atoms the resulting compounds are known as mercaptans. These compounds are more or less volatile liquids which resemble each other in possessing remarkably intense and frightful odors. For some reason the skunk makes use of a particular mercaptan, but all of the others smell just as bad.

The mixing of a mere trace of the vapor of one of the mercaptans with a poisonous or inflammable gas is sufficient to warn people of its escape. Fortunately, butyl mercaptan does not have to be extracted from its animal source. All of the mercaptans can be prepared synthetically by the reaction of caustic soda and hydrogen sulphide with the chlorine derivatives of petroleum hydrocarbons.

The compounds are not without faults for this purpose. They react very slowly with metals, particularly iron, copper, and lead. Since most gas conduits are made of these metals or their alloys, the result is that the small amount of mercaptan originally present is removed to a considerable extent from the gas by combination with the metal with which it comes in contact.

The only competition that mercaptans have in this use as warning agents against escaping gases is a compound known as acrolein. This vile substance is prepared by chemically removing water from gycerin. It is the pungent, acrid, and eye-irritating vapor whose presence makes the odor of scorched fats so unpleasant.

Sweetening Wood to Halt Shrinkage

First step in refining sugar, which now has a new use.

SUGAR is a hard, crystaline solid, but when we get it on our hands it makes them sticky. This is not the result of any property of pure sugar, but of the sugar solution which readily forms when the sugar comes in contact with traces of moisture. This solution is a concentrated one and resists evaporation with a tenacity shown by few other liquids.

Recent investigators at the Forest Products laboratory at Madison, Wis., have suggested an application of sugar that makes use of this property. The shrinking and swelling of wood is due to its loss and absorption of water with the varying humidity of the air. By permeating the wood with a sugar solution these undesirable changes can be greatly reduced.

The penetration of the sugar is accomplished by applying it in a dilute solution and then subjecting the wood to a partial vacuum in order to draw the air out of the wood. The sugars tried were both cane and invert (a noncrystalizing type).

Putting a Stop Watch on the Earth

Light from a small quantity of refined radium shines through a thick glass wall.

THERE is a lot of guessing involved in most estimates of the age of rocks or of the earth. There is one method, however, by which the age of a certain type of rock can be determined as accurately as if the rock had been timed through the ages by a perfect stop watch.

The usual type of element remains unchanged through the ages. Radioactive elements such as radium, on the other hand, steadily disintegrate into other elements. The rate of disintegration is such that a definite fraction of each variety of radioactive atoms will decompose in any particular time interval. Thus one-half of all of the radium atoms now present on earth will have disintegrated 1,700 years from now, one-half of the remainder will disintegrate during the next 1,700 years, and so on.

The final element formed by the radioactive decomposition of radium is lead of a certain atomic weight. Radium itself is a decomposition product of the element uranium. The rates at which uranium changes to radium and radium to lead are well known. Hence if a certain rock contains measurable amounts of uranium, radium, and radium-formed lead a competent mathematician can calculate the exact time that has elapsed since it contained only uranium. Calculations of this type give quite close results on the order of one and a half billion years. This is the age of the rock, and therefore a minimum age for the earth.

Confirmation of this figure has been obtained recently from the element potassium. Recent measurements of the rate of decomposition of its one radioactive isotope indicate a minimum age for the earth of 1,430,000,000 years.

Biologists are interested in this radioactive isotope of potassium. Calculations show that at the time the mighty forests that formed the coal deposits were growing there was about ten times as much radioactive potassium as there is today. It has been suggested that the lush plant growth of that time was a result of the tenfold radioactivity of potassium.

Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER

Spotlight Is Turned on Pointers

When a handsome setter points with a quail in its mouth it always gives the sportsman an added thrill. This setter, Pal, retrieved a bird and then pointed another quail on its way in with the retrieve.

ALTHOUGH most true dog fanciers always are intrigued by the sight of a good looking, well behaved dog, irrespective of the breed, let the sportsman see a pointer, English setter, Irish setter, Gordon setter, or other pointing dog at this season of the year and you can be pretty sure that he is getting that extra thrill that comes only to the man who likes to go hunting.

When crisp October days prevail, when frost is on the "punkins" and the foliage is ablaze with yellows and reds, the pointing dogs come into their own. In addition to these dogs kept only for hunting there are many others given long months of training for the field trials, which are tests of the animals' bird-finding and bird-handling ability, stamina, and general all-around bird sense.

Pointers, those workmanlike dogs which are used extensively in many parts of the quail and pheasant country, are liked by thousands of sportsmen. In Florida and Georgia we hunt almost exclusively behind pointers. Last season we had as high as seven of them in the field at one time. On the last day of the Florida quail season Joe, our hunting guide, turned out all of them at one time just for the fun of seeing how they would back each other on a point. On one find six of the seven dogs gathered around the one that located the small covey—all of his partners honoring his point.

Which should I get, a pointer or a setter? This question invariably puzzles the prospective buyer of a pointing breed. The answer is easy—get the one you like the best! Both setters and pointers have individual qualities which appeal to different people. Both will find plenty of game. Both make delightful companion dogs in the home. We hunt over both setters and pointers every season, and everywhere we go on our hunting trips we run into this rivalry between setter and pointer owners—a rivalry that most often finds its outlet in the field trials held every fall and winter.

There are several other breeds to consider for hunting. For example, there are the Irish setter; the German short-haired pointer, which seems to be winning more friends every season, and the much-neglected Gordon setter. All have admirable working qualities. We have seen the Gordon setter do a dandy job on pheasants. But you see mighty few of these handsome dogs in the field.

The origin of the pointer is not clear. The theory that it originally came from Spain has been shattered in recent years. Now it is generally conceded that pointers came into use in the British Isles and on the continent of Europe about the same time. However, to the English goes the credit for developing the English pointer. As for the pointer's lineage, there isn't much doubt that several breeds have helped make the English pointer as we have him today. Certainly the foxhound was used in cross-breeding. And students of dog history are pretty sure that both the bloodhound and the greyhound had a share in the development.

The pointer today is trim, graceful, fast, keen in competition, and with a nose that makes him a real bird dog. He's every inch a gun dog—a specialist with the ability to concentrate on his job and cover the ground. Withal he is neat and clean around the house, and affectionate, too.

That is one of the fine points about the pointing breeds and the spaniels; they can do their work, but they also can come into the home and make affectionate, loyal companions. But at this season of the year they would rather be afield than at home. This is their big season. The stubblefields, cornfields, hedgerows, and other cover which have birds are calling these bird dogs. They easily and rightfully step into the spotlight to go on point and thrill the sportsman.

The Irish setter is another popular member of the setter family. It has lots of style and a real personality. This dog is Champion Sax of Innesfree.

DOG NOTES

The number of mongrel dogs which city dwellers abandon in the country sometimes causes considerable trouble to suburbs near large cities.

Evidently dog owners in cities have trouble with their pets, let them out of their cars near outlying communities, hoping that some one will find them. This rarely happens, however, and the result is that the abandoned dogs live in any way they can.

Although man has erected memorials and written epitaphs to practically every animal from the cow to the caterpillar, undoubtedly the dog has been more honored than any other animal in the world.

While many authors and poets have favorite dogs that they celebrated in their writings, no one appeared more convinced of the value of his dog than Lord Byron. The final lines in Byron's farewell to his dog Boatswain, whose monument is at Newstead abbey, England, are:

> To mark a friend's remains
> these stones arise;
> I never knew but one—and
> here he lies.

There are few things quite as appealing as a real companionship between a child and a dog. This is more attractive when the child learns how to command obedience from the dog and handle it expertly. The children's handling classes in dog shows offer boys and girls opportunities to demonstrate their ability to handle dogs. Long a supporter of children's handling classes, this department offers prizes for those classes in the Western Specialty Clubs association dog show. It will be held this year in Chicago, Nov. 21 and 22. There will be handsome cups for the winning boys and girls.

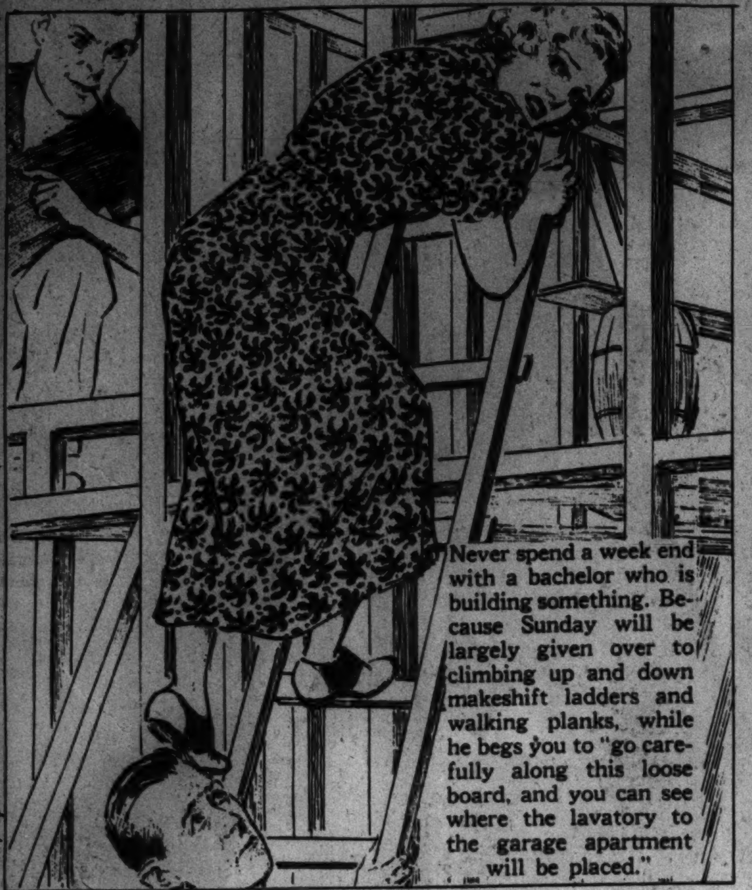
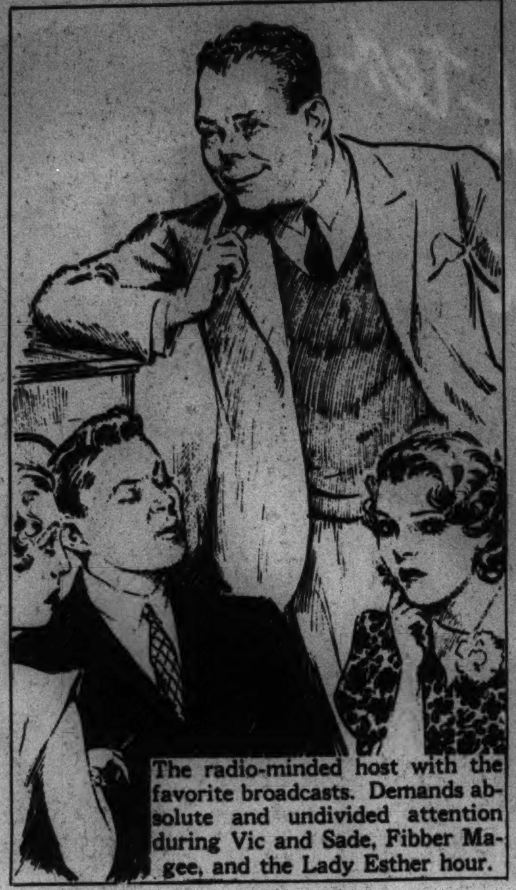
BACHELOR WEEK END HOST

By W. E. Hill

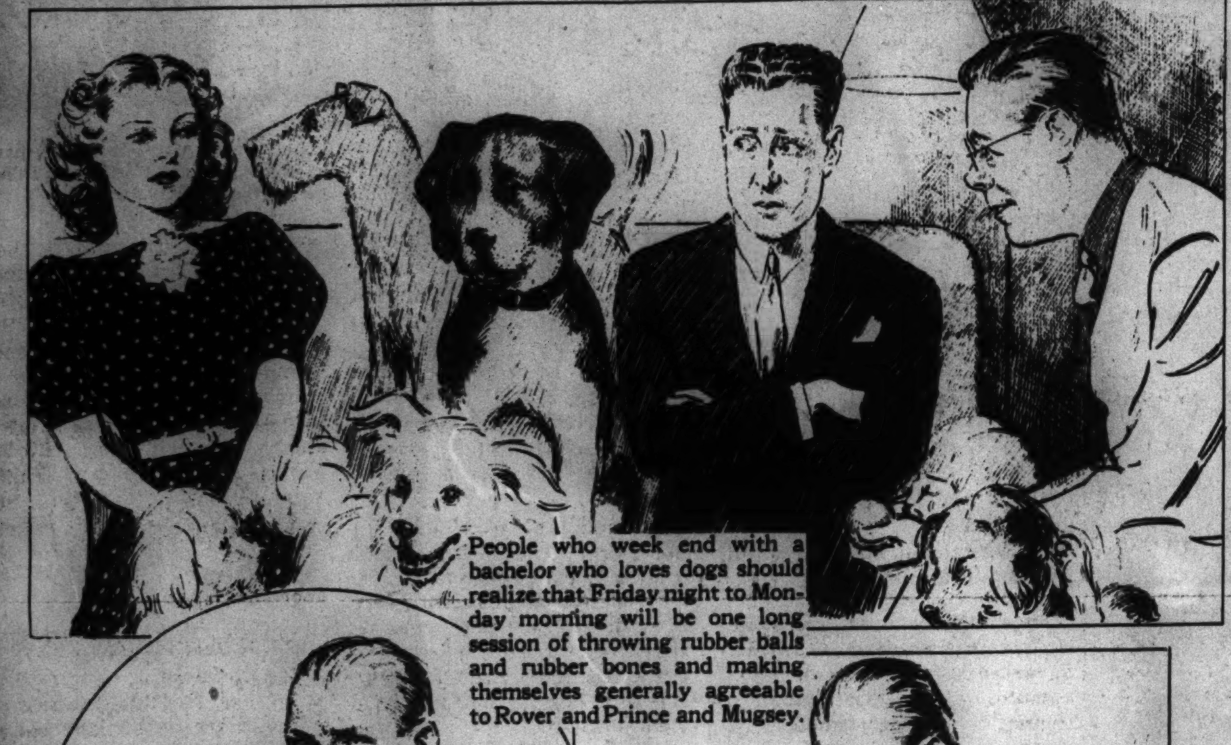
Copyright, 1937, by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.



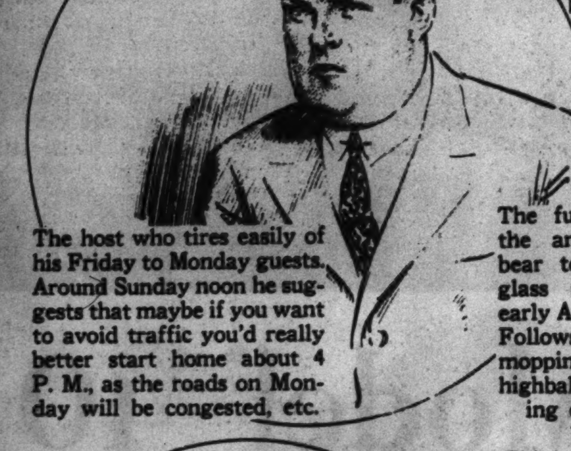
Never spend a week end with a bachelor who is building something. Because Sunday will be largely given over to climbing up and down makeshift ladders and walking planks, while he begs you to "go carefully along this loose board, and you can see where the lavatory to the garage apartment will be placed."



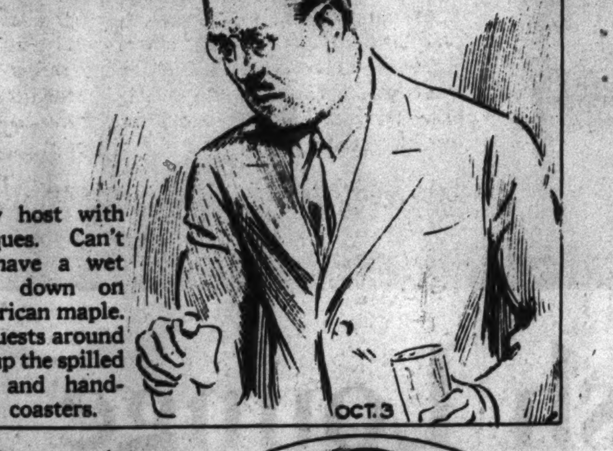
The radio-minded host with the favorite broadcasts. Demands absolute and undivided attention during Vic and Sade, Fibber Magee, and the Lady Esther hour.



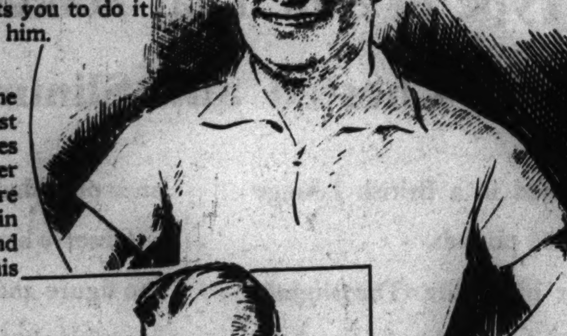
People who week end with a bachelor who loves dogs should realize that Friday night to Monday morning will be one long session of throwing rubber balls and rubber bones and making themselves generally agreeable to Rover and Prince and Mugsey.



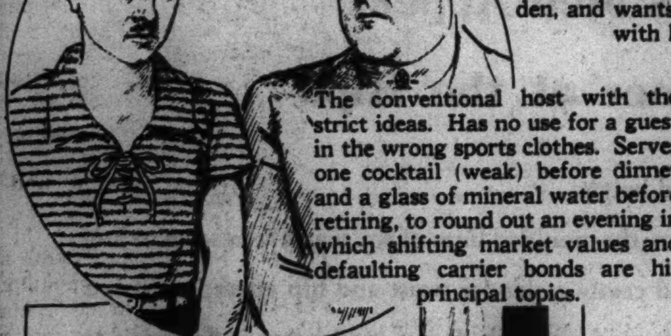
The host who tires easily of his Friday to Monday guests. Around Sunday noon he suggests that maybe if you want to avoid traffic you'd really better start home about 4 P. M., as the roads on Monday will be congested, etc.



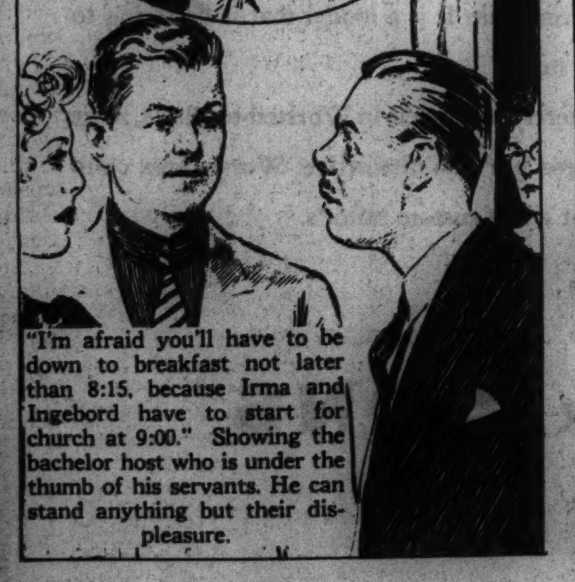
The fussy host with the antiques. Can't bear to have a wet glass set down on early American maple. Follows guests around mopping up the spilled highballs and handing out coasters.



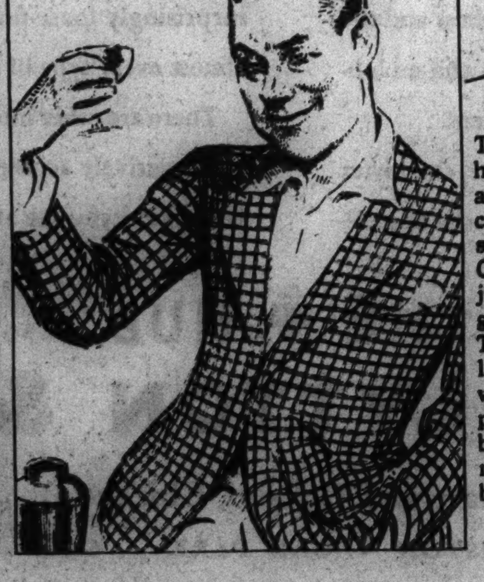
This host has so much energy he will wear you down in no time. Wants to do something every moment. Something healthy like chopping up wood, or weeding a garden, and wants you to do it with him.



The conventional host with the strict ideas. Has no use for a guest in the wrong sports clothes. Serves one cocktail (weak) before dinner and a glass of mineral water before retiring, to round out an evening in which shifting market values and defaulting carrier bonds are his principal topics.



"I'm afraid you'll have to be down to breakfast not later than 8:15, because Irma and Ingebord have to start for church at 9:00." Showing the bachelor host who is under the thumb of his servants. He can stand anything but their displeasure.

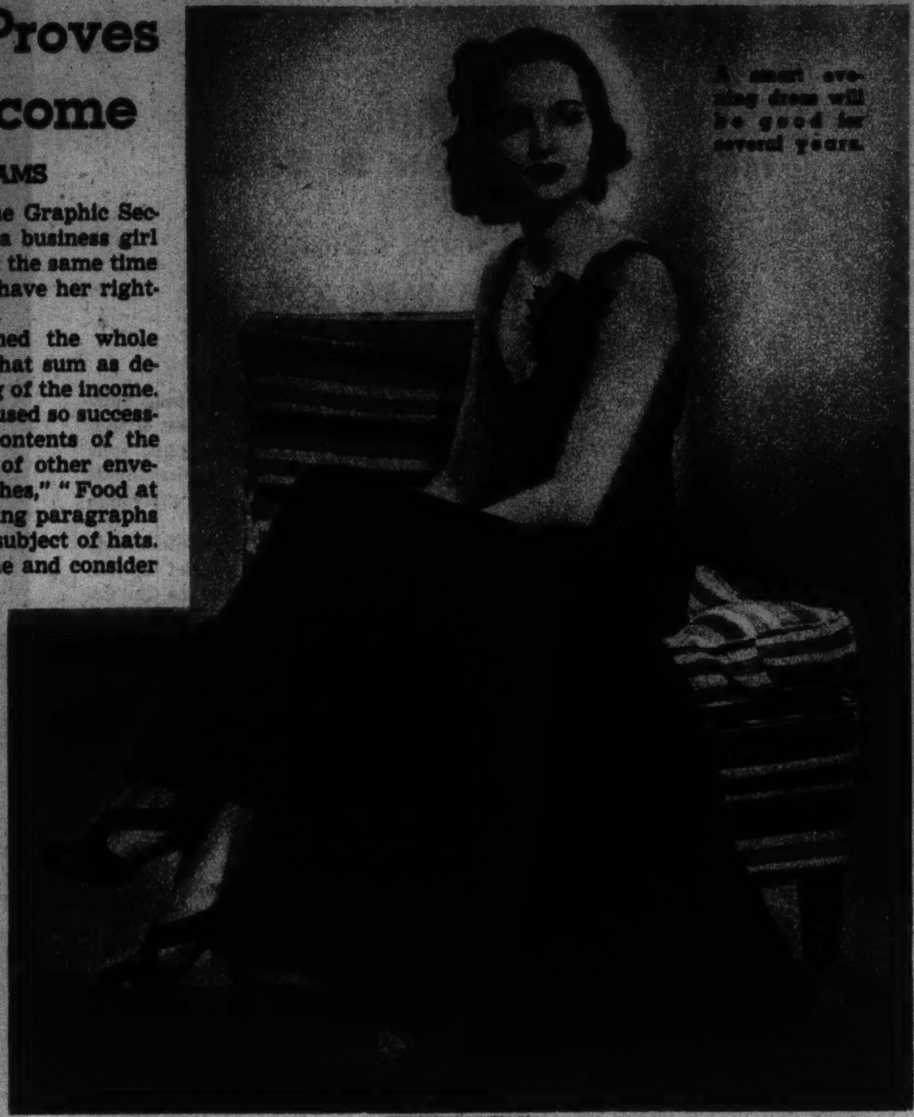


The liberty hall host. Has a servant who comes to cook dinner, when she can get there. Other meals are just a lark for the guests themselves. The cocktail hour lasts indefinitly, with people dropping in from near by, and there are never enough beds for comfort.

Budgeting Your Life

$18 a Week Proves an Ample Income

By VIRGINIA WILLIAMS



A smart evening dress will be good for several years.

IN LAST Sunday's edition of the Graphic Section I started to tell you how a business girl could live on $18 a week and at the same time dress in a becoming manner and have her rightful share of fun and contentment.

You will recall that I explained the whole secret of living and dressing on that sum as depending upon the proper budgeting of the income. I described the method that I had used so successfully, the parceling out of the contents of the weekly pay envelope to a series of other envelopes bearing labels such as "Clothes," "Food at Home," and the like. My concluding paragraphs of last week were devoted to the subject of hats. Now let us go to the other extreme and consider the subject of shoes.

Do you have happy feet? Or do you have the kind which look reproachfully at you after a day spent in high-heeled torture chambers? I am cursed with the last-named kind, and so I know all the stages.

I can't say that I have economized on shoes. Perhaps you are one of those who like to stick to the same type of footwear for every day, as do I. My choice of shoes have, and probably always will, cost $8.75, and for the service they give (are you hard on shoes?—I am) they are worth the money.

For dress I bought inexpensive numbers for about $3.50. They lasted as long as any shoe you wear as little as you do the go-to-party kind. And the most expensive footwear is copied by the shops which specialize in this type of merchandise. I hope you won't buy shoes which call attention to your feet, because, unlike hats, cheap shoes can always be spotted, even by the amateur. You know better than any one else how to arrange the budget for "extras," but for standard the backbone of your wardrobe should be:

1 pair of black suede or fabric for your winter things.

1 pair semi-sports for every day.

1 pair of silver or gold sandals for evening.

About the galosh problem. Last year I started in May with the envelope, putting away a bit each week, and by the time winter had frozen me into submission I had $5. That went for a pair of those velvet jobbies, and I would write a testimonial for them any day.

Now about dress clothes. It's lucky that they don't change so quickly as other styles, because you can get away with one evening dress for at least a couple of years. And for a new touch get a lei of artificial flowers. They are very attractive, and flowers are so kind to every one.

There are a lot of little tricks a girl can do with clothes at home that will give them a completely new appearance.

Now let us consider your head. Naturally you would like a complete new paint job, so I will start at the top. One of the best shampoos is the old castile soap. One bar of frightening proportions may be purchased at any corner drug store for 10 cents. Slice the soap, only about a cupful, into water, which by now should be heating slowly. Let the soap dissolve, and there you have it—a supershampoo for one dime. You all have your own rinses, so we won't go into that.

While your hair dries, dig up the manicure set. Hands are so much in evidence at all times that you simply can't let them go even one night without some attention. A good nail cream put on just before the light goes out will keep your nails in excellent condition.

The contributions in the "Face" envelope were not as heavy as in other departments, because until I could go in for it in a big way I decided to make myself do with the bare necessities. One eye open for sales again in the newspapers. And that eye gets only zinc oxide for its lashes, because what was good enough for my grandmother—well, you know the rest. But back to the map—buy huge jars of cold cream for $2, and, though they take up a lot of space, they will last three times as long as the ordinary kind.

Cleanliness is next to godliness, and you might just as well get next to it while you can. The things you can't wash you should send to a good cleaner, as you are taking unheard-of chances if you send them to a cheaper shop.

You will note at this point, with pleasure, no doubt, that I have allowed $1.20 for amusement. And you may say to yourself, "WHAT, please, can you do on one dollar and twenty cents?" If you are as smart as I think you are you won't wonder long. A book (one of the current newies) from a rental library will amount to 18 cents a week, and even if it takes you a week to read a book, you haven't a thing to lose. There must be a neighborhood movie, and at the most they seldom cost more than 30 cents. If you are not fond of cooking, then it would be amusement and pleasure for you to have dinner out once a week, to the tune of 50 cents—no more, because what is the sense of putting all your eggs in one biscuit? You can subscribe to lots of magazines for as little as 4 cents a week, and they provide a splendid way to keep yourself attuned to what is going on. The art galleries are free on Sundays, and tell me, when else could you go? If you will watch your newspaper you will find plenty of places to go to where there are no admissions charged. And what is so grand as a walk in the park on a lovely day?

Now, last but by all means not least, comes the home. For home you should have not just a roost. A dingy hall room, after a difficult day, is almost too much for your weary mind to take, whereas, if the surroundings are pleasant and you are physically and mentally at ease, the possibilities of inspiration are great. Sunny chintz draperies can bring out the finer things in the mind of a business girl.

Careful cleaning keeps outfits fresh a long time.

My first step was to find a roommate. And find her I did. She was as congenial as any one could wish her to be, and at the same time she was as interested in that for which I was striving as I was in her ambitions.

But, getting down to the facts, finding a roommate is a life saver financially as well as mentally. We had a furnished apartment, for which the tarif was $40 monthly. And, though it was not sumptuous, it was a very comfortable spot. Of course, when we looked at it the first time we were disappointed in what could be had for the price, but we determined to make a home of it, and that we did—with the help of the five-and-dime stores. The furniture doubtless will be pretty depressing on first sight, but don't let it get you. Slip covers that aren't at all bad are available for as low as $1.98. If you have a dining table it is a golden thought to put candles atop it for daytime wear, and when they are lighted for dinner they really lend an air of gardenias and soft music to your surroundings.

When you are picking this mansion de luxe, choose it for its proximity to your business, so that you can walk to work. It will do you no end of good. This is just another of those little places where you can save $1.20 a week when the weather holds—and think what that would do toward a new pair of spats!

We allowed $6 a week for food, which is really all you need, as we tried it on unlimited terms for a week, and our food bill wasn't even that much—that was the week we didn't invite any one for dinner. Here again is where your favorite store comes into play—that is, if it has a grocery department. Go to that section and ask to talk to an order taker. Tell her just exactly what the situation is, how much you can afford to spend on food, and put yourself across well enough so that she will be ready to do anything for you. Then you can make arrangements about calling her before 11 in the morning, and she will have the things together in time to make the morning delivery. In that way you won't have to worry about trying to get away from business in time to buy something on the way home.

Home meals, well planned, can be kept within a $6 budget without depriving yourself of anything really necessary to health and pleasure.

The British Lounge Model* $40

(Lined with Super-Celanese)

A New Type of Suit That Makes Men Appear Taller, Fuller-Chested and Slimmer at the Hips

The man you see above, photographed in a British Lounge Model* is 5 feet 9" tall and weighs 165 pounds.

Notice what this model does for his figure. The slightly broader shoulders, the extra folds of fabric at the chest and the wider Horseshoe Collar* and lapels provide depth and an athletic look through the chest and across the shoulders.

Notice how the longer jacket, the lower waistline, the lower button placement, and the sweep of lapels give him the appearance of added height.

Observe how the moulded lines of waist and hips seem to hug the figure and create a slender waist and hip effect; yet it is a surprisingly loose-fitting suit. It is a model that is flattering to almost every type of man.

There are other interesting models in Worsted-tex Suits, more conservatively accented but also distinctive. Worsted-tex cloth is the kind you see at a fine custom tailor's.

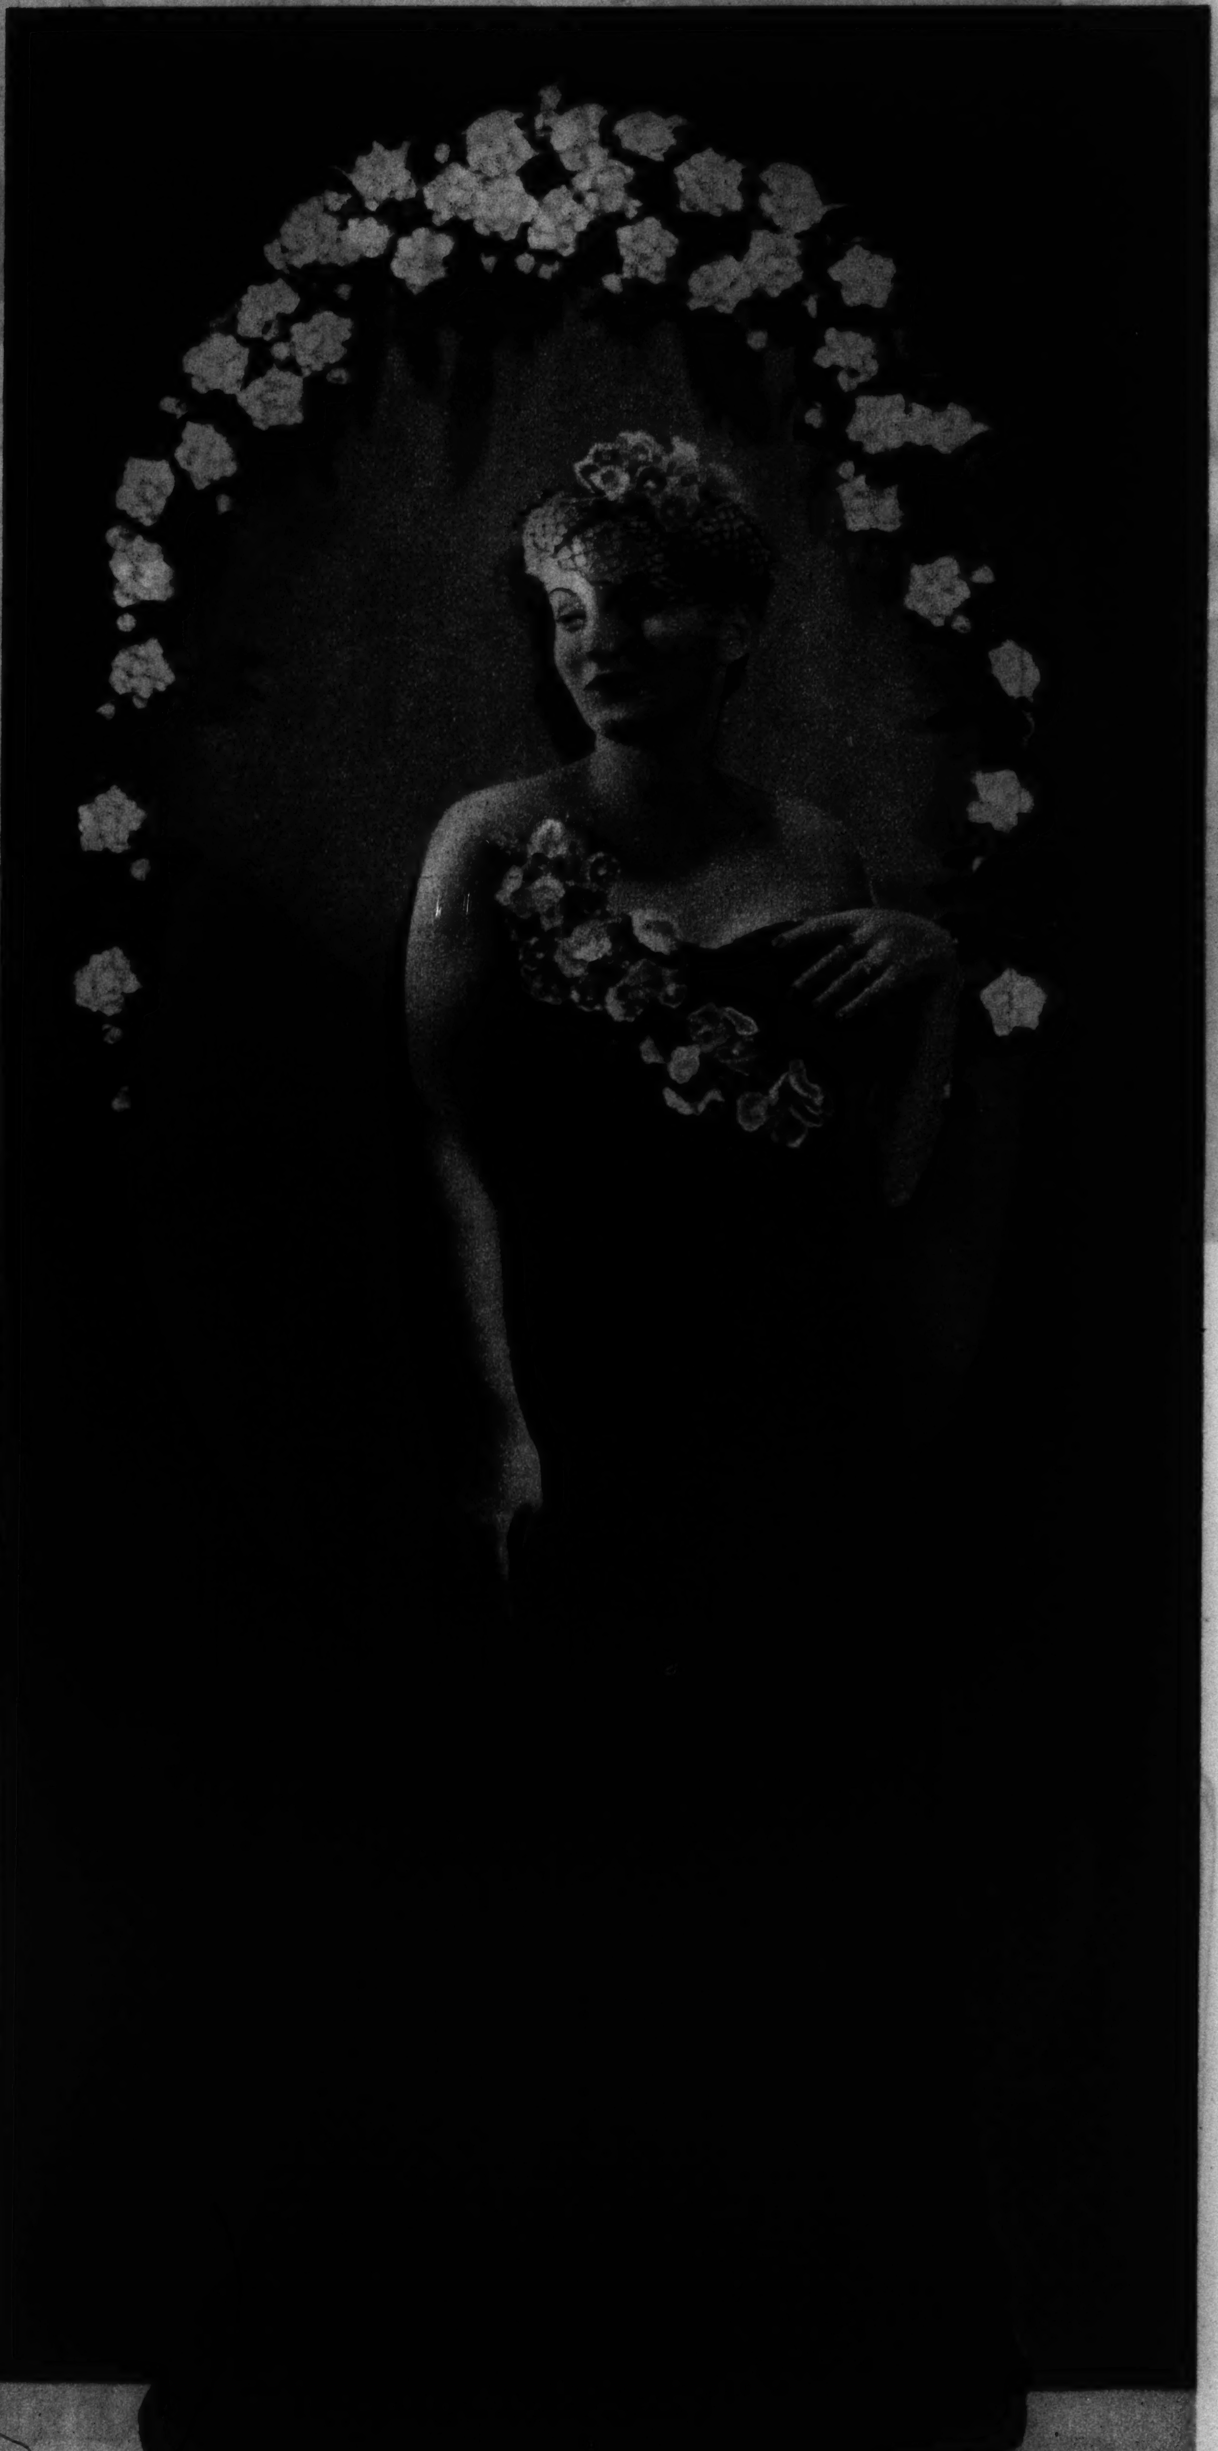
Paris Pre-Views of Winter Modes

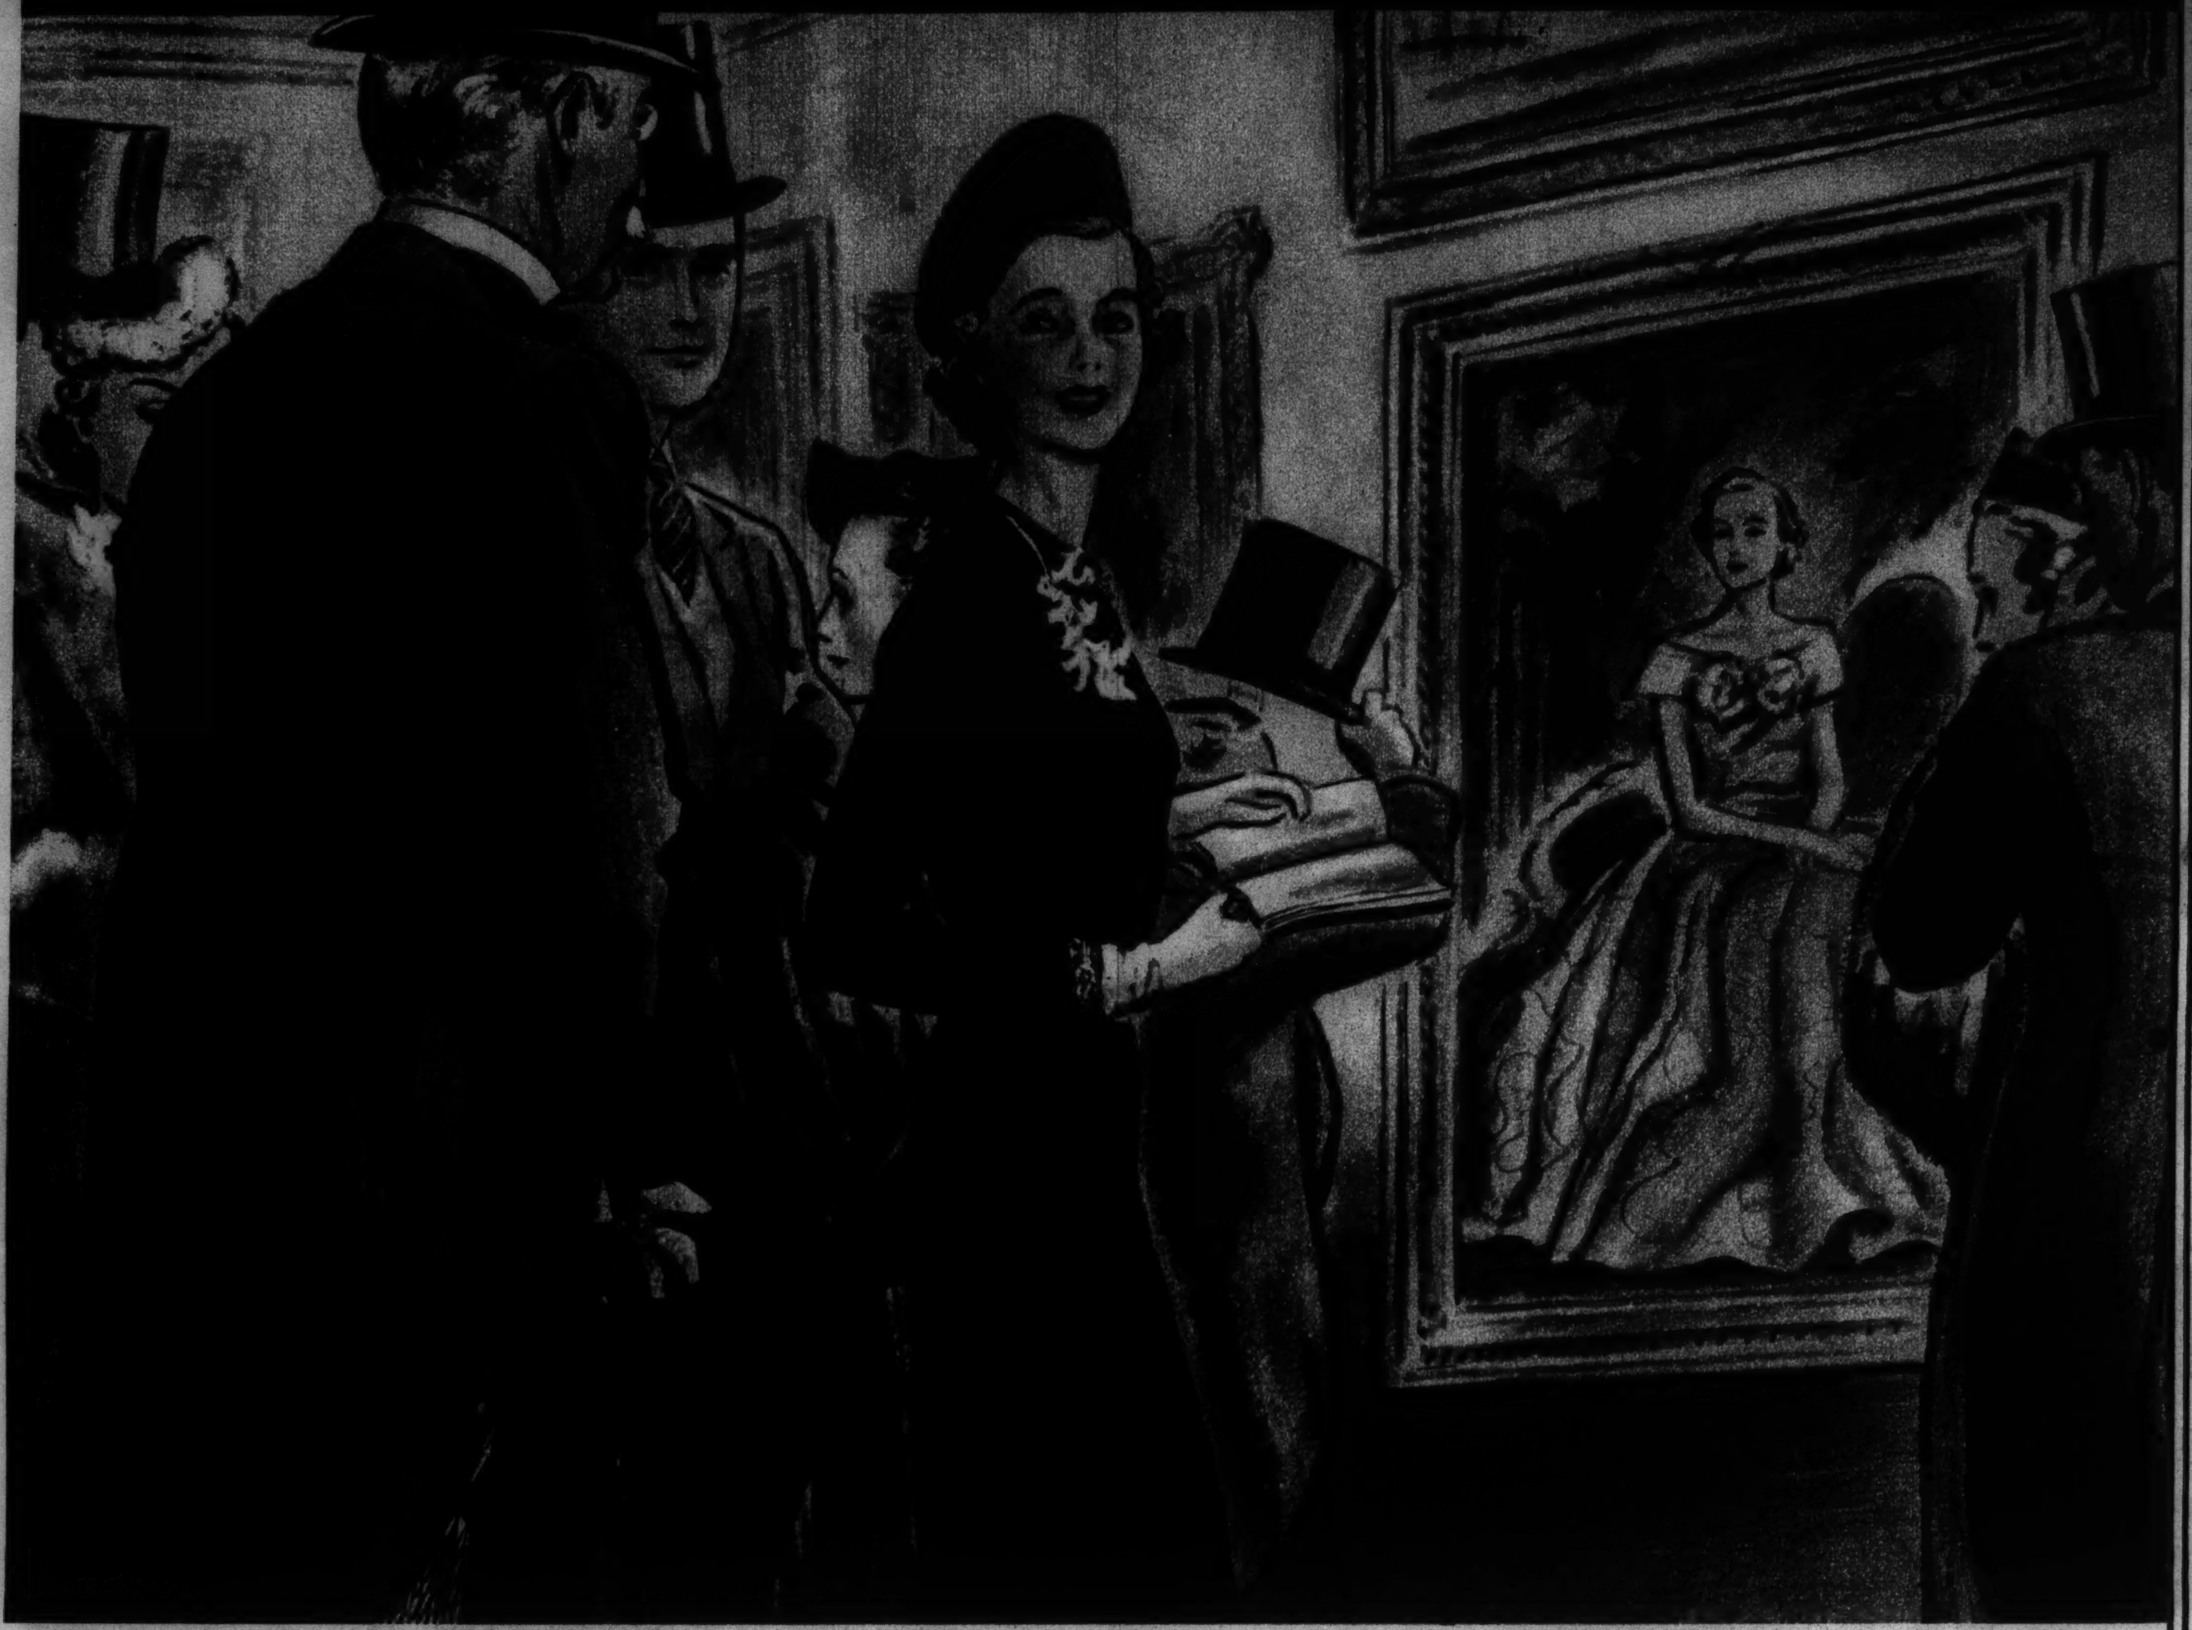
BE COLORFUL this winter, says Paris. And put your color on for afternoon, as in this Marcel Rochas frock, which combines green, champagne, and vivid cerise pink. The green velvet bodice combined with the striped satin skirt is news.

COLOR PHOTOS TAKEN IN PARIS BY SCAIONI EXPRESSLY FOR THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE WITH THE COLLABORATION OF BETTINA BEDWELL, TRIBUNE FASHION EXPERT. MISS BEDWELL WRITES ELSEWHERE IN THIS ISSUE OF NEWEST DEVELOPMENTS ON THE PARIS STYLE FRONT.



PARIS PREFERS rich, deep black velvet like this Chanel model, which has very little bodice, for formal evenings this winter. The swing skirt is still chic. Spangled flowers make the corsage and the topknot on the headdress.

The beauty that is England's Art



Still life . . . landscape . . . dearly as Englishmen love their homes, these arts are secondary ones in England. At Burlington House one discovers it again — that an Englishman, when he paints, paints beautiful women. And who could wonder, when an opening of the Royal Academy finds their Majesties and all noble London divided in admiration between pictured beauty and its originals, strolling in the crowd around them.

Since the time of Sir Joshua Reynolds, the House of Yardley has played an important, unseen rôle in this immortalization of loveliness. For the translucent, petal complexions, the delicate radiance of color that English artists adore, require a perfection of beauty care. This, then, is the art of Yardley: To guard faces and increase their loveliness, from the cradle to well past maturity. This page brings you our secrets (and those of much-portraited ladies). There are more — at a fine store nearby you to which we have granted our warrant. Our charming book, CT-10, "Beauty Secrets from Bond Street," will tell you the rest of the story. Yours, with our compliments, by addressing: Yardley & Co., Ltd., 620 Fifth Avenue (Rockefeller Center), New York; in London at 33 Old Bond Street; also in Paris, Toronto and Sydney.

YARDLEY'S English LAVENDER

Showing a winter wardrobe of Yardley luxuries to make your skin think it's June time. Lovely, softening, white magic — Lavendomeal, the English herbal bath luxury, $1.10. Dusting powder that's a shower of tender fragrance, $1.35 and $3.50, with giant puffs. Yardley's new Ermine Compacts — smartest new doubles of the year. Single, $1.85; Double, $2.50; Triple, $3.50 (with loose powder $3.75). And Yardley's English Lavender — the most charming aristocratic perfume of all time, $1.10 to $35.

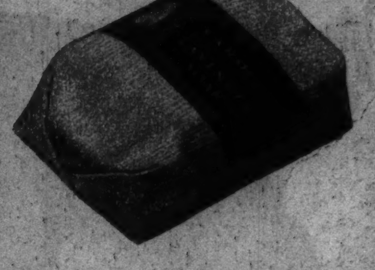
BEAUTY SECRETS OF AN ENGLISH COMPLEXION

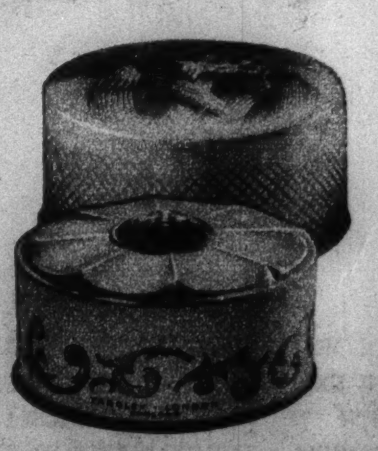


Always start your beauty toilet as the Englishwoman does, with a gentle, refreshing face bath in the creamy lather of English Lavender Soap. It's the only way to achieve that almost-unworldly clarity called the English complexion (35c a large tablet).

YARDLEY
Toning Lotion

Winter is the time complexions suffer most cruelly, so we present you to the 3 guardians of fair English faces: Yardley's English Complexion Cream, for cleansing, softening and refining, a snowy benison at $1.10 ($2.50 for a triple quantity). Yardley's Night Cream, a rich formula for dryness and aging; retextures while you sleep, $1.10. And lovely petal-tint Foundation Cream, 85c, to give you a June-rose bloom immediately. After your morning cleansing, use Yardley's Toning Lotion, 85c. Yardley's Complexion Milk, $1.10, is very smoothing and whitening for face, neck and shoulders. Used under powder by fine, dry skins also.

And here are subtle, exquisite colorings to enhance your complexion's loveliness: Yardley's Cream Rouge, in six youthful shades, 85c. With matching, perfect Indelible Lipstick, $1.10 in Bond Street cases. And — a last, most important touch of glamour — Yardley's Eyeshadow in faintly iridescent, flattering tones for blue, brown, green or black eyes, 85c.



Yardley's New English Complexion Powder (for dry skins) and Yardley's English Lavender Powder (for normal ones) are perhaps the best known of all loveliness for faces. So silken-smooth, fine and lasting they're a protection in themselves against the weather, as well as ravishing flatterers. Seven shades, including delicately radiant English Peach, $1.10.

MOST BEAUTIFUL BUILDING IN THE WORLD, in the opinion of many, is the Taj Mahal at Agra, India. Built by Shah Jehan between the years 1632 and 1650 as a tomb for his wife, Mumtaz Mahal, it is said to have cost more than $15,000,000.

"THE LAST FLICKER of the lamp of Mogul architecture" is a description applied to the tomb of Safdar Jang at Delhi. It is a building three stories in height, strikingly decorated with colored stone work.

ONE OF THE NOBLEST MOGUL MONUMENTS in the Delhi region is the tomb of the Emperor Humayun (1508-1556). The walls are of rose colored sandstone. These are inlaid with white marble, which is used also in the great dome.

It provides an effect like that of Plain Shade, but infinitely richer, softly patterned in relief, lustrous with tone upon tone of the same color . . . an effect only possible because of unusual texture-combinations. More practical than Plain Shade, too, because footmarks show up less.

You will find exquisite color-tones that can only be created in this type of weave—subtle shades that give an interior an unmistakable touch of refinement. Little wonder that Gulistan Carpeting is being bought by people who demand the best—millionaires, statesmen, the President of a foreign Republic, stars of stage and screen!

Gulistan Carpeting is featured in Department Stores, Furniture Stores, and Specialty Stores everywhere. Twenty-seven Texture Patterns in the styles most sought-for today. Also twelve lustrous Plain Shades. Obtainable in standard widths up to 15 feet—no seams. Cut and finished specially to your order—either as Rug or Carpet.
